No. 22,697. Registered at the General Post Office, Sydney, for transmission by post as a Newspaper. SYDNEY, WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 12, 1910. 22 PAGES. PRICE 1d.

SUMMARY.

King Manoel and the Queen Mother have left Gibraltar for England.

Before leaving Portugal King Manoel wrote to the Premier:—"I have always done my duty. My departure is in no wise abdication."

The remains of Dr. Bombardo and Admiral Reis are lying in state. There are no religious emblems.

A decree has been issued by the Republican Government enforcing all laws against the clergy.

The decree orders the expulsion of the Jesuits and confiscates their property.

Some Jesuits will emigrate to Great Britain, but the majority will go to Brazil.

Portuguese nuns who were expelled from the country had a hostile reception at Badajoz, Spain.

Earl Delawarr is selling the bulk of his Buckhurst estate, in Sussex.

The estate has been in the possession of the family since the Conquest.

It is reported that the steamer Limantour has been lost off the coast of Mexico in a hurricane.

Out of 449 suicides in Russian schools 13 per cent. are officially attributed to failure at examinations.

At the Refrigeration Congress in Vienna the Agents-General submitted a request that Austria should allow trial shipments of Australian meat.

Four towns in Minnesota have been destroyed by the forest fires.

At Beaudette the loss of life amounted to 400. Two hundred and fifty-nine bodies have been recovered.

Logging mills and a vast area of forest are burning. Five thousand people are homeless.

It is reported that a crusade has been started against socialists in Japan.

The miners entombed in the mine at Trinidad, Colorado, by an explosion, have not been rescued.

There is little hope that they will be recovered alive.

The Canadian Government has refused the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway permission to import Asiatic labour for railway-making.

Porters handling imported meat at Liverpool Docks have struck for higher wages.

They unloaded meat and scattered it in the streets.

The railway strike in France is assuming serious proportions.

The Premier has made an appeal to the electors in support of the Government.

Mr. Wade claims that its past record and programme for the future justly entitled the Government to a renewal of confidence.

The appeal concludes:—"Let every vote be recorded in support of the Government, and as a protest against the policy of misrepresentation."

"You may enable the 14th October to compensate for the ills coming upon us by that unlucky day for Australia, the 13th April."—The Minister for Education.

Manifestoes have been issued by the People's Reform League and the Women's Liberal League.

The appeal to women runs:—"Women of New South Wales, vote for the Wade Government, the true friend of women workers."

The Public offices will close on Friday afternoon in ample time to allow employees to record their votes.

Every reasonable facility will likewise be provided for those in the railway departments.

The Premier appeals to business people to allow their employees to cease work at an hour which will enable them to vote.

The Federal Government hopes to bring before the Cabinet this week the question of calling for designs for the Federal capital.

The Premier in commenting on the High Court judgment in the boot trade case, refers to the cumbersome federal machinery.

Mr. Wade says that legislation is projected to prevent unfair conditions, and make good the shortcomings of the Federal Act.

The secretary of the Boot Trade Employees' Federation, says the decision does not materially affect the situation.

"We shall have to depend," he adds, "on the wages boards giving effect to Mr. Justice Higgins' award."

Mr. Hughes says the judgment emphasises in the most positive way the extreme urgency for an amendment of the Act.

The Anglican General Synod was opened yesterday with an impressive service in St. Andrew's Cathedral.

The Primate, in his presidential address, dwelt upon the questions of church government, training of the clergy, and the call for missionaries.

In the evening a discussion took place on the use of the word "Catholic," and upon the question of the Church and national ideals.

A motion by Archdeacon Boyce with reference to a federation of the Anglican Church of the world was negatived.

Mr. T. Griffiths Taylor, a member of the scientific staff of the Antarctic expedition, left Melbourne yesterday for New Zealand.

The Victorian Government intends to appoint an independent board to report on railway accidents.

In the action against the Railway Commissioners in respect to damage to Gerogery East station by a bush fire, plaintiff was awarded £3120 damages.

An interstate fire brigade conference was opened yesterday. The position of firemen in regard to military service was discussed.

It was decided to urge the Federal Government to exempt permanent firemen from military service.

The cost of the Postal Commission was £5333 18s 7d, exclusive of printing.

The Minister for External Affairs says it is not intended to introduce a bill to appoint two additional High Court judges.

The second reading of the Sugar Bounty Bill was continued in the House of Representatives yesterday.

Birtles, the overland cyclist, who is making a tour round Australia, passed through Cue yesterday.

At a conference in Perth it was stated that 13,000 workers were engaged in the manufacturing industries of Western Australia.

It was resolved to urge the Minister in charge of the Department of Industries to consider the best means of encouraging manufactures.

Speakers advocated preference to Western Australian manufactures, and afterwards to the products of the Commonwealth.

The Christchurch Presbytery approved of the introduction into New Zealand of the New South Wales system of religious instruction in schools.

The signalman, Alexander McDonald, has been acquitted of the charge brought against him in connection with the Richmond railway disaster.

A railway collision occurred near Charters Towers yesterday. A guard's van and two trucks were smashed. No one was injured.

The Saturday half-holiday under the new law commences on the 22nd inst.

A serious railway smash was averted at the Central Railway station yesterday by the prompt action of a road foreman.

At the Rifle Association meeting G. L. Cooper (Randwick) won the Dudley, and S. A. Kefford (Bathurst) the Newmarch.

The cheesemakers in Victoria have lately been increasing their output to such an extent as to cause a glut in the market.

At the wool sales yesterday keen competition prevailed for all good wools.

The wheat market is still quiet with practically no business reported, but there is a little more inquiry for flour.

A good volume of business in investment stocks was transacted on 'Change at full rates.

An extremely flat market ruled in all classes of mining stocks, with prices showing an easy tendency.

BLOUSES— INDISPENSABLE ALWAYS.

They are universally worn, at all times, and in all Seasons—the most favoured and necessary item of Women's Apparel. Literally, thousands of Blouses expressly designed for this season's wear, find a place in our Blouse Section. From this veritable host you can select something exclusive, exquisitely dainty, or a skilfully tailored shirt waist, which is at all times a sensible selection; and when hand-embroidered, the extent of its beauty is materially increased. Besides questions of style and beauty in our Blouses—the value is there, a feature of which we never lose sight.

WE PAY CARRIAGE on all Goods, except Furniture, Floor Covering, Kitchen and Hard Ware, to any part of the Commonwealth.

VERY SIMPLE AND ATTRACTIVE Summer Blouses, of White All-over Embroidered Muslin, sleeves ¾ length, and the highly fashionable Magyar shape. A distinctive appearance is added to these Blouses by bands of Swiss Muslin Embroidery as the only trimming. The neck is cut low, and finished with a pleated Dollar Princess Collar of Val. Insertion, edged with Lace ... 12/6. Sizes: 36, 38, and 40 inch bust.

UNUSUALLY CHARMING WHITE Muslin Blouses, prettily tucked and inserted with Val. Lace to the waist. The yokes are made of Val. Lace, pointed, and finished with Irish Crochet Medallions, the sleeves tucked lengthways, and inserted with Val. into dainty Cuffs, also of Val. Insertion. Sizes, 36, 38, and 40 inch bust ... 14/6

FINE SWISS MUSLIN BLOUSES, daintily tucked to the bust in sets of pin and half-inch tucks, having pretty shaped yokes of Val. Insertion, finished with handsome Applique of Embroidered Muslin in centre. The sleeves are beautifully tucked in sets to correspond with Blouse, and the cuffs are made of Val. Insertion ... 16/6. Sizes: 36, 38, and 40 inch bust.

TO-DAY—FOR 9/6, WHITE MUSLIN BLOUSES.

PRICED ON ANY OTHER DAY AT 10/9. The effective combination of two entirely different kinds of lace, with embroidery insertion, is displayed to good advantage in the White Muslin Blouse, which represents our "SPECIAL LINE" To-day.—It is one of the newest styles of the Season. The front of the Blouse is elaborately inserted with Val. Lace and Imitation Crochet Insertion, 1½-inch wide, and has cross-pieces of Muslin Embroidery in yoke design. The plain Bishop Sleeves are full length, having cuffs of tucked Muslin, inserted with Val. Lace. These Blouses close invisibly at the back, which is neatly tucked—and the high collars are made of Muslin inserted with Val. Can be had in sizes 36, 38, and 40 inch bust measure. The Reduced Price is for to-day only. If distant Residents Mail or Telephone their order immediately on receipt of this announcement, we will execute at the reduced price, and send without charging extra for freight.

LACE WRAPS— FOR FETE WEAR.

Most Fascinating Mole Silk Blonde Lace Wrap, for Race Wear. It is ¾ length, very smart, straight-fitting, transparent effect, open from neck to waist, back and front, and edged with Marabout Feathers to match the colour of lace. The sleeves are smart Magyar effect, ¾ length, edged with Fur to correspond ... 6 gns.

Muff to match if required, made of silk Blonde Lace, lined with Self-coloured Silk, and edged with Marabout Feathers ... 4½ gns.

An exquisite Race Wrap in Scarf Effect, of beautiful quality Moire Velour, of the Argent or Grey shade. Trimmed with Marabout Feathers, shaded to match colour of Velour. Each end is finished with handsome Braid Tassels in Argent Colour ... 8½ gns.

A Beautiful Amethyst Silk Blonde Lace Wrap, suitable for Races, is also Scarf Effect, and edged with Marabout Feathers. The Lace is a dainty Wreath Pattern, and can be had in White and Pale Pink also. This is most distinctive ... 4½ gns.

A MATTER OF PSYCHOLOGY.

PSYCHOLOGY is being brought to a fine art. A GERMAN Philosopher has written a TREATISE on the PSYCHOLOGY of BOOTS, and DEDUCES all sorts of CHARACTERISTICS from the APPEARANCE of a SHOE. For instance, if the SOLES and HEELS of one's boots are EQUALLY WORN, it denotes HONESTY and CAPABILITY. WEAKNESS AND INDECISION is indicated by BOTH HEELS being WORN down on the inside; whilst wearing BOTH HEELS DOWN on the OUTSIDE evidences an IMAGINATIVE TURN OF MIND.

ANOTHER AUTHORITY lays it down that the SHAPE of a HAT and the MODE of WEARING it give considerable INSIGHT into the HEART AND MIND of the WEARER. After all, FASHION determines the SIZE as well as the SHAPE of the HAT, and the STYLE in which it shall be TRIMMED. WOMEN FOLK SETTLE the manner in which it is to be WORN, invariably IMPARTING just a touch of INDIVIDUALITY that adds ATTRACTIVENESS to the MILLINERY CREATIONS of the SEASON. We are making an INTERESTING DISPLAY of which come to us DIRECT from LONDON and the CONTINENT. These MAGNIFICENT CONCEPTIONS are shown in the MILLINERY Section of the GREEN ROOM, and are offered at

INDIAN DRILL SUITS FOR SUMMER WEAR.

Whilst such a strong vogue has set in this summer for the light Drill Clothing so generally worn in India, we specially direct attention to the Brown Flax Drill Garments we have secured for the season.

We all know how treacherous the weather sometimes is—and the promise of a bright clear day may result in dusty and windy midday.

This Brown Drill does not show the dust as white garments are so apt to do—yet withal is quite as cool to wear and look upon. The clothes are made for us in India, and are absolutely dependable as regards quality of cloth and workmanship. They launder perfectly, and may be had in sizes to fit every figure.

Sac or Patrol Jacket, 12/6.
D.B. Coat or Norfolk Jacket, 14/6.
Vest, 7/6.
Trousers, 10/6.

THE NEW "ARTINE" PORTRAITS!

Just in time to provide them with a tasteful souvenir for friends and relatives in the Old Country, we now submit to our patrons and the public generally an entirely new style in portraiture, which will be known as the "ARTINE." This process, which is certain to become immensely popular, is the result of experience and skill allied to persistent experimentation, resulting in the production of a portrait of wonderful detail, delightful tonal qualities, the whole being a supereminent presentment of photographic art. These "ARTINE" portraits are imposed upon elaborate American mounts, and enveloped in dainty folders of exquisite design.

We offer one dozen of these, and a stately framed enlargement of striking proportions, at the

MEDICAL, CHEMICALS, ETC.

CATARRH IS A GERM DISEASE.

There are germs in the membranes and germs in the blood. And the disease never can end until those germs are destroyed; that is certain.

Liquozone cures Catarrh because it kills germs. It is not like other germicides, which are poisons when taken internally, but a harmless germicide which acts as a tonic. Liquozone is not a mixture of drugs; it is a scientific product, and the formula is printed on the label of every bottle. The treatment is both local and internal. The germs that cause Catarrh perish at its touch, because they are of vegetable origin.

Liquozone is now used, almost the world over, in the treatment of Catarrh troubles. Countless cured ones know from experience that it does what nothing else can do. Its effects are so certain and so immediate that we issue a certificate of guarantee which covers a two-months' test at our financial risk.

LIQUOZONE.

A 3/ BOTTLE FREE.

We ask you to try this product at our expense. Don't treat Catarrh in harmful ineffective ways.

If you need Liquozone and have never tried it, please send us this coupon. We will then post you an order on a local chemist for a 3/ bottle, which he will give you on our account to try. This is our free gift made to convince you, to let the product itself show you what it can do. In justice to yourself please accept it to-day, for it places you under no obligation whatever.

Liquozone costs 6/, 3/, 1/6.

CUT OUT THIS COUPON.

Fill in the blank spaces and post it to the British Liquozone Co., Ltd., Colonial Offices, O'Connell-street, Sydney.

I am suffering from ....

I have never tried Liquozone, but if you will supply me with a 3/ bottle free I will take it.

VALUES MUST DOUBLE.

Property values in the Newington-Auburn district can no more help increasing in the next year or two than the sun can help rising to-morrow morning. Work on the £158,000 abattoirs on Homebush Bay is being pushed on rapidly—houses are building on all sides to accommodate the thousand and more men who will be employed in the works. RIVERSIDE HEIGHT ESTATE adjoins the site of the abattoirs—the increase in value will be most marked there. Big Lots now for sale at £25; should be worth double in a year. Terms, from £1 deposit, 10s monthly. Send for Plan.

JUST 30 MINUTES FROM SYDNEY.

EMERALD HILLS ESTATE, right at Punchbowl Station, on the Belmore to Bankstown railway, is a perfect residential property. It is the highest point on the line, it is level or gently sloping, soil is good, city water is available, first-class drainage provided for.

Best of all, your home built there will be just 30 minutes from Sydney by train.

Small wonder, in face of all these advantages, that over a dozen home-seekers decided during July to buy sites for homes on Emerald Hills.

Choice 50ft Lots, close to the station, 10s 6d foot, £1 deposit, 10s monthly.

BY THE RYDE TRAM.

The new Ryde Tram has opened up a splendid Residential Locality—has added another high-grade suburb to Sydney. And right in the centre of this new suburb is TENNYSON ESTATE.

When the proposed direct ferry from Drummoyne Bridge to the Quay is running, TENNYSON ESTATE will be within 30 minutes of the city.

Some other advantages:—The estate is elevated—it overlooks the Parramatta River just where the sculling races are held. There is a ferry wharf on the Estate—Lots are unusually large—there are none but fine houses in that locality.

In spite of all these things we can offer you Lots 60 x 132 feet, within a few minutes of the tram, for 7/6 a foot. Terms: £1 deposit, and 10/ monthly. Send for marked plan.

THREE CHARMING COTTAGES, quite new, and in "Sydney's Garden Suburb," HABERFIELD.

Pleasing from any point of view—cottages of modern style and perfectly built—all good sound investments. You are wise to take the first opportunity of inspecting them.

Situated in "The Place of Beautiful Homes," they are cottages that are very much superior to the average suburban dwelling, and will strongly appeal to all lovers of home comfort and beauty.

Haberfield is easily reached by electric tram, alighting at O'Connor-street, or take train to Summer Hill.

£675.—This is a fine new cottage, and splendid value. It provides an excellent opportunity for sound investing. A delightful type of cottage, all ready to make an ideal home. A good entrance hall and casement windows are leading features, and, together with good large dining-room, drawing-room, 2 fine bedrooms, and breakfast-room, also kitchen, laundry, and every convenience, leaves nothing to be desired. The ceilings are fibrous plaster, and lofty throughout. It is well built of brick on concrete foundations, and roofed in slate. The interior treatment is most handsome, beautiful mantels, gas fittings to match. Land, 45 x 150.

£725.—This cottage is situated in Alt-street, close to tram stop. Ashfield Railway Station is within a few minutes' walk. The cottage is of entirely new design, has bay window, tiled verandah, very nice entrance hall, good drawing and dining rooms, three large bedrooms, linenpress, bathroom, pantry, and every convenience. The ceilings are Bagasse, or fibrous plaster, stencilled dado and friezes. The mantels are also of very artistic design, and the fittings, and the like are all in keeping. Truly a beautiful home. Frontage 50 x 195. Price, £725.

£825.—Another splendid cottage in Deakin-avenue, within a stone's throw of the tram section, and situated in a fine elevated position. Built of brick on concrete foundation, with specially selected Bangor slates on roof. The dining-room is a great feature, being about 19 x 13, and most artistically treated. The bedroom is also a large one, with bay window. There are three bedrooms in all together with drawing and dining rooms. At the rear is a very wide verandah suitable for sleeping out, sewing, or breakfast room. Certainly a most attractive cottage for £825.

OTHER NEW COTTAGES, £635 to £1145.

BANKSTOWN POULTRY FARMS.

Why not have a Poultry Farm of your own? Be independent of employers if you want to. Take advantage of Rickard's Easy Terms, and the Farmlet will produce enough to pay the instalments from the start.

Very little capital is needed—as little as £2. This is what we advise:—Select a Block of, say, 5 Acres. Clear it, and bring it under cultivation in your holidays and week-ends. In a little while it will be producing a small income, which will increase as you put more work into it. In a year or two you could leave your present position and have an independence. This is worth thinking over.

OUR TRUMP CARD.

THE "KAYSER" PIANO.

A Perfect Instrument, both in construction, scaling, design, touch, and tone. Full iron frame, overstrung, underdamper action, with all the latest improvements. Guaranteed by us FOR TEN YEARS.

Price - - £45.

CASH OR TERMS.

Our Guarantee.

To understand fully the exceptional advantages of dealing with us, it is well to remember that pianos with great names do not always keep up the standard of excellence that has built up their reputation. They then may be said to be trading on their name.

Piano manufacturers do not guarantee their pianos, the retailers must do that. You will, therefore, see that we have to be genuine experts to watch the variations in quality, to be on the lookout for any evidence of decline in tone, touch, or construction.

We guarantee our Pianos for ten years, because we have chosen them ourselves, and know their sterling value. Our reputation is known locally, and our guarantee is made locally, and we do not necessarily pin our faith to names; we examine each instrument, and pass nothing that we cannot honestly put forward as good, and one that will give a good account of itself.

Our Terms.

The ordinary method of Time-payment is slip-shod, expensive, and undesirable. We do not adopt it, but we have a system of our own which will commend itself to business men as sound, generous, and practical.

Under our method, we charge a cash price for every instrument, and FIVE PER CENT. per annum on the unpaid balance.

This is less than Bank interest, and makes the purchase of a Piano on one, two, or three years' deferred payments a sound commercial proposition.

THE MAJOR'S NIECE.

BY GEORGE A. BIRMINGHAM.

(ALL RIGHTS RESERVED.)

CHAPTER XI.

Marjorie ate her dinner under the eyes of Mrs. O'Halloran and Mary Garry untroubled by any advice as to how she ought to chew. At her own special request she was allowed to have the meal in the kitchen. This would probably have shocked any right-minded member of the Parents' Union, but Mrs. O'Halloran knew nothing of the later theories of education, and, having successfully reared six children of her own, had no idea whatever of the sacred responsibility of those in charge of the young. She even allowed Marjorie to choose her own food. Major Kent, who had some ideas of his own on the subject of nursery diet, ordered a chicken, boiled, and a rice pudding. When he was told that no chicken was available he left the arrangement of the menu to Mrs. O'Halloran, stating at the same time that he would not himself be at home for luncheon. Mary Garry, after consultation with Mrs. O'Halloran, asked Marjorie what she would like. She chose sardines on toast, to be followed by whipped cream and raspberry-jam. There were no sardines in the house, so Paudeen Canavan was sent into Ballymoy with orders to get a box at Mr. Doyle's shop, and bring it home in his pocket. This errand was the cause of an argument between Mrs. O'Halloran and Jamesy Deveril. Paudeen, who was called a yard boy, though his duties in the Major's establishment were very varied, was supposed to be under the control of Jamesy Deveril.

Jamesy had been at the forge, getting new shoes for the cob, on the previous day, while Paudeen was helping to course the black calf and to bridle the chestnut filly. On discovering what had been done in his absence he had beaten Paudeen severely, hitting much harder, and finding the tenderest spots more skilfully, than Mr. Gregg. He intended to make life very bitter and irksome to Paudeen for several days afterwards, and was annoyed at the boy's escaping to go on a message into Ballymoy.

"He'll be spending the whole of the morning at it," he said bitterly to Mrs. O'Halloran, "and we wanting him to be shifting manure in the barrow. Why couldn't you send Mary Garry if there's commands to be done in the town? What good is a great stravaguing lump of a girl like her about the place if she's not fit to be sent into the town on a message?"

"Is it Mary Garry?" said Mrs. O'Halloran. "And if I send her, who's to brush the Major's clothes for him, and clean up after the mess the company made in the drawing-room yesterday, and wash two pair of stockings for Miss Marjorie, and shell the peas for the dinner to-night, and answer the door and polish the silver teapot, and iron out one of them aprons—aprons indeed. No, but pinafores—that Meldon, bad luck to him, fetched out for the poor girl to wear? Tell me that now, Mr. Jamesy Deveril?"

Jamesy was a reasonable man. He was forced to acknowledge that Mary Garry's duties were more varied than those he had planned for Paudeen. Mrs. O'Halloran pursued her advantage.

"So you may leave the manure where it is for another day, for you'll not get Paudeen in the evening no more than the morning. As soon as ever he has his dinner ate, he's to be out on the road teaching Miss Marjorie to ride the bicycle."

"I'd have thought she'd have had riding enough to content her yesterday without wanting bicycles after. What would hinder her to sit quiet in the house and let Paudeen do his work?"

"Them's the Major's orders, anyway; and if you don't like them, it's to the Major you'd better be speaking."

"Well, but childer is an upset in the house. Divil the thing can be done right the way it ought to be done when there's the like of them to be humoured."

"You may say that," said Mrs. O'Halloran. "I'm after rearing six of my own, and I know well that there's neither ease or comfort where they are."

Thus Paudeen escaped a task which, in the bruised condition of his body, would have been a painful one for him, and spent a pleasant morning sauntering along the road between Ballymoy and Portsmouth Lodge. In the afternoon he was forced to bestir himself more actively. Marjorie rapidly acquired such mastery of the bicycle as enabled her to make short and erratic rushes at high speed. Steering proved a great difficulty, and the ditches at the sides of the road seemed to have a strong attraction to the machine. It was Paudeen's duty to prevent any kind of catastrophe. The afternoon was hot, and the work was much harder for him than it was for Marjorie. There were moments when he wished himself back in the yard under the eye of Jamesy Devril. The demands on his activity there were intermittent. Jamesy, having duties of his own, could not always watch his subordinate. When he was at work elsewhere it was Paudeen's habit to rest, sitting on the handles of the barrow or on any convenient stone. Marjorie allowed him no breathing-time. No sooner had he saved her from a crash which seemed inevitable than she was off again, and Paudeen was obliged—so he described his experience to Garry at tea-time—"to make after her if it was the last breath I could squeeze out of my body."

But of the joy of learning to ride a bicycle there comes satiety at last, even when the learner is an active child of ten years old. Marjorie dismounted, breathless and dishevelled, and addressed the perspiring Paudeen.

"I'm tired of the old bike," she said; "let's go and explore somewhere."

Paudeen was uncertain as to the exact meaning of the proposal, but he had a strong suspicion, based on the experience of the day before, that any plan made by Miss Marjorie would be likely to end in trouble for him.

"I'd be afeard," he said. "I might be bet."

"Mr. Gregg isn't here," said Marjorie. "There's nobody to beat you. You're not afraid of Mrs. O'Halloran, are you? or Mary Garry?"

"Mary Garry dursent," he said; "and what's more, she wouldn't be fit."

He was prepared to assert the dignity of his sex against her at any time. With regard to Mrs. O'Halloran he was less confident. He recollected certain shrewd blows given with rolling-pins or other weapons, and the arm of Mrs. O'Halloran was strong. But he would not humble himself before Miss Marjorie by admitting that he feared any woman.

"Mr. Deveril'd beat me," he said.

Marjorie tossed her head. She refused to acknowledge that Mr. Deveril had any right to control her actions. It did not occur to her that he might possess the power of life and death over Paudeen.

"Come on," she said; "we will go down to the sea."

Paudeen yielded foolishly. He might have known—the story of his remotest ancestor's first transgression should have warned him—that he would not be able to evade punishment afterwards by saying "the woman tempted me." The blame might be, would be, justly and properly hers alone, but no man from the days of Adam down has escaped the consequences of evil-doing by urging that plea.

"You take the bike into the yard," said Marjorie, "and leave it there. I'll wait for you."

"She'd see me," said Paudeen, "and Mr. Deveril would see me, and then I'd be bet, the way I was bet yesterday, only worse."

"You're a little coward. I'll take it myself, and you can wait."

The taunt was too much for Paudeen. He was prepared to run a very considerable risk rather than suffer it. He took the bicycle and wheeled it up the drive towards Portsmouth Lodge, but courage, even taunt-driven, has its limits. He stopped short at a place out of sight of the kitchen windows, and deposited the bicycle under a tree. Then he returned to Marjorie. They crossed two fields hand in hand, and arrived at the shore of the little bay in which Major Kent's Spindrift lay at anchor. If Paudeen had been a member of the Parents' Union, and therefore anxious to increase Marjorie's interest in nature-study, the sandy shore of the bay would have offered him a splendid opportunity. It was strewn with the corpses of jellyfish, and Marjorie's curiosity was immediately aroused. She had never before come across jelly-fish, and she wanted to know all about them. Unfortunately Paudeen had been brought up on a bog many miles from the sea, and marine biology has not as yet been imposed on Irish National schools as part of the regular programme of instruction. He had but one piece of information to offer.

"Them ones stings," he said.

DISFIGURING ERUPTIONS.

Faces marred by unsightly eruptions have embittered many a life and prevented social and business success in countless cases. What fortunes are wasted and what desperate means are tried to effect a cure, none but sufferers from such afflictions can imagine, though the discouragement that comes when failure follows failure may readily be believed. But all this is needless. In the vast majority of cases a prompt and permanent cure can be effected by the simplest and most economical means. That such a result will attend the use of Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment is attested by thousands of cures, effected all over the civilised world, and covering a period of over thirty years. Full directions for the treatment of skin and scalp troubles, from infancy to age, accompany each package of Cuticura Ointment, or may be obtained, post free, from Messrs. R. Towns and Co., Sydney, N.S.W.—Advt.

MELLIN'S FOOD, when mixed with fresh cow's milk, is so closely identical with mother's milk, that it may be called the Ideal Food. Free sample on application to Gollin and Co. Propy., Ltd., Clarence-st, Sydney.—Advt.

"LINSEED COMPOUND," the "Stockport Remedy" for Coughs and Colds. Of 40 years' proven efficacy.—Advt.

NOTES.

The Kennel Club committee met on Monday night. Mr. P. R. Russell was chairman. The affiliation rules were returned signed by the secretary of the Sydney Silky and Yorkshire Terrier Club. The following prefixes were granted:—"Rosemont," to Mr. C. H. Penhaligon; "Corrard," to Mrs. T. Brooks; "Burbank," to Mr. J. Perkins; "Branxholme," to Mr. F. W. Wood. One new member was elected, and another nominated for the next meeting. It was decided that in future the committee would meet on Tuesday night.

Mr. James Grant is offering, in another part of this issue, a couple of four months' old blue and tan Australian terriers, by champion Monaro Glenara. These pups are full brother and sister to the defunct Warrigal, whose death a few months ago made things a bit easier for aspirants to champion-hip honours.

Mr. Colin Christie, of Brisbane, will shortly visit Sydney en route to the Melbourne Cup race meeting. Two of his well-known deerhounds have had ill-luck lately. Tranent Artist wrenched himself when jumping, and Tranent Model gave herself a nasty rip when leaping a spiked fence.

The Ladies' Kennel Club had a meeting yesterday. The hon. secretary reported that everything was going on well with the arrangements for the annual show on the 4th and 5th of next month, and that already entries were coming in freely.

The Bulldog Club of New South Wales held a meeting of the management committee last Thursday. One new member was elected, and a nomination for membership was made. The president of the club, Mr. F. M'William, says that for the annual show which opens on Friday, at 10 a.m., at the New Masonic Hall, Castlereagh-street, 66 dogs have been entered. These represent an entry of over 130. On the whole, it is said that there will be a better class of bulldogs shown this year than last, when there was a lot of "fill-up" stuff amongst the exhibits. The valuable special prizes will be on view at the show. The ballot by the visitors to decide which is the most popular dog of the show will close on Friday night at 9 o'clock.

Mr. C. G. Stevenson, hon. secretary of the Newcastle and Northern District Kennel Club, forwards the prize schedule of that club's show, the dates of which are the 28th and 29th inst. There are 94 classes, and the prize money is liberal—£1 for first, 10s for second, in all open classes. In other classes 10s and 5s will be given. All cups, medals, and specials will be added to the cash prizes. Entries close on the 22nd inst. with Mr. Stevenson, 91 Scott-street, Newcastle. Schedules can be obtained from nearly all the Sydney canine clubs. Mr. J. Dewshurst will judge al breeds but Australian terriers, which will be handled by Mr. A. Doyle. This show is being well supported by Sydney exhibitors, who will, no doubt, have an enjoyable trip to Newcastle.

Mr. J. N. Grant, of Summer Hill, writes:—"Prior to the late K. C. show, I was of opinion that a long-bodied, low-set Australian terrier, of a good blue and tan colour, and closely approximating to the picture which is generally accepted as the true type, had claims which could not be overlooked in the show ring. I now, however, beg to suggest to the Australian Terrier Club that it is desirable either to frame the standard afresh, so as to bring it into conformity with the type evidently preferred, or that in future the present standard should be acted upon with due regard to the features I have enumerated.

KENNEL CLUB SHOW.

The number of entries—405—at the Kennel Club show, held last week at the Agricultural Society's grounds, is about on a par with those at the Royal show. This would seem to emphasise the fact that the club must anticipate limited support when it holds its shows so far out of town as Moore Park. Certainly the new idea of special trams for dogs and their owners was a great convenience. The show was well managed, and one of the most enjoyable in the club's history.

Mastiffs were limited to three. Mrs. Prosser's dark brindle Smoke is a big lump of a dog, but his hind movement is not desirable. J. Hagerman's fawn dog Thibet and his brindle bitch Gipsy were placed as written. The former has the advantage in size and bone. Mrs. Cunynghame's Borzoi Larnoo Lance is a handsome animal, who, however, is not too good in hocks.

Deerhounds made a striking collection, thanks to Mr. Dickson's entries and Mr. J. M. Chisholm's imported Scotch Queen. For the first-named owner Moncrieffe Lord Macquarie, a nine months old puppy, is a giant for his age, and promises to be one of the biggest hounds ever seen in the State. He has long and punishing jaws, grand outline, and a capital rough coat. His feet are a bit spread and his ears might be smaller. Moncrieffe Lioness, in the same kennel, also looked well. She is a game, business-looking hound, with few faults. Scotch Queen (imported) is built on racy lines, and is well shaped. She is, however, light in bone, and could do with more coat. M. Orange Rose, the winning puppy bitch, is a little overshot, but she beats M. Blue Pussy in bone and everywhere else. Tranent Madge is small and weedy, and Tranent Duchess lacked condition, and is weak in hind quarters.

Foxhounds, harriers, and beagles are much improved breeds. T. Burns' Beech, the winning foxhound dog pup, is well made, with good bone and well padded feet. The second pup, L. Leal's Lord Marcus, has plenty of leather, and his feet are a bit spread. G. Parkes' Paddy (third) was out of condition. Open dogs brought out a grand quartet—Nobleman (imp.), and three of his sons, all top notchers. The first named won for Leslie Barry after a close call from A. Lofberg's Ben. Nobleman is a typical hound, and wonderfully active for a five-year-old; he beat Ben in spring of ribs and brisket, but lost to him in mouth and youth. I tip the younger dog as the coming champion. Marcus (third) has hardly fulfilled his last year's promise. Still, he is a good one, but unlucky to have a couple of better hounds in front of him. Fleet Admiral has also good points. In bitches Primrose Molly won for W. T. Osborne. She whelped on the first night of the show half a dozen fine puppies.

Chief honours in beagle dogs went to Miss Curtis's Prince Zetland, who has nice expression, and is of good type. Loyal Blue (second) has a good head and body. Warrigal (third) is on the big side. In bitches, W. T. Osborne's Lady Isabel, one of the right sort, won from Miss Curtis's Nell, whose mouth is defective. In harriers, A. Lofberg won the double with Duke and Rose.

Collies brought out several fresh ones, and the quality right through was above the average. J. F. Healey, of Auckland, sent over Pukatupa Adamant, who, despite his hide-bound condition, won with something to spare. This is a big dog, with racy outline, a long quality head, good coat, mane, frill, and feather. When in top form it will take something extra special to stop him. Mrs. A. E. Williams' 10-months-old Poplar Laddie is already very nice, and should improve. He has nicely-carried ears and good expression, but might be a bit higher, and have better leg feathering. J. S. Clarke's Bookham Bill (third), loses in head to the first and second dogs, and his coat, though dense, is too short. Bill has beautiful dark eyes and plenty of size. In open bitches J. S. Clarke's sweet-faced Bookham Rose, was preferred to the others. She has a long, lean head, which will never go coarse. Mrs. Williams' Poplar Lassie is another nice one, with plenty of quality, and like her brother, Laddie, should improve a lot with time. W. Austin's Glen Avon Golden Belle has a good expression, but her foreface is not what it should be, and she is on the small side. W. G. Cheeseman's Brighton Lassie (third to Rose and Lassie), carries her left ear lazily, and her stop is too pronounced, otherwise she is a good-coated and attractive bitch.

Fox-terriers had only 41 entries, and of these Mr. R. J. Wilson's dogs, unfortunately, did not turn up, which was a pity, as it would have been interesting to have seen his strong team pitted against that of Mr. Moses. Novices were not a strong lot, barring F. E. Massong's Dudley, a showy young one, all style, with good head and body, but weak behind. J. M'Intosh was second with Mairiki, who was well-shown. H. Geddes' Rockwall Spot looked as though he was friendly with the cook. He has small ears, and a short body. H. Moses' Adam's Double (imp.) is a nice compact little terrier, hard to fault, excepting in head, which inclines to the feminine type. In bitches the same owner brought out a hot novice in Avon Myra (imp.), who has many good points, but is rather light in bone. J. M'Intosh's Papukura (second) is a fair sort, with a very nice neck. In Australian-bred H. Moses' Glendon Gem won easily, she never looked better. In limit, Diament, H. Moses' imported bitch, was also an easy winner. The best fox-terrier in the show was H. Moses' imported bitch Victoria Regia. She has a grand front and body, good head, ears, and hindquarters, her coat is, however, rather wavy over the loins.

Bull terriers were few, but good. E. C. Snow brought out a grand dog in Prince Imperial, who won in Australian-bred and open. This terrier has good body and bone, and plenty of jaw power. C. F. Cavanagh's Snowy was the runner-up to Prince Imperial, and he won in novices. No bitches were shown.

FREE EDUCATION.

THE LABOUR PARTY'S SCHEME.

Speaking at North Sydney in support of the Labour candidates for St. Leonards and Lane Cove, Mr. Arthur Griffith said that when in April last the people cut off the head of the fusion party and Government, Mr. Wade and his Ministers got a crick in the neck from which they still suffered. Since that date Mr. Wade's Government had tried in a six weeks' session to reverse its policy of the previous six years. It was simply a death-bed repentance, and he did not think the great body of electors would regard Mr. Wade's repentance as sincere. (Applause.) If the people should once more send into Parliament a majority in support of Mr. Wade that gentleman's recent repentance would be short-lived, and he would be found reverting to the vices which had distinguished his political career. (Applause.) The policy of the Labour party was formulated by delegates from the whole State sitting yearly in open conference, than which nothing could be more democratic. Another bogey was the progressive land tax. Whenever a move was made against the wealthy man a small man was always put up in front of him, and the people were told that it was the small man who was going to be injured. The Liberals said that in the country the land tax would destroy the value of land, and make it so unprofitable that owners would not be able to give it away. The Labour party contended that the man of many acres was blocking settlement, but was determined that he should not do so any more. (Applause.) It believed that the line of taxation should not begin until the line of subsistence had been passed. The party had fought on until it was now the direct Opposition. At the outset it had 15 out of 125 members in Parliament, and in the last House they had 37 members out of 90, but on Friday they would have 50 out of the 90. (Cheers.) Mr. Wade's best measure was that giving free education, but it did not go far enough. The Labour party proposed to establish a High School in each of the 57 divisions into which the State would be cut up. In each division 200 pupils passing the test would win a bursary carrying three years' free education in the High School, and if a child's parents were poor £30 a year would be provided for his or her keep. After the three years' course students could sit for a further bursary test, and all those getting 75 per cent. of marks would win for themselves a further three years' bursary, enabling them to enter either the Technical College, the Hawkesbury College, or the Sydney University without any cost to the parents. It would cost the State a lot of money, but it could be found by reimposing the income tax and stamp duties and by imposing an absentee tax.

MR. PERCY SPENCE'S PAINTINGS.

Mr. Percy F. S. Spence has issued invitations for an interesting collection of his oil and water-colour paintings, and black-and-white drawings, at Equitable-buildings this afternoon and to-morrow, after which he proposes to throw his studio freely open to the public every Wednesday afternoon until further notice. Art lovers will be attracted by the fact that Mr. Spence is showing some important works that have not hitherto been exhibited. "Overlanding Cattle" is singularly animated, and owes its sense of movement not only to the actual examples of animated life, but also to the highly poetic suggestion of a splendidly treated sky—storm-driven masses of fleecy clouds from which falls a rainbow. The scene is the old ford on the Hawkesbury River, near Captain Charley's house, where cattle crossed in the good old colonial days before the railway era. A stockman gallops his chestnut in the foreground to head back a black bull that is breaking away from the mob, a subject that is handled with confidence and spirit. Another new work is catalogued No. 2. "Kosciusko from the Bobundara Road, Cooma." This is quite different in tone and in treatment, and has been painted so as to suggest the vastness of the plain, across which mounted shepherds follow their flocks. Light and shadow fall upon the widespread earth, and the eye dwells with pleasure upon the distant blue range, with its lofty line of snow against the horizon. Mr. Spence shows some big portrait subjects that have been already reviewed, notably his vivid likeness of Sir Samuel Griffith, Federal Chief Justice, and of Mr. Richard Teece, general manager of the A.M.P., in his academic robes as a senator of the Sydney University. A third large portrait, which is new, is that of Mrs. Emmanuel, a pleasing likeness, with the details of lace and accessories carefully painted, and the veined hands lifelike and characteristic. The portrait of the late Mark Twain in chalks, originally drawn by Mr. Spence for and published by the London "Graphic," will be recognised at once. The American author's remark after praising the likeness was, "Say, sir, your expedition makes me very surprised." Near this portrait are a number of other original drawings for the "Graphic," the "Sphere," the "Sydney Mail," and other illustrated papers, and the drawing of the graceful girls at play on the Manly Beach, entitled "Shooting the Breakers," was also published in London. In the inner room visitors will admire a large oil painting, "The Merry Breeze," a farm-hand crossing the grassy uplands on his plough-horse beside big elm-trees. The scene, revealed beneath a typical English sky, is probably the finest gallery-picture Mr. Spence ever painted. Many other works and sketches of interest are in this room. Mr. Spence is also showing some of the early reproductions in colours now to hand of the 75 water-colour drawings which he has executed for "Australia," one of Messrs. A. and C. Black's "Beautiful Books" series, which is expected to reach this country a little before Christmas.

CITY AND SUBURBAN LIGHTING.

REJOINDER BY THE MAYOR OF NEWTOWN.

Replying to the criticism of the Lord Mayor of Sydney on the question of the electric lighting of the city and suburbs, the Mayor of Newtown (Alderman Morgan) said yesterday:—"The Lord Mayor states that the great growth and development of the City Council's plant enables them to offer better terms than formerly. In August, 1909, however, the best offer made by the City Council was £5 per lamp. The city authorities should have known whether they could produce current and supply lighting at £3 7s 6d per lamp.

"The position of the back streets of Newtown is exactly similar to that of the back streets of Sydney, and the cost of installation and reinstallation of electric light for the street lighting purposes in these streets is about the same.

"The City Council have—so I am informed—three thousand gas lamps in the back streets, for which they pay £5 per lamp per annum. If the City Council can afford to supply current for street lighting purposes to the Glebe Council at £3 2s 6d per lamp, by lighting their own back streets they would effect a saving of £5652 per annum.

"With reference to the high-tension overhead wires mentioned by the Lord Mayor, I understand that the Tramway Department contemplate laying some miles of overhead high-tension wires from Pittwater to Manly, and it is also rumoured the City Council intend laying high-tension overhead wires from Kensington to La Perouse."

EXECUTIVE APPOINTMENTS.

The following appointments were made by the Executive Council yesterday:—

The Rev. H. J. Noble, as Church of England Chaplain, Liverpool Asylum, in place of the Rev. J. Sheerman, resigned. Mr. W. H. O'Malley Wood, as Deputy President, during the absence of Mr. Warden, of the Government Savings Bank; and Mr. G. W. Coote as Deputy Commissioner, in place of Mr. Wood. Mr. E. W. Wickham, as Clerk in the Industrial Registrar's Court. Mr. E. D. Fitzgerald, as second-class Assistant Architect, Department of Public Works. Mr. A. E. Bracken, as District Works Officer, Cootamundra.

TERRIBLE CASE OF ECZEMA.

SUFFERED FRIGHTFULLY FOR 15 YEARS.

REXONA MAKES ALL WELL.

"I have suffered from Eczema for the last 15 years, and tried different remedies until I was thoroughly sick of trying them," writes John James Rogers, corner of George and William streets, Norwood, S.A. "About a year ago I had a severe attack of Eczema in my hands. On that occasion I lost two finger-nails, and one thumb-nail. Nine months ago I had another severe attack in the ankles and legs. I used to scratch them until the blood was running. Then I had to get up in the middle of the night and let the tap run on them until they would be numb with the cold, and the flesh raw and blue. Then to work the next day with pick and shovel. This was fighting a battle under difficulties for bread, and to keep a roof over my head. I was later suffering from another attack of Eczema in the hands; the fingers swelled and had big cracks in them, one from the first to the third joint. About this time I was recommended to try Rexona, and found the cooling and soothing effect was something beyond my expectation. I got a large pot, and used it, and it has perfectly cured me. I feel confident that anyone suffering from Eczema, no matter of how long standing, will be cured if they will only give Rexona a fair trial." Rexona, the Rapid Healing Ointment, is effecting many remarkable cures of old and obstinate cases. All who suffer from troublesome sores or wounds will do well to use Rexona, and they will find it a quick and effective remedy. Price, 1/6 and 3/.—Advt.

The Outdoor Australia series is continued in this week's "Sydney Mail." Other illustrations of interest are: Howlong Crossing, on the Murrumbidgee River; Fruit-growing at Kurrajong; Remarkable Discovery near Boggabri, and others.—Advt.

NATIONAL COUNCIL OF WOMEN.

The National Council of Women of Victoria held its eighth annual congress last week in Melbourne. Tasmania sent five representatives, including Mrs. Henry Dobson, president of the Tasmanian N.C. Dr. Mary Booth represented N.S.W.

Lady Gibson Carmichael presided at the two afternoon meetings. The Lord Mayor lent the council-chambers of the Town Hall for the final evening session, and himself presided, foregoing a dinner to the officers of the Dutch Fleet to keep his engagement. His Worship, in honouring the National Council of Women by presiding, followed the example of the chief magistrates of Berlin, Geneva, and Toronto, as Mrs. Dobson gracefully pointed out in moving a vote of thanks to him for his presence.

Lady Carmichael, in declaring the congress open, said the year had been marked by very thorough work, notably in launching the Child-saving Society, which is a federation of all the societies working in the interests of children. She hoped that this year would mark progress by achieving something in the interests of the mentally defective.

Dr. Fishbourne, who has for many years devoted himself to the problem of the feeble-minded, dealt with the question of the proper care and training of backward and feeble-minded children. It was necessary, first of all, to ascertain the amount of mental deficiency in the community, and he considered that a census of children of school age should be undertaken. The police could leave at the house of each householder a card, on which the names and ages of all children should be written, and the names of the schools attended. At present nothing was being done for these children; they had no training, becoming helpless or vicious, and prolific in perpetuating their kind in the community. In the school such children were a drag on the other children, a difficulty to the ordinary class teacher, and gained nothing for themselves. Formerly a class was held for the feeble-minded in the Kew Asylum, which Dr. Fishbourne described as the one bright spot in that unhappy place. In the discussion afterwards, several speakers expressed their concern that such a condition could exist, and their determination to seek for remedy. One medical man expressed the condition of the mentally defective children at Kew Asylum as exemplifying the mediaeval conception of hell. On the basis of 60,000 school children —Melbourne and suburbs—it was computed at 1 per cent., the usual proportion in a city population, that 600 children were in need of special care and training.

The National Council of Women, to whom is due the inception of the epileptic colony which is now successfully carried on, will make a special effort to focus public attention on and obtain Government assistance for the education of the backward and mentally deficient child.

Dr. Janet Greig, one of three newly-appointed school medical officers, gave a most interesting account of medical inspection recently undertaken in Victoria. The medical officers have a freedom of action which has allowed them to deal with the question of medical inspection generally in a comprehensive manner. They act generally as advisers to the department in three directions. First, dealing with such questions as epidemic disease and school closing, ill-health in the teacher (e.g., tuberculosis), truant children, school building, and sanitation. Secondly, in regard to the child in school, its teacher, and parents. By means of fathers and mothers' meetings they get into closer touch with the home environment of the child. As a preliminary to medical inspection, a circular card is sent to the parents for each child, asking for some information in regard to family history, previous illness, feeding in infancy, hours of sleep, of exercise, and presence of earache or discharge, headache, snoring, etc. The response of the parents has passed all expectation, over 90 per cent. cards being returned. Likewise the parents' meetings are crowded; sometimes overflow meetings have to be held. At the end of the examination notices are sent to the parents if any abnormal conditions grew that are remediable, and the attention to the teacher is drawn to any physical defects of sight, hearing, posture, or carriage.

Continuation and Training College students are under careful supervision. Thirdly, the all-important question of teaching hygiene on modern educational principles from the kindergarten to the Training College, through all grades, is under consideration, and a scheme is being formulated. The organisation of medical inspection has proceeded rapidly on a comprehensive scale in Victoria. The three medical officers are invested with equal authority, and act together as a board in school hygiene generally. It is expected that they will shortly be reinforced by the appointment of assistant officers.

Rev. Merrick Long spoke of "School Power in Ethics." In the school the child received his first training—citizenship. The personality of the teacher counted for much in the development of the child. No one was quicker than the child in recognising sincerity. The teacher must be natural. It was useless to ask the unworthy teacher to give ethical teaching; he must be what he would teach.

Dr. Mary Henderson spoke on "Some Public Health Aspects of Tuberculosis," dealing especially with the fact that this disease is controllable and preventable, and that the great need was a spread of knowledge of its nature and the means of conveyance of infection. A great public crusade as an educational means was necessary in Australia, on the lines so enthusiastically employed in America and in Ireland. It should be realised that 30 per cent. of deaths claimed victims of ages between 15 and 35 years.

Dr. Janet Greig, who had recently visited America, gave an interesting account of the campaign there, giving a vivid picture of its methods and its success.

Dr. Mary Booth took occasion to explain away the unfortunate misconceptions that had arisen in Melbourne in regard to the national movement started in Sydney some months ago. It had been said the movement in Sydney was on wrong lines. Nothing could be more untrue. She outlined the work of the Ladies' Sanitary Association, its expansion into the Health Society, and considered that it had found its great work in developing a national movement against consumption. In this it had the guidance of men like Sir Philip Sydney Jones, whose life had been devoted to this work. The Sydney workers desired only co-operation with the other States. The National Council of Women in bringing together members from other States made a better understanding of each other's aims and objects possible. Tuberculosis knew no State limits; the campaign against it must be Federal, too. The National Council of Women will throw the weight of its influence into forwarding the movement in Victoria.

The following evening two papers dealing with the development of the child were given. Dr. Ellis dealt with the physical and Mr. Wrigley with the mental aspects. Both speakers considered that the young and expectant mother should gain such knowledge of the infant and child in order to intelligently train it into mental and physical efficiency.

A discussion followed, in which one speaker strongly advocated that such instruction should in appropriate quantity and kind, be given to girls before leaving school. Child study should no longer be the work of the psychologist of the physiologist alone. It had been said that our Transpacific cousins had discovered that the man in the street was the one to be reckoned with in any reform. They had organised courses of domestic science, in which physiology and psychology and child study were important subjects of study. The hygiene of infancy should be taught to every schoolgirl before leaving school, and this could be done without putting old heads on young shoulders.

The congress has been a very successful one, the papers of high standard and dealing with questions of the day. The fact that its final conference was held in the chief hall of the city and that the Lord Mayor said it could be put to no nobler use shows that the National Council of Victoria is establishing itself as a social force.

THE SUPERIOR WOMAN.

You do not really believe for a moment that she is your superior, and instead of envying her, as she imagines, you have a pitying contempt for her. Nothing would induce you to change places with her, for in your heart of hearts, and without any undue conceit, you know quite well that her outlook in life is the wrong one, yours the right. When she is not there, you think scornfully of her, and wonder how she can be satisfied with the existence she leads, and you pity her for the joys she misses in rushing after the things that are not worth while.

But when you meet her, and she looks you over with her disdainful eye, all your complacency vanishes, and you become awkward and ill at ease. A lift of her supercilious brow tells you that your hat is of last year's fashion, the downward droop of her eyelids reminds you that your frock is home-made. As a matter of fact, you were feeling rather proud of it before, but that downward glance of hers has picked out all its deficiencies, and for a moment you wish savagely you had spent that five pounds at the tailor's instead of on that new edition of Meredith. She extends you the tips of her daintily-gloved fingers, and you are suddenly aware that washing suede, though clean and comfortable, are hopelessly clumsy, and that five-and-sixpenny white kid are the proper gloves to wear. She lifts her skirt as she steps down the kerb, and her gleaming patent toes make your nice comfortable calf boots look heavy and dowdy. In short, everything she wears, every word she says, every look, every smile, make you feel that you are all wrong and she is all right. It is no use for you to say to yourself that no power on earth would induce you to wear a hobble skirt like hers; you know your own is too wide. It's no use for you to remind yourself that you are comfortable, and can walk or run with ease while every extra movement is torture to her. It is in vain for you to remember that clothes and fashion are extraneous and of no true importance, and that it is the brain that matters. The weight of her self-satisfaction crushes you; her absolute assurance overwhelms you, and you feel like a country bumpkin before her complacent superiority.

Her conversation, too, puts you at a disadvantage; she talks so glibly of things that are worn in Paris, London, and Vienna. She knows so certainly what is "the thing;" has absolutely no doubt as to what is correct and what impossible in the world of dress. She is also familiar with the doings of all the notabilities, and talks interminably of what Miss Smartset is going to wear to the races, and of how much Mrs. Golt lost at bridge last week. And because you can chatter glibly on none of these subjects, because you have never met Miss Smartset and never seen Mrs. Golt, her superiority towards you is beyond description.

Sometimes, in a moment of foolish desperation, you may turn the conversation to things which interest you. If you are in a particularly spiteful mood you may persist in talking of Rostand and Maeterlinck, Henry James and Galsworthy, Wells and Manning; but you cannot keep it up for long, for the look in her eyes makes you feel even more snobbish than she is, and so you let the talk go back, by way of Rostand and Chanticler, to hats and fashions and things she understands. If you dare to refer to the older writers, Thackery or Scott, Browning or Tennyson, she is on safe ground, for, though she knows nothing of them but their names, she soon makes you feel old-fashioned by talking of George Barr M'Cutcheon and Robert Chambers. It is the same with music. If you speak of the way Madame Carreno played the "Waldstein," she hums a tune from "The Arcadians" or "Our Miss Gibbs," and you will almost end by believing that Beethoven is dowdy, and that Monckton is more musical.

In short, the superior woman turns your whole world topsy-turvy, and you lose all sense of perspective. The reason is, of course, that this is an age of false values all through; an age when everything is judged by what it costs, not by the joy or the good that is in it. A woman takes her place by the cut of her gown and the size of her hat, not by the sweet, womanly heart of her. A man's value is sized up by his banking account, not by the brain and strength of him. It is not what you are that matters, but what you have and what you wear. Thus it is that the dressmaker's model and the man of money, confident in the cut of their clothes and the size of their bank balance, arrogantly assume positions of superiority, which the others, with finer instincts, the thinkers, the workers, and the feelers, disdain to dispute, and so the superior person remains superior still by the power of her dressmaker's skill. It's a mad world, my masters!

THE AMERICAN TEENS.

An American woman, writing an open letter in a woman's journal, gives some straight home truths to the girls of her country, and incidentally some food for reflection to girls of any country. There are nearly seven million girls in America in their teens, and while many are all that is sweet in the garden of girls, the majority, who are the type, "are being described all over the world as selfish, pert, self-centred—in a word, ill-bred."

These are the words of no unfriendly outside critic, but of an American woman, who was herself an American girl, and cannot be accused of undue prejudice.

"You have blandly accepted the yellow journal title of 'the American Princess,'" she says. "Clapping your mock crown as firmly as possible upon your exaggerated coiffure, you have given us an exhibition—we may as well put it flatly—an exhibition of incompetence which would relegate a real princess to the nursery, and of bad manners which would send a Royal Highness supperless in bed.

"What are the points upon which the opinion is based? First, your voice. Vocally you are always on the scrim...age-line. Europe puts its fingers in its ears when it hears you coming.

"If your voices were only pleasanter, your manner of speaking less disagreeable and slovenly, the things you say would not sound so hopelessly rude or ill-bred. For instance, I do not join in the sweeping denunciation of slang. Slang is like certain seasoning, used with fine discrimination it gives flavour and even distinction. But it takes judgment to give that flavour, and that judgment you do not supply. Your talk is just loaded with slang, just crude, common, senseless slang."

Another and more surprising accusation that the writer brings against the American girl in her teens is her inorance. "The magazines and papers are printing scores of articles about your ignorance," she says. "You do not know it, for the simple reason that you do not read the papers, and you rarely permit yourself to stray beyond the stories in the magazines. But it is a fact that men and women all over the country are commenting in contemptuous amazement upon the fact that you cannot spell, you cannot read even passably well, and you cannot write a presentable letter.

"It is this ignorance of yours which makes your attitude towards older people the more ridiculous. . . . What are you accomplishing? You are not doing anything with the housekeeping problem—except to shirk it. You are a slave to the dressmaker. You are a poorer daughter to your mother than she was to hers. And it looks very much as if you are going to be a less wise mother to your children than your mother was to you.

"And that isn't all. For even if you couldn't cook, sew, manage servants, or direct a household, we might forgive you if you had learned other things—if you had learned to be respectful, obedient, unselfish, considerate, well bred. At home you are self-willed and heedless of others' comfort and pleasure while in public you are not only lacking in courtesy, but are often an actual nuisance as well. And, which is worse, you do not have enough self-respect to be ashamed of it. . . . And this, amongst girls who, by reason of their birth and breeding, should represent the best product of American culture. It is the degeneration of the nice American girl which is so alarming."

SLEEPING OUT.

A recent number of the "Spectator" contains a pretty sketch of "sleeping out" in Australia, which, though unsigned, will be recognised by many as coming from the pen of Lady Poore. All who have the privilege of her friendship know how Lady Poore has taken Sydney into her heart—just as surely as Sydney has taken her into its—and it is good to feel that we have a friend who can put before English readers so charming and intimate a view of our city. This friend has seen the beauty of our trees and flowers, and heard the sweetness in our bird songs. She has come to know the birds of her garden by sight, and taken the trouble to learn their names—which cannot be said of all Australians. It is true that "kookaburra" is printed "cucuburra," but that is probably the fault of the printer, and we forgive such slips when we read that "peewees (not pewits, but cousins of the jay) commonly resort hither, smartly-dressed 'tailor-made' looking birds, with blue-black hoods and mantles, spotless white faces and waistcoats, pied wings, and the long slender legs of the swift runner." How many Australians could so describe a peewee? The "Willie wagtails" are the birds that seem most to have charmed the writer. "They are the handsomest, the friendliest, and the most entertaining," she says, and gives a pretty little example of how friendly the birds are. "It had been raining heavily one night, and the drops still drummed softly on the iron roof, when the sleeper on the verandah was suddenly aroused by a loud gay "Cweacha!" proceeding apparently from under his bed. Very cautiously "he (the writer, by the way, seeks to hide her identity under a masculine cloak) raised himself and peeped over the footrail to see a happy wagtail standing on the shore of a nice new pond of rainwater which had drifted in on to the floor of the verandah during the night. Undismayed by the gaze of a human being, "Willie" went on making his morning toilet, sipping his bathwater at intervals and prattling blithely of 'cweachas,' 'pwetty cweachas,' and 'sweet pwetty cweachas' (for he is a perfect Dundreary where 'r's' are concerned), as he adjusted his feathers above the shining mirror."

It is not only the birds and the beauties of the dawn that have entranced this "sleeper-out;" the glories of the dark have bewitched her, too, as they must all who have eyes and ears. "Night on the verandah is very beautiful," she writes. "The mile-long illumination of the opposite shore, from the quay lights of the city to the brilliant electric lamps glowing like balls of fire on the wooded slopes of the Domain, is plainly, but not too plainly, visible from it. Long, low ferry steamers glide hither and thither through the night, the radiance streaming from their myriad windows paints a golden fringe upon the dark water, and the red and green of the port and starboard lights break and blur the fringe with patches of vivid colour. Ships' lights gleam from rigging or portholes, and the restless signal-lamp at the mast-head of each man-of-war flashes and winks its messages from ship to ship, or ship to dockyard, until with returning daylight it gives way to flag and semaphore.

"There are some disadvantages connected with sleeping-out on the shores of this great harbour. In thick weather steam-whistles, fog-horns, ships' bells, and blood-curdling sirens effectually prevent sleep at both ends of the eight hours devoted to it; in the summer belated excursion steamers, filled with festive singers of "Auld Lang Syne" or "God Save the King" (the most popular barcaroile on the harbour), pass close inshore, and cargo boats with shrieking winches and derricks load or unload early and late when time presses. But there is no such thing as a "nuit blanche" for our sleeper-out. A peace serene and benignant pervading mind and body alike descends upon him in the small and quiet hours. The soft wash of the water against the rocks below, the sighing of the light breeze in pines and gum trees, lull him to rest, and as he drifts into the haven of unconsciousness he feels himself specially and supremely blest—blest with the triple benison of the earth and sky and sea."

MELBOURNE NOTES.

Under the auspices of the Victorian Lady Teachers' Association, a meeting was held in the Assembly Hall, Collins-street. The chief subject under discussion was "Salaries." Higher remuneration is desired, and lady teachers were urged to organise, so that they could press their claims on every available opportunity.

Miss Douglas moved,—"That this meeting of women teachers, whilst strongly affirming the principle of equal pay for equal work, desires most earnestly to impress upon the Education Department, and the Government, the necessity for taking immediate measures to give at least a living wage to those teachers who are at present being grossly underpaid." Miss A. Fleming, who supported the motion, said now women had their political rights it was time the lady teachers put in their claim for equal pay for equal work.

A letter was read from a teacher who stated that, after 27 years' service, her present salary was £90 a year.

It was said that the Premier stated that country school teachers could save money! One lady, who had useful experiences of country school living to relate, expressed a wish that the Premier would give it a trial, and see how much it was possible to save out of a salary of £80 a year, after paying £50 a year for board and lodging, and £4 to £5 life insurance!

Miss Weekes thanked Mr. M'Gregor, M.L.A., and members who supported him, in bringing teachers' claims before Parliament.

There was a large attendance, and much interest taken, in the exhibits at the second exhibition of the Arts and Crafts Society.

"The Model Nursery," before referred to, was the centre of attraction. It was arranged on the stage, and quite delighted all beholders.

There was a splendid collection of enamels, in which Miss May Vale had a case of artistic designs.

In the basketry section there were all manners of useful things to be found, including handbags and jardinieres. In leather work, a unique motor-bag was carried out with grey leather, slashed with black. Library and motor cushions were fashioned of brown suede leather, or dressed leather, of navy blue colouring. A copper fender executed by Miss Marion Alsop attracted attention and admiration. Mrs. Fairbairn exhibited some exquisite specimens of Irish crochet, and a beautiful case of Irish lace and embroidery, belonging to Lady Dudley, was shown. Lady M'Mahon had a case of Chantilly and Alencon, which was much admired. In the loan collection there was much to interest beholders. A curious old Indian beggar's bowl, a praying wheel, old candlesticks, and ever so many antique articles in gold, silver, bronze, and iron. All most interesting and well worth inspection.

The exhibition was opened by Sir Thomas Gibson Carmichael.

We have had a special commissioners' inquiry into the necessity of, and working of, the "Talbot Milk Institute." Dr. Joske and Mr. R. M. Weedon, sub-accountant of the Victorian Treasury, have condemned the institution, because it decided to try to supply specially clean raw milk instead of pasteurised milk. It has been suggested for the institute to divide its supply into two sections, giving one pasteurised and the other plain milk. Twelve months on the system would at least test the two methods on equal terms.

The Government grant is to be discontinued, which has caused much discussion on the subject in our papers. Letters from parents have been much in evidence, which certify to the weight and beauty of infants reared on Talbot milk. Also a controversy between medical experts re clean raw milk v. pasteurised. "When doctors disagree who shall decide?" It must, however, be admitted that the Talbot Institute has, at least, made a careful effort to solve the milk question, and the general opinion is that it deserves further trial and encouragement. VERONICA.

MATTERS EDUCATIONAL.

In these days of political frenzy, when both sides are preparing to tear each other mercilessly to pieces, we are apt to overlook the consequences of such hot-headed enthusiasm. Are we loyal to our country in yielding to these party conflicts, and will not outside nations reflect on our disunion and internal weakness, when, e.g., they see our educational system held up to scorn and become the battledore and shuttlecock of petty warfare? The foreign or Eastern critic just now reading some of the criticisms levelled at our schools would be tempted to infer that, with respect to things educational, Australia is but just emerging from the dark ages, and that in the interests of the masses of her people the system generally is as illiberal as if a Czar and his autocratic Ministers were at the helm of State. Such procedure can only do us harm in the eyes of the world. We need not maintain that we have reached perfection, for, from its very nature, an educational system must grow and expand with increasing knowledge and science, and become more complex as our life and problems become so for our nation. Its imperfections, however, are those of youth. We can recall the early days of the history of our University, and the liberal forecast of its founders, who set forth as the objects of its existence "the advancement of religion and morality and the promotion of useful knowledge." We can think of the wise legislation of Parkes and others, and feel assured that our system was cast in the mould of a broad spirit, and has progressed under the same influence. It would be unbecoming to attribute its success to any one Government or party, for the advance of education has been the aim of the best men of varying shades of political opinion. Do we realise the difference that twenty years of history have made? Contrast our infant schools of then and now. Think of the monotonous times of those days, the dry routine of facts as compared with the present royal road. Fancy is now allowed to enter. We hear of a wholesome mixture of kindergarten methods, a living interest in nature-study, in plant-life, and flowers and birds, of pleasant tales and nursery rhymes intertwined with the rudiments of learning in a succession of pleasant hours. We hear of an increased cost in materials—tablets, little appliances and aids to nature-study, paint boxes, etc.

Do we realise what this means, even at a slightly increased cost? Remember those insanitary slates, often wiped with dirty dusters and little hands that surreptitiously passed from mouth to slate, etc. What a dire result might follow in the case of a tubercular child or one recovering from diphtheria or scarlet fever. Tablets cost a little more, for infants are not economical, but it also costs more to fit our homes with all sanitary aids, and this is not begrudged.

In the higher classes at school the inclusion of supplementary readers in the wider syllabus of later years may also mean a little more expense. The aim of the newer methods has been, by covering a wider range of thought and fancy, to draw out (in the primary sense of the word "educate") all that is best in and most congenial to each child. We can readily note what is contained in this list, the lives of heroes and great men in the field of adventure, war, and statesmanship, stories taken from the best in literature, art, and poetry, and so transformed as to be intelligible to the young. Is it not worth much to bring our children into this realm of story and fancy, to guide their thoughts at an impressionable age away from the sordid and weighty facts of stern reality, amidst the ideal and the true, to give them a more intimate acquaintance with an added love for the best in literature, history, and nature? It will indeed be more remunerative than pennies expended on sweets, circus, and moving pictures. Influenced by the systems of America and Germany, technical knowledge (carpentry and manual training, the ability to use the hand along with the head) is becoming more and more a part of the usual curriculum. Much yet remains to be done. For some years now it has been possible for the boy or girl of ability to advance (by the aid of a liberal system of bursaries) through our high schools and through the school of arts or science at the university. But here comes the flaw. The professions of medicine, law, and engineering have been closed but to the very few successful winners of scholarships. The system of bursaries does not extend its advantages to these schools; hence many have been debarred. Yet we must not forget that the ascent to Parnassus is not easy, and every boy and girl cannot profit by these gifts; all are not equally endowed. A free university does not mean a cultured nation. As we have lately been reminded, the need of our land is for increased technical schools, increased continuation schools, additional advantages for the children of country and bush districts. While recognising our defects, let us be loyal. Let Liberal, Labour, and Independent alike work for increased opportunities. While doing so let us not forget the work of those who had their dreams and visions of a great Australian nation, a democracy of culture, years before the catchwords of Labour and Liberal were thought of. SPRINGTIME OF THE WEST.

In the early dew-drenched hours I stood on the homestead verandah. Soft fresh air came in billowy clouds across the plain, the slanting sunlight touched the surface of the Cowal to sparkling radiance, and the distant belt of wilga, which skirts the open plain, was mauve and silver in the morning freshness. In the nearer garden myriads of dew-drenched cobwebs, glistening in the sun like ropes of fairy pearls, spread glory over my defeated flower beds. They hung from salt bush and budah in countless shimmering strands, and looped their sparkling pearl strings lavishly amongst brave yellow marigolds; tethered to prosaic cactus clumps in tangled clusters, and then back in gleaming lines to the budahs, to and fro, and back again to hedge and marigolds, they spread their infinite delicate tracery of glistening jewels, hiding the havoc of winter.

"There is a time to dance." Surely that time is spring. In answer to its call I wandered into that jubilant triumphant morning and found the whole world alert to spring. Through the enclosure, which might have been an orchard but for drought, I passed, knee-deep in the damp and verdant trefoil, its tiny golden flower soul eager and glad with spring, unconscious of the coming devastation of summer. The open plain beyond is one vast stretch of luxurious dauntless green, unbroken in its verdant smoothness, excepting where occasional clusters of white paper daisies fleck its surface like foam on a deep-green ocean, and once a patch of yellow everlastings laughed riotously at me in passing. Away it rolls in immeasurable vastness to where the sky seems to stoop to hold it on the distant horizon.

At the cowal a wood-duck's fluffy brood was scampering, and an old black swan almost disturbed her dignity, that invincible black swan dignity, in excitement over her ugly ducklings. Yellow water flowers lay in great golden drifts across the surface of the Cowal, their starry faces rioting where the sunlight flickered, and in the brigalows two kookaburras went mad with glee. The world was drunk with spring. Blending, sympathising, and lingering was the hazy sweetness of hidden wattle. Not Cootamundra, or any of the triumphs of the uplands, but a scanty scrub variety, hardier and braver in its battle with the weather, its pale scraggy flowers, haggard and weary, but in their dusty fragrance wattle still.

Faint, intangible, elusive, almost indescribable, is this springtime of the west; not always a crowning festival, but often in our outposts of drought prayed for with longing hearts, and silent to our mute appeal. But when once more she shows her sceptre to us, though we have no nodding daffodils to show her presence, nor hawthorn wreaths for crowning, we crown her, in our hearts, with gladness, the same queen still. For whether she comes in the gaiety of gorgeous Baronia and wattle masses as on the eastern slopes, or in quieter wood with only soft touches for wounded places, as she comes to the sandy wastes, while the pelican builds in the western reaches, there is spring in our hearts that day—that great power of revival when the blood leaps, splashes in the veins, and there comes to man as to the little vivid flowers the gladness of the tumult of existence, the ecstasy. THE "CUBBY-HOUSE."

"What in the world is this?" was asked me the other day by a friend, as we were strolling around the garden. "This" was a cross between an unfinished fowlhouse and a broken-down fernery, and I laughed as I remembered the fun my husband and I had had in the building of it. It consisted of four posts, an old dilapidated iron roof, a shelf all round, and just a bare earth floor. There was certainly a creeper planted at each post, and those creepers were the whole secret of what "this" was going to be. It was going to be a "cubby-house" for our little ones to play in when they were big enough (at present they are only 18 and 6 months respectively), but in a couple of years' time, when they want a place to play, that "cubby" will be ready for them, for by that time, with ordinary luck, the four creepers will have completely covered the sides and old iron roof, so it ought to look quite pretty. There is also a pepper tree at one corner, and we planted a "silver" wattle at another; therefore, it should be well protected from rain.

It was a rainy day that suggested the idea to me, quite a long time ago, before I had little ones of my own. I once heard a child say, "Oh, I do so wish we had somewhere to play on a wet day," when her mother was scolding her for bringing mud into the house. Now, I felt sorry for that little girl; and also sorry for the mother, as she had quite enough to do without running around after several children, wiping up the marks of their muddy boots. But what were the poor children to do? Children want to play on a wet day just the same as any other; and if those little mites had only had a "cubby" all their own they would have been far happier, and I am sure their mother would be so, too. From that moment I resolved that if ever I was the happy possessor of children of my own I would see they had "somewhere to play on a wet day." G. E. M.

PUCK'S GIRDLE.

"I'll put a girdle round about the earth in forty minutes."
—"Midsummer Night's Dream."

"I never saw such a collection of pretty girls, and probably never shall again," said Lady Poore after her girls' dance last Friday night. The guests might have added that they never saw such a pretty dance, for the lovely garden at Admiralty House had been converted into a veritable fairyland, with coloured electric lights, growing like flowers out of trees and trellises, brushes, and staghorns; inside the house was beautiful with flowers, lilacs and double cherry blossom from Bowral were banked upon the mantelpieces, and the three supper tables were decorated with sweet-peas, watsonias, and roses. The hall was a bower of ferns and palms and exquisite calladurinas, of which the head gardener is justly proud. The guests might also have added that they had never known so delightful a hostess, and probably never will again; for this is the last of the dances at which Lady Poore will entertain her girl friends before she leaves Australia, and the knowledge of this was the one shadow on the perfect evening.

A dinner is becoming as popular as a means of reunion amongst "old girls" as it is amongst "old boys." For several years past the High School Old Girls have held their annual dinner with great success, and now the Burwood College Old Girls' Union is following the example, and the annual meeting this year took the form of a dinner, with a business meeting afterwards. The dining-room was decorated with the college colours, and so were the menu cards, and each guest was presented with a little bouquet tied with ribbons of the same colours. There were about 40 girls present, who all agreed that the new form of entertainment was a great improvement on the old-fashioned annual meeting.

The Sydney Art and Crafts Society is not to be outdone by its Melbourne sister, and a local exhibition is to be opened on Wednesday, October 26, by Lady Chelmsford, patron of the society. During the year the society has been reorganised, the committee has been increased from five to 17 members, and it is hoped that the standard of work shown this year will be much higher than on former occasions.

Sydney women will feel a deep sympathy for Mrs. Alfred Lee in the tragic loss of her daughter Thelma. Mrs. Lee is well known to all social and philanthropic workers, and in the active part she takes in all good works she has been always helped by her three daughters, the youngest of whom has just met her death in such a sad and sudden way. Miss Thelma Lee was a pretty, bright girl, popular with young and old, and her loss will be deeply felt amongst a large circle of friends, as well as in her own family.

Those who have not already heard Mrs Helen Barton speak on her work as a councillor of the City of Glasgow, will have a chance to hear from her what women are doing in municipal matters in Scotland, at a special general meeting of the National Council of Women, to be held at the Royal Society's House next Monday afternoon.

At the fifth annual dinner of the Sydney University Science Society on Saturday night, Mr. A. B. Piddington, B.A., in proposing "The Sydney University Science Society," expressed his appreciation of the presence of ladies at the science dinner, not only as enhancing the social side of the society's life, but in recognition of women's work in all domains of science. He also congratulated the society on its power of bringing together in an interesting and agreeable way workers in so many distinct branches of science, quoting Oliver Wendel Holmes' entomologist as a warning against "provincialism" in science. He hoped that none would specialise to such an extent as to lose sight of the practical and culture value of association with workers in other branches. Just as a science subject was found necessary in an arts course to satisfy modern conditions of a liberal education, so the sciences were necessary one to the other for culture. Whatever his own special work, the scientist could feel that he was linked up with all parts of the world to destroy superstition, ignorance, and disease.

The council of the Women's Liberal League entertained Lady Carlaw Martin and Mrs. Wade on Friday morning at the Queen Victoria Club. Among the visitors—who were received by Mrs. Helen Fell—were Mrs. Mackay (West Maitland), Mrs. Arthur, and Mrs. Stevenson (Hunter's Hill). After morning tea, the organising secretary welcomed Lady Martin, on behalf of the council, and briefly sketched the history of the league since its inception in 1902, paying a high tribute to the founder, Mrs. Molyneux Parkes, by quoting the opinion of Mr. Bruce Smith that her "synopsis of Liberal principles, formulated for the guidance of the members of her league, is more scientific in conception, and more courageous in clear, unmistakable definition, than any other that has been formulated at any time by any other political leader in Australian history."

Lady Carlaw Martin, in responding to the greeting, spoke of the difficulty she felt in formulating opinions in a new country where the conditions are so different from the old. She was pleased to see that the league was influencing women to take an interest in politics. Australian women had obtained the suffrage with ease. In Great Britain women were still fighting for it—some of them using means of which she strongly disapproved. She was inclined to think that what you fight for and work for is better appreciated than victories easily gained, and she was not one of those who thought women had lost anything by waiting for the vote. During these waiting years, English women have been preparing themselves to enter public life by taking a leading part in social reforms. Personally she was always drawn to the question of education, believing it to be the paramount necessity. We have heard a great deal about infant mortality, and the State has had to intervene "in loco parentis," but if the mothers were educated to take proper care of their children, legislation would not be required.

"A Pitying Woman" writes that now that the holiday season is coming with its crowds of travellers by sea and land some thought should be given to the poor horses which have to drag overladen coaches along hot, dusty roads. Sometimes the beasts are physically unfit for the task that is put upon them, and it is revolting to see them frothing and panting under the load.

For months after her trial and sentence to exile none of her friends had any word of Madame Breshkovsky, the Russian patriot, and none knew if she was dead or alive. Now, at last, news has come from someone who saw her in the prison hospital at Irkutsk suffering from scurvy. He was permitted to speak to her, but nothing was allowed to pass from his hands to hers, not even a lemon. He learned that she was probably on her way to the wildest and dreariest part of Siberia. "The Outlook," in commenting on this news, remarks:—"The brave old heroine will find someone to help and make happier, even in that forsaken part of the world, but what a waste on the part of Russia that such a brilliant, cultivated, devoted woman should be driven into exile because she loved her land and longed to see it free."

PLAYING THE GAME.

If it is true that a nation's battles are fought on its playgrounds, then it is a poor prospect for our wars of the future, if we can judge by the exhibitions we have recently had on Victorian football fields. It has been claimed for football that it is one of the finest of sports, because it teaches men to forget self and think only of the common good; because it develops quickness of thought and action, and discipline under strict rules. This was true, no doubt, in the days when the game was played for the sake of sport, and before money-making has begun its demoralising work; but the scenes so often enacted now upon football grounds cannot by any stretch of imagination be classed under the heading of sport. In his speech at the Royal Naval House last week, the Admiral laid his finger upon the very spot where the weakness lies in all modern games. There are too many onlookers; too few performers. Thousands of young men who go week after week to football and cricket matches, who sit and smoke and applaud the players, would probably call themselves "sportsmen"; but what sport is there in a young able-bodied man watching others play the games which he should be playing? Men who have themselves been active players in the past may be excused for becoming onlookers at the performances of their successors; but, as a rule, the veteran athletes are occupied in something else, and the big majority of spectators at any game are boys and men who have scarcely ever touched a bat or ball.

The Admiral said that if he were a legislator he would like to bring in a law to compel all spectators at football matches to be football players present or past; and we agree with him. For there is no surer sign of decadence in the men of a nation than the habit of paying someone else to play their games for them. Both physically and morally the degeneration works, for all the watching and applauding of another man's efforts will not develop your muscles, nor will the discipline and training to which another has to submit strengthen your character. A hungry man does not get much satisfaction from watching others banqueting, and yet there are thousands and thousands of people who try to appease their hunger for exercise and amusement by watching others at the feast. There is no nourishment in it, either for body or mind.

For the harm of being always an onlooker at games lies deeper than the muscles. The habit grows, and the man who always pays someone else to take his exercise for him acquires the fashion of depending on others for more serious things. Each time a man—or woman either—permits someone else to do for him what nature has intended him to do for himself, he loses some of his self-reliance, and weakens his moral fibre. And when he is satisfied, not only to depend upon others' efforts, but to submit to methods which are a disgrace to all, then his state is indeed a serious one.

"But," you may say, "what has that to do with us? It is not our fault if men prefer watching to playing games." Do you think not? Are you quite sure that you are not in any way to blame if our men are forgetting to play the game? Quite sure that the tendency to leave all effort to others did not have its beginning in the nursery in the days when you had the moulding of the clay? Are you quite certain that the outbursts of the temper, which your boy was never taught to control, have had no part in his present dislike to discipline? Are you quite satisfied that his present selfishness and disregard for others was never fostered by the way in which you and his sisters waited on him, hand and foot, and foretold his every need? You do not think that his power of initiation was weakened, because you smoothed and made all paths easy for him? If you are quite sure of all these things, then you are not to blame.

But in our heart of hearts do we not all know that we women are to blame? Our nation's battles are fought further back than the playgrounds; their fate is decided in the nursery. For the child who is taught the first elements of self-control and thought for others at his mother's knee is the boy who will "play the game" on the school ground, on the football field, on the battlefield, and in the political world; the child who is trained to depend on his own efforts, who is taught to act and think for himself, will not be the youth to let others play his games for him, nor the man to shelve his responsibilities, public or private, on to other people's shoulders. The child who is taught the meaning of justice and honour, who learns to "play the game" in his earliest years, will be the man in the years to come to be a credit to the mother who has borne him, and to the land which he calls home. Henry Newbolt's fine lines Vital Lampada (the Torch of Life) are known to many schoolboys, but they are worth repeating here, for they deserve a place in the literature of every girl and woman, too.

There's a breathless hush in the Close to-night—
Ten to make and the match to win,
A bumping pitch and a blinding light,
An hour to play, and the last man in.
And it's not for the sake of a ribboned coat,
Or the selfish hope of a season's fame,
But his captain's hand on his shoulder smote—
"Play up! play up! and play the game!"

The sand of the desert is sodden red,—
Red with the wreck of a square that broke;
The gatling's jammed and the colonel dead,
And the regiment blind with dust and smoke.
The river of death has brimmed his banks,
And England's far, and Honour a name,
But the voice of a schoolboy rallies the ranks:
"Play up! play up! and play the game!"

This is the word that year by year,
While in her place the School is set,
Every one of her sons must hear,
And none that hears it dare forget.
This they all with a joyful mind
Bear through life like a torch in flame,
And falling fling to the host behind:
"Play up! play up! and play the game!"

AMATEUR DOCTORING.

"Despite our much-prized educational system, it is only too true that the health of the young children in the country is daily jeopardised, and their lives endangered by the reckless administration of potent drugs, either obtained under the guise of patent medicines, or suggested in one or other of the popular periodicals," writes Dr. Field Hall, in the "Baby's World." "In either case they are recommended by people who have no acquaintance with the particular child who is going to be the victim, and frequently by a person who has little or no knowledge of what he is talking about. Advice is given broadcast on any and every subject, and only too often the adviser is quite unfit to prescribe for an ailing puppy dog or a sick chicken, even though the article may be headed in capitals, but without a name, 'By a Physician.' Certain papers have a column of free medical advice. All sorts and conditions of ailments are glibly advised upon merely on a written statement of symptoms by the patient. . . It is high time that a word of warning as to the folly—nay, the absolute danger—of this amateur doctoring, especially in the case of the children, is given. It is not putting the matter too strongly if one says that the custom of giving quack medicines to children is not merely dangerous, but positively wicked.

"Unfortunately, a large majority of otherwise sensible people are firmly convinced that they have a natural faculty or gift for treating diseases, and 'baby' is frequently their special bent. They are as certain that their method of treatment is correct as they are that their political views are the only ones to be universally adopted if the country is to be saved from immediate and irretrievable ruin.

"This class of person may think they know what is better for the good of the country than the Prime Minister and Cabinet combined, but the Government is not incommoded by the fact. When it comes to doctoring 'baby' harm may be done, and frequently is, done by injudicious administration of medicines not ordered by the regular family doctor, and the contents, uses, and doses of which are unknown to them."

ANGLICAN SYNOD.

QUINQUENNIAL GATHERING.

IMPRESSIVE OPENING SERVICE.

ARCHBISHOP OF MELBOURNE ON "INFALLIBILITY."

The general synod of the dioceses of Australia and Tasmania was opened yesterday with an impressive service in St. Andrew's Cathedral. The Primate presided, and a large number of bishops and clergy were present. The bishops, who were allotted seats within the sanctuary, were as follow:—Archbishop Clarke (Metropolitan of Victoria), Archbishop Donaldson (Metropolitan of Queensland), Bishop Camidge (Bathurst), Bishop Barlow (Goulburn), Bishop Green (Ballarat), Bishop Riley (Perth), Bishop Anderson (Riverina), Bishop Cooper (Grafton and Armidale), Bishop Stretch (Newcastle), Bishop Gilbert White (Carpentaria), Bishop Trower (North-west Australia), Bishop Armstrong (Wangaratta), Bishop Mercer (Tasmania), Bishop Frodsham (North Queensland), Bishop Goldsmith (Bunbury), Bishop Thomas (Adelaide), Bishop Langley (Bendigo), Bishop Halford (Rockhampton), and Bishop Sharp (New Guinea).

The procession was an imposing spectacle, the bishops wearing their robes, and each being preceded by his chaplain bearing his pastoral staff. There was a large attendance of worshippers. Choral communion was celebrated, the Primate being the celebrant. The music was a special feature of the communion service, and although the choir was not up to its full strength in point of numbers, the service was rendered throughout with a dignity and impressiveness suitable to such an important occasion. The service opened with a processional hymn, Alford, sung to a stirring tune by Sullivan, after which the 46th Psalm was chanted. The "Te Deum" was sung to Naylor's setting in A. After the prescribed prayers, the anthem, an Ave Verum by Sir Edward Elgar, "Jesu, Word of God Incarnate," was sung with marked devotional feeling. In the choral celebration the Kyrie was sung to Palestrina, and the Sanctus and Gloria in Excelsis to music specially composed by the cathedral organist. The prayer of consecration was followed by Stainer's "Sevenfold Amen." The beauty of the service was much enhanced by subdued music played by the organist during the administering of communion. There were many communicants. At the close of the service the hymn, "For all the saints who from their labours rest," was sung, and after the Benediction the procession of bishops, clergy, and choir left the cathedral in reverse order, the recessional hymn being "O God, our help in ages past."

THE SERMON.

The Archbishop of Melbourne in his sermon took as his text St. John xvi., 12, 13. "I have yet many things to say unto you, but ye cannot bear them now. Howbeit when he, the Spirit of truth, is come, he will guide you into all truth; for he shall not speak of himself; but whatsoever he shall hear, that shall he speak: and he will show you things to come.") In course of his remarks he said:—

"The constitution of the human mind is such that it cannot but submit to what it regards as authority. This was one note in the ministry of Christ which caused the common people to hear Him gladly. How, then, fares this natural demand at the hands of the Church of Christ? The Church of Rome has settled it for her members by declaring at the Vatican Council in 1870:—

> That the Roman Pontiff, when he speaks ex cathedra, that is, when in discharge of the office of pastor and teacher of all Christians, by virtue of his supreme Apostolic authority, he defines a doctrine regarding faith or morals to be held by the Universal Church, is, by the Divine assistance promised to him in Blessed Peter, possessed of that infallibility with which the Divine Redeemer willed that His Church should be endowed in defining doctrine regarding faith or morals; and that therefore such definitions of the Roman Pontiff are of themselves, and not from the consent of the Church, irreformable.

"The highest authorities in the Roman Church interpret this as limiting infallibility to doctrines regarding faith and morals, and excluding all else, but it sets aside as unnecessary the consent of the Church. The Greek Church holds to an infallibility, but lodges it in oecumenical councils, which do not define until they have received the universal witness and the consensus of Christian teaching. The council demands in the language of Vincent what is 'semper ubique et ab omnibus,' and finds in this testimony of universal acceptance the residuum of unalterable and infallible truth.

"By what authority do we teach? This is one of the most important questions before our Church in Australia to-day. Rationalism scoffs at our creeds, and declares that they fetter the free play of thought. A kindly but ill-informed public opinion asks if we cannot throw them overboard and lighten a burdened ship. Vain that we should spend our time in discussing postures and dress or give our whole energy to internal and domestic affairs when the fortress itself is assailed by an enemy which challenges us with the old question, 'By what authority doest Thou these things, and who gave Thee this authority?' Our answer requires us to investigate the three great fountains of authority to be found in the reason, the Church, and the Bible.

THE REASON.

"Our reason is a gift from God. He has so constituted us that He has never left Himself without witness in our hearts, and Bishop Butler rightly observes that the reason given us by God is the only power we possess of judging as to the truth of anything, even of revelation itself. In the sphere of the metaphysical the intellect gives infallible decisions. But man is not only a calculating machine. He is a moral agent. Love God with our mind we must, but to love Him with all the heart and soul and strength is a greater task. When men ask for a natural theology they must make it large enough to include the whole of man's nature, and of this the moral and religious reason, which is sometimes called conscience, is part.

"The moral reason will decide infallibility in given circumstances only upon the condition that we allow it to do so. For each of us but not for others the Holy Spirit will decide infallibility. The gift of the Spirit is offered to individuals. 'The Father will give the Holy Spirit to those who ask Him.' No one ever yet asked to be taught and guided by truth, prayed that his conscience might be illumined and his will subdued, prayed for all this humbly, sincerely, and obediently, without finding his prayer abundantly answered. The rule for most men is to act without very much reflection from habit or worldly maxims or their own wilful judgment, but if we exercise our conscience under the condition of our Lord, 'If any man will do the will of God he shall know of the doctrine whether it be of God,' we can receive infallible guidance in practical matters of our own religion and morals. God alone is the Lord of conscience, and He alone can command it. Laws of nature and reason, of civil and ecclesiastical authority, are binding upon men in so far as they are laws of God, and no further.

THE CHURCH.

"But says one, this is private judgment carried to its extremest limit. Be it so, but this does not prevent us from consulting and following the man who knows more of theology than we do, any more than the possession of civil and personal rights prevents us from consulting the lawyer about our property or the physician and surgeon about our body; and besides, Christ deals with us not only as individuals, but as members of His Church. It is the presence of the Holy Spirit in the heart of each member of the local community which creates and sustains a world-wide unity of a catholic Church. The presence and power of the Holy Spirit Christ promised to the end of time, and if anyone doubts the fulfilment of the promise, I point him to church history for an answer. What but the Holy Spirit of God could have kept alive the Church against the passions and sins, the wilfulness and pride, the indolence and unfaithfulness of sinful men? And this is the spirit which speaks to us in the Church with the voice of infallibility.

THE BIBLE.

"And so we come to the last great foundation of authority in the Holy Scriptures. 'God, who at sundry times and in divers manners spake in times past unto the prophets, hath in these last days spoken unto us by His Son.' I speak now of the New Testament only. The Apostles were promised that the Holy Spirit should bring all things to their remembrance, and the New Testament writings are in their last resort a record of Apostolic teaching, including that of St. Paul. The Reformation put these New Testament writings in the foreground as the supreme authority in faith and morals. 'In England since the Reformation the Bible has been not merely the religious guide but the religion of the people,' says Professor Swete; 'its authority has been undisputed; in all matters of which it treats it has been regarded as infallible.' It was inevitable that this belief should be challenged sooner or later.

NEW THEOLOGY.

"Another question under the title of 'New Theology' has arisen, but this deals not with the origin of the books, but with the doctrines taught in them, and this controversy has gone on from the very first, and will never end. On the religious use of the Bible amid every form of criticism, we may find rest for our minds in Professor Swete's acceptance of reverent criticism. 'We cannot hope (to retain the Bible as r religious guide) by a faithful endeavour to arrest the progress of spiritual inquiry, our aim must rather be to place the claim of the Bible upon a basis from which no legitimate criticisms can cast it down.'

THE RESULTS OF CRITICISM.

"The great obstacle to the intelligent understanding of the Old Testament is the orthodoxy of the unintelligent clergyman or layman. The conspiracy of silence for the sake of those who cannot or will not think themselves must come to an end.

"The question to be decided about the New Testament is, first, the authorship of the several parts. The theory of the last generation that the writings of the New Testament were the product of the second century, compiled after the original facts had been forgotten or disturbed, is no longer held by any sane criticism. A few points are still uncertain, but the great question of authorship is decided. The portions of the New Testament as we have them were written before the end of th first century. The Gospels were written by those whose names they bear. The Acts of the Apostles and the epistles of St. Paul and others are genuine contemporary documents. The subsidiary questions about the Johannine writings, as to the extent of some editing by a school of Ephesuss, which bears his name, about the authorship of II. St. Peter and St. Jude are of minor importance.

THE BASE OF AUTHORITY.

"If any one asks us then upon what we base our authority, we reply upon that faith which we know historically to have been taught by the Church from the beginning, which is enshrined and formulated in the creeds which were the ultimate conclusion of centuries of Christian thought, bearing witness to the teaching of the Universal Church, and proving its conclusions by the most certain warrant of Scripture. We acknowledge that the ultimate authority for each individual is his own reason and conscience. Nor can any one escape from this position, for if you establish the personal infallibility of an individual you require an act of conscious of unconscious reason to give your assent to him. The man who, for instance, accepts Papal infallibility does so by the exercise of his judgment, though this be chiefly influenced by an external authority which he already accepts, and you can oppose his conclusions only by showing that his reasons do not satisfy you. As for us, we surrender ourselves to the guidance of the Holy Spirit, under the twofold condition of the Bible, interpreted by the Church and the doctrines of the Church, corroborated by the written testimony of Scripture. The craving for infallibility, whilst it can be satisfied by an entire dependence upon the Holy Spirit, must take account of God's ways of teaching truth and of leading us into it."

MEETING OF SYNOD.

THE PRIMATE'S ADDRESS.

The General Synod met in the Chapter-house of St. Andrew's Cathedral at 3 p.m., under the presidency of the Primate, who, in the course of his inaugural address, said:—

"It is with a profound sense of overwhelming responsibility that I find myself called to this primatial chair by my episcopal brethren of the Australian Bench. But the ultimate choice having been made after earnest prayer for God's guidance throughout our dioceses, I feel confidence in the belief that the call is from God, and that therefore I shall be endued with all the needful gifts. None is more conscious than I myself of my limitations. In experience of Australia I have everything to learn from others. But this I can promise, that I bring to the task a love of the work laid upon me, and shall devote my utmost endeavours to its discharge; and in my office as Primate I shall set myself loyally and impartially to carry out the desires of the Church so far as lies in my power.

"As regards my charge I am bound to ask your indulgence. I am ignorant of many conditions of Australian churchmanship and Australian life. Some of the problems familiar to you are novel to me. I cannot hope to do more than allude to topics which the idea of a General Synod suggests. We meet in a new reign. In your name I sent a message expressive of our deep sorrow at the death of King Edward VII. The profound grief at his sudden removal felt in every section of the Commonwealth was, we believe, a spiritual force that will have its outcome for good. As General Synod we must pay our tribute to the honoured memory of the late Primate, the Most Rev. W. Saumarez Smith. It fell to his lot to preside over three General Synods. His masterly charges are remembered, his massive learning, his devotion to duty, his innate fairness of judgment, above all, his sterling integrity; nor will his kindliness of heart and his example of simple Christian piety ever be forgotten by those admitted to the intimacies of his home life. We should also wish to express our grateful thanks to our senior Bishop, the Right Rev. C. E. Camidge, Bishop of Bathurst, for his devoted service as Acting Primate. . . . Several changes have occurred since last General Synod. In addition to the vacancy in this see of Sydney we have lost either by death or resignation the honoured bishops who presided over the sees of Adelaide, Newcastle, Bendigo, Rockhampton, and New Guinea. I give the list in the order of voidance of see. Their successors are with us to-day. In addition a new diocese has been formed in North-west Australia through the persevering efforts of the Bishop of Perth; and Dr. Trower, who made so many friends during his ministry in Sydney before his consecration to Likoma, returns from Africa to undertake the arduous charge of this new see. (Applause.)

CHURCH GOVERNMENT.

"It is difficult to over-estimate the importance of our own system of synodical government, by which laymen take their share in the deliberations of the Church alongside the bishops and clergy. It is a return to the custom of the apostolic and primitive Church, for which we are indebted to the courageous lead set by the American Church in 1784. It is eminently well suited to the full, free life of our Australian churchmanship, and ought to deepen in our laymen the sense of obligation laid upon them by their heritage.

"A General Synod of the dioceses in Australia and Tasmania was constituted in 1872. The Church in Australia of the day probably little realised the significance of the beginning then made by those 10 dioceses which covered the vast areas of our continent. But we may claim that the Church was helping to shape the State, just as it happened centuries before in England when Theodore, Archbishop of Canterbury, banded together the churchmen of the Heptarchy, thereby fostering the national idea that eventuated in the English crown. The union of Australian churchmen from different States in Australian General Synod was, at any rate, if no more, an opportunity for the development of Australian sympathy and Australian unity, such as took concrete shape 28 years later in the foundation of the Commonwealth. The day must come when what is now termed the General Synod of the dioceses in Australia and Tasmania will become the General Synod of the Church of Australia, and then, or in connection with that time, no doubt, General Synod will receive far larger plenary powers than at present, guided and perhaps warned by the constitutional history of the Church of Canada and the Church of South Africa. Yet I would venture to plead for the utmost deliberation of approach to any such revision of constitution. Revision cannot be otherwise than slow. South Africa is a warning of the perils of reckless haste. We have special call to postpone final decisions because our community is largely in a state of flux, and no one knows how population will be distributed. . . One necessary reform would appear to be that representation should be based to a degree that does not at present hold, proportionately on the strength of each diocese. With the multiplication of dioceses manned by few clergy, this change becomes essential; otherwise there is the danger lest decisions carried by a coalition of such dioceses, with few laity and fewer clergy, and as such tending to become set in one mould, may misrepresent the solid opinion of the Church. Another precedent condition would be agreement as to the constitution of the final court o fappeal. Yet another essential condition would be that each diocese be still left free to choose its own policy on many questions. We must not overlook the fact that our conditions here are unique. Our General Synod represents nothing less than a continent, with widely-varied problems in each diocese; variety of use is more tolerable than it would be in England, and in some respects such liberty is a sine qua non.

"Anyhow, we need a due sense of proportion. It would be lamentable if any hasty legislation compelled some dioceses to withdraw from General Synod, and so mar that impressive and suggestive spectacle of a Church for a continent, a national organisation corresponding to the national idea. Since the circumstances of the Church in Australia stand without exact parallel in the Anglican Communion, we cannot argue from other branches of that communion to ourselves. The closest tie, I should think, would be between dioceses of a province. The functions of the provincial synods will probably grow in importance as the years go by. Perchance it is our destiny to show to the world the spectacle of a strong provincial organisation, each province with its own individuality, yet subordinated in conception and actuality to the central idea of the Church of Australia and its General Synod. The years will bring their tale. Animated, as we surely are, by the one desire to further the purpose of God, the frank expression of these divergences, so far from causing any disunion, will itself weld us together, as nothing mechanical ever could, into one body, and thus our individual opinions and separate forces will come to have, as their resultant, a divinely-guided corporate power.

TRAINING OF CLERGY.

"One most important matter that we cannot afford to leave out of sight is the question of the supply and training of ordination candidates. It is a truism that the efficiency of a Church depends upon the efficiency of her clergy, and clerical effectiveness is produced by professional training, aptitude, and, of course, vocation. In a new country it is difficult to secure the right men, and it is harder to train them. We ought surely to be able to help each other here. We have done much by the splendid achievement of the Australian College of Theology. Is there any reason why we should not eventually provide a common bursary fund? Ought we not to take steps to encourage candidates to secure a degree at one of our Universities? Can we not act more in concert in developing the idea of vocation amongst our schoolboys? Is it quite chimerical to hope to secure an adequate stipend for all our beneficed clergy?

CHURCH INSURANCE.

"Legislation has, I understand, been provided to secure a system of clerical superannuation. It is to be hoped that eventually we shall concentrate everything into one fund open to the whole Church, and as such likely to draw benefactions from far-sighted Churchmen who know to what extent supply of clergy as well as effective work depends upon provision for retirement being certain and adequate. Similar benefactions might enable the start of an insurance society of our own, in which we could insure our buildings for our own benefit as a Church. Every year we are adding to the profits of insurance companies money that might with advantage help the coffers of the diocesan fund in our several dioceses. It would also strengthen the hands of many churchwardens if we could arrive at some common method of parochial finance.

CALL FOR MISSIONARIES.

"Another important claim that we must recognise in common as a Church is the missionary call, our responsibility for extending our Master's kingdom. Our first objective should be the races brought into touch with our national and commercial life, a wide field, Australia and the regions beyond. Undoubtedly foreign missionary work is the primary work of the Church, and should be kept as such. We cannot expect any vigour of enterprise unless we have an outlook as wide as that of the Christ. (Applause.)

"General Synod apparently formed the Australian Board of Missions largely according to the second plan in 1872, and then in some measure tacitly transformed its operations in 1886, when General Synod, by resolution, undertook to send a mission to New Guinea, and the effect of the transformation was that the Church became to some extent its own missionary society, managing certain missions directly. It cannot be said that the method has been as yet a conspicuous success. Failure may be due either to fault of administration or to defect in conception. But the fact remains that in July, 1909, the Australian Board of Missions was £5000 in debt, and although this debt has been liquidated by the emergency fund, raised upon the splendid initiative of the Archbishop of Brisbane—(applause)—still at the present rate of income and expenditure the Australian Board of Missions will be about £3000 in debt again at the close of another twelve months. The position is one that calls for the most cautious consideration and choice of policy for the next five years.

Dr. Wright said one point that should be at least discussed was whether the plan of administering missions directly by the Church was really effective. They could not ignore the elementary facts of human nature, and the truth remained that a man gave more when he could control the disposal of his gifts. Continuing, he said, "For myself, though I may be wrong, I cannot avoid the belief that if, for example, the missionary work among the aborigines were done by a committee responsible for raising the money and for spending it, and for guaranteeing the overdraft, more money would be raised for the purpose than is obtained at present, and the committee would not permit outlay to be incurred for which money was not likely to be forthcoming. However, the chief matter of practical moment is to decide what we must do now. Ought we to raise, at once, a guarantee fund, so that the missionary work associated with the Australian Board of Missions may continue as at present? This would make it imperative either to increase the regular income or ruthlessly to reduce the expenditure, else the last state would be worse than the first if the guarantors had to pay. Or else ought we to readjust the basis of our position altogether? The one thing impossible to us is to leave things as things are. But missionary effort is only one of many departments of Church life in which we need the concentration of energy secured by General Synod.

SOCIAL PROBLEMS.

"It is as General Synod that we can bring most strength to bear upon social problems. We have them always with us, if we are true to our work of ministry. All that concerns national morality, conditions of housing, conditions of employment that are adverse to family life, the keeping of Sunday, such are some of the many topics upon which from time to time we may have to make a pronouncement; and the expression of opinion from such a synod as this cannot fail to carry greater weight than would attach to the utterance of a smaller body. May I express, in passing, our congratulations to the province of Queensland upon their success in the education referendum, and our hope that this victory may be the precursor of similar success elsewhere. (Applause.)

"In conclusion may I venture to suggest that we remind ourselves that the task set us by God far transcends any considerations of temporary policy or immediate success. We are entrusted with the charge of building up, with others, the spiritual kingdom of our Master in this glorious continent, with its immense and unknown possibilities. We believe that God is shaping here a people for Himself. He has a purpose intended for the great nation that here has its beginnings. To us is committed the spiritual care of so large a section of the community that upon our fidelity to our trust immense issues hang. May the Spirit of God so fulfil us that no matter how intense at times may be our sense of divergence of view, there may yet be in our discussions nothing acrimonious, nothing uncharitable, nothing that in retrospect we should regret. The crusade is too lofty, the call of opportunity is too urgent. Australia is the guerdon in front of us—Australia for God! Therefore, in the passionate phrase of one who loved this land:—

> Oh! tho' we grope and blunder, the trend of our aim is true;
> Oh! there is death in dalliance, whilst yet there is work to do;
> Till the land that lies like a giant asleep, shall wake to the victory won,
> And the eyes of the Master Worker shall see that His work is done.

GENERAL BUSINESS.

A motion was carried expressing the regret with which members had learned of the death of the late Primate, Dr. Saumarez Smith, D.D., and of the great loss the Church at large had thereby sustained. A similar motion was carried with reference to the death of Right Rev. Alfred Barry, D.D., D.C.L., formerly Bishop of Sydney and Primate. Members carried the resolutions by standing in their places.

On the motion of the Bishop of Perth, a committee was appointed to obtain legal opinion and report to synod with regard to various determinations that the diocese of Sydney had reported as impossible of acceptance. He explained that at the last General Synod certain determinations had been passed, but the diocese of Sydney had reported that by their constitution they were not allowed to accept them.

The Bishop of Perth gave notice of a motion to appoint a committee to watch for, and if possible take advantage of, any opportunity which might be offered for further conference with other religious bodies with a view to a better understanding of our mutual position and the furtherance of union among Christians.

Canon Tomlin gave notice that he would move—"That this synod appreciates the noble efforts now being made by the Chinese Government to curb the vice of opium-smoking in China, and respectfully urges his Majesty's Government to put an immediate stop, at all costs, to the opium traffic, and asks his Grace the Primate to transmit this resolution to the right quarter."

The report from the board of directors of the Australian Clergy Provident Fund was received. It set out that the fund was financially sound.

The Bishop of Ballarat moved,—"That, in order to encourage suitable Australian candidates for the ministry, it is desirable that an ordination candidates' fund should be formed, applicable to the whole Commonwealth, and more especially intended to assist approved students by way of loan; and that the Metropolitans be respectfully requested to take such steps in this matter as to them may seem expedient."

Bishop Langley (Bendigo) seconded the motion. He would like to see Australian young men taking their degrees at the Australian Universities. The Archbishop of Queensland cordially supported the motion, which was carried.

THE WORD "CATHOLIC."

Dr. Leeper moved,—"That this synod place on record its emphatic disapproval of the practice too prevalent, even among Anglicans, of applying the word "Catholic" exclusively to the members of the religious denomination which acknowledges the supremacy of the Bishop of Rome; and that the synod would earnestly remind all Anglicans that such use by them of the term in question is inconsistent with well-established historical fact, involves a surrender of a vital principle, and inflicts a grievous wrong upon the Church of their baptism by implying that it is a 'non-Catholic' and schismatical body." He said that for a long time the term Roman Catholic was acceptable to the adherents of the Church of Rome, but of late that term was becoming objectionable to them. The Roman Catholics now wished to monopolise the term Catholic.

Canon Archdall seconded the resolution. He had always challenged the misuse of the word.

The motion was carried.

THE CHURCH AND NATIONAL IDEALS.

A motion by Mr. L. V. Biggs was in his absence, moved by Canon Long.—"That in the opinion of the general synod the closer identification of the administrative and other machinery of the Anglican Church in this land with the social and national aspirations of the young Australian Commonwealth is to be desired."

Mr. L. E. Groom, M.P., said he had had conversations with Mr. Biggs, and he (Mr. Groom) confessed that the ideals of Mr. Biggs were those he found himself in favour of. If the Church of England was to be a Church power in Australia that Church should be expressive of the national life of the people of this continent.

Canon Crozier suggested the insertion of the word "highest" before the word ideals. This was agreed to.

The Bishop of Carpentaria said he was quite in sympathy with the motion as amended.

Canon Archdall opposed the motion. The social aspirations of a majority of the Australian people did not admit of the principle of authority and the subordination of self. Socialism was the dominant feeling. This resolution was going in the wrong direction.

The Bishop of Perth said it was a serious question for the Church that the workers of Australia were not to be found in the churches. They, unfortunately, felt that the Church was out of sympathy with their aspirations. That was a serious charge to bring against the Church. He was very glad the debate took place, as it would show that the Church was willing to help those who were trying to make Australia a land worth living in.

Mr. Kemp said the resolution was vague. The Commonwealth Government's aspirations were socialistic, and some of its principles he would be very sorry to see an assembly such as synod commit itself to.

Bishop Frodsham said Canon Archdall was rather barking up the wrong tree. They were not asking support for socialism, but for the highest ideals and national aspirations.

The Bishop of Melbourne said he wished it to go forth from that synod that they were not out of sympathy with the highest national ideals and aspirations of the people, but that the Church had sympathy with their best desires. (Applause.)

Archdeacon Boyce reminded the synod that the idea of old-age pensions originated with a Church of England clergyman. So did the scheme of invalid pensions. The local option flag in Australia was first raised by a Church of England clergyman.

Bishop Mercer (Tasmania) said Australia was divided politically into two sections, and within one of those sections the Church was little known. What they wanted to do was to get hold of the men of the nation.

The motion, as amended, was carried.

A motion commending the work of the Church of England Men's Society was carried.

A motion by Archdeacon Boyce, with reference to a federation of the Anglican Church of the world, was negatived.

The synod rose until this afternoon.

COUNTRY NEWS.

SOUTH COAST.

CLIFTON, Tuesday.

At the meeting of the Illawarra Cottage Hospital committee last night it was decided to if possible acquire an additional half-acre of land adjoining that which has generously been presented for a site, measuring about two acres.

Since the opening of the Coal Cliff Company's new colliery quite a number of miners and others have presented themselves for employment; not that those asking for work are unemployed, but they are desirous of changing from one colliery to another where conditions are more favourable. Work at this colliery has been continuous since the first coal was despatched on Tuesday last, and some 100 miners are now engaged.

All the interest in the forthcoming election on Friday is centred in the local option vote, which promises to be a strong one in favour of no-license.

WATER SUPPLY.

WOLLONGONG, Tuesday.

A letter has been received by the Wollongong Council from the Water and Sewerage Board granting a full supply of water, amounting to 21,000 gallons per annum, for the use of the market square flower beds.

Work at the Fishlock's dam, Cordeaux River, is proceeding rapidly, and it is thought that water will be available for reticulation from it shortly after Christmas. The main pipes are now laid as far as Corrimal, and this work is being rapidly pushed on. There will be no less than eight distributing reservoirs erected in convenient centres.

BROKEN HILL COMPETITIONS.

BROKEN HILL, Tuesday.

The A.N.A. annual competitions have concluded, after 10 days' strenuous work on the part of both competitors and judges. Herr Sauea (music) and Mr. Anderson (elocution) both give high praise to the quality of the competitions.

THE CHURCHES.

WELLINGTON, Tuesday.

The annual social in aid of the Church of England resulted in a profit of £34 3s 4d.

Pastor Rixon, of Armidale, has been appointed assistant pastor to the Wellington Baptist Church.

BURROWA, Tuesday.

Two deaths occurred in the district last week. Mrs. John Mewburn, who died at Rugby, was born in England 84 years ago, and arrived in Sydney when 10 years old. She leaves eight children, 83 grandchildren, 89 great-grandchildren, and one great-great-grandchild.

Mr. Wm. Roche, of Glengarry Station, at Reid's Flat, was seized suddenly with what he thought was lumbago, but turned out to be spinal meningitis. He was 62 years of age.

BELLINGEN, Tuesday.

A very old resident, Mr. Joseph Kemp, aged 78, died here yesterday. He was one of the Dorrigo pioneers, being engaged cedar-getting there many years ago. He married on this river 28 years ago, but his wife predeceased him by two years. There are no children.

COBAR, Tuesday.

Eight-hour Day was celebrated on Monday, and sports, consisting of pony races and athletic events, were held. The weather was bitterly cold, a southerly buster blowing all day. About two thousand persons attended the sports.

COOMA, Tuesday.

The new Anglican church at Berridale has been completed.

Residents of Kyloe have decided to form a progress association.

It is believed that the success of lambing in this district will be minimised by the prolonged cold weather.

CASINO, Tuesday.

Professor Watt, of the Sydney University Extension Board, arrived to-day, and was met by the officers of the local Agricultural Bureau. He was driven round the district this afternoon, and to-night lectured on the food of plants.

COROWA, Tuesday.

The members of the Loyal Border Lodge celebrated the centenary of the Manchester Unity by a procession, headed by the local band, through the main street, followed by a banquet. The toast of the Manchester Unity, which was proposed by Mr. J. P. Buggy, was acknowledged by Bros. J. P. Taylor and J. Chivell.

HARDEN, Tuesday.

The Harden railway employees' amalgamated twentieth picnic was held at Young on Monday, and notwithstanding the inclement weather was largely attended. A successful social in connection with the same was held in the Mechanics' Institute at night.

SINGLETON, Tuesday.

Dr. Woolnough delivered a University extension lecture on Monday night, the subject being "A Further Study of the Geology of the Hunter River Basin."

WAGGA, Tuesday.

At the Wagga Police Court a Chinese named Jimmy Lin Houng was charged with being in possession of a quantity of opium without having the necessary certificate to deal under the Poisons Act, and Ah Non was charged with smoking the drug. The case was the outcome of a raid on premises in the Chinese quarters by the police on Sunday, September 18. Lin Houng was fined £6 and costs, or two months; and Ah Non £3, or one month.

The death has occurred of Mrs. William Warran, a resident of 35 years, at the age of 74. She was the mother of 16 children, and leaves 22 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

WELLINGTON, Tuesday.

As a result of representations by the Geurie Farmers and Settlers' Association a through mail-bag is now being exchanged between Geurie and Sydney. Formerly a lot of Sydney letters were carried on to Dubbo and returned to Geurie at night, causing much delay and vexation to business people.

A telephone line between Dunoon and The Channon is ready for service.

BOOT TRADE JUDGMENT.

CUMBERSOME FEDERAL MACHINERY.

PROJECTED STATE LEGISLATION.

THE PREMIER'S COMMENT.

"The decision of the High Court that the common rule is invalid under the Federal Arbitration Act is a very strong confirmation of the cumbrousness of any machinery in the nature of arbitration," said the Premier yesterday. "Under the State Arbitration Act of 1901 it was found that the machinery was very costly, and the procedure distressingly slow, and when an award had been made it was nearly always riddled by prohibition from a Supreme Court. The Act became unpopular both with employers and employees; and it was to remedy these defects that my Government passed the Industrial Disputes Act of 1908.

EFFICACY OF INDUSTRIAL DISPUTES ACT.

"The efficacy of this Act is shown by over 100 awards in two years and two months, as against 39 during three years under the old Act. But the great improvement lies in the fact that there is no case where an award has been interfered with or damaged by a prohibition from a superior Court. Finality is obtained quickly at a minimum cost.

MR. M'GOWEN WOULD REPEAL.

"Yet Mr. M'Gowen wants to repeal this Act; and without pointing out in what respects it is deficient. The Federal Arbitration Act is largely on the lines of the old Act of this State. It involved procedure before a judicial officer, and is surrounded with all those dangers of legal attack which made the old Arbitration Act intolerable. The boot employees obtained an award under our State laws, in the early part of last year, and asked for an increase of wages. Objection was raised by the employers that even under existing conditions the Victorian manufacturer was able to complete unfairly, when the wage for journeymen was the same, but to raise the New South Wales wage higher without some check on Victorian competition would be disastrous to the industry here. Judge Heydon made an award fixing a certain wage, and providing for an increase in the event of the Victorian wage being raised.

THE DIFFERENCE IN COST.

"The Government recognised the unfair position New South Wales manufacturers were placed in, because they were governed by a trade custom which limited apprentices, whereas in Victoria that point was left at large. The result was that while the journeyman's wage was the same in both States the Victorian boot was turned out largely by the employment of the apprentices, while the New South Wales boot was made on the journeyman's wage.

AGREEMENT AMONG THE PREMIERS.

"At the Premiers' Conference last year it was agreed that the industrial machinery should be made uniform throughout the States; secondly, that conditions which appeared unfair in State competition should be removed; and, thirdly, that some general tribunal should be established which would have the power to investigate unfair State competition, and make the award binding on the States. Had this scheme been carried into effect by the State Parliaments the difficulty which stood in the way of a higher increase in New South Wales would have been removed, and the trade would have been governed by the simple, expedient, and inexpensive methods of the Industrial Disputes Act.

LABOUR PARTY'S OPPOSITION.

"I introduced a bill last session to give effect to these proposals. It was vigorously opposed by the Labour party, and owing to the approach of the conclusion of the session it had to be dropped. The boot trade went to the Federal Court, with the result that the matter has been prolonged for 12 months. They have had to face three long and expensive arguments on the point of jurisdiction, and they now find that the award must be applied to the parties before the Court, and can't apply as a common rule, as it does under the State statutes.

PROJECTED LEGISLATION.

"In view of this position, we will again make an effort next session to introduce machinery which will prevent the unfair competition, and enable the shortcomings of the Federal Act to be made good.

"This experience only shows the unwise policy of the workmen putting all their eggs in one basket, and trusting to the Commonwealth Parliament to pull them through. Whatever may be the changes made by the alteration of the Constitution Federal laws must always be liable to attack in the Courts on the question of jurisdiction. Yet in view of this warning the unificationists in the Commonwealth Parliament want to wipe out all State powers in industrial matters, and vest them in the Commonwealth. After all this loss of time and waste of money, it will be necessary to again appeal to the much-despised boards of the Wade Government to enable the common rule to be extended to all parts of the trade."

"AMENDMENT URGENTLY NECESSARY."

COMMON RULE MUST BE OBTAINED.

Mr. Hughes, the Acting Prime Minister, said he had seen the report in the press of the judgment, and he understood that the Court have decided that Parliament had not power under the Constitution to make a common rule. This would mean that an almost impossible position had been created. It would appear that they had power to make laws for conciliation and arbitration for the prevention of industrial disputes, but that there was no power to make laws to enforce an award upon those not parties to the dispute.

As there never had been, as far as he knew, and never could be (until the last employer was embraced in a combine or trust of some sort), a case where every employer was involved at the same time in the same dispute, it followed that, while technically there was the right to make laws to settle disputes by arbitration, really there was no such power at all; or, rather, that the exercise of that power took them to the point of creating a condition provocative of another dispute by an award made for the purpose of the settling of an existing one. This was a truly amazing state of affairs, inconsistent with that very power in relation to industrial disputes which it was always thought the Commonwealth possessed. They could only accept the position as laid down by the Court, which was that, strictly speaking, they had not the power to do that without which their power under the Constitution was a mere sham. It was true that there might be some cases without a common rule in which an award would be of some service. In the very nature of things these, however, were few, and the attempt of the Court to deal even with these must be hampered by the fact that an award which bound some and allowed others to go unhampered was opposed to our ideas of justice. The common rule was the inevitable corollary of compulsory arbitration, and now that the Court said there was no power to make a common rule nothing remained but to ask the people to give that power in plain terms. This one of the bills now on the table providing for a referendum would do.

"This judgment emphasises in the most positive way the extreme urgency for an amendment," said the Acting Prime Minister in conclusion.

ISSUES FOR THE WAGES BOARDS.

Mr. Leriden, president of the Boot Manufacturers' Association of this State, said yesterday: "It is not the manufacturers of New South Wales who opposed the granting of a common rule. In fact, we wanted a common rule to apply to all States alike. It was some 24 of the manufacturers of Victoria and Tasmania that appealed to the Full Court, on the grounds that the common rule was not legal under the Constitution. Of course, now it will be left to each State to have the Federal Arbitration Court award adopted by the local wages board. Thus each State, while working in harmony as far as the award is concerned, will move on its own account; and that will again raise the question of apprentices in Victoria. The manufacturers there will be able under their Apprentice Act to employ more apprentices per man in Melbourne than we shall in Sydney; and in that way the Victorian trade will get an advantage over this State. However, it will now rest for the wages board of this State to meet and apply the Federal award all round, and generally to fix matters up."

EMPLOYEES' POSITION.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

Mr. A. Long, general secretary of the Boot Trade Employees' Federation and president of the Trades Hall Council, in commenting on the judgment of the High Court to-day, said: "The decision does not affect the situation very materially, as the employers in Victoria, New South Wales, Queensland, and South Australia have agreed to use their influence to get Mr. Justice Higgins's award adopted by the various State wages boards. Western Australia has already obtained the conditions of Mr. Justice Higgins's award, through the State Court. There are no wages boards in Tasmania, but we are hoping that they will be provided very soon. Wages have already been fixed in Victoria and Queensland in accordance with the Federal award. It was to bring into line all manufacturers with the least trouble possible that we applied for the common rule. Now we shall have to depend on the wages boards giving effect to Mr. Justice Higgins' award."

NO-LICENSE CAMPAIGN.

Archdeacon Boyce, president of the New South Wales Alliance, makes the following statement:—

The local option voting has nothing whatever to do with the Parliamentary candidates. I do not think it a proper question to put to a candidate as to how the is going to vote as to the liquor bars, as the whole matter is removed from the sphere of Parliament, and relegated, shunted off, to the people themselves. It is purely a private matter for the candidate as to how he is going to vote, not in Parliament, but outside Parliament, in the local option poll.

I again refer to this point, as persons are trying to side-track and confuse matters. They are doing it for party purposes or publicans, and others think that they can prevent the clear and direct vote as to the bars that local option permits. To put it briefly, I do not think that we have anything to do with how Mr. Wade or Mr. M'Gowen will vote on the local option poll. It is only for the sake of convenience that that poll is on the same day as the Parliamentary elections.

It has been said that clubs would, for the rich man, neutralise no-license if carried. There are, however, 79 electorates in New South Wales without any exempted clubs whatever. There are only 41 exempted clubs, and 14 of these are in one electorate, the King division, and are mainly residential. Of the rest they are chiefly sporting clubs, which can only open at certain times, and must be very limited in their action. If there are any clubs in the 70 electorates referred to they are subject to the local option vote just the same as a publican's license is, and a wine shop is. No doubt, it is a weakness in the law to have even one exempted club, but the trouble is such a small one that it is scarcely worth considering at this juncture. I mention it because by a picture in front of many public-houses the club business is made the most of, and is most unfairly and very grossly exaggerated.

I think everyone should admire the patriotic and strenuous, unselfish work for no-license that is proceeding to-day all over the State. The hundreds of men and women vigorously canvassing and in other ways using actively, without fee or reward, their personal influence against the bars, is a wonderfully happy feature of this great struggle. They are certainly working for God, home, and country.

The following statement shows no-license and prohibition progress in the United States, 1904 to 1908:—

State.	Number of No-license Areas in 1904.	Number of No-license Areas in 1908.

NEW ZEALAND'S MINISTER FOR JUSTICE.

DECLARES NO-LICENSE A SUCCESS.

Advocates of continuance have made great use of a statement made by Mr. V. G. Day, of New Zealand, who stated that no-license was a failure. With a view to ascertaining whether Mr. Day's pronouncement was true or not, the Attorney-General of New Zealand called for reports from the police inspectors. A synopsis of these reports was published in the "Herald" on Friday last. On Saturday another synopsis of the reports, as cabled across to Mr. Edwin Stooke, the secretary of the Hotelkeepers' Union, was published in one of the Sydney dailies. There was such a difference in the two accounts of the same reports that the secretary of the New South Wales Alliance cabled for further information. The following cablegram was received yesterday in reply:—"It is untrue that the reports of inspectors Ellison and Mitchell are adverse to no-license. On the contrary, the substance of their replies is greatly in favour of the advantages of no-license over license as regards the temptations to drink. I may add that, with the exception of Inspector Kiely, all the inspectors of police in New Zealand report substantially in favour of no-license from the point of view of law and order.—J. G. Findlay, Minister of Justice."

DEMONSTRATION AT KOGARAH.

A great children's demonstration in favour of no-license was held at Kogarah on Saturday. Scholars from various Sunday schools in the electorate marched through the town to the Kogarah Park. They carried banners bearing appeals from the children for a no-license vote. A large crowd assembled in the park, and addresses were given by the Rev. J. A. Waddell (Methodist Minister of Kogarah), Mrs. Touchell, Rev. F. C. Boyer, and the Presbyterian Minister of Arncliffe. The Rev. H. T. Holiday (Church of England) presided. On Saturday evening about 800 people assembled in the main street to hear Mr. Arthur Toombes (organising secretary of the no-license campaign in the St. George electorate) lecture on "The Success of No-license in New Zealand." The lecture was illustrated by lantern views, and was well received.

ATTITUDE OF ROMAN CATHOLIC CHURCH.

BROKEN HILL, Tuesday.

A children's demonstration in favour of no-license was held on Sunday afternoon. Despite stormy weather a long procession, promoted by the Rev. Mr. Schafer and the Rev. J. Patterson, paraded the chief streets, and addresses were afterwards delivered in the Central Reserve. Special no-license sermons were also delivered in all the evangelical churches.

A sectarian dispute has arisen through the Rev. Mr. Schafer saying that the Roman Catholic Church in Broken Hill is with the no-license party, and through members of the temperance party distributing no-license literature on the steps of the Cathedral on Sunday. The Rev. Father Killian, administrator of the diocese, says that the Roman Catholic Church is remaining quite neutral, and that members of the Church must exercise their individual opinions.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I have with interest followed the various letters appearing in your valued paper for and against the consumption of liquor. Your correspondent, Mr. V. R. Gosche, is to be commended on the able manner in which he championed the wine trade, but the reply of Mr. James is absurd and foolish, as well as misleading to the general public who know little or nothing as regards wine, i.e., its production, value as a beverage, etc. It would take up too much time and space to go fully into this matter. Suffice it to say that anyone with a little knowledge of the wine industry in all its branches will at once see how much or little Mr. James knows about it. He says "Wine is not the natural product of the vine, neither is it the pure juice of the grape; but it is the juice of the grape, plus sundry and divers other things," etc. Now, I have been in the business for over 25 years, and am still ignorant of these sundry and divers other things of which Mr. James seems to have obtained such an expert knowledge 60 years ago in an adjoining State. Mr. James is at least candid in owning up that he has been an adulterator. I have made from 12,000 to 30,000 gallons of wine a season, and can prove that absolutely nothing was added to the wine in any shape or form excepting the various articles in use for fineing, such as Spanish clay, gelatine, etc, which are absolutely harmless. I may add that I came from the largest wine-producing district in Australia, Barossa, the home of the grape vine in South Australia, where such wine cellars as B. Seppelt and Sons, Chateau Tanunda, S. Smith and Sons, and several others exist, and where the wine and brandy are made absolutely of the pure juice of the grape under Government supervision. If Mr. James is not satisfied, I would advise him to visit these places, which, no doubt, would prove an eye-opener to him and many others. I am now coming to the most absurd and foolish part of your correspondent's letter, where he states that the owners of vineyards will have a magnificent opportunity to supply the markets with table grapes, currants, or raisins. Now, as wine grapes are absolutely unfit for either table use, currants, or raisins, I should be happy if Mr. James would inform me how he would dispose of them. Take, for instance, the Barossa district alone, with its 10,000 tons or more of wine grapes and the £30,000 or more that the vignerons receive yearly for their grapes (many wholly depend on their grape crop as a means of living). What is to become of all these growers? Mr. James advises grafting currants and raisins. Let me inform him that these do not thrive everywhere. He tries to make out that it was done largely in South Australia last year. I was done largely in South Australia, as it has only been am in a position to know better, as it has only been done in a few favoured spots, and only because there was more money in it, and not because of the no-license fad. As to planting citrus fruits and almonds, citrus fruits at the present time are fetching 1s to 1s 6d a gincase (a magnificent opportunity for the vignerons), and almonds the same. Even were it possible to convert vineyards into orchards, as Mr. James suggests, it would take years to make a living out of it. It would be on a par with an old parson being apprenticed to a blacksmith or saddler; but I suppose he thinks that vignerons in the meantime could live on water, Mr. James's national beverage, and which appears to have come somewhat on his brain.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Kindly allow me space in your valuable paper to point out to both Liberal and Labour electors that those who vote no-license under the impression that they are doing good for the community, must beware of the encouragement given to the class of people who will not be content with carrying no-license, but will further insist on the stoppage of trams and trains on Sundays. This is not a conjecture, but a fact, in keeping with the general policy of many no-license and prohibitionists of this State. If the no-license people have their way in everything political, this country would be one of the best in the world—to live out of. Has the sport-loving instinct of the community of this State caused retrogression? If so, why does this comparatively young city rank so high in the world of commerce. Would it, on the other hand, have progressed half as rapidly had the country been made to bow beneath the yoke of sham piety and prohibition? The surf-bathers and other pleasure-seekers, if they encourage the no-license people by voting again reduction or no license, then it will only be a short time before the same party will exert itself to make surfing and any other legitimate amusements a crime.

How ever electors vote, whether for the Liberals or for Labour, they should make no mistake about encouraging the suppression of legitimate sport, by voting in the interests of the no-license party. I am a Liberal as far as my support of the Government policy is concerned, but I shall vote dead against the no-license party, who are only a society which aims at the abolition of all true sport and the curtailment of all the manly instincts which the people of this State are remarkable for.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Though interested in the sale of hotel beverages, I am not one of those who believe that the majority of those opposing the liquor trade have not commendable motives urging them to action in this matter. It is because I am convinced they have that I would ask them why, if they believe that the closing of hotels is for the public weal, they are opposed to compensating those whom they would deprive of their living? As there is a very large revenue derived from the liquor trade, why do not those who believe in closing hotels agree that a portion of this revenue should be devoted to fairly buying out the landlords and tenants of houses proposed to be closed? If this plan were adopted the alleged evil of the liquor trade would be gradually but surely eliminated, and that with justice, at least, to those who embarked their capital in the houses closed.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I have been reading in all the daily papers where some men are writing strongly for the continuance of license. I am very sorry for this class of people's idea, because they do not follow Christ and His teachings. Lord Jesus never allowed a man to drink beer or whisky, or some other strong spirit. He only allowed a man to drink wine, as it strengthens the body and purifies the blood; but not the sort of wine which is used nowadays, and sold everywhere, as it makes a man drunk, and it is just as bad as other spirits. Lord Jesus himself only drank fresh wine, which was taken freshly from the juice of grapes; so, therefore, he has allowed man to drink fresh wine. Every intelligent man knows very well the evil which there is in spirit. Many people have been hanged, and hundreds are living a life in gaol because they have committed an offence through drunkenness. I am quite sure that if they would be sober they would never dream of doing such offences. I cannot understand why people are in favour of continuance of license. Australians would be the best men in the world if they would all become united and stop the license and brewery altogether. By doing so they would be an example for the white world, and also would be serving Lord Jesus. I think it would be much better if clergymen, priests, and parsons were to preach in all the churches and prove to the people of Australia through the Bible that it is a sin to use strong spirit and get drunk; then everyone would vote for no license and no breweries. Mohammedanism teaches us not to get drunk, and drink no spirit except fresh wine; so, therefore, you will find that Mohammedans never drink any spirit, no matter in what country they are living. They are true believers of their prophet, Mahomet. In my humble opinion, all Christians must follow Lord Jesus' teachings in every respect. They dare not do anything against His commandment.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—As a life-long "moderate drinker" who has decided to vote "no-license," I trust you will permit me to give public expression to a few of the reasons why I intend doing so, and why I would like to see a thumping majority do likewise. About the worst feature of the whole business is that it is workers and tradesmen like myself, who absolutely cannot afford it, who drink the most and consider it a necessity. Many a man like myself, earning, say, £3 a week, considers he is justified in keeping £1 upwards to provide liquid refreshment for the week for his own body, while the balance in the hands of his (very much) better half is expected to pay rent and find food, clothing, and everything else for himself, wife, and often five or six children.

Now, though I have never done as above (more than one of my mates have), still I have taken a drink when thirsty, or when I fancied it, always if I could afford it. In other respects I am afraid I have been what is termed a "wowser," for, as I understand it, a "wowser" is one who considers the welfare of his wife and family as more important than the gratification of his stomach's craving for liquor or beer.

Up to the present I have always studiously omitted to vote on the liquor question, thinking myself "open-minded," and saying that "I pleased myself what I drank, so why should I do anything to deprive others of the right to do likewise?" But during the past two and a half years a change of vocation has brought me in contact with many of the residents of the poorer suburbs of Sydney, and I have been learning with my ears and eyesight the terrible trouble and suffering mothers and innocent little children have to put up with because the father cannot pass the hotels on his way home.

On Monday morning I have called to collect at the home of a man earning regularly 11s per day, and found the wife in tears. Although "Jim" drew £3 6s in wages on Saturday, he arrived home in the small hours of Sunday morning with only 17s 6d left. As the poor woman said, "when she had paid 12s 6d rent she had 5s to provide husband, self, and four children with food for a week." And she and the children were badly in want of clothes. In the case of the latter boots were conspicuous by their absence. I don't think "Jim" is a bad fellow at heart, only he has the drink disease bad, and cannot pass a "pub." I think that if the public bars were closed he would reach home with his wages intact. I have come across numerous cases similar to his. Again, in King-street, Newtown, last Saturday, about 7 p.m., I saw a young mother under 30 years of age staggering drunk, and in her arms an infant of two to three months. What chance has that poor little kiddy got? Is it fair that its troubles should begin thus before it can walk, just so that we "moderate" drinkers may be able to gratify our appetites in a public bar?

I dare say that my principal reason for being so firm in my determination to vote "no license" on every possible occasion so long as life lasts will be found upon by many as selfishness, in so far that it is of my own I am thinking most. Here is the chief reason. I have two little daughters of tender years, and when I look at them I think that perhaps in years to come one or both of my little "sweethearts," when I am gone, may become such a one as that drunken mother I saw in Newtown. Or, just as bad, through marriage they may become poor, struggling, hopeless creatures, fighting against the terrible odds of a drunken husband like "Jim's" wife. Well, so far from wishing the "pubs," kept open for my convenience, I would like to have the power to wipe out every "pub." and brewery in the land.

I think there are many parents who, if they only thought of such a possible future for their little ones, would feel the same on the matter as I have come to do. I believe there are many like myself who would not go out of their way to procure drink, and if it was not so easily get-at-able and always under our noses, as it were, would not bother about it, for it is not in any way necessary. As for drink in the home, I am not afraid of that. It has never been in my home, and never will be.

I will conclude by asking fellow "moderate drinkers" to join me by denying themselves, for the sake of those who suffer through their breadwinner being immoderate, and—to get nearer home—for the sake of their own little ones and their future, I ask them to join me and become a "Wowser," with a capital "W," and go "bald-headed" for "no-license" and the bottom square every time.

I am, etc.,
J. TERRY.
Newtown, Oct. 8.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—The Temperance Alliance of N.S.W. is making strenuous efforts to win the day for no-license, and, while in sympathy with temperance, I am still mindful of the fact that there are two sides to every question; and a broad-minded person cannot but think that the liquor traffic is being attacked unnecessarily.

We are in receipt of a considerable revenue derived from duty on spirits, etc., which will be lost if no-license is carried. How are we to replace it. In addition barley and hop fields will not be required. Breweries closed; consequently men will be thrown out of employment and plant idle. This fact will affect, directly or indirectly, every industry throughout the State. This is too serious a question to take so great a risk of closing a large portion of our commerce just because a few over-indulge.

It is a difficult matter to deal with, as use becomes second nature, and those who have been in the habit of partaking of alcohol will continue, by fair or foul means, to obtain it, and the Temperance Alliance will do better by turning their attention to our young people, and see that they are taught in the schools manliness and self-respect, and with the addition of a good home training they will grow up abstainers.

Our hotels are supported by leading business and commercial men, and I venture to say that one could move about Sydney in business hours and not see one case of intoxication.

Legislation should adopt drastic measures dealing with the publican who encourages the drinking loafer, who will get drunk on methylated spirits if the genuine article is unprocurable.

Our ancestors were content to build up their constitutions on good spirits, wine, and beer, and the temperance nations cannot compare in physique with those who partake in moderation. A glass of beer is claimed to be one of the best, cheapest, and most invigorating of beverages, but, of course, as with everything, excessive drinking is harmful. Do not encourage the illicit still and sly-grog shop, but allow the hotels to remain, and be properly conducted under strict supervision.

I am, etc.,
DRUMMOYNE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—The public owe a debt of gratitude to you for the generous way in which your paper appears to be open to a discussion of this very important subject, and thus I venture to send my little contribution.

"K." asks why a man should not "shout" for another if he desires. I reply, because it is impossible for him to know where that "shout" may lead. I remember (when a youth in Victoria, in the early sixties) a young man going into Melbourne to transact some business for his parents. He was not by any means addicted to drink, but he was invited to have a drink with some other companions. This led to a general carouse, during which he thought himself insulted, and, being maddened by drink, he drove a knife into the heart of one of the company. He was sentenced to death, then reprieved, and after 23 years of languishing hope for freedom—as during his incarceration he developed a very beautiful disposition, and was led to believe that he would be released—finally died with unhinged reason. The "shout" was the primary cause of this awful occurrence. Skipping hundreds of other instances which I could easily relate, I come to one within the last few months. A professional young man about Sydney had become enslaved in the evils of drink, entirely through the "shouting" custom, and, after costing his parents hundreds of pounds, and causing them five years of anguish, he was given a fresh start in a country engagement. He left by train fully determined not to drink again, but on the journey a fiend in human form would insist on "shouting." Result, in three weeks' time the unfortunate young man was in the streets of Sydney, in a worse plight than ever, hungry and penniless, ashamed to go to his friends, for he had despoiled them of both money and happiness. He is now in a semi-savage country, a hundred miles from where drink can be obtained; consequently he is in his right mind, and happy, but we tremble to think of what it may be when he gets amongst the accursed "shouters" again.

The first of these instances is known to a large number of people in Victoria, and the second to many people about Sydney. Surely reason will not ask for further argument against the evilly-idiotic custom of "shouting."

It is amazing to think that anyone can be found to honestly argue that there is any value in alcohol as a beverage. For 40 years I have been a mild drinker—that is, possibly an average of one drink a day—but I have always been conscious that it was of no value to me; now, for the last five years I have scarcely tasted it, and the improvement in my health is very marked. The evils of daily drinking have ever been before me. For the last 20 years I have lived quite as much in hotels as in my own home, and while at the hotels I think I can say that every day I have witnessed painful sights. At the present moment I am in a Queensland hotel, and within the last hour I have seen two old men in a maudlin state in a back parlour, many younger men in front of the bar drinking, talking the most inane rubbish, plentifully interlarded with the great Australian adjective, and thinking themselves fine fellows, while just across the road two decently-dressed and well-looking young fellows, about 25 years of age, have as much as they can carry, their attitude indicating that they don't care for all the world. Now, this is in a really well-conducted hotel, the landlord and landlady being very decent people; indeed, the latter was boasting to me how well she had brought up her family, but she said, "I never allowed them to come near the bar." Comment on this is needless.

I have read the numerous letters appearing lately, and feel quite convinced that those in favour of the traffic are either financially interested, or they have a relish for alcohol, and they are disinclined to have their own selfish desires interfered with even though the satisfaction of those desires involves the earthly damnation of thousands. The argument is sometimes advanced: "What are we to do if you take away our living?" I should feel ashamed to confess my inability or lack of intelligence to engage in any other calling than that of pouring liquor down thirsty throats, and if I thought myself only fit or qualified for that I should also think that the sooner I shuffled off this mortal coil the better. The fear that the publicans deprived of their living could not find anything else to do is groundless; a large number of them would still be engaged as proprietors of residential hotels, and many others would gradually fall into other ways of living greatly to the benefit of their health. The hotel-broker who has contributed to this discussion could still carry on his occupation as business agent, so he need not worry, and the brewer, without any exception, has made so much money that if he had any philosophy he would have no desire to make any more, so we need not worry about him. The trade is an accursed one; all honour to those who are working against this world's curse. I shall journey from Queensland to Sydney for polling-day, though at much cost to myself.

MARRICKVILLE ELECTOR.

RAILWAY SMASH AVERTED.

A serious railway smash was averted at the Central railway station yesterday morning, owing to the prompt action of a road foreman named Bruce.

The 8.25 a.m. train from Hurstville to Sydney on arrival at the station yards was run past the electric signals at a reduced speed, and directed on to the line for No. 12 platform. Suddenly it was pulled up with a jerk, and the passengers were thrown against each other. It was then within a few yards of an empty train standing on the cross-over points. After a few minutes delay, the engine and empty carriages crossed the points, and the Illawarra train proceeded to the platform.

The official report states that when the 8.25 train was nearing No. 12 platform an engine and a train of empty carriages was crossing over the points, about 15 to 20 yards from the platform, after depositing its passengers. The engine and carriages were temporarily held up on the cross-over, as the Hurstville train approached. Before the latter reached the electric signals it was given the order to slow down. This was done, but apparently not enough to allow for the delay which occurred in the carriages getting over the cross-over. When the engine and carriages were given the order to proceed, it was necessary for the driver to go back before going ahead. This he did, and while doing so the Hurstville train came down on him. The yard foreman seeing the danger, shouted a warning to the driver of the incoming train, who was proceeding at under eight miles an hour, and was able to bring his train to a standstill within a few yards. The report also stated that the electric signalling apparatus was in perfect order, and working satisfactorily.

FIRE IN THE CITY.

AN EARLY MORNING OUTBREAK.

A fire, resulting in a considerable amount of damage broke out early yesterday morning at 395 Kent-street, city. The rear portion of the premises occupied by M. L. Sleeman and Sons, hat and cap manufacturers, and the Eagle and Globe Steel Company, were badly damaged, and it is estimated that the damage will run to close on £8000.

The building was locked up at the usual hour on Monday evening, and as late as 3 o'clock yesterday morning, when the watchman went his rounds, there was no sign of fire. Shortly after, however, a policeman on duty in the vicinity noticed flames issuing from the roof at the rear of the premises, and immediately communicated with the fire station. Brigades were quickly in attendance from headquarters, Darlinghurst, George-street West, and Cumberland-street stations, with engines, motors, and ladders. The interior of the rear of the premises was well alight when the brigades arrived, and the flames were attacked from the rear and sides. The roof fell in with a crash, and a quantity of burning and charred timber fell into the lane at the side of the premises. The firemen fought the flames for about an hour before getting them under control.

That portion of the premises occupied by M. L. Sleeman and Sons was completely destroyed by fire, and 50 sewing machines and stock, valued at £1700, were consumed by the flames. The basement, occupied by the Eagle and Globe Steel Company, and the first floor, occupied by the Kent Shirt Factory, also suffered considerable damage by fire and water.

So far the origin of the outbreak has not been discovered. The Kent Shirt Factory was insured with the Union Insurance Company for £1200, while Mr. Sleeman's stock was insured in the New Zealand Insurance Company for £1620. The Eagle and Globe Steel Company's stock was covered by insurance in several offices amounting to £7000.

A considerable quantity of water was used by the brigades in quelling the outbreak. As a result the soakage drained into the basement, which was flooded to a depth of 3ft. The water began to leak through into the premises occupied by Arthur Yates and Co., seed merchants, in Sussex-street. A rotary pump was sent down by the brigade yesterday, and drained out the basement.

Three offices occupied by Mr. J. M'Carthy, carrier, Mr. Frederick Baldick, grain merchant, and Mr. Frederick Reid, flour merchant, in the front portion of the building, which consists of only two floors, were slightly damaged by the outbreak, but the offices of Messrs. M. and J. Lempriere, ore merchants, were considerably damaged by heat and water.

As a result of the damage done about 100 young men and women employed in the factories on the premises will be thrown out of employment for several days, until arrangements have been made to restart the businesses. About £10,000 of steel and implements was stored in the basement premises of the Eagle and Globe Steel Company, and it is estimated that the damage, which was mainly due to the inflow of water, will amount to £2500.

A CHRISTMAS HAMPER.

SELLING LIQUOR WITHOUT LICENSE.

A HEAVY FINE.

A case of more than usual interest was heard by Mr. C. N. Payten, S.M., on Tuesday morning at the Water Summons Court, in which Arthur Griffiths, a grocer, of 86A William-street, was proceeded against for selling liquor without being the holder of a license authorising its sale.

Mr. Mant, of the Crown Law Office, prosecuted, and Mr. J. W. Abigail appeared for the defence.

Evidence was called to show that defendant sold Christmas hampers for 25s, amongst the contents being a bottle of wine, the amount charged being enough to cover the cost of the wine. Constable Frederick Brown stated that on the afternoon of September 8 last he went to defendant's grocery store, 86A William-street, and told defendant that he had called with reference to purchasing one of his advertised Christmas hampers. Defendant asked him if he wished to join the club, and upon witness answering in the affirmative, he paid defendant 5s on account, and later he paid to a young woman in the shop the balance, she making an entry in the office book. The goods were delivered to witness's residence by one of defendant's employees.

Arthur Griffiths, the defendant, stated that he had been in business for the past three years in William-street. He advertised a 25s Christmas hamper to the grocery contents of which was added a bottle of wine, which was given free, each bottle bearing an intimation that it was given away with the vendor's compliments. He was willing to dispose of the hampers at the rate of 1s 3d per week, in advance, so that purchasers would have the hamper paid for by Christmas. The price charged for the goods was a reasonable one, without providing anything for the wine.

In reply to Mr. Mant, defendant admitted that he had been fined previously for selling wine, and since then had applied for a colonial wine license, which was refused. His club was called the "Christmas Hamper Gift Club," and the instalments he received in advance he paid in to a separate account. The wine was given as a Christmas present. There were 524 members in the club who had been paying in advance 1s 3d a week, although they had not yet received their hampers. Witness was selling the hamper under legal advice.

Other evidence was called to show that the price charged for the hamper was a reasonable one, the contents, without the wine, being worth 26s.

Defendant was convicted and fined £50, and costs, or, in default, six months' imprisonment. Two weeks were allowed for payment, it being intimated that the decision would be appealed against.

NO-LICENSE versus MONOPOLY

WORKERS OF N.S.W.!

Who are the Greatest Monopolists?

The Sydney brewers. They own 90 per cent. of the tied houses of Sydney and suburbs. (See Royal Commission on Tied Houses.)

Who Shattered your Cherished Ideal?

The Trades-union Bill emanating from the brains of J. C. WATSON, ANDREW FISHER, and W. M. HUGHES?

The big brewing firms, who employed the best legal talent in the Commonwealth to have it declared unconstitutional.

Whose Home does this Liquor Monopoly Help to Buy?

Yours? Or Holme Lacy, the mansion of Lord Chesterfield, which an absentee brewer purchased recently for £340,000?

You are Up Against Monopolies;

This is the only one you can deal with at the ballot-box.

Therefore, SMASH IT ON FRIDAY!

THIS IS HOW TO DO IT!

I Vote that the number of Licenses existing in the Electorate continue
I Vote that the number of Licenses existing in the Electorate be reduced
I vote that No Licenses be granted in the Electorate	X

DO THE RIGHT THING!

You Cannot Vote Continuance!

Why? It Means the Same Old Octopus, with the Same Old Grip.

Under "Strict Government Supervision" the last three years of Continuance has meant:—

81,179 Convictions for Drunkenness.
7,300 Convictions for Breaches of the Liquor Act.
6,331 Men and Women Inebriates (convicted 3 times or more).
21,000 Children boarded out by the State through neglect of drunken parents.

THIS IS ONLY A PORTION OF THE HORRORS OF CONTINUANCE!

During the last three years £16,500,000 were spent in Liquor in N.S.W.

Your Vote for No-License

Will mean nearly all this money will be available for HOMES.—Therefore builders, contractors, carpenters, masons, painters, and lovers of their own homes, vote for No-license!

FURNITURE.—Therefore business people and cabinet-makers, and makers of household goods, vote No-license!

CLOTHING AND BOOTS.—Therefore, drapers and bootmakers, and all their employees, vote No-License!

GROCERIES, MEAT, AND BREAD.—Therefore food manufacturers, butchers, and bakers, vote No-license!

ENOUGH SAID: VOTE!

We are using money given by self-sacrificing people to pay for this advertisement. We cannot keep pace with the huge, wealthy Liquor Monopoly. Will you help us by your gifts to do the best possible to combat this policy of misrepresentation?

ARNOTT'S

MILK ARROWROOT BISCUITS.

The proper and perfect food for growing children to take to school, to eat at play, to have with them on all occasions.

Healthy children are always hungry. Keep a tin of Arnott's in the house, and watch the little ones grow.

YOU WON'T DRINK

Cough Mixtures and sweetened-up Medicines to Cure a COLD in the HEAD once you have tried FORMAZONE.

YOU WON'T CHEW

Jujubes for a COUGH on your CHEST when you know what can be done for you by FORMAZONE.

YOU WON'T EAT

Cough Lozenges for CATARRH in your NOSE and THROAT when you have learned the right and rational way to treat yourself for these complaints.

THE OLD-FASHIONED WAYS OF TREATING COLDS ARE NOW OBSOLETE. Medical Research of recent years has discovered a certain powerful germicide for the Bacillus of Cold, which germicide is the active principal of FORMAZONE.

FORMAZONE is a VAPOUR, and is INHALED only; it is not swallowed into the stomach. It acts only where the Cold is seated, in the Nose, Throat, and Lungs, and is therefore used without injury to the digestion or the appetite. After a few inhalations it kills the Germs of Cold, disperses the phlegm, soothing and healing the inflamed parts, and restoring them to a healthy condition.

Inhalations of FORMAZONE are really "Fumigations," for when breathed in through the nostrils gently and deeply, it penetrates to the innermost air channels and cavities just as does the air we breathe. No liquid sprays or douches can reach all the parts like the vapour of FORMAZONE.

THIS IS THE RATIONAL WAY TO TREAT COLDS, COUGHS, AND CATARRH. A SOUNDLY SCIENTIFIC WAY, TOO.

BICYCLES AND MOTOR CARS.

WHAT CYCLE TO RIDE?

That's the question you may be trying to solve. Perhaps you'll find it pretty difficult, too. It's no wonder!

There are many Cycles on the market, and we are not going to start and make a lot of claims that you can easily find duplicated in another cycle advertisement.

No; we want you to investigate the merits of our Machines for yourself. We are open till 9 o'clock on Friday nights, and we'll gladly do what we can to prove to you that our claims for goodness are backed up by the Machines.

Take our Model 3 for £11. It is the very latest design, and constructed of best grade Weldless Steel Tubing. Tyres are Dunlop Welch Multiflex, or any other high-grade Tyre that you may prefer. Send for catalogue if you cannot call.

AN ENTHUSIASTIC COMMER TESTIMONIAL.

Messrs. Motories, Limited, Sydney. September 22nd, 1910.

Dear Sirs,—I have much pleasure in stating that the 4-ton Commer Car you supplied to me has given results far beyond my most sanguine expectations. I have had the car employed hauling pipes and cement up Mount Kembla, in this district. The grade of this mountain, which is eight miles in length, is one in six, and the Commer has not the slightest hesitation in pulling four tons four times daily. I think anyone that sees the car pulling her load up this mountain, with its extremely steep grade and frightfully bad surface, will agree with me that it is a wonderful performance. I have found the car a most profitable investment. Before I bought the car I was employing three horses to pull one ton up the mountain, and they could only do one trip daily. I was always in trouble with drivers and horses from one cause and another. The car has not caused me the slightest trouble in any way. I can enthusiastically recommend the Commer to anyone needing a Commercial Vehicle, and I will be pleased to give intending purchasers of this car any knowledge that I have to assist them. Wishing you every success with your splendid car, Yours faithfully, A. PARSONS.

B.S.A. THE WORLD'S BEST CAR. B.S.A.

This Car is built to a standard, and the parts are absolutely interchangeable.

The B.S.A. Co. have the largest engineering factory in the World. The car is a marvel for power, flexibility, and silence, and it is a well-known fact that nothing surpasses the B.S.A. products for quality, standardisation, and long life.

We have numbers of these cars on the road, and all owners cannot say enough in praise of the good quality of the car and the satisfaction derived. The best way of being satisfied with the car you buy is to have nothing but the world-famous B.S.A.

ON THE LAND.

FARM AND STATION.

FARMERS AND CO-OPERATION.

The movement amongst the members of the Farmers and Settlers' Association to form a co-operative company to handle the farmers' produce and his business generally promises to eventuate satisfactorily. The matter has been brought carefully before members and thoroughly discussed. This is certainly a wiser procedure than taking hasty action in a moment of enthusiasm. As it is, application for shares we are informed have come in steadily, and there is now every indication that the company, which will be termed the Farmers and Producers' Co-operative Union, will be in active operation when the coming wheat season opens. If so, it should have a very important effect as far as the farmers' interests are concerned. The value of co-operation has been abundantly proved beyond all doubt in this country and elsewhere, and producers should welcome any sensible extension of its principles. Under wise control such extension is of direct benefit to the man who does the work, and acts as a healthy counteract to the influence of the speculator. That the farmer has, in the past, suffered considerably from such influence is undeniable, although, in common fairness, it must be admitted that there are times when the individual farmer has profited considerably from the presence of the speculator. Speculation is not always wise and profitable, and in such cases the producer at times scored. They are, however, the great exception. In the usual run of things the middleman makes the biggest profit; and even if he loses once in a way to the individual sellers' gain, as a general thing the producers, as a body, have to find his regular profit. In any case, however, it is desirable to get away from the speculative element as much as possible, and have business done on a sound and genuine basis. Co-operation in marketing promises most in this direction, and therefore should appeal to the grower. No man has to confront so much uncertainty as the producer, under ordinary circumstances. He puts in a crop, and never knows what will be the result. When he does obtain a good yield then he has little idea what it will be worth to him. He knows there is a genuine demand, but the market is so manipulated and worked that he is never certain whether he is going to benefit from that demand. The uncertainty of seasons and prevailing conditions during the seeding and growing periods cannot be remedied to any great degree. But the uncertainty in marketing and the trend of trade generally can be controlled to an appreciable degree by a wise and extensive combination of producers. The great main essential of course is good management. Producers co-operating should always realise that they are entering into a business campaign against keen opponents. The fight may be perfectly honest and fair, but it will be none the less thorough and decisive. To be on equal terms with their opponents, therefore, they should obtain the services of the best material available, and be prepared to pay for it. It will be the cheapest course in the end. Given good generalship all that remains is strong membership. Necessarily co-operation is the more effectual the greater the numbers participating, and therefore the farmers as a whole should consider this project very seriously, as it is mooted directly in their interests.

SUPERPHOSPHATES.

The criticism that followed upon Mr. H. C. L. Anderson's (Under-Secretary for Agriculture) remarks at the wheatgrowers' conference last July, regarding the effect of superphosphate used on limestone soil, will be remembered. Facts were in evidence contradicting his assertion, and although the matter is now somewhat ancient history, an English opinion is interesting, nevertheless, as a matter of general information. The report of the discussion, as it appeared in the "Herald," was sent to Messrs. W. J. Fraser and Co., Ltd., of London, who are very large makers of machinery for the manufacture of superphosphates and other chemical products, by their Sydney representative, Mr. F. H. Fraser. They submitted it to their manure expert, and write Mr. Fraser as follows:—

We handed your marked paper with reference to the statement made at the Wheatgrowers' Conference to Mr. Neech, who, as you know, has had such wide experience in supers, and the chemistry of manures, and with reference to the statement that superphosphate is not valuable if put upon limestone soils, he states: This is rather a sweeping statement to be made, and in the interests of the fertiliser industry—which is also in the interest of the farmer—it should not go unchallenged. Field experiments have shown that superphosphates are of the greatest benefit when applied to limestone soils. The reason for this will be clear when the action of the limestone is understood. When the superphosphate is in contact with the limestone a reaction takes place, which results in the formation of bibasic phosphate of lime. This salt is insoluble in water, but is soluble in very weak acids, and available for absorption by the plant roots. As is well known, one of the principal properties of phosphoric acid is the stimulating action to young seedlings. Now, seedlings, naturally, cannot feed to any great depth. It is therefore of advantage to them to be able to find phosphoric acid precipitated ready for them, in a fine state of division, near the surface. Had this precipitation not taken place, natural drainage would have washed the soluble phosphoric acid down into the subsoil, where, for the purpose of the seedling, it would have been useless.

Superphosphates can be safely applied to red iron soils if it is first mixed with 25 per cent. of its weight of basic slag, or even 10 per cent. of its weight of limestone. This will result in the formation of the bibasic phosphate, and this phosphate is not readily decomposed by the iron. In this manner the formation of the unavailable state phosphate of iron is prevented. Soils which are lacking in lime, or which are subject to finger and toe disease in turnips, should not be treated with an acid manure such as superphosphates. In these cases basic slag, basic super., or bone manure is preferable. With reference to the quantities of phosphoric acid present in soils, field experiments have shown that whenever the percentage of available phosphoric acid falls below .01 per cent. phosphate, manuring is necessary. This seems surprising when it is known that even .01 per cent. is equal to 250lb per acre, taking the soil at a depth of 9 inches, and the average amount of phosphoric acid taken per acre of cereal crop is only some 21lb. The necessity for the very great excess of fertiliser is of course due to the fact that the plant is only able to feed from the portion of the soil with which it is in contact.

ITEMS.

It is proposed in New Zealand to introduce legislation to prohibit the importation of weevil-infected maize.

A New Zealand farmers' union, in view of the fact that the end of the local timber industry is in sight, has asked that the heavy duty and railage on Australian timber should be removed.

More activity, accompanied, probably, by more practical assistance, will have to be displayed by the Department of Agriculture if the farmers are to be persuaded to go in for ensilage. The aim should be to have a silo on every farm. At present they are somewhat of a rarity, despite all that has been said and done. It might be advisable to follow Victorian methods.

The Victorian Department of Agriculture intends to revive the system of erecting silos for farmers at cost price, and allow payments to extend over two years. One-third deposit is required. The farmer must also cart the material to the spot, assist to build, and provide the labour with the services of three men. After the silo is up the work of filling in the fodder must be performed under the direction of an officer. It is estimated that the silos will cost up to £50.

The Queensland Department of Agriculture offers great inducements to farmers to adopt silos. Plans and specifications are supplied free, and moulds are lent if reinforced concrete is to be adopted, cost of transport only to be paid, and an officer of the department will give advice and superintend the work if required, and will also assist with the filling of the silo. Yet only 79 persons made a silo in the northern State last year.

A novel sale was conducted in a western town in Queensland the other day, when a settler instructed an auctioneer in the town to sell off his herd of goats, of which he had a considerable number. Female goats brought 1s 3d to 3s 8d each, and wethers 6s a pair. There was a curious scene when the new owners endeavoured to remove the goats to their new quarters, for many of them took a decided objection to the arrangement, and the town was provided with an hour's amusement.

Cultivation of onions should begin as soon as the young plants appear, using a wheel hoe, which loosens the soil on both sides of the row and throws it slightly away from the plants. Hand-weeding should follow promptly and thinning if necessary. The plants should stand about three inches apart in the row, but if the soil is rich they will stand crowding.

If it is not sufficiently fertile it will pay to add enough more fertilisers to mature the onion crop, rather than go to the expense of thinning, unless the plants are altogether too close. Throughout the growing period the crop should be hoed whenever weeds appear or the ground becomes hard and packed, practising always shallow cultivation and keeping the ground level. When bulbs begin to form cultivation may be lessened.

An endeavour is being made to revive the sericulture industry in Queensland. An association of ladies has been working on this subject for some time; eggs were sold to many persons, and mulberry cuttings distributed to all parts of the State to provide the material on which the young silk worms may feed. Eggs are to be imported from India, so as to enable those engaged to produce the best class of silk. Samples of last year's silk were sent to the manufacturers, who offered to take all that could be supplied. The association is purchasing the cooked cocoons, and making arrangements to wind the silk. The sum paid for best cocoons is 4s per lb.

The figures which have just been issued by the Agricultural Department in Queensland illustrate a wonderful increase in the weight of fleece in the northern State, as well as in the number of sheep shorn. In 1907 there were 15,428,000 sheep shorn, while in 1909 the number shorn was 18,439,000. The wool in 1907 averaged 6.11 lb per sheep; this increased to 6.50lb in 1908, and last year it had increased to 6.68lb per sheep, an increase in two years of more than half a pound per fleece. It is considered by many authorities that the weight cannot be much more increased with safety in Queensland, unless a sheep with a larger frame is bred. The climate where many sheep are depastured is too hot to permit of a sheep being able to carry a very heavy fleece with comfort or with justice to its physical condition.

Messrs. J. S. Leeds and Co. announce a sale of 300 head of horses at the Corporation Yards, Orange, on Monday and Tuesday next, the 17th and 18th inst. The lots catalogued include heavy and medium draughts, gunners, remounts, lorry and cart horses, as well as some light harness horses and a few choice ponies.

FORESTRY DEPARTMENT.

TIMBER-GETTER'S GRIEVANCE.

SYNDICATE'S EXCLUSIVE RIGHT.

Mr. T. A. J. M'Lennan, Ferndale, Bellinger River, writes:—"Recognising the interest taken by the 'Herald' in the well-being of those members of the community who are connected with the land as primary producers, and the publicity given to grievances arising from the administration of the Department of Agriculture and Lands, I am enclosing copies of replies received from the Foresty Branch, Department of Agriculture, in reference to requests for the right of access to remove timber from FR. 34,091, a right I claim as a bona-fide timber-getter. However, I am prevented from availing myself of this privilege, as you can see from the nature of my request, and the replies to same. Official patronage apparently turns to the monopolistic interest under which my interests—as well as others similarly situated—seem to have no claim to just consideration.

"First, I refer you to the reply received from the the District Forester's Office, dated August 16, 1909, wherein information is given as a guide to apply for a license I desire to obtain.

"Secondly, on applying to the Department of Agriculture, as per reply dated September 3, 1909, my object is defeated owing to the fact that only special licenses issued at the request of the Bellingen Timber Syndicate can operate.

"Thirdly, the department by the reply dated October 21, 1909, among other conditions imposed under the exemption, state that the syndicate were advised the special licenses issued did not confer absolute right, the Minister reserving the right to issue other special licenses. How does this coincide with the previous reply?

"Fourth, on November 16, 1909, in further reply to my request for a special license, reference is made to the Forestry Act, which came into force on January 1, 1910, and the provision contained therein providing for exclusive rights. I would refer you back to the letter dated October 21, 1909, condition number two says that operations must commence not later than November 11, 1909.

"Fifth, reply dated March 1, 1910, indicates that an extension of time was granted to February 11, 1910. Up to this time, and since no attempt has been made by the syndicate to comply with conditions, the department allowing these people to practically control this area, judging from the present position of affairs.

"Sixth, reply dated May 10, 1910, appears to indicate that I am to be shut out from consideration owing to the syndicate's application for an exclusive right. Letter number seven shows the circumstances and nature of the country, which must be proved to exist before these rights are granted.

"Here is a forest reserve, No. 34,091, the nearest one to the town of Bellingen, an area of 4000 acres, the portion of easiest access to timber-getters, yet the department allow a syndicate to make representations to which conditions are attached by the department for the working of same, and for a period of two years this area has been closed to the bona-fide timber-getters, who have no other source to derive a livelihood but from forest reserves.

"I have made a road to the area, for which I wished to work on under special license, being now engaged hauling pine from same, thus giving a practical demonstration of the accessible nature of the country. I have accomplished this at a small cost. My action in making a road through this exempted area has necessitated me committing a breach of the forestry regulations, the local forest officer seizing the timber hauled from this area. This is a very serious matter to me. Apart from myself, there are two drivers whom I have engaged working teams for me; both are married men with families. We are deprived from earning a living from the public estate under what we consider fair conditions."

The following are copies of the letters referred to, the first being from the District Forester's Office, Grafton, August 16, 1909:—

In reply to your letter of the 14th August, 1909, asking whether the exemption from operation of ordinary timber licenses covering exemption in the par., Never Never country, Raleigh, will remain in force indefinitely, and whether there is any regulation to enable timber-getters to have access thereto, I have the honour to inform you in cases of this kind the Hon. the Minister for Lands reserves the right to issue timber licenses within exempted areas, and also the right to determine the period of exemptions.

Sydney, 3rd September, 1909.

Having reference to your communication of 23rd August, 1909, respecting the cutting of timber on exemption 1908-27, par. Never Never country, Fitzroy, I have the honour to inform you that only special licenses issued by the district forester at Grafton, at the request of the Bellinger Timber Syndicate, can at present operate on this area. The exemption will only continue for such time as the specified conditions are observed by the syndicate.

Sydney, 21st October, 1909.

Having reference to your communication of the 11th October, regarding the conditions attached to exemption 1908-27, pars. Never Never and Stewart, counties Raleigh and Fitzroy, I have the honour to inform you that this exemption is safeguarded by the following conditions:—

1. That all timber cut during the currency of the license be subject to the conditions of the timber and quarry regulations, drawn to approved depots for measurement and branding by the forest officer, and be subject to the payment of royalty.

2. That operations on the area referred to must commence not later than 11th November, 1909.

3. That a quantity of not less than 240,000 super. feet of timber per annum be cut and converted from the areas.

4. That no sale or transfer of the rights or license to operate on this area be made without written consent of the Minister.

5. That a bond of £50 be deposited as guarantee for due observance of conditions, any breach of which will render the license and the bond liable to forfeiture.

6. That proper roads or other means of access for the removal of timber from the area be provided to the satisfaction of the Minister.

Before gazettal of this subject area from the operation of ordinary timber licenses the Bellingen Timber Syndicate was advised that the special licenses issued to apply to same would not confer an exclusive right to the timber thereon, the Minister reserving the right to issue any other special licenses to apply to such portions of it, and under such conditions as may be deemed expedient in the public interest.

It is pointed out that the delay on this exempted area was caused in connection with the consideration of a special lease application for road and chute construction, which was not gazetted until the 12th May, 1909.

Sydney, 16th November, 1909.

Having reference to your further communication of November 1, 1909, respecting the issue of special licenses to operate on exempted area 1908/27, pars. Never-Never and Stewart, county Fitzroy, I have the honour to inform you that under the Forestry Act, which comes into force on January 1, 1910, provision is made for granting exclusive licenses, and also that the conditions under which present exemptions are held will be reconsidered.

Sydney, 1st March, 1910.

Having reference to your communication of February 21, 1910, with regard to revocation of exemption in the pars. Never-Never and Stewart, and stating that you received no reply to your communication of January 17, 1910, I have the honour to inform you that the latter was replied to on February 24, 1910, to the effect that an extension of time to February 11, 1910, has been granted to the Bellinger Timber Syndicate, after which time the further retention of this exemption will be considered in relation to Forestry Act.

Sydney, 10th May.

Having reference to your application of April 2, 1910, for a special license for a period of 12 months to obtain pine timber from F.R. 34091, par. Never-Never, and upon a small area within the par. Stewart, I have the honour to inform you that the area applied for by you is covered by previous application for an exclusive right under section 15 of the Forestry Act, pending consideration of which your request cannot be entertained.

Sydney, 17th June, 1910.

I have to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 10th inst further in regard to your application for a special license to obtain pine timber from F.R. 34091. In reply I have the honour to inform you that the application made by the Bellinger Timber Syndicate for an exclusive right over this area has been referred for inquiry and report to the local land board on the question of accessibility, and the necessity for expending large sums of money in order to enable its profitable working. On these points the department must be guided by the findings of the board before recommending the granting of the exclusive right. It will, however, be open for you to appear before the board and give evidence as an interested person against the inclusion of any portion of the area which does not come within the terms of the Forestry Act.

DEPARTMENTAL STATEMENT.

Seen with reference to the above, Mr. R. D. Hay, chief forestry officer, stated that this syndicate was given a tenative right to work timber over a certain area, which was generally inaccessible for the profitable secural of timber without the expenditure of a considerable sum of money for roadmaking, etc. On the passing of the Forestry Act the syndicate applied for an exclusive right under the Act, and that application is now under inquiry by the local land board, pending which the department is maintaining the exemption granted the syndicate under the tentative right, and the prohibition under the original Act.

It will be noted that as far as June 17, in his letter to Mr. M'Lennan, Mr. Hay stated the application had been referred to the local land board. Questioned as to the delay on the part of the board in dealing with the matter, Mr. Hay said that had nothing to do with his department.

With regard to the cost of access, Mr. Hay said that where Mr. M'Lennan had obtained timber was on the fringe and easily entered portion of the area. The rough and expensive country to work was behind.

SYDNEY LADY'S SUFFERING FROM A BAD LIVER

A Martyr for Three Long Years——Prostrated by Bilious Attacks almost Daily——Many Treatments Prove Useless.

"Bile Beans brought me Perfect Health."

Mrs. Hambridge, of "Victoria Villa," Oberon-street, Randwick, Sydney, suffered from a disordered liver in the form of prostrating bilious attacks, headache, and heartburn for three long years. Other treatments utterly failed in bringing her relief, but Bile Beans for Biliousness—the world's greatest specific for all liver ailments—completely cured Mrs. Hambridge, and restored her health and strength. If YOU suffer from any of the symptoms of Liver Trouble, it is a sign that YOU, TOO, need a course of Bile Beans to put you right.

In recording her gratitude to Bile Beans, Mrs. Hambridge says: "For three years I suffered severely from Biliousness and Heartburn, the results of a Disordered Liver. Almost every day I would have an attack of the Biliousness, the pains in my head being unbearable. The dizziness and nasty nauseous sensations caused by the Biliousness were most unpleasant. I tried many so-called remedies for my distressing troubles, but I could obtain no relief.

"Bile Beans were recommended to me by a friend, who mentioned that they had cured his wife of Biliousness and spoke very highly of them, so I decided to give Bile Beans a trial. To my great delight, I gained relief from the very first dose. So pleased was I with the prospects of being cured that I continued to take Bile Beans regularly, and I am happy to say I was thoroughly cured of the Biliousness and other bad Liver symptoms, for which I am most grateful. This is quite two years ago, and I have had perfect health ever since, which is conclusive proof that cures by Bile Beans are sure and permanent. I always keep a box of Bile Beans handy in the house, and would not be without them."

THE TRUE LIVER MEDICINE.

CURED OF INDIGESTION AT 67.

Mr. T. Carpenter, of Mudgee, N.S.W., says:—"In my younger days (I am now 67 years of age) I did my share of roughing it while following occupations of droving, mining, and similar pursuits. For seven years the saddle was my pillow, and the earth my resting-place, for twice only during that long period did I sleep in a bed. Such rough living, combined with improper diet, resulted in my contracting indigestion, constipation, and piles. I tried several remedies, but they either griped me, or acted in some other unnatural manner. A friend advised me to take Bile Beans, and I was soon satisfied that I had found the right remedy, for they speedily brought me relief and cure. Bile Beans have been my stand-by for about four years now."

TERRIBLE STOMACH TROUBLE ENDED.

Mr. H. E. Neville, who resides at 52 Addison-road, Marrickville, Sydney, writes of Bile Beans:—"I have much pleasure in testifying to the merits of Bile Beans. I suffered with terrible pains in my side and stomach, for which I used several so-called remedies, but could gain no relief. A friend recommended Bile Beans, and presented me with a few to try. These I took, and gained almost instant relief. Thus encouraged, I purchased a further supply, and after taking four doses the pains left me entirely, and I have had no return of the malady. I can with confidence recommend Bile Beans to anyone similarly afflicted."

1/1½ and 2/9 per Box.

NATURE'S REMEDY. PURELY VEGETABLE.

Bile Beans FOR Biliousness

Bile Beans have been proved invaluable in thousands of Australasian homes in cases of Biliousness, Headache, Indigestion, Constipation, Piles, Debility, Female Ailments, Nervousness, Bad Blood, Bad Breath, Anaemia, Disturbed Sleep, Loss of Appetite, Pimples and all Skin Eruptions, Rheumatism, and, in fact, all ailments that owe their origin to defective bile flow, assimilation, and digestion. Bile Beans are obtainable from all chemists and stores at 1/1½ per box, or 2/9 special family size (contains three times the 1/1½ box), or post free from The Bile Bean Mfg. Co., 39 Pitt-street, Sydney. "AN EXCELLENT FAMILY MEDICINE," says "SCIENCE SIFTINGS."

SORGHUM AS FORAGE.

The "Orange-Judd Farmer" writes:—Unlike Indian corn sorghum will do well on poor soils and in droughty regions. The crop, therefore, is more common in the south and west than in the east and north. Although attempts have been made to secure profitable amounts of sugar from sorghum, this industry has not as yet proved important commercially. When the crop is grown for syrup, however, it is very profitable, as it yields large amounts of syrup of good quality. In this case, good corn or wheat lands are fitted as for corn, and the seed sown in either hills or drills.

As a forage plant, however, sorghum is exceedingly valuable. This is especially true in dry regions. It is a stronger feeding plant than corn, and will do better on thin lands. When raised for this purpose, the land should be seeded broadcast or with a press drill after it is well warmed. The seed should be cultivated in. A better forage will be secured if some other plant like cowpeas is seeded with the sorghum. The great trouble with growing sorghum is weeds. They often grow more rapidly than the young plants and smother them. In such cases the seed bed should be harrowed just before seeding, and cultivation with the harrow should begin while the weeds are small.

If the crop is to be used for hay, it should be cut with a mower, corn harvester, or binder, when the heads are well formed and the seed about half-ripened. It is then shocked like corn and left on the ground for a few days to dry. When well dried, it is raked into good-sized cocks. In some cases it is fed directly from these cocks, but some growers prefer to allow it to sweat and ferment, and after exposing it to the sun for a few hours, haul it to the barn or put it in larger stacks. Unless well cured, sorghum does not keep well, and should be fed during the fall and early winter.

This crop yields from 3 to 15 tons per acre. A yield of from 5 to 10 tons may be secured from good soils if cut but once. If two or more cuttings are obtained, the yield sometimes runs as high as 12 to 15 tons per acre.

Sorghum is also very valuable as a soiling crop. For dairy cows and fattening animals it is exceedingly good. If fed gradually until the animals become accustomed to it, the feeding of sorghum always brings good results. As a summer pasture, this crop is relished alike by sheep, cattle, and hogs. If grown for this purpose it should be sown or drilled thickly, and several sowings made at different dates, so that a succession may be secured. Some farmers cut the first crop for hay, and then turn the field into pasture. Great care should be observed in turning stock into a field of this kind, as fatal results sometimes follow when cattle are allowed to eat large quantities of green sorghum.

Dry sorghum forage is fed like cornstalks in racks. Stock seem to like it better than corn fodder. This, together with the fact that it is easier to feed, makes it popular with the stockman. The seed is similar to corn in composition, but is not so valuable as a feed. It is almost always fed on the stalks. When threshed it should be ground and fed in connection with wheat, bran, oats, or peas.

NO SURVEYORS.

"Vertical No. 2" writes:—In answer to numerous deputations re land, railway, or road matters, etc., an invariable reason given by departmental Ministers for delay is "not sufficient surveyors available." The Minister is, of course, primed by his subordinate as to his reply to such deputations, and, being entirely ignorant of the inner working of the units of such departments, is under the impression that he has been very diplomatic. As regards the cry "not sufficient surveyors," if the staff surveyors worked and sent into their respective district offices fair averages of work done, averaging, we will say, a slightly lower record than licensed surveyors, who are paid by results, there would be no arrears of work. To my knowledge in the district I live alone would-be lease and other holders or land applicants are waiting anywhere from six months to over two years for survey, and the said surveyor, who is supposed to be doing his work, is doing it by remaining in camp five days out of seven a week with his men employed cutting and piling up wood to warm his tent. The men referred to are paid by the Government, and are a tax on the public if not employed remuneratively. Let all surveyors be paid by scale, and if such is considered too low let them go to arbitration.

INFLUENZA IN HORSES.

SINGLETON.—Several horses in the district are suffering from a form of influenza, accompanied by a cough. The affected animals, after drinking at public troughs, deposit a mucous substance upon the water, and other horses drinking from these troughs catch the disease.

THE CROPS

CANOWINDRA.—Since the recent rains the crops have made rapid growth, and some of the early sown are now out in ear. It is noticed that the Bunyip variety has done best this season. The area under wheat this year shows very little increase on last year, but even with favourable conditions for the remainder of the season, the harvest will not be near as heavy as last year, although probably up to the average. The lucerne crops are growing splendidly, and as the result of more up-to-date methods of planting heavier cuttings are anticipated. Messrs. Conroy and Doyle, of North Bangaroo, expect to obtain two tons to the acre off a 40-acre lucerne crop for the first cutting this season. This crop was sown late last season—in October—but it had the advantage of manure to force its growth before the hot weather set in. If lucerne is sown earlier the manure is not needed.

FISH MANURE WORKS.

HOBART.—It is reported that a company has been floated in Melbourne for the purpose of establishing a fish manure works near Hobart. North-west Bay has been selected as the site for the works, and it is understood that operations will be commenced at an early date. A plentiful supply of sharks, etc., will be necessary. The plant for the works was landed at North-west Bay a few days ago.

DISTRICT ITEMS.

COROWA.—The long spell of cool weather is proving beneficial to late-sown crops. On the whole spring prospects could not be improved on. There is an abundance of grass, which some landowners are now cutting for ensilage, the making of which is growing in favour. The pit system is generally adopted as being the less costly, besides proving on opening to be equal to silo ensilage. Many farmers are engaged in dairying with good results. An immense area of land has been laid fallow for next season's sowing, some farmers having gone over their land more than once. Wheaten crops are coming along nicely and should give handsome yields. The Bunyip variety on its present showing quite eclipses all others.

MURWILLUMBAH.—The attendance of farmers at the lecture by Professor Watt was so small that it is doubtful if the other lectures proposed will be proceeded with.

SHEARING.

BURROWA.—Shearing has commenced in most of the sheds around, but has been continually stopped by showery weather. Yesterday hail and rain have been falling, and it is feared the unexpected cold snap will cause mortality amongst the shorn sheep.

DAIRYING.

BEGA.—The output of the Bega Co-operative Creamery Company, Limited, for the month ended September was 45,818lb butter. Suppliers were paid net cheques amounting to £1908.

CLOSER SETTLEMENT.

CASINO.—The well-known Sandgate and Ellangowan estates, bought by Mr. F. J. L. Measures, will be subdivided and sold at an early date.

HORSE SALES.

WEST MAITLAND.—At Campbell's Hill yards Mr. John Enright conducted a very successful horse sale. Three hundred head, chiefly heavy and light draughts and van horses, were offered and sold. There was a large attendance of buyers. Competition was brisk, and the market firm. Best heavy draughts realised £40 to £49 10s, light sorts £25 to £35, saddle and harness horses to £21, ponies £18.

WELLINGTON.—Messrs. Bedford, Taylor, and Weston's annual horse sale, which concluded on Saturday, was the most successful that has yet been held, and constituted a record. The market was buoyant throughout, and local buyers, who held off in the hope of prices dropping towards the end, were disappointed. Buyers were present from all parts of the State, and also Victoria, Queensland, New Zealand, Tasmania, and South Australia, and the cream of the yarding went to southern and Victorian buyers. Mr. A. W. Beasley, of Melbourne, was the biggest purchaser, his purchases aggregating over 200 head. In all 1372 horses were disposed of, and the sales totalled £30,182/5/-, the average price being £22 per head.

STOCK MOVEMENTS.

COONAMBLE.—Week ending Saturday:—1810 mixed hoggets, Merriman to Augathella, E. Berrqu; 1000 mixed sheep, Billeroy to Teridgerie, G. H. Holwell; 2000 ewes, Wingdee to Ningear, C. FIRE BRIGADES CONFERENCE.

REQUEST FOR COMMONWEALTH SUBSIDY.

An interstate Fire Brigades Conference was opened yesterday. The following delegates attended:—New South Wales, Messrs. G. Howard Pope and W. Taylor (members of the Fire Brigades Board) and Chief-officer Webb; Victoria, Colonel Ballenger and Mr. S. Mauger (Metropolitan Fire Board), J. Finch and F. S. Marshall (Country Fire Brigades Board) and Chief-officer Lee; Queensland, Messrs. J. E. Hinton and F. R. Davis (Brisbane Fire Brigade); South Australia, Messrs. E. Frensdorf, John Sweeney (Adelaide Fire Brigades Board), and Superintendent Rickwood; Western Australia, Messrs. B. L. Murray and C. M. De Mole; Tasmania, Mr. F. S. Douglas (Hobart Fire Brigades Board). Mr. Mauger was in the chair.

The conference was chiefly the outcome of the deputation which waited on the Postmaster-General some time ago in reference to the cost of fire alarms. The chairman stated that the Postmaster-General had been favourably impressed with the claims of the brigades for a reduction in the cost of the fire alarm and telephone services. Mr. Thomas had said that whilst he could not guarantee a reduction in the cost he would recommend a subsidy, and he had sent for the chief officer and the secretary of the Melbourne brigade and asked for a basis on which to distribute the subsidy. He (Mr. Mauger) suggested that the Government should place an amount on the estimates equal to the amount paid by the brigades for the fire alarm and telephone service.

The following resolution was carried, viz., "That this conference respectfully suggests to the Federal Government, as some recompense for services rendered by the fire brigades in the protection of Commonwealth property, to the value of some £4,000,000, that the basis of the proposed subsidy by the Commonwealth Government should be a sum equivalent to the annual cost to the brigades of the fire alarm and telephone service."

The conference also discussed the position of firemen in regard to military service, and resolutions were carried as follow:—(1) "That, in the opinion of this conference, representation should be made to the Federal Government for the exemption of permanent firemen from military service." (2) "That not more than 25 per cent. of the volunteer firemen under 25 years of age should be taken away from the brigades at one time."

STAGE EMPLOYEES' WAGES.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

At the quarterly meeting of the Stage Employees' Union it was resolved that an interstate conference take place in Melbourne shortly, for the purpose of drawing up a Federal log of wages and working conditions, preparatory to seeking an award of the Commonwealth Arbitration Court. The secretary was instructed to convene the conference of those engaged in theatrical work for the purpose of having a grand council formed.

A SIMPLE PRESCRIPTION.

SAID TO CURE RHEUMATISM, KIDNEY TROUBLE, AND BLADDER TROUBLES.

We know that the readers of this paper appreciate good advice, and we are glad, therefore, to be able to publish the following from a prominent physician.

It is astonishing to know the prevalence of kidney trouble and other diseases, such as rheumatism, bladder and liver troubles, which are almost invariably caused by weak kidneys. It is said on good authority that fully one-third of the people in Australia who have reached the age of maturity are more or less afflicted with kidney trouble in some form. The most dangerous feature of this disease is the fact that many people have it without their knowledge, and consequently neglect it until it has reached a dangerous stage.

The least symptom of kidney trouble, such as backache, must be given prompt attention, and a good reliable treatment should be taken, until every trace of the disease has been eliminated. We are glad to be able to give our readers a prescription which we have seldom known to fail in any case. It contains no harmful ingredients, is pleasant to take, not expensive, and can be supplied by any good chemist. It is as follows:—

Tincture Gentian Compound, one ounce; Syrup Rhubarb, one ounce; Liquid Barkola Compound, one ounce; Syrup of Ginger, five ounces.

Take a teaspoonful after each meal, and one at bedtime.

We are glad to publish this prescription, as we know it will help our afflicted readers who give it a fair trial. If taken continually for a few weeks it will be found to be an almost absolutely certain cure for Rheumatism, Kidney and Bladder Trouble, Backache, and all allied complaints.

IN MEMORIAM.

BAKER.—In memory of my dear wife, Polly, who died October 12, 1909.

I mourn the loss of one I loved,
And did my best to save;
Loved in life, regretted, gone,
Remembered in her grave.

Inserted by her loving husband, Walter.

BAKER.—In loving memory of my darling daughter, Polly, who departed this life October 12, 1909, age 24.

Your mother's heart is breaking, Polly,
With sorrow, grief, and woe;
For how I miss you, darling,
It is God Who only knows.

Sweet sacred heart of Jesus, have mercy on her soul.
Inserted by her broken-hearted mother, Mary McInnes.

BAKER.—In sad but loving memory of my dear sister, Mary (Polly), who departed this life October 12th, 1909. Inserted by her loving brother and sister-in-law, Ernest and Bessie McInnes. Gone but not forgotten.

SPEECHLEY.—In loving memory of Mary Ann Speechley, who departed this life October 12, 1909, aged 87 years.

One year ago, no tongue can tell
How anxiously we stood,
Beside our darling mother's bed,
To keep her if we could.
Fond thoughts they linger round our hearts,
And tears they often flow,
And to the place where you are laid
Our footsteps often go.
Farewell, dear mother, your days are past,
You loved us while your day did last,
You always strove to do your best,
And now you've gone to heaven to rest.

Inserted by her loving son and daughters, Uriah Speechley and Eliza Bridge and Charlotte Blake.

SPEECHLEY.—In fond and loving memory of my dearly beloved mother, also grandmother, Mary Ann Speechley, who departed this life on October 12th, 1909.

You are not forgotten, mother, dear,
Nor shall you ever be,
As long as life and memory last
We will remember thee.

Inserted by her loving daughter, Harriet Howard, and children.

SPEECHLEY.—In sad but loving memory of our dear mother, Mary Ann Speechley, who died 12th October, 1909, aged 87 years.

Twelve months have passed, our hearts are sore,
As time goes on we miss you more.
Your loving smile, your welcome face,
There's none can fill our mother's place.

Inserted by her loving daughter and son-in-law, Mary and John Middleton. Newcastle papers please copy.

SPEECHLEY.—In loving memory of my dear mother and grandmother, who died October 12, 1909, aged 87 years. Inserted by her loving son, Phillip Speechley, and grandchildren, Ada, Phillip, Leslie, Elsie, Bertie.

I will remember thee.

TAFT.—In sad but loving remembrance of my dear mother, Jane Taft, who died on October 12th, 1906.

However long my life shall last,
Whatever land I view,
Whatever peace or joy be mine,
I will always think of you.

Inserted by her loving daughter, Nina.

TAFT.—In ever loving memory of our dear mother, Jane Taft, who died on October 12th, 1906, aged 46 years.

Four years have passed, and still we miss her;
Friends may think the wound has healed,
But they little know the sorrow
Deep within our hearts concealed.

Inserted by her ever-sorrowing daughter and son-in-law, Evelyn and John Lennon.

TAFT.—In loving memory of our dear mother, Jane Taft, who died on October 12th, 1906. Inserted by her loving sons, Harvey, Hiram, and Francis.

Forget her? No, we never will;
Though years roll by we'll love her still.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 12, 1910.

THE PREMIER'S APPEAL.

The final appeal by Mr. Wade strikes a trumpet note that should resound throughout the length and breadth of the land, and gather around the standard of Liberalism all those who have any adequate conception of the seriousness of the issues at stake. It is Mr. Wade's personal appeal that is now before the electors, and on such grounds the Premier is entitled to be heard. Never, probably, in the history of politics in this country has the weapon of personal abuse been more fiercely used, and for that reason, if for no other, the contest has been focussed in the personality of the leader of the Government. The opposition to Mr. Wade personally has degenerated into scandalous and mendacious vituperation, and yet on the eve of the elections he comes out of it unscathed. The mud does not stick. The weapons of political savagery have glanced off the impenetrable armour of honesty, ability, and patriotism; and there is no man who to-day stands higher in public esteem than he on whose head the full force of the storm of slander and abuse has fallen. In making his personal appeal to the electors to support the Government at the poll, Mr. Wade summarises the whole situation by succinctly and tersely pointing out the strength of the Liberal position in contrast to the feebleness and nullity of the programme offered by Mr. M'Gowen. To the recital of the measures passed into law by the present Administration must be added the contemplation of the prospect for this country that will be assured by the return of the Government to power. The simplest statement is the most forcible, and the mere mention of the main features of the Liberal policy as set over against the reactionary and retrograde propositions of the Labour caucus should be enough to convince thinking men and women of the perils that lie ahead should Mr. Wade and his followers be defeated at the polls.

By this time the people of New South Wales have surely had sufficient indication of the direction in which socialistic legislation is tending to make them apprehensive of Labour rule. The absence of a constructive policy in the programme of Labour has robbed its representatives of reasonable ground of appeal during the campaign; and beggared of argument they have resorted to tactics that have disgraced the party. But despicable electioneering methods are not fraught with such danger to the country as are the proposals which form the treacherous planks of a narrow political platform. Increased taxation, suicidal restrictions to industrial development, weak-kneed administration making concessions to the demands of agitators, are what the electors must expect amongst other far-reaching evils if they reject the solid, progressive, and prosperity-wooing policy of the Wade Government. Moreover, they must be prepared for the abandonment of the personal factor in leadership, which is our main point. The caucus, working in secret, will take the place of the Premier as head of the Cabinet and first among his supporters in the party. Mr. Wade's personal appeal has, therefore, more in it than appears on the surface. It is an appeal for the liberty which has made life possible in these lands, and without which life worth the name will be hopeless.

COMMONWEALTH AND PLENARY POWERS.

The judgment of the High Court in the boot-making award promises to bulk largely in Australian constitutional history. As a matter of law the only question with the common rule is as to what is included, and what is not included, in certain sections of the Constitution. The verbiage with which legislation is usually encumbered made it possible to raise a point which was certainly never contemplated by the framers of the Constitution, or by the authors of the Federal Arbitration Act. The intention of Federal arbitration was perfectly plain and straightforward, and it had behind it a strong common sense. The Federal Legislature had to keep in mind the possibility of a recurrence of such general industrial upheavals as had happened at the time of the maritime strike, and it was seen that the Commonwealth should possess the power to intervene at such a crisis on behalf of peace. Inasmuch as the regulation of their internal affairs was strictly reserved to the States, there could be no other justification for Federal intervention. Labour, however, having gained certain political successes which gave it temporary command of the Federal Legislature, was quick to see that here was a chance to exercise an uncontemplated, indirect, but no less vicious, dominancy over the States. It hoped to find in the Federal Arbitration Court a weapon which would enable it to destroy State autonomy in the control of industrial affairs. It is hardly necessary to point out what a short-sighted policy is involved in all this, because, supposing such powers were inherent in the Constitution, Labour could not hope to repeat indefinitely its accidental successes, and the time would surely come when the plenary powers of the Commonwealth would be turned against it. However, there are none so blind as those who will not see, and the attempt has been carried to its limit. Now, the High Court declares, in effect, that the Commonwealth has no such powers, and the contest is removed to another sphere.

The Chief Justice puts the matter very clearly. The Constitution does not confer upon the Commonwealth a general power to regulate industry, but merely a power to make laws for dealing with certain specifically defined industrial difficulties. There must be a dispute, and apparently in law, as in intent, it must extend beyond the boundaries of a State. When that is the case the Constitution contemplates conciliation and arbitration. But, as the Chief Justice laid it down, what is contemplated by a "common rule" is quite another matter. It does not presuppose a dispute, and it does inflict on parties not necessarily before the Court conditions of labour of which they may or may not approve. This is, in effect, a legislative act far beyond anything in the Constitution, and the Court therefore very properly has decided that a "common rule" lies outside the functions of the Commonwealth. It is now the business of the people of the Commonwealth to see that it remains outside. The Constitution cannot be altered without their direct consent. Federal Labour will appeal to them to alter it, and when that fight comes on it must be realised that an immensely important principle is at stake. The effort will be made to throw dust in the eyes of the electors, and to represent the Constitution as a barrier in the road of democratic development. On that plea Labour proposes to come in and claim the right without let or hindrance of controlling industry through the length and breadth of the continent. The absurdity of such a proceeding is quite immaterial to the Labour politician. Having regard to the great diversity of conditions, it is obvious that a common rule running throughout the Commonwealth could not fail to do injustice to the workers of one State if it succeeded in doing justice to those of another. More than that, in settling conditions for the workers in one State it could not fail to unsettle them for those in another in which very possibly perfect harmony between employer and employed previously existed. Why, then, does Labour pursue so grotesque an ideal? Not because it does not see the inherent unfairness of its proceeding, but because it imagines that once this power is in its hands workers in self-defence will be obliged to give it their votes. But, however cleverly contrived the scheme may be, we venture to believe that not even the workers are going to bind themselves into slavery to a political party, however it bedecks itself with the union label.

THE ANGLICAN GENERAL SYNOD.

The General Synod of the dioceses of the Anglican Church in Australia and Tasmania draws attention to itself by the fact of its representative character and its intrinsic importance as the highest court of the largest Christian Church in the Commonwealth. For the first time Dr. Wright, the Archbishop of Sydney, delivered the synodal address as Primate of Australia, and by his wise and statesmanlike utterances has deepened the impression already produced in connection with the diocese of Sydney, that in him the Church of England has secured a capable leader. The new Primate is not among those who fail to realise the difference between Church life in the old land and in Australia. Transplanted from the more or less restricted ecclesiastical environment of England into a country where life is freer, and religious organisations have to make their own way without the aids derived from connection with the State, an English clergyman is bound to discover that he is in a new atmosphere. It speaks well for the Church of England as a living Christian organism that it has flourished exceedingly in these lands, and that it still claims the adherence of so large a proportion of our population. Dr. Wright has found new problems and conditions in Australia, but, as the honoured men who form the Episcopal bench in the Commonwealth have long ago discovered, there is room for the endeavour and the devoted energy of every man the Church of England can put into the field.

One of the problems facing the Anglican, as well as the other denominations, is that of nominalism. The census papers may reveal the claim to belong to the Church of England of many thousands whose attachment to the Church is of the slenderest, and whose support of the Church is a negligible quantity. It is a question how far the people belonging to the Anglican Church realise either its splendid possibilities or its serious responsibilities. The General Synod should afford an object-lesson to the indifferent, as it is a source of pride to the interested. The Primate, in forecasting the future, made use more than once of the expression "Church of Australia." It would be unfortunate if this suggested title were taken to mean the establishment of a claim, on behalf of the Anglican communion, to represent and embody the Australian conception of Christianity as against, or in contrast to, the work of other denominations. We take the expression to signify rather the desire of the Primate to see the embodiment of the spirit of unity and comprehension within the confines of the Church of England in the whole of Australia. Not the furthest seeing or most sanguine advocate of Christian union would venture upon predicting the date upon which any denomination or combination of denominations could with accuracy describe itself as the National Church of Australia. It must be remembered that, whilst the General Synod truly "represents nothing less than a continent," so also does the Presbyterian Assembly or the Methodist Conference; and a broad view of our common religious life would hesitate to differentiate between the Churches, and say which particular ecclesiastical organisation has the right to adopt a national title. There is, however, a high and imperial tone about the Primate's address that ought to inspire the people of the Anglican Church with fresh enthusiasm, and stimulate all its agents with new zeal for the arduous task before them.

WOMEN AND LIBERALISM.

The hooting of Mrs. Wade at Newtown, coupled with the experiences of Monday night in Phillip and Redfern, lends emphasis to the conduct which has been the outstanding feature of the Labour party's tactics since the campaign commenced. Whereas Labour candidates have invariably received a quiet hearing from the Liberal electors, the Liberal candidates, when speaking before audiences in which Labour supporters abounded, have had to make great physical efforts to render their voices audible. This is why it is that the strain of speaking has been so much more severe in the case of Mr. Wade than of Mr. M'Gowen. Mr. M'Gowen receives the plaudits of his supporters, and the tolerant attention of his opponents. Mr. Wade receives the plaudits of his supporters, but he has to talk against the organised howling of his opponents. The difference in the treatment of speakers corresponds to the essential difference between Liberalism and Labourism. Liberalism is meaningless if not tolerant of other views and other points of view, and solicitous not of one class only but of all classes. Labourism, on the other hand, stands for a coercive intolerance. Unless you think as we think, and do as we direct, you must be anathema, is the narrow and tyrannous creed of the party of which Mr. M'Gowen is the titular head. That being its attitude, how wearisome is it to have to endure all this mock indignation about a form of "coercion" which is ridiculously mild as compared with the coercion which is practised each day and every day by the Labour party.

The intolerant spirit and tyrannous temper of the Labour party are shown by the utterances of members, and the violent behaviour of crowds. The section of voters who will appreciate this most readily are the women. The men are nearly always partisans. The women, on the other hand, are able to sit back and take the more judicial view. They can see and hear both sides and decide accordingly. But because of their sex and their political detachment they are not likely to be impressed by the abusive language of the Labour party, nor again by the verbal shiftiness of the Labour candidates when placed in a tight corner. And still less are they likely to be impressed with a party which hoots the Premier's wife or any other man's wife. This savage excess will cost the party dear, not only in the immediate electorate in which it occurred, but in every electorate where women are active factors in the campaign. But there are even stronger reasons than this why the women of the State should vote Liberalism, and it behoves all the Liberal agents to keep the reasons well in evidence. It cannot be repeated too often that the Liberal Government has done more for women and the home than any previous Government has done, and much more certainly than any Government formed by Mr. M'Gowen is likely to do. The liquor and gaming legislation, and the legislation protecting girls, fixing wages, and providing for invalids, would not have been got from the Labour party, but it is the sort of legislation which women asked the franchise in order to secure. The Liberals have endeavoured to promote the wellbeing of women and contribute to the happiness of the home. A great responsibility, therefore, rests upon the women of New South Wales to show their appreciation of good work done, and their confidence in a continuance of good work in the future, by voting determinedly for the Liberal candidates.

The "Sydney Mail."—This week's number is an excellent general issue. Especially interesting, in view of the elections to be decided on Friday, are the portraits of the principals in the duels between Liberal and Labour candidates. The title-page is occupied by a large portrait of Captain Scott, leader of the Terra Nova Antarctic expedition. There is a fine double-page engraving showing the punt at Howlong crossing, on the Murrumbidgee River. The trouble in Portugal lends exceptional interest to some fine views of Lisbon and other parts of that country, and to portraits of Manoel II., his mother (Queen Amalie), and Mlle. Gaby Des Lys, the Parisian actress whose name has figured so prominently in the cables in association with that of the dethroned King. The special feature of "People in the Foreground" this week is an illustrated article on "The Young Turks and Destruction," and there are also portraits of the Duke and Duchess of Connaught, Mr. Andrew Carnegie, and Sir Charles Hardinge (Lord Penshurst), the new Viceroy of India. An interesting and well-illustrated article deals with Papua; and M. Le Couteur's informative account of life in New Hebrides is concluded. "Outdoor Australia" covers a wide variety of topics, and includes an admirable picture of Coombin Falls, near Blayney. There are snapshots of some of the principal prizewinners at the Kennel Club's recent show, and cricketers will be particularly interested in the portraits of several of the South Africans who are to visit Australia presently. A remarkable discovery of fuller's earth near Boggabri is illustrated, and in addition to other pictures are some of orchards at Kurrajong, and one of the new steamer St. Albans.

New High Court Judges.—It is reported from Melbourne that owing to the pressure on the High Court brought about largely by the arbitration work, two new Judges are to be appointed, the names of Mr. B. R. Wise, of Sydney, and Mr. Feez, of Brisbane, being mentioned. On the rumour being referred to the Acting Prime Minister (Mr. Hughes), who was in Sydney yesterday, he scouted it as being "pure invention."

Public Service Amending Act.—Yesterday the Act passed last session to amend the Public Service Act received the assent of the Governor. Under the terms of the measure a committee is provided for which will undertake the regrading of the officers, and also effect the transfer to the permanent staff of many who have been for a long time classed as temporary, in some cases for a number of years.

Donations to the Mitchell Library.—Mr. Fitzwilliam Wentworth, on behalf of the Wentworth family has presented to the library a life-like portrait in oils, and a bust, of his father, William Charles Wentworth, the "Australian patriot," who was born at Norfolk Island in October, 1791, and died in his 81st year, at Wimbourne Dorsetshire, England. His remains arrived in Sydney in the sailing ship British King, on the first day of May, 1873, and were deposited in a Mausoleum, specially constructed for the purpose, at Vaucluse, where he had previously expressed a desire to be laid at rest. Mr. Wentworth has also presented a portrait of Dr. William Bland, who devoted much of his energies and ability to the welfare of New South Wales. Mr. W. C. Wentworth, son of Mr. Fitzwilliam Wentworth, barrister-at-law, has likewise presented a portrait of Mr. Barron Field, one of the first two Judges of the Supreme Court of New South Wales and its dependencies, prior to the Charter of Justice, which was promulgated in 1824. The portrait is the only known presentment in the State of that eminent Judge, who occupied the Bench from 1816 to February 4, 1824, on which date he resigned, and left for England. Dr. John Service has presented a portrait in oils of his grand uncle, James Dunlop, the first Government Astronomer in the State, and a portrait of Mrs. Dunlop.

Saturday Half-holiday.—The Saturday half-holiday under the new law commences on the 22nd inst. Inquiries have been made as to whether those shops which now close on Wednesdays will be compelled to shut on the Wednesday of that week, viz., on the 19th. The view taken by the Government is that, as all non-scheduled shops will be required to observe the Saturday afternoon holiday, those which have been making the Wednesday their closing day will not be expected to do so on the 19th.

Mr. O'Malley as a Builder.—"It is to be regretted that Mr. O'Malley knows so little of our hardwoods" (writes "A Builder"). "He says they never lose their sap. Some of our politicians lose their heads, and Mr. O'Malley is evidently one. Our hardwood flooring boards lose all their sap and become thoroughly seasoned in four to five months. Every builder knows that; but the trouble is that builders frequently lay the floors after two weeks' drying. They have no room and no time to stack the boards out to dry, and have to lay them green, that is, with the sap in. In four months every particle of sap goes out, but the boards having been nailed down, shrinkage is then apparent. If the boards were drying for four months before being nailed down, there would be no shrinkage. The foreign designers of the Federal capital will be misled. They are not aware how little Mr. O'Malley knows. His position is a reflection on the intelligence of the Labour party."

Difficult Campaigning.—During the lunch hour yesterday a small procession of students in cap and gown, marched up Moore-street, headed by a man the reverse of academic vigorously ringing an old dinner bell. They were out for "No-license," and commenced to hold a meeting. First a banner was displayed: "The United Theological Students ask you to vote No-license." Then began the speech-making, quickly followed by police intervention. The students had no permit. The men in uniform were relentless. So a start was made for the Queen's Statue. But on the way, via Castlereagh-street, a happy thought struck one of the throng. Some partly demolished buildings, opposite the Australia Hotel, caught his eye. The balconies stood intact, and the next moment, the academic band, still accompanied by the incongruous bell-ringer, were tearing through piles of bricks and mortar, and tumbling over astonished workmen. Fortune smiled, for the demolishing contractor was a Sunday school superintendent. So the meeting started afresh. But again the police intervened, because leaflets were being distributed contrary to law. Once more a move was made for the Queen's Statue, the incongruous one shouting, "Vote for no-license;" and then, sotto voce, "When you can't get beer." It was only his joke, for later on at the Queen's Statue, when pressed to have a drink, he declined to take anything but milk.

The Labour Funeral.—The Lord Mayor's style of public speaking somewhat resembles that of a clergyman. While Alderman Taylor was addressing a meeting in St. John's Hall, Darlinghurst, last night on behalf of Mr. Daniel Levy, an ardent Labour supporter shouted, "Would you mind pronouncing the Benediction, Mister Mayor?" There was a laugh from two or three Labour "barrackers," but the Lord Mayor quickly turned it with the retort, "Yes, after the death of Labour on Friday. Mind you turn up to the funeral." (Applause.)

Overlapping of Unions.—The Industrial Court is experiencing trouble with unions connected with the same or kindred trades wanting separate boards and rates and conditions of employment. Yesterday Judge Heydon had before him an application by the Newcastle Sewer Workers' Union for a board, and the secretary of the Public Works Contractors' Union raised a doubt as to whether there was any necessity for the board asked for. Since the contractors had received notice in this case they had received another notice from the Railway Workers and United Labourers' Association, the members of which were employed on three large sections of the North Coast Railway, and that union asked for a board to control the whole State. The contractors were in favour of such a board being constituted, so that there was hardly any necessity for a special board for Newcastle. It was mentioned, also, that there were already three awards in existence which covered the class of worker concerned in this Newcastle application. His Honor decided that he would hear the application for a board for the whole State first, and said that, considering the great number of unions existing which divided the ground between them in such a strange way, it was rather difficult to define their boundaries.

Disposal of Street Sweepings.—The City Council declined, at its meeting last night, to ratify a provisional arrangement made by the Lord Mayor for the punting of street sweepings to sea. The Lord Mayor explained that when tenders for the work were invited last year one firm offered a service at 2/ per ton, and a second firm offered to enter into a contract at 3s 6d per ton. These offers were declined. Since then the council had decided to acquire a wharf at the foot of Gipps-street, from which sweepings could be tipped into a lighter, and he had followed this up by conditionally accepting an offer from Mr. Burrell, contractor for the Glebe, to punt the sweepings to sea at a charge of 1s 8d per ton for one year. If a three-years' contract were entered into Mr. Burrell was prepared to reduce his tender to 1s 6d per ton. On the motion of Alderman Harris it was agreed by 12 votes to six that fresh tenders be invited.

Diphtheria Decreasing.—The Board of Health reports indicate that the epidemic of diphtheria, which has been experienced in New South Wales for some time past, has considerably decreased. For the fortnight ended October 3 the cases numbered 180, whereas the usual figure was 229. For the same fortnight of last year the record was 70 cases—the normal level.

The City Council last night referred a resolution to the finance committee proposing that Parliamentary authority be obtained for paying £10,000 compensation to non-leaseholders in resumed areas.

Miss Louisa M'Donald, M.A., gave an interesting address last night before the members of the Shakespeare Society of N.S.W. on "Spanish Influence on Shakespeare."

"One Man One License" complains that in country towns hotelkeepers are allowed to take out auctioneers' licenses.

Some method of fumigation or disinfecting the speaking tubes of the public telephones is, in the opinion of "Health," an absolute necessity.

A correspondent writes, stating that he made an application to the manager of the Telephone Department of the G.P.O. to allow him to check the number of calls on his telephone weekly with the officer in charge of the local exchange. The request was refused.

"Old Resident" draws the attention of the North Sydney Tramway Board to the need of a seat being placed at the corner of Wycombe and Military roads, Neutral Bay.

The Commonwealth Public Service Commissioner is inviting applications for the positions of Commissioner of Land Tax, Melbourne (salary £1250 p.a.) and Deputy Commissioner of Land Tax, Sydney (salary £750 p.a.).

The president of the British Medical Association, New South Wales branch, was present by invitation at the centenary dinner of the Manchester Unity Independent Order of Oddfellows, held at the Town Hall on the 10th inst., and responded to the toast of "The Visitors."

The second of the course of University Extension Lectures on engineering will be delivered to-night, by Mr. A. J. Gibson, at the Railway Institute, as announced elsewhere, commencing at 8 o'clock.

USE OF LOCAL MANUFACTURES.

WESTERN AUSTRALIAN MOVEMENT.

PERTH (W.A.), Tuesday.

At a conference between the Australian Natives' Association, Chamber of Manufactures, and the Australian Labour Federation, it was stated that 13,000 workers were now engaged in the manufacturing industries of the State, and it was resolved to urge the Minister in charge of the Department of Industries to consider the best means of encouraging further development of manufactures. Other resolutions carried were:—1. "That the State and Federal Governments be urged to give substantial preference to Australian-made goods on ordering departmental supplies." 2. "That the Federal Government be urged to have made in Australia, and as far as possible from Australian raw material, all rails, fastenings, engines, and carriages for the transcontinental railway." Speakers advocated that preference should be given to Western Australian manufactures, and afterwards to products of the Commonwealth. A proposal to appoint a committee to watch Government tenders is to receive early attention.

Mr. Wilcox, chief president of the Victorian branch of the Australian Natives' Association, and the vice-president, Mr. Lemon, M.L.A., who have just completed a tour of the settled portions of the State, were surprised at the extent to which goods manufactured in Victoria were used in Western Australia. To them this indicated the need of an annual exhibition of Western Australian manufactures to bring local articles more prominently under the notice of the public. They also referred to the alleged prejudice of people in the east towards the people of Western Australia. Such prejudice, they said, did not exist among the eastern people, but was confined to the policy of the newspapers.

THE ANTARCTIC EXPEDITION.

A MELBOURNE MAN STARTS.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

Owing to the non-arrival of the steamer Terra Nova, and the impossibility of making any definite arrangement for a postponed date, the lecture by the leader of the Antarctic expedition, Captain Scott, which had been tentatively arranged for to-morrow, has been abandoned.

Mr. Thomas Griffiths Taylor, one of the members of the scientific staff of the British Antarctic Expedition, left to-day for Sydney, en route to New Zealand. Leave was taken of Mr. Taylor, who is an officer of the Meteorological Bureau, by Mr. H. A. Hunt, Commonwealth Meteorologist, and a large gathering of the members of his staff. Three cheers were given at the station for Mr. Taylor as the express moved off.

POLAR PHOTOGRAPHY.

A VALUABLE ADJUNCT.

FREMANTLE, Tuesday.

Among the passengers on the Macedonia is Mr. H. O. Ponting, the wel-known camera artist, who is on his way to New Zealand to join Captain Scott's South Pole expedition, to which he is attached as photographic expert. During an interview he said that Captain Scott hopes to bring back the most complete collection of photographs ever seen, and the latter will be the first explorer to concede to the art of photography a leading part in the work of a Polar expedition. "I have brought out with me the most perfect photographic equipment ever devised," said Mr. Ponting. "The apparatus, which has been specially made, and has taken over a year to complete, includes the latest pattern cinematographs and wonderful cameras for securing long-distance telephotography, and a complete equipment for making microphotographs. There are special cameras for stereoscopic work. I hope to bring back a valuable record of Antarctic colouring by means of photography of natural colours on autochrome plates."

Mr. Ponting accompanied the first Japanese army as correspondent during the late war, and was the recipient of the Russo-Japanese medal at the Great Exhibition of Photography held in Dresden last year. He received the highest award for photographs of Asia. His illustrated articles of the Far East have frequently appeared in the leading English, American, and Continental magazines.

RAILWAY ACCIDENT.

WARNED TOO LATE.

CHARTERS TOWERS, Tuesday.

Two trains left Houghton Valley for Charters Towers this morning, at 10.30, loaded with timber and coke, running some distance apart. All went well until within five miles of their destination. At that point, Plum Tree, there is a valley, and it is customary for the drivers to get up speed to help them up the hill. The first train failed to make the ascent, and the guard went back to warn the rear train, which was close behind. The warning was received too late, or the speed was too great to be checked in time for the front rear train smashed into the rear of the front train, reducing the guard's van to splinters, and wrecking two trucks, one loaded with coke, the other with firewood. The other part of the front train received no serious injury. The engine and front carriage of the rear train left the rails, but as the place of collision was level, they only travelled a few inches. The rear engine suffered severely. The cowcatcher was torn off, and the funnel and sandbox smashed. The drivers and firemen of both trains stuck to their engines. The line is expected to be cleared late to-night.

PERSONAL.

The Acting Prime Minister (Mr. W. M. Hughes) left for Melbourne last night by the express.

Mr. John Miller, Liberal candidate for the Bathurst seat, is confined to his room suffering from a severe bronchial attack.

Our Adelaide correspondent wires:—Mr. W. G. T. Goodman, general manager Adelaide Municipal Tramways Trust, returned from Melbourne yesterday. When asked whether there was any foundation for rumours circulated here that he would probably be appointed Chairman of the Victorian Railway Commissioners he expressed considerable indignation that publicity should have been given to "such unsubstantial statements."

At a meeting of the committee of the Civil Ambulance Brigade, Dr. MacCormick and Messrs. Louis Phillips and F. J. Smith were appointed life hon. members.

Mr. James R. Lawson, auctioneer and valuer, was tendered a complimentary dinner at Usher's Metropolitan Hotel on the occasion of his 50th birthday. Mr. J. Francis King (Hardie and Gorman, Ltd.) presided, and the vice-chairs were occupied by Messrs. W. A. Gibb, and L. R. Mitchell. "Our Guest" was proposed by the chairman, and Messrs. W. A. Gibb, L. R. Mitchell, H. Little, and J. Portus. A case of silverware was presented to Mr. Lawson.

Among the passengers from New Zealand by the steamer Moana, which arrived at Sydney yesterday, were Mr. Alexander Jameson (formerly a national secretary of the Y.M.C.A., and for several years general secretary at Perth), and Mr. Chas. Webster (ex-general secretary at Gisborne, N.Z.), who is proceeding to the Springfield Y.M.C.A. Training School, U.S.A. Both were delegates to the Biennial National Convention of the Y.M.C.A. held last week in Wellington, and Mr. Jameson is in Sydney for the General Synod of the Anglican Church, in which he sits as lay representative for the diocese of Perth.

Mr. H. S. Jerdan, senior, has just returned by the F.M.S. Caledonien from a trip to England and the Continent.

Mr. W. M'Ilrath, a director of M'Ilrath's, Ltd., was entertained at dinner in the A.B.C. Rooms on Monday evening by the officers of the firm. Mr. H. A. Wilson, on behalf of the staff, presented him with a case of cutlery to mark his approaching marriage.

THE COMMONWEALTH.

THE COMMON RULE.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

In connection with the unconstitutionality of the common rule provision of the Commonwealth Arbitration Act, Federal Ministers pin their faith to the bill already introduced to enlarge the industrial powers of the Commonwealth Parliament. They expressed the opinion yesterday that unconstitutionality of the provision will be remedied if the bill is approved by the people by referendum in April next year.

SOUTH AFRICAN EXPLOSIVES.

Several months ago complaints were made about certain explosives used at Broken Hill. A sub-committee of chemists was asked by the Explosives Investigation Committee to analyse the gases from all the explosives in use by the Broken Hill mines especially those of the Cape Company's manufacture. A summary of the report has been sent to the Minister for Customs (Mr. Tudor). It states that the blasting gelatine of Cape, Nobel, "Glasgow," and Nahnsen, and the gelignites of the same names are practically equal, as far as the products of carbon, monoxide, and nitric oxide are concerned.

A FAMOUS SWIMMER.

WINNER OF 600 PRIZES.

FREMANTLE, Tuesday.

Not the least interesting of the passengers by the Macedonia is Mr. W. Henry, chief secretary and organiser of the Royal Life Saving Society, who has come out to Australia in the interests of the society. He will visit each of the States, and deliver a series of lectures, in addition to giving displays of life-saving, fancy, and scientific swimming. Mr. Henry is the author of several works on swimming and diving. He first became prominent in swimming circles as a competitor in amateur races. By constant training and assiduous practice he speedily became one of the fastest amateur swimmers of his day, and in 1882 captured the 50 guinea Clayton Cup by winning it three times in succession. This was one of the most coveted trophies outside the actual championship prizes. From this time onwards his career was a remarkable one, and after taking the quarter-mile salt-water championship of England, he reached the height of his ambition by winning the long-distance championship of England over a distance of five and a half miles on the Thames, besides which he has since won over 600 prizes in competitions at home, and in Holland, Belgium, France, Austria, Greece, Italy, Sweden, Germany, and Finland. At present he holds the National England Challenge Shield, which he has made his own property by winning all competitions in Great Britain. He also won several international life-saving competitions, open to representative life-saving societies. One of his best performances was when he beat nearly 250 competitors for the international life-saving trophy at the Olympic Games held in Paris in 1900. It is the promotion of life-saving all over the world that Mr. Henry has made his life work, and in order to further its progress has visited nearly every country in Europe, has given lectures and displays in every city and town in Great Britain, and last year visited Canada, where the work of the society has since spread from Atlantic to Pacific. He is now visiting Australia and New Zealand. Mr. Henry has great admiration for the prowess as a swimmer of Beaurepaire, the young Victorian swimmer. In his opinion he is the greatest swimmer who has ever visited England from Australia, and possesses stamina which Kieran lacked. Judged on actual wins, Beaurepaire's feat of winning all championships from 100 yards to mile had never been equalled, although Kieran's time for some of the distances might have been faster. It was possible that Kieran was never extended, but the fact remained that he had never swept the championship board clean like the young Victorian had recently done.

DEATH AT PUBLIC MEETING.

MAYOR OF RYDALMERE'S SAD END.

Last night Mr. Moxham's supporters were holding a meeting at Rydalmere, and the Mayor of Rydalmere, Alderman Bogus presided. Alderman Jago, of Parramatta, was addressing the meeting, when Alderman Bogus fell forward on to the table. He was picked up in an unconscious condition, and Dr. Kearney was sent for, and pronounced life extinct. Mr. Moxham arrived shortly afterwards, but the meeting was adjourned.

Some months ago Alderman Bogus met with an accident through getting off a train when in motion, and was not in good health afterwards.

AN INTERNATIONAL SHOW.

CONFERENCE IN MELBOURNE.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

At the monthly meeting of the Royal Agricultural Society to-day replies were received from the Royal Agricultural Societies of New South Wales, Queensland, and South Australia agreeing to send delegates to the meeting to be held in Melbourne during Cup week to discuss the proposal to hold an international show. The secretary of the leading agricultural society in Western Australia intimated that there was not time for the society to send delegates, but that the president desired to say that he hoped the movement would succeed. The Tasmanian society acknowledged the circular, but made no provision for sending delegates.

THE STATE COAL MINES.

WAGES BOARD'S BILL DEFERRED.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

"That the bill be read this day six months" was the amendment adopted by the Legislative Council to-night on the Government's motion for the second reading of the bill, proposing the appointment of wages boards for employees at the State coal mine.

THREE MONTHS' GAOL.

RATHER THAN OBEY COURT.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Tuesday.

Charles Nodine, a well-known citizen of Wellington, has gone to gaol for three months rather than obey an order of the Court to sign a lease he had arranged in respect to premises in the city.

CAMPAIGN NOTES.

TWO MORE DAYS!

The Liberals are looking forward to Friday with high hopes. They feel that the tide is now set in their direction. Were polling day two weeks off, instead of two days, there is hardly a doubt that the Wade Government would achieve crushing victory. Had it been a month ago they would have been defeated. It has been a great pull up, and the Premier's dogged fighting qualities are largely to be thanked for it. Mr. Wade's opponents may continue to call him hard names, but he has won their respect as a first-class fighting man.

The indications are that the Liberal rally in the Town Hall to-night will be a memorable affair. The rush for early-door tickets has been phenomenal, and arrangements are being made for the big overflow meeting which is expected. Platform ticket holders will enter at the Druitt-street door, and general ticket holders by the main entrance.

Labour has organised a demonstration for to-night at Marrickville, when Mr. M'Gowen and Mr. Flowers will speak in company with the Labour candidates for Marrickville, Petersham, and Canterbury. A second demonstration, also to be addressed by Mr. M'Gowen, is to take place at Forest Lodge. This will be in connection with the Camperdown, Annandale, and Glebe electorates.

"Whilst we have men in power possessed of the high integrity of Mr. Wade we need never be afraid of the progress of this State of ours."—Mr. J. S. T. M'Gowen in proposing Mr. Wade's health at Kosciusko a few months back. It is an admirable sentiment, which electors should remember on Friday. Yet this is the same Mr. Wade whom Mr. M'Gowen and his supporters are now calling all the bad names they can think of.

"The Saturday Half-holiday Act passed by the Liberal Government is exactly what we asked for—no more and no less . . . Mr. You should be ashamed to even refer to the Saturday half-holiday question in the same electorate as our old and tried champion, Mr. David Storey."—Mr. Charles Coghlan, organising secretary Saturday Half-holiday League.

The first question Mr. Oram put to Mr. M'Gowen at Mudgee was, "Will successful applicants for land from the Crown under the Labour Ministry be allowed the right of conversion to freehold when they have fulfilled the conditions of the Crown?"

Mr. M'Gowen: "No."

Throughout the campaign at St. Leonards the selected candidate, Alderman Cocks, has dealt with the important issues before the citizens, and even a few political enemies admit that he has not trodden the muddy paths of misrepresentation and personalities. He is entitled, therefore, to claim the whole-hearted support of Liberals on Friday.

The Labour candidate at Ashfield, Rev. F. B. Cowling, was asked at a meeting, "Have you definitely signed the pledge on the Labour platform?"

Mr. Cowling answered: "Yes; I wonder what my friend has been worrying about."

The question was based upon a statement made by the candidate during his address to the effect that if he were returned he would not be a dumb or slavish follower of the leader of his party, but retain his independence, and, if the leader did not move fast enough, use the spurs to make him go faster.

Mr. Cowling is not likely to get the opportunity to stick his spurs into the leader of his party as the result of this election. But when Labour candidates talk in this manner about their "independence" are we to assume that if they get into the House they will disregard their pledge.

An expressive little cartoon is being circulated in the St. Leonards electorate. St. Leonards is represented as a bricklayer building a wall. He has already put Fell, Wade and Arthur in position as bricks composing the wall, and he is depicted in the act of putting Cocks alongside these other selected bricks. A little boy appears upon the scene, and points to two bricks lying on the ground, one branded Labour and the other Independent. "Say, mister, don't you want those two bricks?" The bricklayer, "No, sonny; take them away. I am only using selected material on this job."

The vice-president of the Shopkeepers' Saturday Half-holiday Association (Mr. Lowe) thus commends Mr. C. W. Oakes to the Paddington electors:—"Many have been claiming honours in connection with the Saturday half-holiday movement, but there are none more worthy of note than Mr. Oakes. His assistance at all times was very valuable to us, and is proof of the fact that he was just as enthusiastic over the accomplishment of this great reform which will shortly liberate 40,000 shop assistants and shopkeepers on Saturday afternoon as ourselves; and I, having been in close touch with Mr. Oakes on this matter, can fully testify to the foregoing facts. However, it is to be hoped that the electors of Paddington, and particularly the large body of shop assistants in that electorate, will not forget these facts, and the good work that Mr. Oakes has done in this direction, and show their appreciation of same by recording their votes in his favour."

"In the Southern district the 'off-take' from the miners' wages every fortnight amounted to an enormous penalty for the privileges conferred through the union. The frivolous ways in which union funds were sometimes wasted in conducting or assisting useless strikes or doubtful litigation warranted a closer inquiry from the mass of workers affected."—Mr. E. A. Beeby, Liberal candidate for Wollongong.

Mr. Ferguson's supporters are now satisfied that they have got Mr. Hollis beaten for Newtown. Mr. Hollis' supporters admit that their man has nothing more than an even chance. The meeting in St. George's Hall, Newtown, last Friday night, is declared by Mr. Harold Morgan to have been one of the best ever held in the electorate, and the speech of Mr. Ferguson to have been the most convincing he has heard in the campaign. The women of Newtown are giving Mr. Ferguson very active support, and he has also definite assurances of a substantial proportion of the railway and tramway votes.

During the campaign Mr. W. J. Ferguson has had occasion to remind those who are now so much concerned about leg-irons that the Labour party made no protest when he was leg-ironed in the Broken Hill strike. Mr. Hollis's friends thought that the best way to neutralise the effect of Mr. Ferguson's statements was to bring along Mr. Richard Sleath, who was co-leader with Mr. Ferguson of the Broken Hill strike, but is still attached to the Labour party, and let Mr. Sleath tell what he knew.

Well, this is what Mr. Sleath knew. He said that, although he was there to support Mr. Hollis, he could not help saying that the tactics of slander and abuse which his party was pursuing were likely to lose the election for Labour. And as to Mr. Ferguson, he said that the only fault he had to find with his statements about leg-irons was that he did not make them stronger. Although he was opposed to Mr. Ferguson on general political grounds, he had in fairness to admit that he had always regarded him as one of the straightest and absolutely the ablest man who had been associated with the Labour movement, and when he broke with the party he did so under creditable circumstances. This concession to fairness when dealing with an opponent seemed to bewilder a section of the audience, but it made others think hard.

"As a non-party man, and one who has at all times the interests of the masses at heart, I should be long sorry to see any alteration come about in the past good judgment of the electors of Paddington in failing to return to Parliament so able a man as Mr. Oakes—a man whom I am sure Paddington may well be, and is, proud of, and a man who has at all times proved himself a friend of the people, a statesman, and a gentleman." Mr. E. Lowe, vice-president of the Shopkeepers' Saturday Half-holiday Association.

"During all the time the Labour party had power behind the See Government, it never caused one acre of land to be made available for settlement. In his three years of office, Mr. Wade has grasped the essential fact that land settlement is the basis of prosperity. To multiply the number of settlers, and to make them prosperous, is to make the State prosperous, and Mr. Wade has worked for that end."—"Western Post."

J. E. M. G. writes:—As a working woman may I be allowed to express my strong approval of the two excellent leading articles in Saturday's "Herald," namely, "Liberals and the Home" and "An Empty Continent." I only hope every woman who has read them realises the truth of the contents as deeply as I do. No woman who reads the poster at present placarded in the streets, called "Mr. Wade's Bill of Fare," can fail to appreciate the amount of legislation that has been passed in favour of the workers. Why, the Government is to all intents and purposes a Labour Government. We will do well to stick to it. I appeal to my countrywomen to think well before they give their vote on Friday. Look at both sides with an open mind. They will soon be convinced which side has done the most for us, our homes, and children.

THE NEW PORTUGAL.

ANTI-CLERICAL OUTBURST.

FEAR OF EXCESSES.

BETTER CONTROL WANTED.

LONDON, Oct. 11.

The Lisbon correspondent of the "Times," commenting upon the acquiescence of the people of Portugal in the republic by the people, says that public interest and feeling, if the latter exists, have been skilfully diverted into the anti-clerical channel.

The Lisbon correspondent of the "Daily News" telegraphs that although the revolution has been a swift and splendid event, the present anti-clerical feeling of the people will possibly lead to excesses which will injure the revolutionary cause in the eyes of the world.

The Government, the correspondent continues, might easily have prevented soldiers and sailors fusillading the Quelhas monastery, and might easily have prevented the subsequent pillage.

The Irish Dominican Church, flying the British flag, was the only church open on Sunday unmolested.

EXPULSION DECREED.

JESUITS' PROPERTY CONFISCATED.

OTHER PROPERTY IN TRUST.

A decree, the object of which is to quieten the anti-clerical section of the people, has been issued by the Republican Government enforcing all laws against the clergy. The decree orders the expulsion of Jesuits, and confiscates their property. It expels foreigners who belong to other orders, and also Portuguese religious, who do not abandon their respective communities.

The property of these various orders, of which an inventory will be taken, will be disposed of later, according to the relations which will be eventually established with the Church.

Some Jesuits will emigrate to Great Britain, but the majority will emigrate to Brazil.

Portuguese nuns who were expelled from their native country had a hostile reception at Badajoz, Spain. They were hooted and hissed when proceeding to Carmelite convents in the town. Gendarmerie dispersed the mob, and the convents are now closely guarded.

LYING-IN-STATE

The remains of Dr. Bombarda, who was murdered, and Admiral Reis, who committed suicide, are lying-in-state in the Town Hall. There are no religious emblems.

KING MANOEL.

PROCEEDING TO ENGLAND.

OTHER ROYALTIES FOR ITALY.

LONDON, Oct. 10.

King Manoel and his mother, Queen Amalie, will probably reside at Wood Norton, in Norfolk.

Before leaving Portugal King Manoel wrote to the Premier: "My conscience is clear. I have always done my duty. My departure is in no wise abdication."

An Italian cruiser, which has arrived at Gibraltar, will convey the Queen Dowager Maria Pia and the Duke of Oporto to Italy.

Oct. 11.

The Gibraltar correspondent of the "Daily Mail" reports that Spain expressed strong fears that the visit of King Manoel to Villa Manrizue might cause a ferment, hence he goes to England.

The health of his Majesty is indifferent.

A Portuguese named Mateo, who is believed to be an anarchist, remained at Gibraltar, and was found loitering near Government House when King Manoel was landing.

[Wood Norton, Evesham, is the residence of the Duke of Orleans, brother of the Queen Mother.]

THE DEATH OF FERRER.

ANNIVERSARY IN BARCELONA.

LONDON, Oct. 10.

Two thousand coal-workers, on the anniversary of the execution of Francisco Ferrer, the Spanish anarchist, at Montjuich Fortress, Barcelona, visited his grave in Barcelona.

Violent speeches were made blaming clericals for the execution. The police dispersed the gathering.

The Spanish Premier, Senor Canalejas, banned references to Ferrer at meetings arranged in Catalonia in protest against the death penalty, and to express sympathy with the revolution in Portugal.

THE TOURING TOURNAMENT.

NO ASSISTANCE FROM WAR OFFICE.

LONDON, Oct. 11.

The War Office has made a fresh announcement regarding the proposal to form a military tournament party to tour Great Britain and the Dominions for the purpose of raising £200,000 to build a Home for Veterans.

The War Office states that the Army Council, after communication with the promoters of the tournament, is satisfied that it cannot approve or render any assistance to the scheme.

COLORADO EXPLOSION.

LITTLE HOPE OF RESCUE.

VANCOUVER, Oct. 11.

The hundred miners entombed in the mine at Trinidad, Colorado, by an explosion have not been rescued, and there is little hope that they will be recovered alive.

SOCIALISTS IN JAPAN.

VANCOUVER, Oct. 10.

The steamer Empress of India brings news of a crusade against Socialists in Japan.

This campaign followed the discovery of an alleged plot against the life of the Emperor of Japan.

AN ANCIENT ESTATE.

OFFERED FOR SALE.

LONDON, Oct. 11.

Earl Delawarr is selling the bulk of his Buckhurst (Essex) estate, which has been in the possession of the family since the Conquest.

BRITISH POLITICS.

THE VETO CONFERENCE.

PROSPECTS OF A CRISIS.

MISTS CLEARING AWAY.

LONDON, Oct. 11.

Mr. J. A. Simon, K.C., Solicitor-General, speaking at Walthamstow in support of his candidature for re-election, denied that the Liberals had broken the truce in politics which followed the conference between the Liberal and Conservative leaders to find an agreement on the powers of the House of Lords.

The result of the conference, Mr. Simon said, would soon be known. The sooner the better the Liberals said, but they must wait patiently.

Mr. Charles Scott-Dickson, M.P. (Unionist), in the course of a speech at Hamilton, Lanarkshire, said he hoped, but he would not say he expected, that the Constitution Conference would be productive of good results.

The "Morning Leader," commenting upon the political situation, writes: "Liberals will receive with relief the growing evidence that the mists of convention and unreality are clearing. We are getting back to facts. If the 'stand-pat' Tories force a crisis it should be decided and finished with before the Coronation. That will practically mean the holding of a general election in January."

THE LABOUR STANDPOINT.

REVERSAL OF OSBORNE DECISION.

THE SUPREME QUESTION.

LONDON, Oct. 10.

Mr. John Ward, M.P. (Labour), speaking at Cheadle, said that the Osborne decision was the result of a spirit of intolerance, which had swept over trades unionism after the formation of the Labour party.

The insistence of the pledge at the Trades Union Conference in Newcastle, he said, was a tremendous blunder, and owing to it the reversal of the Osborne judgment might take years.

He advocated payment of members as a partial solution of the difficulty.

Mr. Keir Hardie, M.P., speaking at New Milns, Ayrshire, said the only issue in regard to the Osborne judgment was whether workers should be free to have their own party if they had to pay for it, or take the representation their betters were willing to allow them.

Mr. Ramsay Macdonald, M.P. (Labour), speaking at Croydon, said that the only question before the country was reversal of the Osborne judgment. Any misapprehension on the part of the Government would be removed within 24 hours of the reassembling of Parliament.

"We must insist," Mr. Ramsay Macdonald continued, "on the immediate reversal of that judgment. The supreme question is whether there will be a place, broad, ample, and secure, provided by the Constitution for Labour representation. Nothing else is of the least significance to the Labour party and the majority of trade unionists."

IRISH HOME RULE.

THE ALL-ROUND SUBSTITUTE.

WELSH AND SCOTTISH CLAIMS.

LONDON, Oct. 10.

Mr. William O'Brien, M.P. (Independent Nationalist), addressing his constituents at Dunmanway, said that Mr. John Redmond and Mr. T. P. O'Connor, when in America, at a moment's notice, declared for devolution, which they had been denouncing for seven years, and had thrown over Gladstonian Home Rule for the sake of subscriptions from a few American millionaires and politicians.

Mr. Timothy Healy, M.P. (Independent Nationalist), said that Messrs. Redmond and O'Connor had dropped Home Rule for Ireland, and substituted home rule all round.

Ireland, he said, must wait till the freshly-hatched claims of Wales and Scotland had been attended to.

The "Daily News" writes that Mr. Redmond would naturally in the United States, whose federated States enjoy important powers of self-government, urge Irish Home Rule as part of the larger scheme of Home Rule and federation all round. Without relaxing the demand for Home Rule for Ireland on its own merits he incites his opponents to see how the matter looks in the larger perspective.

LOS ANGELES OUTRAGE.

CABLES TO AUSTRALIA.

VANCOUVER, Oct. 11.

Descriptions of the suspects wanted for the dynamite explosion in the "Los Angeles Times" office have been cabled to Australia, India, China, and Europe.

The New South Wales detective authorities have as yet received no official communication from the Californian Police Department regarding any suspects who may be on their way to Australia, and who are "wanted" in connection with the bomb outrage in the office of the "Los Angeles Times."

LOSS OF A STEAMER.

OFF MEXICAN COAST.

VANCOUVER, Oct. 10.

It is believed that the steamer Limantour has been lost off the Mexican coast in a big hurricane.

AUSTRALIAN DESTROYERS.

ARRIVAL AT ADEN.

LONDON, Oct. 10.

The Australian destroyers Parramatta and Yarra have arrived at Aden.

REFITTING THE VESSELS.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

The Minister for Defence (Senator Pearce) has decided that the refitting of the torpedo destroyers Parramatta and Yarra will be carried out at Williamstown (Vic.). He is of opinion that there is plenty of berthage accommodation there and is communicating with the Victorian Premier on the subject.

In this matter the Minister appears to have acted contrary to the advice of the Director of Naval Forces. Captain Creswell has already expressed the opinion that the space available at Williamstown would be insufficient to accommodate the new vessels.

FREMANTLE, Tuesday.

The Currie liner Darius, which arrived from Singapore to-day, brought out 200 tons of oil fuel for the new Commonwealth destroyers, Yarra and Parramatta. The latter vessels are expected to call here next month on their way to Melbourne.

TOWN-PLANNING CONFERENCE.

PROGRESS IN BRITAIN.

LONDON, Oct. 11.

The Town Planning Exhibition and Conference opened in London yesterday.

King George in a message expressed interest in the conference.

Mr. John Burns, President of the Board of Trade, in the course of a speech, emphasised that Great Britain had made greater strides in town-planning, and in better housing of the working classes, than any other country.

DEMANDS OF LABOUR.

FRENCH RAILWAY STRIKE.

HIGHER PAY WANTED.

LONDON, Oct. 11.

The railway strike in France is assuming serious proportions. A meeting of railwaymen held at Paris yesterday resolved on a strike throughout the northern railway system to-day. The demands comprise a general increase of wages and a weekly day of rest.

The meeting also resolved that the railway men should not respond to any order for mobilisation.

Troops have occupied the terminus of the railway in Paris. Fifty thousand men are affected.

MEAT PORTERS STRIKE.

PRODUCE DESTROYED.

LONDON, Oct. 11.

Porters handling imported meat at the Liverpool Docks have struck for higher wages. The unloaded meat they scattered in the streets.

WELSH COAL DISPUTES.

NINE THOUSAND MEN RESUME.

Nine thousand colliers in the Rhondda Valley, Wales, who struck on August 1, have resumed work.

AMERICAN FOREST FIRES.

GREAT LOSS OF LIFE.

TOWNS WIPED OFF THE MAP.

VANCOUVER, Oct. 10.

The number of persons who perished in the forest fires in Northern Minnesota (U.S.A.) is officially given as 40.

Later.

Beaudette, Spooner, Pitt, and Gracetown, towns in Minnesota, have been wiped off the map by the forest fires.

Seventy-five bodies have been found. It is expected the death list will reach 100.

Corpses are being brought to the railway station in Beaudette in waggon loads.

Oct. 11.

At Beaudette the loss of life on account of the fires amounted to 400. Two hundred and fifty-nine bodies have been recovered. The corpses were found in smouldering heaps.

Two hundred typhoid patients were hastily removed from the Beaudette Hospital. Many of the patients are now dying.

Logging mills and a vast area of forest are burning.

Five thousand people are homeless.

Robbers in the stricken towns are robbing women of their jewels. In the wild stampede before the flames wild animals raced with human beings in the endeavour to escape. Special trains are bringing the refugees to Duluth.

REVOLT IN BRAZIL.

A STATE GOVERNOR DEPOSED.

PECULIAR FEDERAL ACTION.

LONDON, Oct. 11.

A rebellion has broken out in Amazonas, one of the States of Brazil. The Opposition to Colonel A. Ribeiro Bittencourt, the Governor of the State, invoked the aid of Federal forces, and overthrew him.

A Federal flotilla, at the instance of the Opposition, bombarded Manaos, the capital of the State, but foreign Consuls and leading townspeople intervened, and firing thereupon ceased.

President Pecanha ordered the usurper to reinstate Colonel Bittencourt.

INDIANS IN THE TRANSVAAL.

LONDON, Oct. 10.

A son of Mr. Ghandi, a leading Indian agitator, and 37 recently-arrived Indians at Volksrust, in the Transvaal, were charged with not being in possession of certificates of registration.

Ghandi and eight others were fined £50 each, or three months' imprisonment, and the other defendants £25, or six weeks' imprisonment.

Eighty-five Asiatics who have been deported from the Transvaal—60 Indians, and the remainder Chinese—sailed from Bombay for South Africa on August 31. All are said to be domiciled in South Africa, being either registered in the Transvaal or South African born, and all were deported through Delagoa Bay. After rejoining their families they propose to take part in a struggle against the anti-Asiatic barrier. They have been supported at Bombay from large funds raised for their benefit, and the expenses of their repatriation will be borne from the same source. There is a strong feeling among native publicists in India that they should be allowed at least the right to land in South Africa. Of the last body repatriated, nine were summarily rejected.

GENERAL CABLE NEWS.

SOUTH AUSTRALIAN DISPLAYS.

LONDON, Oct. 11.

South Australia has an excellent display of produce at the Grocers' Exhibition in Leeds and Hull.

THE CLAN MACPHERSON.

The Board of Trade has decided to hold an inquiry respecting the loss of the ship Clan Macpherson while on a voyage from Newcastle to the west coast of South America.

[The Clan Macpherson, a steel screw steamer of 4779 tons, built in 1905 by Furness, Withy, and Co., Ltd., West Hartlepool, and registered at Glasgow, was bound from Newcastle to Valparaiso. She left Newcastle in June last year, and was posted missing at Lloyd's in December.]

SUICIDE OF RUSSIAN STUDENTS.

WINNINGS OF FRENCH AIRMEN.

French aviators have won £120,000 during the present year.

ENGLISH WHEAT EXPORTED.

PRINCE HENRY OF PRUSSIA.

Prince Henry of Prussia, brother of the German Emperor, who for a month past has been on a visit to England, is now proceeding home.

[Prince Henry of Prussia arrived at Southampton on September 7 in the North German Lloyd liner Kronprinzessin Cecelie on a private visit. It was his intention to undertake an extensive motor tour, for which purpose he took to England his own car.]

CHINESE IN VANCOUVER.

VANCOUVER, Oct. 11.

One hundred of the wealthiest Chinese merchants are taking part in a banquet to American business men representing chambers of commerce on the Pacific coast.

MINISTERIAL RESIGNATION.

Mr. F. L. Carter-Cotton, president of the Executive Council of British Columbia, has resigned office.

ENSIGN FOR CANADIAN CRUISER.

Queen Mary has presented a silk ensign to the Canadian cruiser Niobe.

MEAT FOR EUROPE.

REFRIGERATION CONGRESS.

IMPORTANT RECOMMENDATION.

LONDON, Oct. 10.

The International Refrigeration Congress at Vienna has adopted a resolution urging countries which do not produce a sufficient meat supply to relax measures excluding refrigerated meat.

Sir T. B. Robinson (Agent-General for Queensland), Sir Wm. Hall-Jones (High Commissioner for New Zealand), and Mr. T. A. Coghlan (Agent-General for New South Wales) supported the resolution, also representatives from Russia, Argentina, the United States, and others.

IMPORTS INTO AUSTRIA.

UNRESTRICTED TRADE URGED.

REPORT OF DELEGATES.

The Agents-General have submitted a request that Austria should allow trial shipments of Australian meat.

The Vienna correspondent of the "Morning Post" understands that the report of the delegation from the Austrian Chambers of Commerce sent to England to report on the frozen meat trade is in favour of unrestricted importation of meat.

CANADIAN LABOUR SHORTAGE.

ASIATIC IMPORTS REFUSED.

VANCOUVER, Oct. 11.

In consequence of the difficulty experienced in finding labour to complete the mountain section of its line, the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway has applied to the Cabinet of British Columbia for permission to import Asiatic labour for railway-making in the province.

The application has been refused, the Government in doing so, reiterating a declaration that its policy is to preserve British Columbia for the whites.

An acute labour situation has arisen on the mountain section of the Grand Trunk Pacific (writes the Toronto correspondent of the "Times"). The contractors have intimated that it will be impossible to complete the section in reasonable time unless additional labour is secured. So serious is the situation that the Government modified the regulations respecting the entry of foreigners into Canada. The modification affected railway workers of every nationality, except Asiatics. Though up to 12s 6d a day was offered, the contractors had only 1600 men where they should have had 5000.

IMMIGRATION RESTRICTION.

NEW YORK METHODS.

VANCOUVER, Oct. 10.

Three Frenchmen having £6000 in cash, and a letter of credit for £14,000, were subjected to indignities by the Immigration authorities in New York.

A rigid investigation has been ordered.

REVOLT OF PRISONERS.

SUCCESSFUL ESCAPE.

LONDON, Oct. 10.

A number of prisoners, mostly members of ex-President Castro's party, revolted and escaped from Maracaibo, Venezuela, after killing several officials.

BILLIARDS.

GRAY'S MONOTONOUS STROKE.

OFFERS OF MATCHES.

LONDON, Oct. 10.

Stevenson, according to "Sporting Life," says that the monotony of Gray's stroke is liable to prove its undoing, as the public desire variety.

It is not likely Stevenson will play Gray.

Oct. 11.

Haverson offers to play Gray 18,000 level for £100 a side, the match to occupy two weeks, each player choosing the table and balls for one week.

Inman offers Gray a start of 3000 in 18,000 up, with crystalite balls, and a start of 5000 with ivory balls, the stakes to be £250 a side for each match.

SWIMMING.

E. TARTAKOVER'S SUCCESS.

LONDON, Oct. 10.

During the past season E. Tartakover, formerly of East Sydney, has won five Otter club challenge cups—one outright; also a quarter-mile handicap, all from scratch.

THE RICHMOND COLLISION.

SIGNALMAN ACQUITTED.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

The hearing of the charge against Alexander M'Donald, signalman, of having, though neglect or omission of regulations, contributed to the cause of the Richmond railway disaster, was concluded to-day. Mr. Creswell, P.M., decided that the Crown had failed to establish a prima facie case, and dismissed the information.

NAVAL COURT-MARTIAL.

BRISBANE, Tuesday.

A naval court-martial was held on board the H.M.S.A.S. Gayundah to-day, at which Gunner Ernest Widdup was charged with having been guilty of neglect of duty, and also with drunkenness on September 1 last. It was alleged that on that date he was officer of the watch, and was required for duty at the naval stores, but he did not attend. At 8 p.m. the wardroom steward and quartermaster on duty went to his cabin, and found him lying on the bunk, dressed. Accused was roused, and assisted to his feet, and told the lieutenant wanted him, but he made no reply and lay down again. The accused said he had been attacked with severe pains in the stomach, and vomiting, and other serious symptoms. He pleaded not guilty to the charge of drunkenness. The Court found the charges against the prisoner to have been proved, and dismissed him from the naval forces of the Commonwealth.

MORE IMMIGRANTS.

FREMANTLE, Tuesday.

The Fremantle German mail steamer Seydlitz, which arrived from Bremen Haven on Monday morning, brought out a large contingent of immigrants for this State. In addition, she has a large number for Victoria and New South Wales, the majority of whom appear to be a good class of immigrant. Owing to the large influx of immigrants to this State, the authorities in England are having some difficulty in arranging accommodation, and as a result arrangements have been made with the North German Lloyd. The nominated aid-assisted immigrants by the Seydlitz total 31.

MORE STEAMER SPACE WANTED.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

The State Treasurer (Mr. Watt) has been advised by the Agent-General in London (Sir John Taverner) that it will be impossible to book passengers for more than one-third of the new settlers who wish to leave the United Kingdom for Victoria during the remainder of the year, unless some special provision is made for increased accommodation by shipping companies. Mr. Watt says that the Ministry is now negotiating with the object of securing passages for these people to Victoria. It may, he says, be necessary to charter a special steamer, or arrange with one of the companies to put on an extra vessel.

SECOND EDITION

PARIS ISOLATED.

ENGLISH PASSENGERS DELAYED.

LONDON, Oct. 11, 2 p.m.

The strike on the Northern railway of France has stopped all traffic to Paris, and the city is isolated.

The Post Office has established a motor service to Calais.

English passengers have been held up at Boulogne and Calais owing to the trains not running.

WHEN LABOUR RULES.

A LESSON FOR THE STOCK-OWNER.

The stockowners of this State will have something to wipe off the slate next Friday, and if we judge their temper aright they will not hesitate to act.

For two months now the slaughtermen at Glebe Island have been out on strike. For those two months the meat trade of the State has been hung up. For pretty well the whole of those two months stockowners have been losing, and losing, and losing.

In the first days of the trouble stock were kept back, because it was thought matters would soon right themselves. Consequently, supplies were light, and values managed to maintain themselves. But soon the hand of the stockowner was forced. It was time for him to get "shut" of his sheep, whatever the state of affairs at Homebush. Supplies began to pour in. Glebe Island butchers, the mainstay of the market, were crippled; they could buy but a tithe of what is their custom. And so there could be but one result. The bottom fell out of the market.

Ten days ago the wages board gave its decision in connection with the main bone of contention in the slaughtering trouble, and was all in favour of the men. They asked for a weekly wage, and they got it. The carcase butchers, beaten and submissive, asked the men to resume work at once pending the decision of the board with regard to other matters, expressing willingness for such finding to be retrospective. But Labour hadn't done yet! Tyrannical unionism had a few more guns to fire. There were men who had stuck to the masters through the struggle, and these the union demanded should be dismissed. There the trouble stands.

In the meantime stockowners must bear the burden! Values at Homebush for sheep kept on sinking lower and lower until last Monday, when absolutely the lowest point of the season was touched. It is only a fair estimate to put the losses to stockowners on sheep sold at Homebush during the last five weeks at 3s to 5s per head. Just about 370,000 have passed through the yards in that time. So that the direct loss ranges from £55,000 to £75,000, roughly. The indirect loss is, of course, incalculable. Stockowners can judge for themselves, so far as it directly concerns them. And, indirectly, there is the trade of the State.

The set-back that the meat trade of New South Wales has received through this trouble has yet to be recorded. We have to meet feverish competition in overseas markets, with many natural factors, such as proximity, already in favour of the competitor. And what this extra, and unexpected, handicap is going to mean, men in the trade do not care to think. Europe is hungering for meat, and we have a great surplus of sheep that we cannot get slaughtered.

Stockowners are receiving a bitter lesson from Labour.

A GRATEFUL INVALID.

REPAYS MAID'S ATTENTIONS.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

Mrs. Margaret Waldie, about 47 years of age, was taken to the Melbourne Hospital to-day in a critical condition, suffering, it is believed, from the effects of poison. Mrs. Waldie came to Melbourne by the Ormuz a fortnight ago, and went to stay at the Federal Palace Hotel, Collins-street. During the fortnight of her stay she had complained of ill-health, and had consulted Dr. Reid, of Richmond. A chambermaid, Agnes Taylor, brought her a cup of coffee this morning, and found her unconscious on the bed in her room. Dr. Reid was called in, and ordered Mrs. Waldie's removal to the hospital. Before she became ill she had thanked Miss Taylor for her attention, and upon Constable Kinsella searching her room he found two letters. The first, written at 2 o'clock in the morning, expressed the writer's thanks to Miss Taylor, and informed her that Mrs. Waldie had suffered from ill-health, and left all her property to her. A small travelling box, however, she wished to be sent to her brother, Mr. James S. Reid, of Dumfries. The second letter was to Mr. H. P. Smith, manager of the hotel, informing him that she left her property to Miss Taylor. Three bottles containing chlorodyne were found in a travelling bag in the room. Mrs. Waldie, it is believed, was formerly a nurse in Sydney.

Mrs. Waldie died at midnight.

VOTING.

Polling booths will be open on Friday from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The suggestion has been made that ladies should record their votes between the hours of 10 a.m. and 4 p.m., leaving the earlier and later hours clear for the rush of men proceeding to or returning from work.

Provision is made for country electors who may be in Sydney on Friday to record their votes at special polling places.

The method of voting is to mark a cross in the square preceding the name of the candidate for whom the vote is intended. The ballot-paper must not be otherwise marked.

A complete list of the polling-places in the city and suburban electorates will be published to-morrow.

ISLAND MURDERS.

THREE ARRESTS MADE.

BRISBANE, Tuesday.

Information was received to-day on the arrival of the steamer Moresby from the Solomons of the arrest of three natives who are said to be implicated in a murder which took place some time ago on Lilihina Island, in Maroro Lagoon.

A series of tragedies is reported to have taken place in Karoro Lagoon, trouble commencing with the murder of a native employed on one of the trading stations. This was followed some time afterwards by the murder of one of the managers of Lever Brothers, and a native in turn killed a native who had murdered the white man.

CITY DESTRUCTOR.

ALLEGED FAILURE.

During a discussion in the City Council last night on a proposal to punt street sweepings out to sea it was stated by Alderman John Harris that the necessity for action had arisen through the new destructor in Moore Park being an absolute failure, through which from £12,000 to £14,000 of the citizens' money had been absolutely wasted.

RABBIT DESTRUCTION.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

The use of strychnine on carrot baits as a poison for rabbits is reported to be proving remarkably successful in country districts. The carrots are sprinkled with sugar and left for two or three nights in succession in furrows in some rabbit-infested locality. The rabbits soon acquire a taste for the new food, and devour it eagerly. Then on the third or fourth night the bait is sprinkled with strychnine in the proportion of 1oz to 10lb or 12lb of carrots. Six separate trials of the carrot bait recently yielded a harvest of 3001 dead rabbits, mostly from a quarter to three-quarters grown.

PREMIER'S APPEAL.

THE ISSUES STATED.

FREEDOM AND PROGRESS.

TO THE ELECTORS OF NEW SOUTH WALES.

On the eve of the election I venture to make a personal appeal in support of the Government. The campaign has been strenuously fought, our policy has been fully placed before you, our administration has been closely scrutinised, and I now claim that our record of past achievements, and our programme for the future, justly entitle us to a renewal of your confidence. On what do we base this claim? The Liberal party offer:—

1.—Industrial progress and the maintenance of the Industrial Disputes Act. Mr. M'Gowen is going to repeal this Act, which has given increased wages to thousands of workers.

2.—Financial stability and easing the burdens of the people as against increased taxation for socialistic experiments.

3.—Land for settlement and financial assistance to persons seeking homes on the land. Mr. M'Gowen's policy will depreciate land values of large and small holders, and place fresh burdens on the settler.

4.—Freehold tenure as against confiscation of titles.

5.—Progressive Public Works policy and railways to open up new country. Mr. M'Gowen will stop all new railways and throw many thousands of workers idle, and deprive settlers of access to a market.

6.—Maintenance of law and order rather than sympathy for revolutionary socialists.

7.—Clean politics as against slander and misrepresentation.

8.—Maintaining the Federal Constitution. The Labour party will destroy State Governments. They have broken their promise to establish the Federal capital in New South Wales.

9.—Liberalism against Socialism.

This policy spells freedom, progress, and prosperity, but it can only be secured by united action on the part of all Liberals. Let every vote be recorded in support of the Government, and as a protest against the policy of misrepresentation.

C. G. WADE,
State Premier.

NOTABLE MESSAGES.

TO THE PEOPLE.

"HE HAS DONE HIS DUTY."

"I earnestly commend the Liberal Government to the people of this State as worthy to again be entrusted with the administration of public affairs. The Premier (Mr. Wade) has proved himself to be a fearless and able leader, and the fact that he has been bitterly criticised and attacked by his opponents affords the best proof that he has done his duty in times of stress and difficult.

"JOSEPH CARRUTHERS."

THE MINISTER FOR EDUCATION.

Liberals of New South Wales, your hour of triumph is at hand. A campaign unparalleled for the ferocity and unscrupulousness of the attacks upon the Government has only served to reveal the impregnable position of the Liberal party and the abject weakness of the reactionaries, who are trading politically on the honoured name of Labour.

Our party can point to six years of unexampled prosperity, due not less to bounteous seasons than to wise and progressive legislation and prudent administration.

Measures fraught with incalculable benefit to all classes of the community have become law during the Liberal regime.

The splendid resources of our country have entered upon a new era of development under the far-seeing Liberal legislation of the past six years.

The priceless blessings of industrial peace are over the land. Never in all our history has our public credit stood higher before the world, nor have our prospects for the future been brighter.

Would you turn back the hands of the clock, would you return to the dark and distressful days of deficits, of unemployed agitations, of low wages and declining credit, of land scandals, of stagnation in trade, crippled enterprise—those days when the Labour party last held the balance of power; then put into office those enemies of progress and public liberty, those insidious foes of free speech, who are striving to gain place and power by the easy process of blackening the characters of leading public men, and who are masquerading as the only friends of the people.

Would you, on the other hand, pursue the safe path of progress, of freedom and prosperity, of even-handed justice, of equal rights for all citizens, then rally round the grand old Liberal flag and triumphantly return to power the standard-bearers of Liberalism.

Thus may you enable the 14th of October to compensate for the ills coming upon us by that unlucky day for Australia, the 13th of April.

J. A. HOGUE.

INDIVIDUAL LIBERTY.

"Liberalism in the nineteenth century destroyed in Great Britain every vestige of class tyranny, and made the masses free. In Australia, in the twentieth century, through the teachings of ignorant and self-seeking visionaries, about to fling away that freedom by destroying the individual liberty of all. If not, then vote for the Liberal candidate on Friday next.

"WILLIAM M'MILLAN."

"TRULY NATIONAL WORK."

"The Liberal party stands for an enlightened and educated democracy that embraces all classes and creeds.

"It seeks to apply to the conditions and necessities of the people and the State those broad principles of Government that make for the greatest good of the greatest number.

"In national and agricultural education, in land settlement and internal development, in social and industrial legislation, the work of the present Government constitutes a record in our country's history.

"It is along these legislative lines that we have to look and hope for our highest economic achievement, and the truly national work of the Liberal party must appeal to the intelligence and the conscience of the people.

"JAMES GRAHAM."

"A CRITICAL POSITION."

"I trust that Liberal voters throughout the State will recognise the urgent importance of the present contest, and will not fail to vote in support of their opinions. The position is a critical one, and if a majority of the electors are, as I believe they are, Liberals, they should show their faith by returning the Liberal Government to power.

"F. E. WINCHCOMBE, M.L.C."

TO THE POINT.

"Your motto on polling day: Stand to those who braved all and stood to you.

"C. W. OAKES."

LIBERALISM SPELLS DEVELOPMENT.

"As business men we have to look to both parties for the encouragement of local industries. At the same time it is a question to consider which party is really most concerned with commercial development on individualistic lines; and to level-headed people the policy of the present Government is the one best fitted for the substantial development of our country.

"We need a policy that will give ample scope to the energies of our young people, and enable them to give to the State the best that is in them. Schemes of nationalisation will quench those energies, and are not to be encouraged. Therefore, the policy to encourage is one that will allow the capabilities of our rising generation full latitude, and thereby build up a self-reliant, energetic, and prosperous people.

"J. G. FARLEIGH, M.L.C."

MANIFESTOES.

PEOPLE'S REFORM LEAGUE.

TO THE ELECTORS.

Ladies and Gentlemen,—Again the time has come round when we are called upon to determine at the ballot-box how the interests of New South Wales are to be best promoted. This can be done by seeing that every available vote is cast for the party that will develop the great resources of the country, and administer its affairs on safe business lines. We have on the one hand a party whose administration has been tested by hard practical experience, and proved to be straight, clean, and eminently successful.

Apart from party prejudices, or personal predilections, the argument of actual present material prosperity, in which all sections of the community are participating, must appeal to us with all the irresistible force of conviction.

The unemployed, and relief works for their benefit, have disappeared, and in their place is a condition of general industrial activity and remunerative employment beyond anything previously experienced in the State.

The policy of the Government has not involved any retrenchment in the Civil Service. On the contrary, the service can look forward to an assured increase of £80,000 per annum.

The country is being rapidly opened up for settlement, and signs of active development are to be found in all parts of the State.

Anyone who takes the trouble to think, knows that all this is not the result of chance, and that it has been and can only be brought about by common-sense business management, by experienced men who have adopted and followed out sound business principles.

We have, on the other hand, a party who appeals to the electors to be allowed to manage the State for the next three years. Up to the present, their record so far as the State is concerned, is a blank. The principal plank, however, in their platform is more taxation.

We think we are already taxed sufficiently, and Mr. Wade assures us that no new taxation is necessary for the carrying out of his policy—and we know what he says can always be relied upon.

The same cannot be said of the Labour party in the Federal Parliament, who are supported by the Labour party in the State.

Take, for instance, their graduated land tax. It was put forward for the purpose of bursting up big estates. Now we find it applied to city and town properties. It was put forward as having a maximum of 4d in the £. Now we find it increased by 50 per cent. It was put forward as a means of compelling owners of large holdings to subdivide them into suitable areas for small holders. But it is well known that the great majority of large estates could not be profitably handled by a number of small holders unless railway communication is first established; and the crops which would have to be relied upon could not be marketed without a railway. But the Federal Parliament has no control over railway construction, and their land settlement project would in such case simply amount to a snare to the unwary settler. Again, if the Federal Government looks to the State Labour party to assist them in this scheme, by constructing the required railways, it would mean that the State would bear the cost of construction, whilst the Federal Parliament collected the revenue from the land tax.

But the State Labour party has declared it will not undertake the construction of any railway which will not pay interest and 1 per cent. sinking fund from the start. So what are the prospects of the small settlers in such case. We do not say this deception is intentional, but on the face of it it bears a remarkable resemblance to a confidence trick.

In these circumstances, what advantage can the electors gain by a change of Government? It would be very desirable from the Parliamentary Labour party point of view, but to our mind such a change would amount to a public disaster.

Are we going to break in on a system of sound and successful business management, which has produced such magnificent results to the State as a whole, merely to try the experiment of government by untried men?

Mr. M'Gowen says this is the best chance his party has had in 19 years. If he is the man we want to manage our affairs, it is strange it has taken him 19 years to demonstrate his fitness for it.

We hope that the judgment of the electors will be to continue in the management of the affairs of New South Wales the men who have restored prosperity to our State, and whose policy is such as to ensure a continuance of development and progress. (Signed)

JOHN STINSON, President.
F. N. YARWOOD, Hon. Treasurer.

TO THE WOMEN.

WOMEN'S LIBERAL LEAGUE'S APPEAL.

We ask you to record your vote on Friday next in favour of the Liberal party.

We ask this because we believe that the Wade Government is the best we ever had. This can be proved by the excellent measures placed on the statute book.

We ask you, mothers, to vote for the Liberal party because it has legislated for the benefit of your little ones by the Infants' Protection Act, the Pure Food Act, and the Neglected Children's Act, and has removed stumbling blocks from the path of your sons and daughters by the Girls' Protection Act, the Liquor Act, and the Gaming Act.

We ask you, daughters, to vote for the Liberal party because it has done more than any previous Government to help the men who are going to be your husbands by its policy of closer settlement, and by granting loans from the Government Savings Bank, by the relief to injured workmen in the Workmen's Compensation Act, and by the shortening of hours and raising of wages, and assistance to slow and aged workers through the Industrial Act, now applied to "sweated clerks." Think, also, of the benefit it has conferred on young persons incapable of earning their living by the Invalid Pensions Act.

We ask all women to maintain in power a Government which can show so splendid a record, and a Premier who, by his courage, and unselfish devotion to public duty, has proved himself worthy of the esteem of all patriotic citizens.

Women of New South Wales, vote for the Wade Government, the true friend of women workers.

WOMEN'S L. LEAGUE.

FEDERAL SESSION.

A DESERTED HOUSE.

THE CALL OF THE HUSTINGS.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

Members of the House of Representatives are evidently tired of attending to their duties in the Federal Parliament. At least, that could have been inferred to-day when the House met and a beggarly array of empty benches met the eye. Seldom this session has the Chamber appeared so deserted, and small wonder, for out of the 75 members drawing salaries from the Commonwealth 30 were absent. Of this number 20 were from New South Wales, and from what could be learned were in New South Wales.

The elections in the mother State have apparently got into the blood of the Federal members, for ever since the fight has begun there has always been a small detachment of Labour men away from the House helping "the brethren" in their fight against the Liberals. Still the absentees have not been missed, their numbers being comparatively small; not that it would have been larger if it had been safe to let them go, but the land tax was before the House, and the Government wanted to keep a good working majority at hand to bludgeon anything they wanted through committee. The bill once out of the way, a free leg was given to New South Wales members to peel off their coats and enter the fight. Apparently good advantage has been taken of the opportunity, for no less than 13 New South Wales Labour members were absent from to-day's sitting. The most noticeable absentee was Mr. Hughes (the Attorney-General), who on Wednesday last was handed over the leadership of the Government by the Prime Minister during his absence in South Africa. Whether Mr. Fisher expected his lieutenant to desert the helm of the State ship to indulge in a little electioneering that was no business of his cannot be said, but it seems strange that before the Prime Minister has left Australia his deputy should have transferred his charge of leading the House to another Minister.

With a view to allowing the New South Wales members to get away to remain in their State another day the business of the House was so arranged that the Government would not want a strong body of supporters behind it. The Sugar Bounty Bill was first taken. This measure provides for the continuance of the £3 per ton bounty being paid to growers of "white sugar" after 1911, in which year the original Act would have expired. Nearly everybody is in favour of continuing the bounty, but where a number of members do not agree with the Government is in regard to the appointment of a Royal Commission to inquire into the industry. The Deakin Government before leaving office had arranged for such a commission, but the present Ministry on getting into power let the matter drop. Now members on all sides are clamouring for the commission to be gone on with, but the Government for some reason or other seems to be afraid of allowing full inquiry being made into the industry. The second reading was carried on the voices.

In committee Mr. Sinclair, a Queensland member, sought to get the opinion of the House as to whether the bonus should be raised from £3 to £4. To get this opinion he moved a formal amendment of one of the clauses. After a short debate, the amendment was negatived on the voices, and the bill was passed through all stages. The same progress was made with the Sugar Excise Bill, and the House adjourned at 10.15.

In the Senate very little headway was made with the Navigation Bill. Clause 180, dealing with foreign seamen, was responsible for several hours' debate. The clause as submitted to the House provided that any seaman absent from his duty without leave whilst his ship was within Australia be conveyed on board the ship and delivered to the master or mate; but in the case of a seaman who was an Australian citizen no order should be made for his return to the ship without his consent. Senator Sayers (Liberal) contended that if an Australian citizen was to enjoy such a privilege it should also apply to all British seamen. He moved an amendment to that effect, but, after a lengthy debate, it was negatived on the voices. This sort of thing is often done in the Senate. A subject is deemed to be worthy of extended discussion, but when the real test comes, no division is taken.

The Minister for Defence introduced the Naval Defence Bill. It makes provision for the division of the naval forces into two branches—the permanent and the citizen naval forces. The bill also prescribes the conditions of service. It was read a first time, and the second reading was fixed for Wednesday.

THE ADELAIDE STRIKE.

CONFERENCE FAILS.

ADELAIDE, Tuesday.

The position in regard to the Rundle-street strike was unaltered to-day. It is felt that the first real test of the issue will be made on Thursday or Friday, when the contractor will probably endeavour to make a start with permanent hands brought over from Melbourne. The Mayor of Adelaide, Alderman L. Cohen, presided over a conference between representatives of the employers and employees at the Town Hall to-day. The following proposition was placed before it:—"That Mr. Woolf offers 8s 3d for ordinary labourers, and 8s 9d for men on concrete boards for the completion of Rundle-street. For the completion of Hindley-street he offered 8s 6d and 9s." The compromise was placed before a full meeting of the strikers this evening, and it was unanimously decided that it could not be accepted. The Mayor intimated that the terms suggested were the best Mr. Woolf could offer.

During the day there were several scenes, and one loyalist, whilst walking along the North Terrace, was dealt a blow in the face and knocked down. It is stated that he also received a blow on the head and several cuts about the face. The police promptly arrested two men.

A SEVERE WARNING.

BROKEN HILL, Tuesday.

Peter M'Evoy, was to-day fined £3 and costs, £2 14s, for abetting in the stealing of 6d worth of wood from the Zinc Corporation. Three boys, who were brought before the Children's Court charged with stealing the wood, were discharged, the magistrate finding that M'Evoy was the direct cause of the theft. M'Evoy was under recognisances for the good behaviour of his boys, and this helped to make the fine heavy. Thefts from the mines are so rife that a heavy fine had become necessary as a warning.

FEDERAL PARLIAMENT.

THE SENATE.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

The President took the chair at 3 p.m.

The Minister for Defence obtained leave to introduce a bill relating to naval defence. It was read a first time, and the second reading fixed for to-morrow.

THE NAVIGATION BILL.

The Navigation Bill was then further considered in committee.

On clause 180, dealing with foreign seamen, "If any seaman is absent from his duty without leave whilst his ship is within Australia, any justice, upon complaint on oath, may issue his warrant for the apprehension of the seaman, and thereupon may, at the request of the Consul of the country to which the ship belongs, and on proof of absence without leave, order the seaman to be conveyed on board the ship or delivered to the master or mate of the ship, or to the owner of the ship or his agent, to be so conveyed, provided that, in the case of a seaman who is an Australian citizen, no such order shall be made without his consent." Senator Sawers (Lib., Q.) moved an amendment to the effect that the clause apply to British as well as Australian citizens.

The amendment was negatived on the voices.

Progress was reported, and at 10 p.m. the House rose till to-morrow.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

The Speaker took the chair at 3 p.m.

FEDERAL CAPITAL DESIGNS.

The Minister for Home Affairs, in reply to Mr. Watts, said that the Government hoped to bring before the Cabinet this week the question of calling for designs for the capital city. The contour plans were ready, and the Government had only to decide what amount should be offered as prizes for the designs and the scope of the competition.

THE POSTAL COMMISSION.

Mr. Page (Q.): Can the Hon. Minister representing the Treasurer tell us what the Postal Commission has cost?

Mr. Frazer (Hon. Minister): I was looking into this matter this morning, and I find that to date the cost of the commission has been £5333 13s 7d, exclusive of printing.

Mr. Hedges: Will the Hon. Minister give the House the details as to where the money went?

Mr. Frazer: I'll have to ask the hon. member to move for a return on the subject.

Mr. Higgs (Labour, Q.) asked the Minister representing the Acting Prime Minister if it was intended to introduce a bill for the purpose of appointing two additional Judges of the High Court.

The Minister for External Affairs said the Ministry entertained no such proposals.

SUGAR BOUNTY BILL.

The debate on the second reading of the Sugar Bounty Bill was continued. Mr. G. B. Edwards (Liberal, N.S.W.) asked the Minister for Customs what the Government intended to do in connection with the appointment of a Royal Commission on the sugar industry.

The Minister for Customs: I want this bill through first.

Mr. Edwards: And what then?

The Minister for Customs: What must wait till then.

Sir Robert Best (Liberal, Vic.) thought the matter should be regarded in a broad light, not so much as to the necessity of developing an industry of one State, but as a factor in the development of tropical Australia. Parliament should be prepared to grant the industry every assistance. At present large tracts of country had been settled by small farmers, who were raising sugar, and these men should be encouraged. He was sorry the Government could not see their way clear to go on with the Commission appointed by the late Ministry, who had decided that the question was too intricate to be dealt with until thoroughly gone into by a body of experts. The introduction of this measure was evading the permanent settlement of the question. It would not satisfy the industry or the people of Australia. He hoped that the Government would proceed with the appointment of a Royal Commission, and nothing short of this should satisfy Parliament. He did not regard £6 a ton protection as excessive.

Mr. L. Smith (Labour, Tas.) did not think that the industry would be put on a proper footing until it was nationalised.

Mr. Atkinson (Liberal, Tas.): How would you nationalise? Would you buy out the C.S.R.?

Mr. L. Smith: No, certainly not. I would not give them what they wanted. I would put up mills alongside their mills. They would soon be willing to sell to us at a fair figure if they saw we were going to compete with them.

Mr. Foster (Liberal, S.A.) advocated an inquiry by a Royal Commission before any legislation was gone on with. Everybody wanted to see the sugar industry thrive, but they wanted to know if the results so far warranted the continuance of the bonus. If he thought that the Government were going to further than passing the bill he would resist it to his utmost. All connected with the industry courted investigation, and he hoped the present Government would go on with the proposal of their predecessors and appoint a Royal Commission. If the bounty was to be a permanent loss it would be better for them to let other people grow sugar, while the citizens of the Commonwealth devoted their energies to producing something that would pay better. Although the C.S.R. was probably as well conducted as any other company, he was bound to admit the prices paid for sugar might be reduced by healthy competition. Nationalisation he was opposed to, but he believed in some form of intervention by Parliament to correct the ills in connection with monopolies. The Government should be pressed to have a full inquiry into the industry.

Mr. Page (Labour, Q.) said that sugar-growers were doing a big thing. He quoted instances where some farms in the Mackay district averaged 84 tons an acre. They got up to £1 2s 6d a ton for cane, and allowing an average of £1 a ton these farmers got £84 an acre for their crop. He was not opposed to a bounty and excise on sugar for the purpose of preserving a White Australia. They were boosting up the industry, and yet the wages paid were the lowest in the labour market, and the men were housed like pigs.

Mr. Fuller (Liberal, N.S.W.) urged the appointment of a Royal Commission. Certain figures had been laid on the table of the House by the Minister for Customs. Doubt had been thrown on these figures by Mr. G. B. Edwards and Mr. M'Williams, and something should be done to show who was correct. He was led to believe the working people of Australia were being unduly taxed to foster the industry.

Mr. Thomson (Lib., N.S.W.) said that the Government proposals gave temporary security to those engaged in the industry. He thought the Government was acting wisely, and trusted they would agree to the appointment of a Royal Commission.

Mr. Deakin (Lib., Vic.) thought that, although the House was prepared to accept the bill, they were taking the step in the midst of confusion that had prevailed for years past. He thought the Minister should make a statement regarding the industry. There was nothing for the Government to fear in giving the facts they had at their disposal. Everybody was anxious for a Royal Commission to be appointed to hold an inquiry into the industry. The inquiry would be of importance to all parts of Australia, even where no sugar could possibly be grown. The commission could also help in looking into the question of diseases in the tropics, and could inquire into the alleged monopoly in the industry. They could look into all tropical industries, but, of course, should begin with sugar.

The second reading was agreed to on the voices. In committee the Minister for Customs said he would convey to the Cabinet the fact that the House was apparently unanimous that there should be an inquiry. The Government was not adverse to an inquiry, but they thought the bill should be put through first.

Mr. Sinclair (Lib., Q.) moved for a formal amendment in clause 3. He moved with the object of getting the opinion of the House as to whether the bonus should not be raised from £3 to £4.

The Minister for Customs said the Government could not accept the amendment. If it was carried out it would mean an additional payment of £18,000 per annum. The bill before the House was simply to abolish the sliding scale, and continue the bounty and excise as it stood at present.

The amendment was negatived on the voices.

Clause 4, which repeals section 9 of the original Act, and inserts a new section providing for rates of wages to be paid, and conditions of labour to be observed, was amended to read as follows:—(1) "Every grower of white-grown sugar who claims the bounty payable under this Act shall, in making his claim, certify to the Minister conditions of employment, the rates of wages paid to any labour employed by him other than the labour of members of his family." (2) "If the Minister finds that the rates of wages, or any of them (a) are below the standard rates and conditions of employment prescribed by any Commonwealth or State industrial authority, or (b) in the absence of any such standard applicable to the case, are below the standard rates payable and conditions of employment obtainable in the locality in which the sugar is grown; or (c) in the absence of any such standard rates and conditions of employment respectively, are on application by the Minister to the President of the Commonwealth Court of Conciliation and Arbitration declared not to be fair and reasonable by him, or by a Judge of the Supreme Court of a State, or any person or persons who compose a State industrial authority to whom he may refer the matter, the Minister may withhold the whole or any part of the bounty payable. (3) All the provisions of the Excise Procedure Act, 1907, and of any regulations made thereunder shall apply in relation to any application under paragraph (c) of the last preceding sub-section as if the application shall for the purposes of that Act be deemed to be an aplication under that Act. Provided that section 4 of that Act shall be read as if the words "claimant for bounty" were substituted for the word "applicant."

Mr. Bamford (Lab., Q.) moved for the insertion of a new clause to provide that the bounty should be paid, provided that the preliminary work, such as clearing, grubbing, and preparation of cane from planting, shall have been performed by white labour during the period of 24 months prior to the delivery of cane from manufacture. He pointed out that under the Act farmers had done a lot of preliminary work by black labour, and had planted and cut cane with white labour and got the bounty.

The Minister for Customs asked Mr. Bamford to withdraw his amendment, so that he could consider the question. If he found it practicable, he would have the bill amended in the Senate.

Mr. Bamford agreed to this, and the bill was reported, and read a third time.

The Sugar Excise Bill was passed through all stages.

TRUST FUND ADVANCES.

The Trust Fund Advances Bill was received back from the Senate with amendment, to the effect that the money taken from a fund should bear interest at the rate of 3 per cent. This was agreed to, and the House adjourned at 10.15.

JURY PANEL LISTS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I have read with amazement Mr. Wade's assertions in this morning's "Herald," that "it has been the practice in all criminal cases which have developed public excitement for the Crown to obtain a copy of the panel," and that then, "in the public interest, inquiry has been made to ascertain whether they (the men on the panel) will act impartially when on the jury." During the 26 years in which I have been engaged in Crown practice, in six of which I was Attorney-General, I have never heard of such a practice, which is inconsistent with the first principles of justice, because it put in the hands of the Crown a weapon which may be used with great unfairness against a prisoner. The late Chief Justice (in the case of Parker v Falkiner, 10 N.S.W. L.R., p. 7), delivering his considered judgment of the Supreme Court, has declared the law:—"The moment jurymen are summoned they become part and parcel of the tribunal which may have to try the case; and any party who attempts to approach any juryman when once summoned, is guilty of interfering with the due administration of justice.

I am, etc., B. R. WISE.

On Mr. Wise's assertion being communicated to the Premier, Mr. Wade said he questioned if the public would think any the worse of him because Mr. Wise doubted his word. Mr. Wise had frequently endeavoured to get into a controversy with him for the sake of an advertisement, which he declined to give him.

A CHALLENGE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Mr. Wade, in your issue to-day, true to his instincts, again side-steps my straight-out challenge, and vainly attempts a futile attack upon myself by endeavouring to rip open a wound of 15 years ago—an unjust and terrible ordeal from which I have emerged a stronger and a better man, testified to by the affidavits of the leading citizens of this State, including Mr. Wade's own colleagues—Messrs. Waddell, Lee, Perry, Hogue, affirming my honour and integrity.

Mr. Wade, to further obscure the issue and mask his own deficiency, puts up two irrelevant men of straw, in the shape of alleged statements by Mr. Burgess, M.L.A., and Mr. D. R. Hall, M.H.R., and knocks them down.

He contradicts an alleged statement by Mr. Burgess by saying the Bowling jury panel "was not under the blotting-pad of the Crown prosecutor" (Mr. Wade's denial merely refers to location, not possession).

He contradicts Mr. Hall by quoting a report from the Inspector-General of Police that jurymen were not visited by the police "at their houses" (Mr. Wade is ominously silent as to the methods the police adopted in ascertaining "the impartiality" of the jurymen). In reference to the first ground of my challenge, namely, to quote any other Attorney-General who acted as Mr. Wade admits in reference to obtaining the Bowling jury panel—Mr. Wade is discreetly silent, but instinctively evades this simple issue, and malevolently throws mud at the old firm of Crick and Meagher by plainly insinuating that when they were employed in certain cases "the houses of certain jurymen were watched" (Mr. Wade must, therefore, have the names and addresses of such houses); and he further says "he is prepared to give the names and state them."

I now publicly invite him to give the names of such jurymen—on one condition, that such alleged jurymen make a statutory declaration of any circumstance reflecting on myself and late partner, so that I may have criminal redress against a wilful, or mercenary slanderer—no truthful or honest man need fear a statutory declaration of fact.

It is Mr. Wade's duty to produce such jurymen (having the names and addresses), or lie under the stigma of a false charge—as Edden and Graham, members for the Newcastle district, have branded him with for falsely insinuating that they wanted him to gaol Bowling. Mr. Wade then proceeds to hide himself behind a dead man—the late Chief Justice Darley—who, he alleges, once stated "that it was permissible" for the Crown to do what Wade admits he did.

I challenge Mr. Wade to quote from any law report or printed authority in this State containing such a statement from the late Chief Justice.

On the other hand, I will quote from the law reports where the late Chief Justice said the very opposite.

In Law Report, 1889, Chief Justice Darley (with Windeyer and Foster), said in Parker v Falkener:—"The moment the jurymen are summoned they become part and parcel of the tribunal which may have to try the case, and any party who attempts to approach any juryman when once summoned is guilty of interfering with the due administration of justice."

In regard to the second ground of my challenge, Mr. Wade flippantly says it was obtained in a case in which I was concerned—I desire to know by whom. Will he say it was an Attorney-General obtained it. I do not want him to fix trouble on a subordinate, as in the case of Mr. Colless, Governor of Darlinghurst Gaol, being censured for putting leg-irons on Bowling, and yet the Solicitor-General, Garland, is going round the country justifying the leg-iron incident.

Will Mr. Wade say straight out that the Attorney-General of the day (who is also dead) obtained a copy of a jury panel in a similar way to Bowling's?

It will be more satisfactory to the public if Mr. Wade, in place of giving an alleged analogy from a dead Attorney-General, would give any cases during his own regime of six years where similar procedure to that in Bowling's case was adopted.

As a further illustration, Mr. Wade states that in the debate on July 27, when I castigated him on his action in reference to the Bowling jury panel—he was not in the House and did not know anything about it till a question was asked him in a statement by Burgess—which was on August 11 (see "Hansard"), a fortnight later. As a matter of fact, Mr. Wade was in the House, and it was known on all sides I was to attack the Government, and when I rose to my feet, in company with Mr. Trefle, Colonel Onslow moved the question be now put. There was instant disorder, and cries of "Gag," and the Chairman (Mr. Cohen) called on Mr. Trefle, and in answer to a question said he did not hear Colonel Onslow's motion, and Mr. Wade assured him it was moved. Immediately I was called on to speak Mr. Wade went outside the chamber.

I made a severe attack on Mr. Wade's evasive answers and daring admission as to ascertaining "impartiality" of jurymen. "Hansard," page 1169, shows my speech was punctuated with interjections from Mr. Wood. I challenged Mr. Wade on several points, while Mr. Wood vainly strove to avert the attack. Mr. Wade discreetly refused to assist Mr. Wood, yet, according to "Hansard," he speaks in the Chamber at 6 a.m. that very morning, after the debate was concluded.

My speech filled the House, and was a topic of conversation in lobby and press gallery, and received publicity; yet Mr. Wade now endeavours to induce the public to believe he knew nothing about it till a fortnight after, as he was absent from the House.

In regard to the third ground of challenge, Mr. Wade capitulates and throws in the sponge, as he admits he cannot point to a section of the Jury Act which entitles him to get a jury panel; but says the Crown enjoys the right to do so. Will he quote any text-book of English law, or a judicial decision which gives such a right to the Crown.

In regard to Mr. Wade's extraordinary procedure, I communicated with two ex-Attorney-Generals, to whom this procedure of obtaining a jury panel from the sheriff is a revelation.

Indeed, Mr. B. R. Wise, K.C., assures me, after holding this high office for several years at various times, Mr. Wade's statement is simply amazing—he never knew of such a thing being done—and if he knew of a Crown Prosecutor who did so he would dismiss him on the spot.

Such a procedure is unknown in Great Britain and to several legal gentlemen I have spoken to who have acted as Crown Prosecutors at different times.

Mr. Wade having thrown up the sponge on the third ground of challenge, to quote a section of the Jury Act which entitles him to get a jury panel, I again renew my other two grounds, and ask him, without clouding the issue with personal abuse and irrelevant and vindictive calumny, to—

1. Give the name of any previous Attorney-General who acted as Mr. Wade did in reference to the Bowling jury panel.
2. To name any cases during his own regime as Attorney-General where he adopted similar tactics in reference to obtaining a criminal jury panel before trial.

I am, etc.,

Bondi, Oct. 11. R. D. MEAGHER.

MR. WADE'S REPLY.

The Premier, on being seen at his residence last night, in replying to the foregoing, said Mr. Meagher had none but himself to blame if he had opened up a wound of 15 years' standing. Mr. Meagher had asked for an instance of a jury panel being given, and he (Mr. Wade) had given it. He denied Mr. Burgess' statement without any qualification. When he had offered to give the names of the attorney, and the reasons for the jurymen's houses being watched, he referred to Mr. Meagher, and he had in mind this case, in which he appeared for the defence at the Criminal Court, Darlinghurst. The reason for obtaining the jury panel in this case was to locate the jury, and have the jurors watched for fear that attempts should be made to tamper with them in the discharge of their duties. It was not the names of the jurymen he had offered to give, but the name of the attorney. It was regrettable that Mr. Edden's name should be dragged in, and himself (Mr. Wade) accused of having insinuated that Mr. Edden wanted to gaol Bowling. Mr. Wade had in his possession correspondence which passed between Mr. Edden and himself on this very subject, and if Mr. Meagher wanted to drag other persons into this turmoil he would publish that correspondence. As to being invited to name any Attorney-General who had sanctioned obtaining a jury panel in a criminal case, Mr. Wade said Mr. Want was the first Attorney-General under whom he served at the Central Criminal Court. With Mr. Want he had discussed the question on many occasions, and with his authority the panel was obtained in the case of the Queen v Meagher. With regard to the remarks of the Chief Justice in the case of Parker v Falkener, it was quite true that any attempt to approach a juryman was an interference with justice; and, indeed, that was the reason jurors' houses were watched when Mr. Meagher was acting as an attorney of the court. Mr. Wade had never suggested that the jurymen were approached; in fact, his answer to Mr. Hall's question was distinctly to the effect that the jurymen were not interviewed, but there were other manifest methods of finding out whether a jury had given expression of prejudiced opinions without interviewing them personally. As to the request that names should be given of cases where the panel had been given since he had been in office, Mr. Wade, speaking from memory, and without access to documents, could mention a series of cases arising out of the land scandals. "I say again in conclusion," said the Premier, "the Crown has the right in some cases to ascertain whether a juryman is unduly prejudiced, to protect him from being improperly interfered with, and to be armed with a copy of the panel for the purpose of investigation. When a man won't do his duty to the Crown, or to the prisoner, he has no right to sit, and, while this right exists, no Crown official dare use it for the purpose of influencing a juryman, or of ascertaining his political views, or for in any way packing a jury. Unfortunately in this country we have passed through phases when it has been absolutely essential in the interests of justice and of jurors themselves that the Crown should be in a position to know whether they are being tampered with."

NEWCASTLE.

COAL AND OTHER EXPORTS.

NEWCASTLE, Tuesday.

The following vessels were cleared at the Newcastle Customs-house to-day:—New Guinea, s, for Melbourne, with 3250 tons of coal, cargo, and 200 tons of bunkers. Ajax, s, for London, via Brisbane, with through cargo. Wimmera, s, for Port Pirie, via Sydney, with 2600 tons of coal, cargo, and 320 tons of bunkers, 57 tons fire clay, 20 cases biscuits, 2 casks tar, 3 packages effects under bond.

BARQUE'S QUICK TRIP.

The German barque Antuce which left Melbourne on Saturday last, October 8, accomplished a very speedy voyage from that port to Newcastle where she arrived this morning. Captain Muller stated that they enjoyed most favourable winds during the three days occupied on the trip. This is not the first fast voyage by this vessel as she once did a voyage from Hamburg to Melbourne in 100 days and from Newcastle to Tal Tal in 41 days.

FEDERAL LAND TAX.

PROTESTS OF SHIRES.

COONABARABRAN, Tuesday.

Coonabarabran Shire Council has carried the following resolution:—"The council objects to proposed Federal land tax for following reasons: It considers land taxation is specially within the province of the State; in exceeding the limits of fair and moderate advalorem taxation. It becomes confiscatory, and therefore an abuse of Parliamentary power. It is emphatically a class tax, and is nothing but legalised spoliation of one class by another; it will hamper the administration of local government, as it will affect land values directly and indirectly, and lead to much litigation before land values become stable again; if the law has the claimed effect of bursting up large estates, the amount of land thrown suddenly on the market will lower security values of all lands."

BIG MINING CASE.

APPEAL TO PRIVY COUNCIL.

KALGOORLIE, Tuesday.

In May last the State Full Court confirmed the judgment of one of the Supreme Court Judges requiring the Golden Horseshoe Estates Company, Ltd., to pay a sum of £5275, representing duty on dividends distributed between 1903 and 1909. The company is now appealing to the Privy Council against the judgment of the Full Court, and the case is expected to be heard in March or April. In view of the importance of the case to the mining companies, the council of the Chamber of Mines has deputed Mr. Norman Keenan, M.L.A., of Keenan and Randall, Kalgoorlie, to proceed to London and prepare the case for the Privy Council.

CASUALITIES.

FATAL FALL FROM A TRAM.

Alfred James Saunders, 15, a messenger, living with his mother at Newington-road, Marrickville, died at the Royal Prince Alfred Hospital yesterday from a fractured skull and other injuries, received through falling from a stationary tram near the Church-street stopping place.

ARM CUT OFF BY TRAIN.

COBAR, Tuesday.

A man named Box had one of his arms cut off by a train at the railway station on Saturday evening. The victim stepped on the points, and fell in front of a moving train.

MINING ACCIDENTS.

BROKEN HILL, Tuesday.

Several mine accidents occurred this afternoon. J. Richards, 27 years of age, working at the 970ft level in the South mine, sustained a fractured skull through a fall of ground, and is in a serious condition.

James N. Smith, a married man, whilst working at the 1037ft level in the Junction North mine propping old ground, struck an old charge, which exploded. His arm and body were badly injured.

E. J. Tonkin, a fireman on the Junction North boiler plant, was badly burnt through flames from the furnace catching him. All three men were taken to the hospital.

LITTLE GIRL KILLED.

BERRY, Tuesday.

Yesterday evening during the very boisterous weather a fatal accident happened to the daughter of a timber cutter named James Parks. Parks was cutting wood a couple of miles out of Berry, and his wife and a daughter, aged 8, were with him. A large bough was blown off a tree, and fell on the daughter, tearing one arm almost off and cutting her skull in halves. The mother had a miraculous escape, as the child was so close to her that she kicked her in falling. The child was taken to the Berry Hospital, where her arm was amputated and an operation performed on her head, but she died during the night without recovering consciousness.

THROWN FROM A CART.

NEWCASTLE, Tuesday.

John Buchanan, a master butcher living in Carrington, met with a severe accident this afternoon. He was driving in his cart along Hunter-street West, and when near Union street the horse shied at a passing tram. Buchanan was thrown out on to the road, the wheel of his cart passing over both of his legs. He sustained a compound fracture of both legs below the knees, and was taken to the Newcastle Hospital.

OVERDUE STEAMER.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

Before leaving on a visit to the eastern lighthouse stations the captain of the Government steamer Lady Loch was instructed to keep a good look-out for the steamer Strathnairn, reported overdue at Hobart. Similar instructions have also been given to the lighthouse-keepers and harbourmasters.

CHARITY SATURDAY.

The annual street collection under the auspices of the United Charities Fund will take place next Saturday in aid of 60 charities, which have combined to raise a common fund for distribution amongst themselves.

MELBOURNE WOOL SALES.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

The New Zealand Loan and Mercantile Agency Company report that they offered 4420 bales. The offerings embraced a wide range, clips from the Warrego, and Flinders districts of Queensland, Western Australia, the Riverina and Coonamble districts of New South Wales, and from the northern parts of Victoria being included. Many of these were in excellent condition, well grown, and showing plenty of quality, whilst scoureds were represented by the well-known Toorak clip from Queensland. Comebacks and crossbreds were also in full supply. Prices were somewhat in excess of those ruling last week, and showed a hardening tendency, especially for the finer qualities of merinos. In greasies the top price was /13, whilst scoured sold up to /22½. Amongst the principal offerings were:—Lansdown, from Queensland, to /13; WCD Werribee (Kensington shorn), /13; Urangeline, from Albury, to /12½; C Woorma, from Deniliquin, to /12¼, necks to /12¼; Chah Sing, from Woorma, from Deniliquin, to /12¼; Toorak, from Moulamein, merino and crossbred, /11½; JMG Queensland, to /10¾; Jandra, from Bourke, to /10½; JL/Round Plain, Y, from Yarrawonga, crossbred /11½; G. Bros./Urawilkie, from Coonamble, N.S.W., to /11½; Selma, from Mathoura, to /10½; D in circle, from Mathoura, to /10½. In scoured the well-known Toorak clip, from Queensland, realised up to /22½.

MARKSMEN'S CARNIVAL.

BOISTEROUS CONDITIONS.

THE JAQUES AND DUDLEY MATCHES.

Three possibles yesterday at the 600 yards in conditions such as obtained does not augur badly for the class of shooting likely to mark this year's King's. From early morning until the close of the day marksmen had to contend with a variable light and gusty wind, which fishtailed right round the compass, but in spite of these difficulties they acquitted themselves well, and in view of the favourable conditions which obtained last year the shooting was well on a par. The "Jaques" event was commenced shortly before 8 o'clock, and lasted until 10.30, when the attention of marksmen was engaged by a similar conditioned match termed the Dudley. The "Jaques" gave riflemen in "A" grade an opportunity of determining their respective qualifications at the 600yds, the conditions being eight shots, with a time limit of nine minutes. It resulted in a tie for first place between F. W. Earp, of Parramatta, and J. B. Thomson, of North Sydney. The first-named sustained his effort over the possible, recording a bull for his next business. He then fell away, scoring an inner and a magpie. Thomson failed to find the bull after he had completed his required business shots, and kept within the inner circle with his next three attempts. The aggregate of their three last shots gave both competitors 12 points, and first and second prizes were shared between them.

The Newmarch, eight shots at 1000 yards, provided the most difficult task set marksmen during the present series. With weather conditions which would have upset a first-class competitor at 400yds, the earlier shooters essayed to maintain their average at the outside distance, and the first men to face the butts broke down altogether. Several good riflemen during the progress of a wind-storm, followed by a sharp fall of rain, had all they could manage to find the target, and outers and magpies were in the ascendant. Mrs. Wallace, the sole lady competitor, shot pluckily at this range, but it was not until her third business that she found the target with an outer, followed by a bull. An outer and two bulls finished her score, and, though her total of 19 was a long way off the possible, it was not singularly noticeable in the ruck of poor shoots registered by some of the best competitors. Conditions did not improve until well on 5 o'clock. The later shooters had all the best of the deal, and it was then that the three highest scorers, viz., 37, followed by three 36's—splendid shoots out of a possible 40—were put up. The final figures gave the match to S. A. Kefford, of Bathurst, who tied in the King's last year with Roberts, of South Australia. Kefford had the best count out from a total of 37 notched respectively by himself, Woodrow, of Mullumbimby, and J. G. Hicks, of Lismore.

Up to date the leading men in the aggregate for "A" series are H. G. Spencer (Narrabri), A. E. Street (Sydney), W. Sloane (Victoria), A. T. Huntley (Murrurundi), and J. Pinkerton (Camden). All of these competitors have 106 points up out of a possible 120. J. Halligan, of Western Australia, and O. E. Boyd, of Murwillumbah, both members of the Bisley team, are close up with 104, while scores of and above the century are fairly numerous.

Details of yesterday's shooting are:—

NEW ZEALAND.

RELIGIOUS INSTRUCTION.

WELLINGTON, Tuesday.

The Christchurch Presbytery has carried a resolution approving of the introduction into New Zealand of the New South Wales system of religious instruction in schools.

THE COLD CHANGE.

RAIN, HAIL, AND SNOW.

Light to moderate and scattered rain, with some snow, sleet, and hail, has been recorded east from a line joining Euston and Bundarra. The heaviest fall was at Kosciusko, where 340 points were recorded. Gabo had 130, Green Cape 96, Delegate 51, Kiandra 46, Carcoar 38, Orange 27, Blayney 25, Jervis Bay 33, Eden 29, and Pambula 22 points.

Cold conditions prevailed yesterday throughout the State, 18 stations reporting minimum readings below freezing point, while the great majority were below 40 degrees. The lowest were:—Kosciusko 21, Kiandra and Queanbeyan 22, Nimitybelle 25, Glen Innes 28, and Inverell 29 degrees.

The following rainfalls were registered at 9 a.m. yesterday for the previous 24 hours:—Adelong 1, Albury 11, Armidale 1, Barmedman 10, Bathurst 7, Bega 5, Blackheath 8, Blayney 25, Bombala 18, Booligal 2, Bowral 2, Braidwood 4, Bundarra 5, Burragate 35, Candelo 3, Carcoar 38, Carrathool 16, Casino 6, Condobolin 5, Cobar 10, Coolamon 8, Cooma 11, Coonabarabran 3, Cootamundra 10, Corowa 14, Crookhaven 5, Crookwell 8, Cudal 21, Cudgellico 2, Darlington Point 5, Delegate 51, Dubbo 5, Eden 29, Euston 2, Forbes 6, Gabo Island 5, Germanton 8, Goulburn 11, Green Cape 96, Grenfell 14, Grong Grong 6, Gulgong 4, Gundagai 6, Gunning 4, Hay 5, Henty 15, Hill End 19, Jerilderie 7, Jerry's Plains 4, Jervis Bay 33, Jindabyne 10, Junee 16, Kiama 5, Kiandra 46, Kosciusko 340, Manilla 5, Marsdens 7, Molong 17, Moranagarell 10, Moruya Heads 5, Moss Vale 2, Moulamein 8, Mount Hope 3, Mount Victoria 5, Murrumburrah 5, Murrurundi 3, Narrandera 6, Nimitybelle 42, Nymagee 5, Orange 27, Pambula 22, Port Macquarie 4, Quambone 1, Queanbeyan 2, Rockley 10, Springwood 2, Sydney 2, Tamworth 3, Temora 11, Tocumwal 3, Towamba 30, Tumbarumba 15, Tumut 4, Ulladulla 11, Uralla 5, Urana 7, Wagga Wagga 13, Walcha 13, Wellington 9, Whitton 5, Wyalong 8, Wyndham 27, Yass 4, Young 14.

QUEENSLAND RAINFALLS.

The following rainfalls were registered in Queensland for the 24 hours ended 9 a.m. to-day:—Northern Division: Cooktown 68 points, Cairns 26, Coen 65, Musgrave 52, Atherton 29, Grassy Hill 53, Mareeba 180, Thornborough 140. Late reports: Kuranda 48 points, Allora 16, Bluff 56, Camboon 158, Comet 51, Gracemere 143, Longreach 17, Moonmera 105, Stanwell 117, Yeppoon 220, Dalveen 42, Denmore 89, Eumundi 105, Kilkivan Junction 120, North Pine 108, Riverview 100, Tiaro 200, Wallangarra 20, Wondai 130, Manly 16.

BATHURST.—The weather continues cold. All signs of rain have passed. It is feared that the sudden change may cause trouble with stock.

BOURKE.—The weather for the past two days has been bitterly cold, the thermometer to-day going down almost to freezing point. A strong west and south-westerly wind has been blowing. Yesterday some trees in the street were stripped of branches, and several outhouses were unroofed.

BLAYNEY.—On Tuesday morning the hills were white with snow, but little is lying in the streets. It is feared that early fruit crops have been destroyed. Fattening of stock will be checked slightly. A few lately-marked lambs have been killed; otherwise the effects of the continued snow, rain, hail, and sleet will be beneficial to crops and ploughed ground.

CLIFTON.—The cold snap yesterday continued throughout the night, and to-day the temperature showing the lowest reading since Sunday, 45 degrees. No rain has fallen, but a fall of sleet occurred about 2 o'clock yesterday.

COOMA.—The cold weather continues, with intermittent falls of snow. This has been one of the coldest snaps ever experienced in the month of October. Rough weather continues in the mountains, with continued heavy falls of snow. Water was frozen over last night. Adaminaby and surroundings were covered with snow yesterday, six inches having fallen. Rhine Falls also reports heavy falls of snow. Snow is visible from Cooma, on the Murrumbidgee ranges, Mount Gladstone, and the Three Brothers.

COROWA.—A remarkable cold snap was experienced on Monday and Tuesday. The thermometer fell to 34 deg., which is only 2 points higher than the lowest point reached during the past winter. Light rain fell on and off through Tuesday.

DELEGATE.—Four inches of snow fell on Monday night, with the prospect of a further fall. The mail from Bombala is delayed.

FOREST REEFS.—Splendid rain continued throughout Sunday night, clearing the next day, with heavy snow squalls.

GUYRA.—Sleet fell on Monday afternoon, and snow in small quantities is lying about. The thermometer dropped 21 degrees in 24 hours.

HARTLEY VALE.—Showers of snow and hail fell at intervals during yesterday, and to-day further heavy hail has fallen. The weather is bitter and most unseasonable.

MILLTHORPE.—Snow continued to fall far into the night and during the early hours of Tuesday morning, the surrounding district being covered to a depth of about 3in.

NEWCASTLE.—A very heavy fall of hail occurred at about a quarter to 6 on Tuesday evening in Newcastle. The storm lasted for close on a quarter of an hour, and at its conclusion the streets were white with the hailstones, which were of slightly above the usual size.

NIMITYBELLE.—The heaviest fall of snow this winter occurred on Monday, when the ground was covered to a depth of 5in. It is feared the snow will cause large mortality amongst young lambs.

ORANGE.—Rain fell on Sunday evening and night, and snow and sleet fell throughout Monday.

PORTLAND.—The cold snap that came in yesterday continued during the night and to-day. Snow fell last night and also during this afternoon. It is still very cold and unsettled.

SUNNY CORNER.—Sunday night's rain was followed next morning by heavy snow. It continued to fall all day, varied at times with heavy hail as large as pigeons' eggs. The hail and snow will have a bad effect on the fruit trees which are in full blossom, and which gave promise of a bountiful harvest.

WAGGA.—Extraordinary weather has been experienced for the past few days. Temperatures have been lower than at any time during the winter, with biting winds, hail, rain, and frost. Coming at shearing time, and following a long spell of mild weather, it is feared that stock will suffer severely, and mortality will be caused among newly-shorn sheep.

WALLERAWANG.—Snow fell on and off during the whole of Monday. During the night the fall was heavy, and the ground was covered to a depth of half an inch.

WALCHA.—A snowstorm raged all Monday night.

WELLINGTON.—There was a slight fall of snow in the town on Monday afternoon. It only lasted for a few minutes, and is the first snow that has fallen here for many years.

ITS PURITY

is its recommendation.

Anybody who is dissatisfied with "Robur" Tea doesn't know as much about Tea as they ought to do. Teas which have a more or less artificial, peculiar, acrid taste may perhaps be attractive to certain palates, but "Robur" does not belong to this class. Robur is pure Tea, and the purer Tea is the better it is for those who drink it.

THE "ROBUR" TEA CO.,

James Service and Co., Proprietors,

360 Kent-street, Sydney.

P.S.—As a money-saver we recommend the "No. 2" Grade. It is a good line for everyday family use. Grocers sell it.—Advt.

QUEENSLAND.

BRISBANE, Tuesday.

At a meeting of the committee of management of the Queensland Employees' Union it was reported that a ballot had been taken to see if members were in favour of the union adopting the labour platform, the result being 849 in favour and 301 against.

A Spanish gang of cane-cutters went on strike at Mr. George Hing's farm at Innisfail on Saturday because there was not enough rain water. They were allowed two kerosene tins full for drinking, but were told to get water for slopping from the river 40 yards away. They refused to use river water, and went on strike. They are likely to be prosecuted for breaking their contract.

RICH LIVING.

Medicine Man: "What is the matter with your Majesty?"

Cannibal King: "Oh, I've an awful indigestion."

"What have you been eating?"

"I have just polished off an American millionaire."

"Good heavens! No wonder you are ill. I've told you repeatedly to beware of anything rich."

FINANCIAL.

AUSTRALASIAN GOLD YIELD.

The Australasian gold yield for the first three quarters of the current year totalled 2,385,000 fine ozs., a falling-off of 152,000 fine ozs compared with last year, for the corresponding period. The following comparison is made:—

First Nine Months.	1908. Oz. Fine.	1909. Oz. Fine.	1910. Oz. Fine.

BANK ABSTRACTS.

The chief features of the abstract of average liabilities and assets of the undermentioned bank within the State for the quarter ended September 30 compare with those of the previous quarter, which are given in parentheses as follow:—

London Bank of Australia, Ltd.—Note circulation, £61,078 (£54,032); deposits, not bearing interest, £460,793 (£451,610); deposits, bearing interest, £901,455 (£934,272); coin and bullion, £278,685 (£228,566); advances, £1,290,967 (£1,331,212).

AUSTRALIAN ALLIANCE ASSURANCE.

Some particulars of the balance-sheet of the above company have already been published. The chairman in moving the adoption of the report said that during the past year there had been a substantial decrease in revenue in every department. The fire premiums were £23,723, against £30,866, a decrease of £7143. This decrease was practically all due to the pruning of their business in New Zealand. They, in common with most companies, had found fire insurance business in New Zealand during the past few years to be unremunerative, partly, no doubt, due to the wave of depression which had passed over the Dominion, but principally in consequence of inadequate rates forced upon the companies by the competition of the State department. The result of this competition had been to demonstrate that the rates formerly charged were not, as alleged by the Government, too high; but were in fact insufficient to enable companies to provide the necessary reserve to meet the extraordinary liabilities arising out of the conflagration hazard to which all modern cities, and New Zealand cities in particular, seemed to be increasingly subject. One feature of this competition which ought to be specially mentioned was that the New Zealand Government paid a considerable proportion of its revenue to "Lloyd's" Underwriters for reinsurance, so that instead of keeping the money in the country it was actually sending it to a body of individual underwriters which paid no license fees, fire brigades charges, and which maintained no offices, or officials in the Dominion. Under all the circumstances, therefore, their directors came to the conclusion that the interests of this company were best served by a drastic treatment of the New Zealand business, and, as a result of a recent visit of one of the directors to New Zealand, the organisation there had been thoroughly overhauled and placed on what it was hoped would be a more satisfactory basis. The losses in the fire department amounted to £9904, as against £19,549 in 1909.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Julius Blau and Sons, Ltd., has been registered with a capital of £25,000, in shares of £1 each, the object being to acquire the business of Julius Blau and Sons, wholesale merchants, etc., Sydney. The first directors are—Julius Blau (managing), Oscar Blau, and Mrs. Bertha Blau.

The Coastal Transport Company, Ltd., has a capital of £20,000, in shares of £1 each, and will acquire the mail contractor's business of Messrs. Martin Keating, Moruya, Wm. Dunsmore, Cobargo; and Cyril Blacket, Sydney. The first directors are:—Cyril Blacket (managing), A. H. H. Aldworth, and W. P. Noller.

At yesterday's wool sales 9839 bales of wool were offered, and 10,007 bales sold, including 942 bales disposed of privately.

There was keen competition, especially for grades showing extra quality.

COMMERCIAL.

THE MARKETS.

The wheat market is still quiet, with practically no business reported, but there is a little more inquiry for flour. The cornsacks market continues lifeless. Some business was reported of sacks, landed ex Shirala, at 4/6, but on spot and for later boats the quotation is 4/7. Branbags are quiet, but the price remains steady at 3/6 to 3/7. The market for woolpacks is still irregular, some "weak" holders being in evidence. Business was reported during the day at as low as 2/2, but the general quotation was 2/3.

News by the English mail states that only a moderate crop of English hops could be expected should the weather and other conditions remain favourable. One authority estimated that the total output would not exceed from 300,000 to 320,000 hundredweights. As the annual consumption in the United Kingdom is about 600,000 hundredweights it was evident there would have to be some importation, as last year's crop is practically exhausted. Therefore, it was not expected that there would be much change in prices for Kent hops. Bohemian hops are quoted at 2/3 to 2/4½, to arrive, and American at 1/6 to 1/7, also to arrive, while Tasmanian remain very scarce, and are quoted up to 1/9 per lb. A fairly steady trade is being done in malt at unchanged prices. Early shipments of English have arrived, and are selling freely. The quality is satisfactory. An increased demand for both English and Australian malt is being experienced with the advent of the warmer weather. Brewers' flakes are selling freely at full prices. Several tons of isinglass were recently placed, Brazil lump realising 4/ to 4/3, according to parcel. Other descriptions are unchanged.

Jam makers are abroad in search of their season's supply of tinplates. Owing to the strikes in England and manufacturers being well supplied with orders, it is difficult to get fresh orders taken at the works, and as a consequence in Sydney difficulty is being experienced in obtaining any at 16/3, most holders asking up to 16/6. Hay harvest tools are also moving freely, sheep shears remain scarce, and there is a steady demand for iron tanks.

Japanese fish oil is now quoted at £21 per ton, to arrive; No. 1 herring £22, or 1/9 per gallon on spot. There is a good inquiry for linseed oil at 5/ for raw, and 5/2 for boiled; 1d more for small lots. Sales have been reported of 110 cases denaturated China oil at 3/3, while pure is quoted at 5/3 duty paid, and 50 cases of Pratt's turpentine on Brisbane account at 5/. Cotton seed soil is scarce at 6/9, and denaturated at 3/3.

There is a glut of forage lines in the produce market, and about 37,000 bags of chaff arrived yesterday from Victoria. Current values ruled in the dairy produce market.

BREADSTUFFS EXPORTS.

Oversea exports of wheat and flour from the four exporting States of the Commonwealth during the present wheat season, which began in December last, now amount approximately to 48,245,268 bushels. Last week's outgoings amounted to 262,281 bushels; South Australia sent away about 406,000 bushels, and Victoria roughly 200,000 bushels. Western Australia practically ceased her export in August. There is still, however, about 8,000,000 bushels available for export from the Commonwealth from the visible supply, and taking the invisible supply, which some estimate at 1,000,000 bushels in New South Wales alone, there will be much more, while 2,000,000 bushels are still available to send away from here, if not more. It is next to impossible to ship this quantity before the new wheat begins to arrive, therefore we shall have what has never before been known, a substantial carry-over to next season. The export figures are as follow:—

	Wheat. Bushels.	Flour. Sacks.	Total Equivalent in Wheat. Bushels.
New South Wales	10,379,005	239,065	11,387,637
South Australia	17,693,034	300,720	19,189,490
Victoria	12,024,341	611,506	14,950,570

FROZEN MEAT EXPORTS.

Shipments of frozen meat from Sydney during the week ended October 8 amounted to 29,585 carcases of mutton, 15,230 going to United Kingdom, Port Said 1699, South Africa 700, Hongkong 903, Philippine Islands 516, Canada 3045, Malta 6702, Hawaii Islands 800.

The frozen beef exports for the same period were 403 quarters and pieces, 300 for South Africa and 103 for Philippine Islands.

The exports of frozen meat from Sydney from July 1, 1910, to date, have been the following, and compare with the two previous years:—

MUTTON.

BEEF.

The frozen beef exports from July 1, 1910, to date total 14,655 quarters and pieces, made up as follows:—United Kingdom and Continent, 13,138; Philippine Islands, 540; South Africa, 350; Singapore, Java, etc., 90; Hawaiian Islands, 506; Port Said, 14; and Hongkong, 13.

STATE BUTTER SHIPMENTS.

Butter shipments from Sydney during the week ended October 8 amounted to 7736 boxes, as follows:—6771 to United Kingdom and Continent, 235 to Hongkong, 58 to China, 18 to Japan, 26 to New Caledonia, 570 to Philippine Islands, 11 to Singapore, Java, etc., 7 to South Sea Islands, 1 to Timor, and 39 to Port Said.

A comparison of the totals for the seasons, commencing from July 1, for the last three years, is as follows:—

	1910-11. Boxes.	1909-10. Boxes.	1908-9. Boxes.

BREADSTUFFS.

TEMPORARY RISE.

There was a slight activity in the wheat market yesterday, and prices offered range from 3/8½ to 3/9½ for farmers' lots and parcels respectively. London, however, was cabled as being still depressed—therefore the fillip was merely local, and was not expected to last. No sales were reported at the prices offered. The flour market is rather better. There is some inquiry for flour, but buyers are not yet anxious to buy stocks.

ARRIVALS BY RAIL.

Wheat and Flour.—The receipts of wheat and flour by rail at Darling Harbour and other railway stations for the week ended October 11 compare with those of the previous week and a year ago, and two years ago, as follows:—

	Wheat Tons.	Flour. Tons.
Week ended October 11	3,735	568
A week previous	6,399	739
A year ago	1,333	258
Two years ago	1,734	444

The totals for the new statistical wheat year, which started on December 1, compare with those of the corresponding period of the two previous years as follows:—

1908	106,943	18,526
1909	215,471	19,351
1910	450,352	23,690

Comparison of Prices.—The mean prices now ruling for wheat and its products compare with those of a year ago and two years ago as follows:—

	Two years ago.	Last Year.	Yesterday.
Wheat, per bushel	£0 4 2½	£0 4 10	£0 3 9
Flour, per ton	9 2 6	10 17 6	9 17 6
Bran, per ton	6 0 0	4 15 0	4 5 0
Flour, per ton	9 2 6	10 17 6	9 7 6

In the case of flour, the price given is the mean convention price, and with the bran and pollard it is the association price.

WHEAT CARGO SOLD.

The cargo of the barque Vanduara, which left South Australia on May 13 with 34,743 bags of wheat for Falmouth, for orders, has been sold at 37/3 per quarter of 480lb. (It was cabled on May 29 that this cargo had been sold at 35/ per quarter, and on August 5 that it had been resold at 37/9 per quarter).

INTERSTATE MARKETS.

ADELAIDE, Tuesday.

A decline of /6 per quarter in London's quotation for wheat led to a reduction in local values to 3/8 per bushel. The easing brought farmers into the market, and selling was fairly free. Flour was quiet at late rates, and brand and pollard, which are in short supply, were firm at 1/ per bushel. Eggs declined to /7 dozen; other produce lines are unchanged.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

Wheat was easier at 3/10 to 3/10½. Flour sold at £9/5/, and bran and pollard at £4/10/. Algerian oats were dull and rather weak, milling selling at 1/11 to 2/, and feed at 1/10 to 1/11. Maize was inactive at 2/3½. Chaff was unchanged. Oaten brought 45/ to 57/6, and wheaten 56/ to 67/6. Potatoes were steady, with better export inquiry, mostly for Adelaide. Snowflake and Excelsior sold up to £6, Pinkeye to £5/15/, special to £5/17/6, Reds £6, and choice fresh to £6/5/. Onions were a little steadier, good to prime selling at £4 to £4/10/. Choicest butter was steady at /11½. Ordinary was dull and rather weak. Prime sold at /11, and a few fancy brands at /11½. Eggs further declined, with heavy supplies at /7½ to /8.

About 120 packages of Ceylon tea sold up to /10; 100 boxes of Mildura two-crown sultanas were sold for export.

The distributing demand for red Alaska salmon for forward delivery continues active, and some houses have raised their price to 8/3 for talls. Fair business was done in Portuguese sardines. Cornsacks are selling in small lots at 4/9 to 4/9½. Bran bags are quiet at 3/5. Woolpacks sold at 2/3½ for 11½lb lose tops.

LIVE STOCK MARKETS.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

In the live stock market, all qualities of fat sheep were fully represented, including numerous drafts of shorn sheep. The greater portion, however, consisted of moderately fat and serviceable grades, chiefly wethers, with a fair sprinkling of crossbred and merino ewes. Several consignments of prime shorn wethers in both crossbreds and merinos came forward. The demand was fairly sustained throughout, especially for good and prime qualities, at about last week's rates. For middling and inferior descriptions, prices ruled a shade easier. Quotations: Prime crossbred wethers, from 20/6 to 22/6, a few higher. Good ditto ditto, from 18/6 to 20/; second ditto ditto, from 14/6; prime crossbred ewes, from 16/9 to 18/; extra at 19/ and 20/9; good ditto ditto, from 15/ to 16/6; second and inferior, from 11/; prime merino wethers, from 19/ to 20/; a few at 21/ and 21/6; good ditto ditto, from 17/ to 18/9; middling, from 13/ to 15/9; inferior, from 10/9; best merino ewes, from 13/6 to 15/6; good ditto ditto, from 11/9 to 12/9; others, from 8/; shorn sheep, crossbred wethers from 11/ to 15/6, ewes from 8/ to 14/6; merino wethers, from 7/6 to 11/9; extra, 13/ to 17/5; ewes, from 4/6 to 10/4. Fat lambs: For good and prime qualities competition was spirited, exporters operating freely, and for such prices were fully maintained. For second and inferior descriptions the demand was irregular, and prices in favour of buyers. Prime sold at from 12/6 to 13/9; extra, from 14/3 to 16/; good sold at from 11/ to 12/3; second, from 8/ to 10/; inferior and small, from 4/6 to 7/3.

PRODUCE MARKETS.

TRADE IN SUSSEX-STREET.

"STORING CHAFF, NOT SELLING IT."

ONIONS CHEAPER.

Notwithstanding the fact that heavy arrivals of chaff were offering at the auction sales, and the stores round Sussex-street were carrying big stocks, the Melbourne steamers brought as many as 37,000 bags for the markets. "How are you going to sell it?" was asked a salesman. The toss of his head and the reply, "I don't know," fully told of the disappointment and loss which most salesmen were undergoing through this glut of forage lines. The Barwon brought over 17,000 bags, and the Werribee 20,000. One agent said that there was no good wheaten chaff in all the consignments in the Werribee. This was the only class that was likely to make sales, so that what price they were going to sell the inferior samples at they did not know. One salesman volunteered the remark, "We're storing chaff and hay, not selling it. We're making too much money to sell it quickly, we'd rather pay storage expenses, and then sell at a loss. That's what we are in this trade for." Nearly all poor chaff was finding its way to store to await developments, and the bulk of this heavy cargo was expected to do the same. Big loads of oaten hay had to be carted to Pyrmont to find storage room for it. Onions were quoted 10/ cheaper. The week's supply totalled 1500 bags of not very good qualities. The newly-arrived potatoes from Melbourne were not up to much. They were mostly redskins and Excelsiors. The price stood at late rates. There was still a big transhipment for New Zealand. Maize was weak at the previous day's reduced price. Queensland maize was sold privately at 2/5½. Holders of river grain were asking 2/6 for best yellow, and 2/7 for best white.

FEED-GRAIN AND OFFAL.

Maize.—Northern river, prime dry yellow 2/6, good 2/4 to 2/5, white prime milling 2/7 per bushel.

Barley.—Victorian: Cape, 2/6 to 3/ per bushel.

Onions.—Prime Brown Spanish, £6 per ton.

DAIRY PRODUCE.

CURRENT VALUES RULING.

All dairy lines sold at the same prices that were quoted on Monday. If anything, they cleared a little better. The prices of eggs were not altered in any way, although as compared with last week the stocks were not quitting nearly as fast. From now on the supplies from the Northern rivers are not expected to be so large. The "flush" of supplies from there had just about ceased. A spell of hot weather would make a big difference in the demand. Case eggs were in favour, but once they showed signs of arriving in indifferent quality the grocers would neglect them for the fresh brands. There was activity in bacon and hams. Local brands were very scarce. Cheese was dull. Butter was more active than before the drop in price. Export business was still lax however. Lard had a good sale.

Current quotations were:—

Butter.—First grade 105/, medium to good 100/ to 103/, seconds 96/ to 100/, pastry from 80/ per cwt.

Cheese.—Prime and large /6¼ to /6½, special /7 to /8.

Lard.—Packets /6¼ to /6½, bulk /6 to /6¼, special packets /7¼, bulk /7 per lb.

Hams.—Bacon hams, /9¼ to /10; prepared, single cloth /10 to /10½, double cloth /11 to 1/, special 1/1¼ to 1/1½ per lb.

Bacon.—Prime factory, sides /7¾ to /8; flitches, /6¾ to /7½, middles /8 to /9; special sides, /8¼; flitches /7½, middles /9 per lb.

Eggs.—Northern river, /8½; South Coast and railway, /8¾ to /9; suburban new-laid, /9¾ to /10, choice /10½; duck eggs, /8½ to /9½ per doz.

Messrs. Mossman and Ellis report having obtained the following prices at their auction sale yesterday:—Eggs: Case /8½ to /9, new laid /9¾ to /10½, choice suburban 10½, ducks to /9½ doz. Fowls: Young roosters 4/9 to 5/6, choice suburban 6/, small from 4/, fat hens 4/9 to 5/6, choice suburban 5/3. Ducks: English 3/6 to 4/, choice suburban 5/3, muscovy 4/3 to 5/6, choice suburban 6/3, drakes 6/6 to 8/, choice suburban 9/. Turkeys: Hens, none to hand; cocks, medium to 15/, choice to 22/ per pair. Guinea fowls, to 5/9; pigeons, to 2/ per pair. Good demand for poultry, also new-laid eggs, but case eggs are selling slowly.

POULTRY.

There were still light supplies offering, but the demand was not so active as on Tuesday last.

Old hens, 3/ to 4/, choice 5/; roosters, extra choice 6/6 to 7/, choice 5/, good 3/ to 4/6; chickens, large 2/6; grillers, 1/ to 1/6; mixed coops, 3/3 to 4/; English ducks, 3/6 to 4/6; geese, choice 7/6, good 5/ to 6/; Muscovy ducks, 4/ to 5/6; drakes, 4/ to 5/6; turkey gobblers, heavy 16/ to 18/, medium 12/ to 15/, light 9/ to 11/; turkey hens, 5/ to 8/; guineafowls, 4/ to 4/6; pigeons, 1/3 to 1/6 per pair.

FIREWOOD.

There were 27 trucks offered, and good sales were put through, as the supply proved very light.

Best boxwood 14/ to 15/6, good 13/ to 14/; ironbark and stringy 10/6 to 13/; bakers' wood, 14/6, good 13/ to 14/ per ton.

APIARY PRODUCTS.

Honey continued plentiful, and sold slowly. Wax was quiet.

Honey.—Western, choice /3 to /3½, good /2 to /3¼; northern river, /2 to /2¼, rough and candied, from /1½ per lb.

AUCTION SALES.

RAILWAY MARKET.

Chaff and potatoes made up the bulk of the offerings at the railway market. There was plenty to choose from, but most buyers wanted only small lots. Some good prices were realised for chaff, because the right kind made an appearance. There were only a few trucks of it, consequently the bidding for it was satisfactory. At any other time this quality of chaff would have brought fully 10/ more. But as there was such a lot of poor cuts on the market the buyers' price was limited. There were some fair brands of potatoes offered, the best of these realising £6/10/ per ton. The season was too far advanced for really prime sorts to make an appearance. The difference in quality can be seen from the fact that the best Tasmanian redskins bring £2, and Ballarats £1 more.

The following are particulars of the sales:—

FRUIT MARKETS.

SLOWLY IMPROVING.

Agents were pleased to be able to report that the depression through the glut of inferior fruit was lifting a little in citrus lines, apples still being dull. Lemons, however, were hard to sell, sales proving very unsatisfactory. It is now between the old and new season for passionfruit, and they show a temporary scarcity. They were more expensive, being quoted up to 9/, choice varieties being very scarce. Most other lines were unchanged.

Current quotations were:—

Apples.—American: Jonathans 14/ to 15/; Rome Beauties, 13/ to 14/; Gravensteins, 12/6 to 13/6 per case. Tasmanian: S.T.M., extra special 9/ to 10/, extra choice 8/ to 9/, choice 6/ to 7/, good 4/ to 5/, small 1/6 to 2/6; N.Y.P., special 7/, choice 6/, others from 4/ to 5/; F.C., 3/ to 5/; other sorts, 2/6 to 3/; jam lots, 1/ to 2/ per bushel-case.

Bananas.—Queensland: Cavendish, 15/ to 18/ per case; North Queensland, 2/6 to 4/ per bunch.

Loquats.—Choice 4/6 to 5/, medium 3/ to 3/6, small 2/ to 2/6; Mammoth, choice 7/ to 8/, medium 4/ to 5/ per half-case.

Lemons.—Choice coloured 4/6 to 5/, medium 3/ to 3/ per gin-case; small and rough unsaleable.

Mandarins.—Emperors, extra choice 10/ to 12/, choice 8/ to 9/, medium 5/ to 6/, small 2/6 to 3/ per gin-case; Thorneys, choice 3/6 to 4/, medium 2/ to 2/6 per gin-case.

Oranges.—Extra choice 9/ to 10/, choice 5/6 to 6/, medium 3/ to 3/6, small 2/ to 2/6 per gin-case; windfalls, 1/ to 1/6 per gin-case.

Pineapples.—Commons, Ripleys, and Queens, 5/6 to 6/, good 4/6 to 5/ per case.

Pears.—American: Deanjou and Fall Butters 12/6 to 15/ per case. Victorian: Cold-stored specials, J.O.S., 16/; W.N., 16/; W.C., 15/; B.B., 12/; B.P., 10/ to 11/ per bushel-case.

Passionfruit.—Choice 8/ to 9/, medium 3/ to 3/6 per half-case, small 3/ to 3/6 per gin-case.

Strawberries.—Queensland: Choice 4/ to 5/, good 2/6 to 3/6, small 1/ to 2/ per three-quart tray.

Tomatoes.—Queensland: Choice 4/6, good 3/6 to 4/, medium 2/6 to 3/, small 1/ to 2/ per half-case.

CITY YARDS.

There were as many as 1020 pigs yarded at the city corporation yards, being made up of all descriptions, with porkers in majority. Buyers were in good attendance, and they competed very strongly. Backfatters sold up to £6, whilst porkers and baconers were very firm at late rates.

The following prices were realised:—Best backfatters to £4, good 60/ to 70/, others from 50/; best baconers, 56/ to 60/, good 50/ to 54/, medium 45/ to 48/, others from 42/; best porkers 46/ to 50/, good 40/ to 44/, medium 33/ to 38/, prime light 25/ to 27/, light and inferior from 20/.

WOOL SALES.

SYDNEY.

Wool sales were held yesterday at the Sydney Wool Exchange, Bridge-street, when the quantity catalogued totalled 9839 bales, and the sales, including private transactions, amounted to 10,079 bales, as under:—

Broker.	Offerings.	Sales. At Auction.	Privately, ex Catalogue.	Privately, Uncatalogued.	Total Sales.
Harrison, Jones, and Devlin, Ltd.	4,358	4,212	93	504	4,809
Pastoral Finance Association, Ltd.	5,481	4,925	87	258	5,270
	9,839	9,137	180	762	10,079

Keen competition prevailed for all good wools, especially for lines showing extra quality. Good broken and skirtings also sold well. Short and faulty sorts still showed some irregularity, although competition was more general.

Harrison, Jones, and Devlin, Limited, offered a catalogue in which were included a number of better-class wools, although the proportion of inferior and faulty was still very large. In the grease the highest price was /12½, obtained for lines of W and FAM/Mehi (Millie), and Elmswood (Gundy), as described hereunder. Amongst the sales were:—I/DD/Long Swamp (Collarenebri), 22 1st w e at /10½, 25 2nd w e at /9¼, fair length, good colour, nice quality, free, a little dusty; New Merida/T4N (Gilgandra), 44 1st e at /9¼, 16 1st h at /9¾, 22 2nd h e at /7¾, fair length, nice quality, dry condition, burry; Quantambone/house (Brewarrina), 29 sup com A at /11, 31 sup com AA e at /10½, 38 sup com h AAA at /10½, 40 sup com h AA w at /10½, 26 A com at /10, 56 at /9½, 22 sup the at /10, good length, very good colour, and fineness, free, dusty; K/[illegible] (Moree), 10 1st com w at /11½, 12 com w at /11½, 6 w at /9¾, good staple, colour, and quality, sound, few burrs; K/Glenmore (Moree), 12 1st com w h at /11, 12 1st com e at /10½, 23 com w at /10½, 23 com e at /10½, 23 w h at /9¾, good length, colour, and quality, sound, nearly free; W in cir/Minargo (Collarenebri), 40 1st com e at /10½, 21 2nd com e at /9¾, 16 1st h at /10½, fair length, good colour and quality, little dusty, free; GM/Ravensworth/Yass/N.S.W. 11 h e at /11¼, fair length, good colour, excellent quality, free; W and FAM/Mehi (Millie), 4 sup com w e at /12½, 34 1st com e at /11¼, 15 1st com w at /11¼, 17 1st com h w e at /11¼, 33 2nd com e at /10¼, 29 2nd com w at /10½, 23 2nd com at /10, good staple, colour, and quality, sound, carrying an odd burr; Glendon, 20 1st com at /11¼, 1 2nd com at /11, 10 1st clo at /10½, 13 2nd clo at /10, fair staple, good colour, and fineness, few burrs; D/Rosedale (Moree), 41 1st h w e at /10¾, 22 1st e at /11¼, 27 2nd h w e at /9¾, fair staple, good colour, and fineness, nearly free; Elmswood (Gundy), 28 1st com w at /12½, 19 A and B com w e at /11, 20 1st clo w e at /10½, fair length, good colour and quality, soft, nearly free; AFS/Forest Vale (Condobolin), 12 AA e at /10¾, 19 AA w at /10, 20 A e at /9¾, 27 A w at /9½, good staple, nice quality, sound, little dusty, free from burrs; B in tria (Trangie), 19 1st w h e at /10½, 11 1st w e at /9½, 5 1st com at /9½, 5 2nd com w at /9¼, good length and colour, dry, a little dusty; K in cir/Pigeonbah (Warren), 14 1st com h at /9¾, 12 1st com h at /9¾, 31 1st com w at /9¾, 22 1st com e at /9½, 15 A w at /9, good length and colour, nice quality, burry; Howlong/P (Carrathool), 17 AA com w at /10½, 19 A com w at /9¼, 8 A com w at /9, 6 A w at /8, fair staple, good colour and quality, few burrs. MINING.

INACTIVE MARKET ALL ROUND.

The listless feeling with which the market opened on Monday was, if anything, more pronounced yesterday morning. Were the non-speculative character of the market confined to Sydney, one might be fairly justified in assuming that the approaching State elections were the cause of it, but this is not possible, seeing that a want of buoyancy is also being experienced in the Adelaide and Melbourne Stock Exchanges.

Whatever may be the cause of the listlessness of the Sydney Stock Exchange, or of the slackness in the Adelaide and Melbourne Stock Exchanges, there is no doubt that locally mining stocks are quite the reverse of buoyant. Scrip-holders have not, it is true, marked down prices to any extent, simply because they see that, in the present temper of the market, it would not freely absorb the stocks offered at cheaper rates, and that consequently there would be an all-round drop in values, without much exchange of scrip. That the market was dull is shown by the fact that the transactions embraced only two copper stocks, one silver and tin stock, and four gold stocks, and that, generally speaking, prices showed an easy tendency.

Except in a few instances, the position of affairs was unaltered as a result of the limited amount of business transacted during the afternoon. In the copper section, Queen Bees commanded firm support. Our Cobar correspondent telegraphs: "An extraordinary general meeting of Queen Bee shareholders was held on Friday Mr. Farquhar, chairman of directors, presiding. Resolutions authorising the directors to raise more capital (by the issue of fresh shares) from 50,000 to 100,000, was unanimously agreed to. Most of the shareholders agreed to take up the new shares." In the silver section, sales on the weak side were booked in British (old), B. H. South, contributing, and B. H. South Blocks.

In gold shares, Black Range West were in request, and sold on the up-grade. Steady sales were also booked in Bookham and Bonnie Dundee and No. 2 South Great Eastern.

MINING NOTES.

Last week the State batteries of Western Australia crushed 2891 tons of ore, for 1742oz of gold.

The Adelaide Stock Exchange will be closed to-day, on account of the Eight-hours Day celebration in that city.

For the week ended October 1 the Sulphide Corporation, at the Cockle Creek works, produced 268 tons of bullion, containing 1081oz of gold and 21,208oz of silver.

Operations at the Harden gold mine last week show that the rise started from the No. 4 east level, 650ft. in from the crosscut, was put up 16ft. The east drive at No. 3 level was extended 12ft, making a total of 802ft. There is no ore in the face. The mill ran 92 hours, crushing 156 tons. There were cyanided 140 tons of sands of an assay value of 8s per ton.

Our Melbourne correspondent telegraphs:—"A dividend of 1/ per share has been declared by the directors of the Cathcart Gold Mines, payable on 25th inst. The transfer books close 18th inst. The market expectation was that the board, after the late good yield, would have made a larger distribution of profits."

Our Melbourne correspondent telegraphs:—The Victorian yield of gold for September was 45,075oz gross, or 42,112oz fine, an increase of 7485oz fine, as compared with September of 1909. The output for the last nine months was 441,995oz gross, or 412,400oz fine, valued at £1,756,010. This shows a decrease of 40,135oz fine, compared with the quantity raised in the corresponding period of 1909.

MINING IN THE STATE.

GRAFTON, Tuesday.

The manager of the Grafton copper mine reports for the week ended October 1 as follows:—"C west crosscut tunnel advanced 3ft, and connected with C level at 703ft. C east crosscut tunnel advanced 2ft 6in, total 245ft 6in. The winze in D east was sunk 4ft, total 24ft. Winze in D west sunk 3ft 6in, total 13ft 6in. No. 2 crosscut in D west was advanced 4ft 6in, total 57ft 9in. E level was advanced 6ft 6in, total 89ft west of No. 3 winze. The winze in D west is going down in solid sulphide ore. The lode in the winze in D east has been cut off by a fault dipping into the mountain. The face of E level shows a vein of clean sulphide in a lode formation. Nos. 2 and 3 furnaces treated 179 tons of ore, producing 47.6 tons of matte, containing 17.5 tons of copper.

THE ELMORE CONCENTRATING PROCESS.

BROKEN HILL, Tuesday.

Mr. Whitworth, who, for several years, has been in charge of the construction work of the Elmore zinc plants in Broken Hill, leaves to-morrow on a visit to North Queensland. He is going to Einasleigh, to instal an Elmore plant, and will afterwards visit the Great Fitzroy and Mount Morgan mines. He states that the British mine has taken over its zinc plant, which is doing splendid work. The B.H. Block 10 Company's plant was also taken over, and is doing payable work, but its closing down was due to causes quite outside the plant. Apparently, working only a four unit plant, the Block 10 Company found it could do better by selling its zinc tailings. The four-unit plant was only experimental. Mr. Whitworth expressed complete satisfaction with the way the Elmore plants are doing their work in Broken Hill, but refused to say anything regarding the many legal actions pending in the battle of the processes.

B.H. JUNCTION MINE.

MILL WORK RESUMED.

BROKEN HILL, Tuesday.

The B.H. Junction mine mill resumed work this morning. The plant is being run slowly on retreatment work. Arrangements, the manager says, are being made for the sale of friable and carbonate ores, though it was understood that the directors had months ago completed the sale of all products. The mill may start treating crude sulphides in about a fortnight's time.

MACGREGOR-CLONCURRY COMPANY.

NEW SHARE ISSUE UNDERWRITTEN.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

The directors of the MacGregor-Cloncurry Company have arranged with Messrs. Tolhurst, Keats, and Cummings to underwrite the issue of 300,000 shares of the company, as recently constructed. Investors in the company under reconstruction have the right to obtain share for share of their present holding. As the whole issue has been underwritten the success of the transaction is assured.

MOUNT LYELL MINE.

QUEENSTOWN, Tuesday.

No developments have occurred to cause any depreciation in Mt. Lyell shares. Mr. Murray, engineer in charge, states that the North Mount Lyell Mine is looking first-class throughout.

A SCHOOL OF MINES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Your article, in to-day's issue, entitled "A School of Mines," commences with the statement, "There is no school of mines in New South Wales."

As a school of mines has been in existence at the University of Sydney for 19 years, I trust you will allow a few facts to be stated as to the work which this school has done for the mining community, and as to the part which it should play in the general scheme of mining education, when the school of mines for Broken Hill has become an accomplished fact. Provision was made under the Mining Act of this State, some quarter of a century ago, for establishing a school of mines, either at the Department of Mines, or at the University, and a sum of £10,000 was voted by Parliament for the building and equipment of such a school.

In 1891 conferences on the subject took place between the State Government and the senate of the University. The University had already available as teachers within such a school the professors of engineering, of mathematics, chemistry, physics, and geology, as well as the lecturers in surveying, mechanical engineering, drafting and design of machinery, mineralogy, etc. It also had a series of costly laboratories already equipped for a large proportion of the work required of mining students. All that was needed to complete the school was a lecturer in mining and a lecturer in metallurgy, as well as a building for the lectures in mining, in mineralogy, and geology; and a building for ore-dressing machinery, assaying, and experimental metallurgy. The University undertook to provide these two lecturers, and the Government put up the buildings and equipped them, and thus the School of Mines was inaugurated at the University. The school opened with only two students, but the numbers rose rapidly to over 50. Up to the present 120 students have graduated in mining and metallurgy, and some additional ones, who have not completed the full course, have received certificates of competency in certain branches of mining. Most of these graduates are now filling position of high trust and responsibility on the leading mines of Australia, as well as in other countries, as in the Dutch East Indies, Singapore, Korea, India, Russia in Asia, South Africa, the United States of America, Mexico, South America, etc. Six of these graduates are at present employed at the Mount Morgan gold mine in Queensland, and the manager (Captain Richard) states that he considers that in training, practical and theoretical, and in general fitness, the Sydney mining graduates are second to none.

At Broken Hill, Messrs. J. N. Armstrong, manager of Block 10, and T. H. Palmer, manager of the Junction North mine, are also Sydney mining graduates, while five others hold important positions there as metallurgists, surveyors, etc. The case is similar at the Cobar Proprietary copper mine, and also at Kalgoorlie and Boulder, in Western Australia, where at least eight Sydney mining graduates hold important positions.

In Queensland, Mr. W. Poole, Director of the Charters Towers School of Mines; Mr. C. F. V. Jackson, Chief Inspector of Mines; Mr. L. C. Ball, Assistant Government Geologist; in Tasmania, Mr. L. K. Ward, Assistant Government Geologist; in Western Australia, Mr. C. G. Gibson, Assistant Government Geologist, and Mr. E. S. Simpson, Government Assayer and Mineralogist; and at Adelaide, Mr. Douglas Mawson, who accompanied Shackleton's Antarctic expedition, are all graduates of the Sydney Mining School. And this year another graduate of that school, Mr. T. Griffith Taylor, is accompanying Captain Scott to the Antarctic in the capacity of senior geologist.

These few facts suffice to show that the University School of Mines not only exists, but that it has given to the world a number of men who are working in the best interests of our mining community, and who are a credit to the country which sent them forth. That there is room and need for a school of mines at Broken Hill is most obvious to anyone familiar with that great mining centre, and my object in writing this is not to in any way deprecate the establishment of a school of mines at Broken Hill, but merely to emphasise the fact that the University is trying to do its duty by the mining community, and I venture to think that I am voicing the feeling of the University in saying that we warmly welcome the establishment of this school, or of any school which helps to make education more accessible to all, and therefore more efficient. The Broken Hill School of Mines would not in any way duplicate the work of the University School of Mines, but would be complementary to it, standing much in the same relation to the University Mining School as that in which the Hawkesbury Agricultural College stands to the University School of Agriculture. I am, etc.,

SPORTING.

THE TURF.

Pony and galloway racing will be the attraction at Ascot this afternoon, when a seven-event programme will be played out, an interesting sport may be anticipated. The transit service includes special trams to the racecourse gates, as well as the ordinary traffic to Botany. The first race is timed to start at 2.15 p.m.

Metropolitan visitors to the meeting to be held this afternoon by the Newcastle Jockey Club in aid of the local charities will reach the scene of action in ample time by the trains which leave the Central Railway Station for the north at 6.50 and 9.5 a.m.

The programme for the pony and galloway race meeting to be held at Victoria Park on the 20th inst. is announced, and entries for the seven events must be lodged with the secretary, Mr. H. Coberoft, before 5 p.m. on Thursday, the 20th inst. The prize money totals £350, of which the Hurdle Race takes £100.

King Bee has resumed work at Rosehill under the care of W. Booth; and J. Siely has taken in hand Kuringai and Post.

The scratchings recorded yesterday in connection with the Spring Meeting of City Tattersall's Club were Wollara out of the Hurdle Race; Dunning out of the Novice Handicap; Jena out of the Club Mile; Silver Hampton out of the Flying Handicap and the Flying Welter; and Eric out of City Tattersall's Handicap.

The Warwick Farm Racing Club is in the field with its programme for the October meeting on the 29th inst. The prize money aggregates £350, of which £100 goes to the Warwick Handicap. Nominations are invited by the secretary, Mr. P. A. Oatley, up to 4 p.m. on Monday next, the 17th inst.

The latest foalings reported from the Tocal Stud are:—Carinda (by imported Grafton), filly, by Sir Tristram (imp.); and Lunar Light (by imported Gossoon), filly, by Petrillo (imp.).

J. Siely's Rosehill team, which includes Flavinius, Styria, and Veneta, has gone over to Melbourne, and Maltine has also taken her departure for the south to fulfil her Caulfield and Flemington engagements.

"Mr. J. Baron" has changed his trainer, and Prince Foote and Co. are now under the care of J. Barden, at Randwick. During his stay in Frank M'Grath's stable Prince Foote earned for his owner upwards of £15,000.

VICTORIA AMATEUR TURF CLUB.

SPRING MEETING.

SECOND (ECLIPSE STAKES) DAY.

The spring meeting of the Victoria Amateur Turf Club will be advanced another stage at Caulfield this afternoon, and the bill of fare to be discussed foreshadows interesting sport. Proceedings open with the Emo Hurdles, in which the places may be filled by Woolloomooloo, Arquebuse, and Field Trial. The most likely to command the attention of the judge at the finish of the Mona Nursery are Stephonas, Seville, and Durdans, who may pass the post as named. Master Soult, Artillerie, Danaus, and Tanami should have the settlement of the Eclipse Stakes among them: and Master Soult may win from Tanami and Artillerie. Shift Boss, Prilk, and Idyll may divide the honours in the Corinthian Mile. A good contest may be expected for the Coongy Handicap, in which Dhobi, Conge d'Eslire, Eyeglass, and Langloh should figure prominently, and the situations may go to Dhobi, Langloh, and Eyeglass. The afternoon's sport winds up with the Moonga Handicap, in which the prospects of Gold Thread, Broadsword, Sylvander, and Musket Belle appear to be the brightest, and the numbers may be hoisted for Sylvander, Gold Thread, and Musket Belle. The programme is subjoined:—

V.R.C. SPRING MEETING.

All engagements: Orodes and Respect.
Oakes: Andalusia.
Derby: Lord Argan, Andalusia, and Blue Point.

THE MORNING GALLOPS.

The magpie grass track was in good order for galloping on at Randwick yesterday morning, and some interesting work was done. Torquay and a mate registered 1m 21s over a six furlongs gallop; while Posaune and a companion ran the same journey in 1m 19½s. Safrano put in a strong seven furlongs gallop, and Nancy Stair ran a furlong less in 1m 20s. Boobah traversed seven furlongs in 1m 36s, and Wha Hae ran a mile at a strong pace. Sourabaya covered once round at a useful pace, and Dumpling disposed of seven furlongs in 1m 35s. Grateful ran a mile in 1m 53s, while Rhoebus and Blue Hook got over six furlongs nicely in 1m 19s. L.L.D. got over seven furlongs in 1m 37½s. Didus ran once round in 2m 24½s. Torula's mission was seven furlongs, which he cast behind in 1m 36s. Jibe ... Merei spurted five furlongs in 1m 7s, while Sir Simpleton and Maintenon left three-quarters of a mile behind in 1m 19s. Fortunate and Vicomte beat St. Antoine over seven furlongs run in 1m 35s, and Flavigny, Watchchain, and Volga ran six furlongs in 1m 20s. Shaftesbury beat Prince Yattendon over seven furlongs in 1m 36s, while Lady Meg and Eocene ran a furlong less in 1m 20s. Rose Allie went well over seven furlongs in 1m 39s, and Empirical, alone, ran six furlongs in 1m 20s.

On the tan Abbey Boy registered 1m 58s for seven furlongs, Malthusian running six in 1m 31s. Gidyea and D.S.O. encompassed the circuit in 2m 36s, while Woad and Something Irish ran five furlongs in 1m 6s. Royal Ned went a mile, the last six furlongs in 1m 20s. Saxonite traversed eight furlongs in 1m 51s, and Son of the Marsh put in a strong round. Several others put in serviceable tasks. Farrel led Rosavere and A.R. over six schooling hurdles, the trio jumping in good style.

VICTORIAN TRAINING NOTES.

CAULFIELD.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

Rain and hail fell throughout the night, and the weather was bitterly cold this morning, but luckily no rain came down after 5 o'clock. On the grass Effort sprinted four furlongs in 55s, and Masonic, Advantage, and Cauvelin got over a similar trip in 53s. Gold Lace put in a mile and a quarter at three-quarter pace. Sequarious moved nicely for a mile and a quarter in 2m 17½s, and looked none the worse for his race on Saturday. Aromatic was all out to run six furlongs in 1m 20s. Artillerie was on the bit all the way for a mile in 1m 53½s, and looked well. Beverage concluded some strong exercise with five furlongs in 1m 12½s. Savanax sprinted two furlongs in 26s. Aborigine slipped over five furlongs in 1m 4½s. Iliad, who is doing very well, had the assistance of Our Princess for the last mile of a mile and a quarter, which he cast behind in 2m 19s. Golden Point did a good working gallop over a mile and a quarter in 2m 36s. Master Soult ran away from Woolloomooloo over a mile in 1m 47½s. Monobel was not extended for six furlongs in 1m 20½s. Call Boy moved along for a mile in 1m 50s.

On the tan, which was very heavy, Woollerina sprinted four furlongs in 52½s. Belove got over three in 40½s, and Burston three in 43s. Balgowan and Blairgour were let off with easy tasks. Tanami finished up some stout exercise with four furlongs in even time, and King Harold dashed off three furlongs in 39s.

FLEMINGTON.

The weather was fine but very cold this morning, and only the cinders and inside sand tracks were fit for use, while all the galloping was done on the cinders. Dhobi, who galloped a mile and a half in all, was the principal performer, and he did the first four furlongs in 53s, and last in 59s. Boniface spurted four furlongs in 51½s, and Late Hours ran seven in 1m 35½s. Eyeglass did the last four furlongs of his work in 53s. Alawa cantered, and Olivaster, who looks very well, strode along. Matouree went a mile and a half. Starting steadily, and improving the pace, he did the last mile and a quarter in 2m 25s. Imprint spurted three furlongs in 40s. Lager and Sylvander ran six furlongs in 1m 19½s, and Afton took a shade longer. Port Logan, Brasseur, Rigadoon, and Ceria were swinging along. Poulton went a mile and a quarter in 2m 22s, while Maltronus spurted out of the barrier.

VICTORIAN SPORTING NOTES.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

The following are the probable riders of the leading Caulfield Cup candidates:—Master Soult, B. Deeley; Aborigine, W. McLachlan; Flavinius, F. Hickey; Silver Hampton, W. H. Smith; Hoax, G. Ross; Conge d'Eslire, M. Connell; Artillerie, W. A. Ryan; Britain, or Posture, C. Andrews; Olivaster, R. Lewis; Sequarious, C. Bolton; Captain White, J. Ettershank; Dhobi, S. Cusdin; Iliad, E. Andrews; Mutilator, G. Lambert.

The Melbourne trainers are afraid that the Sydney horses will spread influenza here. The cough that Blairgour suffered from appears to have been of the Sydney kind, but he did not come into contact with a visiting horse before the complaint developed.

By train, to-day, Britain, Crown Derby, Maltine, and other Sydney horses reached Melbourne. Bobadea, Bobby, and Pendil returned by the same train. Bobby is rapidly recovering from the effects of the knocking about he got in the A.J.C. Epsom Handicap, and will soon be himself again.

Vira, who was knocked down to M. P. Whitty at auction yesterday, is not, it is understood, to be further raced. She was purchased on behalf of a New South Wales studmaster.

GOLF.

ON THE LINKS.

INTER-SUBURBAN COMPETITION.

The seventh round of the above competition was played on Saturday, and, as far as the A grade was concerned, did not furnish any surprises. It so happened that the three strong clubs, Killara, Manly, and Bonnie Doon, were matched on their respective home links against somewhat weaker opponents, with the result that they each had little difficulty in scoring wins. Killara and Bonnie Doon, indeed, had overwhelming victories, but the Manly-Dobroyde match was better fought out.

At Killara the local team met Parramatta, and were altogether too strong, winning in hollow fashion by 6 matches 30 holes to nil. Killara was without the services of N. V. Pockley and W. Andrew, who were ill, while Parramatta was weakened by the absence of M'Gill. Colquhoun led off for Killara against Dr. Bowman, and, playing a solid though scarcely brilliant game, secured an advantage over his opponent, and stood 1 up at the 11th hole. This position he slightly improved at the subsequent holes, and stood 2 up and 1 to play, and finished 3 up by winning the 18th.

E. Springthorpe, Killara's second string, was rather short of practice, and shaped indifferently on the outward journey, but improved considerably coming home, scoring a comfortable win over Dr. Brown by 5 holes.

To Parke W. Pope was the honour of putting up the star performance of the afternoon. Playing in irresistible style, he quite overwhelmed W. H. Cowper, who, however, stuck to his guns very pluckily, for with Pope dormy 7, he won the next three holes. Pope, however, playing brilliantly, annexed the last three holes in par figures, which gave him a maximum win. It is satisfactory to see Pope playing in matches again. He is a fine match player, and last season was a tower of strength to Killara. His card on Saturday equalled his previous best on Killara—a fine 75, marred by only one serious blemish, a 7 at the 12th hole, where he put his second into the pot-hole bunker to the right, and failed to get out at the first attempt. He performed the first 9 holes in the exceptionally fine score of 34, included in which were three 3's and five 4's. His card read:—

Out	4, 4, 4, 4, 3, 5, 3, 3, 4=34
In	3, 5, 7, 5, 5, 5, 4, 3, 4=41
Total	75

W. P. Maschwitz (K.) and W. S. Corr had a ding-dong fight as far as the 11th hole, where the Killara captain stood 1 up, but in the paddock Corr went to pieces, and Maschwitz won the next 5 holes, gaining a 6 up win.

W. T. Macpherson (K.) found his opponent, J. Wilson, off his game in the early stages, and promptly made the most of it, reaching 7 up at the 10th hole. Thence onwards, however, Wilson quite found himself, and, playing up well, reduced his deficit to 2 at the 17th, Macpherson not having won a single hole in the meantime. He, however, secured the last in 5 to his opponent's 6, and finished 3 up.

C. E. Graham, playing his usual solid game, defeated R. W. M'Kellar by the maximum, and F. Amphlett and H. Y. Braddon also had comfortable wins against Dr. J. Thomas and MacCowper respectively.

Parramatta failed to score.

Bonnie Doon also had an easy task against Hunter's Hill, as with the exception of the first two men, the Hunter's Hill players quite failed to make a decent showing. O. H. O'Brien (B.D.) and C. L. Mackenzie were evenly matched, and there was never much between them. Neither was quite at the top of his form, but each played fairly solid golf. Mackenzie held a slight advantage at the turn, being then 1 up. Very even play coming back resulted in O'Brien making matters all square at the 17th. The play at the 18th hole failed to alter the position, and a halved match was the result.

F. J. Blaxland was the only one to score a win for Hunter's Hill, and he put up a really splendid performance by beating Dr. P. Sydney Jones by 4 holes. Blaxland played an excellent game throughout. At the 17th hole, which is usually played as a dog-leg, he went straight for the green, attempting a carry of about 200 yards from the tee. He was fittingly rewarded for his enterprise by clearing all obstacles, and almost reaching the green.

Dr. Gordon Craig (B.D.) played a good steady all round game against W. A. Windeyer, gaining a 6 up win. The latter, though driving well, found that his games on the hard Bathurst links last week, quite put him off his iron play on soft ground, and he was constantly in trouble with his approaches. On more than one occasion he was in a winning position, but faulty approaches robbed him of his chances. No less than five Bonnie Doon players obtained 6 up wins, the others being H. W. McLelland, A. Mills, J. Kell, and P. R. Russell. Their respective victims were R. D. Fitzgerald, F. A. Russell, F. H. Blaxland, and J. A. May. The remaining Bonnie Doon representative, J. Rowlev secured a 4 up win over T. Buckland.

The Manly and Dobroyde match was more evenly contested. Neither side was fully representative, Manly being without Oswald Sealy and Metcalfe, while Keith Harrison and Milner Stephen were absent from Dobroyde's team. Dr. Thomas, who, with W. E. Bain, was motoring down to Manly, had the misfortune to have one of the tyres of his car blow out at the Spit, and but for a friendly lift, both of the Dobroyde players would have lost their matches by default. As it was, they reached the links with only a minute or two to spare. This might have had some effect on their subsequent play, for both lost their matches. Dr. Thomas was pitted against N. F. Christoe, who was in excellent form. He was putting particularly well, while the doctor was somewhat weak in this respect. Christoe went round in a well compiled 81, and stood 2 up at half-way. Coming home in 38 he won the 10th, 11th, and 12th holes. The next two holes did not alter the position, and he was dormy 4, eventually finishing 5 up.

H. M. Stephen (M.) met C. C. Nelson, and the latter, playing well, stood 1 up at the turn. The 10th hole was halved, but from that point Nelson went all to pieces. He seemed unable to do anything right, and Stephen, playing steadily, won the last 8 holes. A. W. H. Padfield carried too many guns for W. E. Bain, who, however, secured an initial advantage, standing 2 up at the 8th hole. Padfield, however, wiped off the deficit, and secured a 3 up win. Bain was unlucky in finding the water hazards, and was not at his best form with his wooden clubs. F. S. Shenstone (D.) secured a meritorious win over P. F. S. Spence by 2 holes; while D. Edwards (D.) was 1 up on Dr. Campbell. A. L. Potter (M.) finished 3 up on B. R. Jones, coming home in 37. H. O. Clissold (D.) did well to beat A. H. Uther by 6 holes. The remaining match, E. Duret v M. Lawson, was well contested, and finished all square, Manly winning the match, 4½m. 17h. to 3½m. 9h.

The position of the clubs is as follows:—

Club.	Points.	Matches.	Holes.
Killara	10	27	94
Concord	8	24	73
Bonnie Doon	6	24½	93
Manly	6	19½	55
Dobroyde	2	19	57
Hunter's Hill	2	17½	60
Parramatta	2	12½	28

The last round of the competition will be played on 12th November, when Concord meets Dobroyde at Dobroyde, and on that match depends the result. Killara has the bye, and if Concord beats Dobroyde, the former club must win the competition, for it will then be level with Killara on points, but will have an advantage when matches are counted. It will be remembered that Concord won from Killara last season in the same way. If Concord is beaten in the last match Killara will win the championship, there being no other club within striking distance.

In the B grade the only surprise was supplied by Dobroyde, which scored a meritorious win over Manly. The latter club has a very strong B team, which in the preceding round beat Killara at Killara. It was generally expected that they would also defeat Dobroyde, which, on paper, is not a very strong combination; but the result proved otherwise, and Dobroyde are to be congratulated on a fine performance. Bonnie Doon were not expected to have much trouble at Drummoyne, and gained a substantial win.

Parramatta unfortunately had to forfeit to Killara. The position of clubs in the B grade is:—

Club.	Points.	Matches.	Holes.
Killara	8	30	120
Bonnie Doon	8	25½	97
Manly	6	27	98
Concord	6	23½	82
Dobroyde	6	19½	63
Drummoyne	2	11½	30
Parramatta	0	6	11

Killara has the bye in the final round, and it looks as though Bonnie Doon will win the B grade premiership, for meeting Parramatta they should be able to easily stave off defeat.

Concord, having the bye on Saturday, played a bogey competition for the Frizell Shield, the winner being A. R. J. Watt, who, with a handicap of 6, returned an excellent card of 4 up. H. B. Godbolt, H. Osborne, and D. L. Aitkin were each 1 up on bogey, while N. M. Lloyd was square.

COOMA, Tuesday.

A golf match between teams representing town and country was played at Hazeldean Station on Saturday, where members of the Cooma Golf Club and visitors were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Litchfield. Perfect weather prevailed, and the match was evenly contested, country winning 4 up on the match.

Mr. Litchfield presented handsome trophies, one for best card returned by lady, and another by gentleman. These were won by Mrs. E. H. Quodling and Mr. R. Craig respectively.

CRICKET.

NEW SOUTH WALES v SOUTH AFRICA.

Messrs. Hume, Bardsley, and the Rev. E. F. Waddy have selected the following players to practise with the view to presenting New South Wales in connection with the interstate match against Queensland, to be played in Brisbane on November 4, and the match against the South Africans on the Sydney Cricket Ground, on November 18:—

Messrs. E. P. Barbour, W. Bardsley, J. C. Barnes, H. Carter, H. L. Collier, A. Cotter, A. Diamond, S. H. Emery, H. Goddard, C. Garry, S. E. Gregory, H. J. Hopkins, H. P. Hordern, C. Kellaway, C. Macartney, R. B. Minnett, R. V. Minnett, J. Randel, H. Rough, J. Scott, C. E. Simpson, W. J. Stack, V. Trumper, Rev. E. Y. Waddy, E. L. Waddy.

Players must notify the secretary of the association not later than the 12nd instant whether they are available or not for the match against Queensland.

Arrangements have been made for practice wickets at the Sydney Cricket Ground on Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Fridays, commencing on Tuesday next.

N.S.W. AMATEUR SWIMMING ASSOCIATION.

At the Sports Club last evening Mr. James Taylor presided over the nineteenth annual meeting of the N.S.W. Amateur Swimming Association. There was a large attendance of delegates.

The president (Mr. Taylor) moved the adoption of the nineteenth annual report, and referred to the splendid progress made by the sport in the State. Mr. A. W. Griffith seconded the motion, and the report and balance-sheet were adopted.

The report showed a successful year, with the finances in a satisfactory condition. There were 40 bodies affiliated with the association, which was a record. From the metropolitan senior clubs 1413 registrations were received, which was also a record. Sydney headed the list with 157 members. Twenty carnivals were held during the year. School and country swimming were on the up grade. The Dewar shield was won at the State championships meeting by the Sydney club. In the Australian championships Victoria won the Keiran shield. The following records were established during the season:—100yds in 57s, by H. H. Hardwick; 100 metres in 1m 6s, by Cecil Healy; 220yds breast-stroke in 3m 17 2-5s, by H. Snell; 50yds in 24 1-5s, by L. Solomons; 100yds breast-stroke in 1m 19 4-5s, by H. Snell; 50yds in 23 3-5s, by A. Wickham.

BILLIARDS.

F. SMITH, SEN., v E. JAMES.

The above match for £30 a side, 9000 up, Smith conceding a start of 1500, was continued yesterday at the billiard parlours of Messrs. Heiron and Smith, and at the end of the afternoon session the scores stood:—Smith (in play), 2250; James (rec. 1500), 3346. Smith made breaks of 44, 59, 20, 64, 68, 47, 55, 35, 79, 104; and James, 39, 25, 33, 33, 33, 44, 99, 33, 48, 119, 35.

At the end of the evening session the scores were:—James 3534 (breaks, 22, 46, 21); Smith (in play), 3000 (breaks, 37, 20, 59, 66, 228, 55, 55, 29, 44, and 96).

BOXING.

MIDDLEWEIGHT CHAMPIONSHIP.

This evening at the Stadium Arthur Cripps, the middleweight champion of Australasia, will defend his title against Dave Smith, who has already made two unsuccessful attempts to gain it. The winner will probably be matched with Billy Papke, the middleweight champion of the world.

CLARKE DEFEATS RYAN.

The contest between Jack Clarke, of the Newtown Pastime Club, and Chiddy Ryan, at the Gaiety Athletic Club, last night, was stopped by the police in the fifth round, and the decision awarded to Clarke.

TASMANIA.

ZEEHAN, Monday.

The residence of Captain Fisher, warden of Zeehan Municipality, was burned to the ground early on Sunday. The inmates escaped in their nightclothes. Nothing was saved. The insurances total £400, but will not nearly cover the loss. The origin of the fire is unknown.

THE CARRENO CONCERTS.

Mme. Carreno was welcomed back with overwhelming enthusiasm upon her reappearance at the Town Hall last night. The great pianist opened her recital in majestic fashion with Edward MacDowell's "Keltic Sonata," one of the last pieces the ill-fated American composer produced before mental decay set in, as it is dated as recently as 1907. Before his long period of study and professorship in Germany, this talented musician took lessons from Mme. Carreno, who was an intimate friend of his mother, so that her introduction of his fourth sonata was especially appropriate. Hitherto in this country MacDowell's less important pieces have made his name familiar on concert programmes. He has been described as a "German romanticist," and as "one who believes in poetic suggestion." There is much of this feeling in his Keltic Sonata, which is dedicated to Edward Grieg, and has in it some few passages which suggest the music of Norway, notably a plaintive little phrase heard early in the sonata, and again at the very close. Mme. Carreno played the music, so marked by striking and poignant harmonies, as to sustain an idea of grandeur. Even in the allegretto this spirit predominated, though there was an interlude of songlike charm, in which mood also the player closed the work in a pianissimo invested by her magic touch with the most exquisite poetry. The presto, highly original, and latterly scherzo-like, demanded colossal powers of execution, and rose to a stupendous fortissimo, but terminated finally in a plaintive, religioso mood, which the composer doubtless regarded as the foundation of the Celtic temperament. The rendering of this new work in such a way formed a memorable event in the musical record of the year.

Mme. Carreno continued by playing with the utmost charm the Schubert "Impromptu in B Flat," a cradle-song, to soothe the old hearts that had heard it in their homes far away from childhood; and then her dramatic power in the "Erl King" was allied with an enchanting lightness in the call to the dying child from the underworld. At this point the great player responded to the enthusiasm by adding her own inimitable interpretation of Chopin's "Butterfly Study."

Rubinstein's "Concerto in D Minor" was on the programme. It is doubtful whether it had been heard since Mr. F. Barron Morley played it about eight years ago (on his return from the Leschetitzky School at Vienna) with the Sydney Amateur Orchestral Society under Signor Hazon. Mme. Carreno played it with Henry Wood's orchestra at Queen's Hall, London, in February, 1907, and it is evident that her affection for it has not waned. The whole work is indeed fascinating and easy to follow, and becomes positively exciting in the hands of such an artist as was heard last night, her verve in the first movement quite capturing the audience. The tremendous last movement, however, absolutely requires the orchestra. As a duet for two pianos it is confusing. But the great pianist was enabled to show all the thematic charm of the andante, one of the loveliest ever written, and here, too, recognition of Mr. Benno Scherek's extremely sympathetic rendering of the orchestral part must be accorded. The enthusiasm was so pronounced that Mme. Carreno responded with Rubinstein's "Melody in F," and at the close of the programme, after several tumultuous recalls, her encore was her own tender and effervescent "Kleine Waltz." His Excellency the State Governor and Lady Chelmsford waited for this, and even lingered to meet the possibility of a double encore.

Mme. Carreno will play another fine programme to-morrow, and her farewell recital will be on Saturday night.

THE GEROGERY FIRE.

VERDICT AGAINST COMMISSIONERS.

WAGGA, Tuesday.

After an action, lasting ten days, the jury, in the Wagga Circuit Court, Mr. Justice Sly presiding, to-day entered a verdict, by consent of the parties, for £3120 damages for plaintiff, in the case in which Mrs. Watson, of the Gerogery East station, proceeded against the Railway Commissioners of New South Wales for losses of stock, and damage to property, caused by the bush fire, alleged to have been started from the engine of the mail train on December 20, 1909. The jury found in the affirmative on questions by the Judge, whether the fire was caused by the engine, and whether defendants' servants were guilty of negligence in burning off grass on the railway line. The total finding was £3336, but the amount was reduced by consent. Mr. Lamb applied for, and was granted, a stay of proceedings, pending an appeal, for 14 days. The appeal will not be on any point touching the amount of damages.

THE STRANDED NUBEENA.

HOBART, Tuesday.

There seems to be little prospect of refloating the steamer Nubeena, which ran ashore near Pipeclay Lagoon, Frederick Henry Bay, on Friday night, while bound from Tasman Peninsula to Hobart with passengers and cattle. The vessel is buried in sand to a depth of 6ft and broadside to the sea. She is in a fairly upright position, and at low tide it is possible to walk around the vessel, which is full of water. The hull is very badly strained, and the result of an expert examination confirms the view that the vessel's back is broken. Everything of value is being got out of the wreck. It is likely that an attempt will be made to remove the machinery.

TO THE LADIES OF NORTH SYDNEY CHATSWOOD, MOSMAN, AND MANLY. THE GREAT RING TEST.

M. RALEIGH will introduce the very latest English Stove, which he has specially imported from Great Britain for the express purpose of showing that the new pattern is exactly the same (only MORE extravagant) as the old article. There are seven burners on the new stove, and when all are alight there are TWO HUNDRED AND FORTY-TWO JETS. He will TO-DAY take a ring from the English Gas Stove, with ONLY TWENTY-FIVE JETS, that will merely boil a billy, and, by applying his system of heating, ROAST A TEN-POUND JOINT OF BEEF and BOIL and STEAM IN TEN VESSELS at the same time.

To do the same amount of work on this, the very latest English article, would require the whole TWO HUNDRED AND FORTY-TWO JETS.

IN THE ELECTORATES.

CAMDEN.

LAST ELECTION.

F. W. A. Downes (Lib.)	2671
J. E. Moore (Ind.)	1867
F. W. Webster (Ind.)	74

Camden is a sound Liberal seat, and the chance of it being won by Labour is hardly worth considering, except that apathy brought by confidence is dangerous. Mr. F. W. A. Downes has represented the seat in Parliament for six years, and he is regarded as a strong man who cannot be beaten on a clear-cut issue. He is popular amongst all classes of constituents, and his practical knowledge of farming has gained for him the confidence of the large body of freehold farmers in the electorate. A capable exponent of the Liberal platform he holds strong views on the proposals of the Labour party to undermine the principle of freehold tenure. This, if effected, would jeopardise the prosperity of the dairying industry, which plays an important part in the electorate. Mr. E. W. Webster, the Labour nominee, contested the seat in 1907, as an Independent Liberal, and received 74 votes. He was squeezed out between the selected Liberal and another Independent Liberal, Mr. J. E. Moore, who was himself beaten by 801 votes. So that although Mr. Downes' majority in 1904, when he defeated Mr. Kidd, a Minister in the Bee Government, was 433, his majority in 1907 was 894. No doubt Mr. Webster will secure the Labour vote this time which, presumably, has before been split, but the indications are that many of them, dissatisfied with the selected candidate, will refrain from voting. As recently as the last Federal elections Mr. Webster was assisting Mr. Bowden, the Liberal candidate for Nepean, to win the seat, and he cannot therefore complain if his own people doubt his political sincerity. While Mr. Downes is delivering vigorous speeches in every part of the electorate, there are but few electors who have yet heard the Labour nominee. Majorities are practically assured for Mr. Downes in Liverpool, Camden, Campbelltown, and Sutherland, and all the outlying farming centres will swell his majority.

CLYDE.

LAST ELECTION.

W. Millard (Liberal)	1902
J. J. Keenan (Labour)	834
W. V. Alley (Ind.)	815

The Liberal candidate is held in such high esteem, and has looked so well after the electorate since his election in 1907, that his re-election is taken for granted. But the Labour league are hard at work, and their organisation is excellent. Mr. W. H. Tomkins, the selected Labour candidate, has been doing vigorous campaign work. His supporters know that the electorate is a Liberal stronghold, and that Mr. Millard is a formidable opponent. So far the Labour party has made the "Coercion" Act its battle-cry. The farmers are, however, scared about the graduated land tax. It must be remembered, too, that Mr. Millard is a hard man to beat. He is an old resident of the district, he has represented the seat for many years, during which time he has gone out of his way to help electors in various matters, and his long public life has been honourable and clean.

GOULBURN.

A. G. F. James (Liberal)	2237
R. Holloway (Labour)	1553
T. Rose (Independent)	1267
J. A. Gegg (Independent)	208

The fight is being waged on the straight-cut issues of Liberalism and Labour. Mr. James, who won the seat in 1907, seeks re-election, and he is opposed by Mr. P. F. Hollis, the accredited representative of the Labour party. Mr. Hollis is a musician in practice at Goulburn, and inexperienced in political warfare, but he has had no lack of platform assistance. The city of Goulburn holds the key to the situation, and the candidate who scores a substantial majority there will win the day. An analysis of the voting in 1907 is interesting, as showing the disposition of parties. At that election there were two Liberal and two Labour candidates, a selected and independent of each party. Mr. James, the selected Liberal, had a clear majority of 600 over Mr. Holloway, the selected Labour candidate, and the combined Liberal vote scored a thousand votes more than that of combined Labour. In the only other large town—Crookwell—the Liberal vote defeated that of Labour by 215. Liberals contend that Mr. Hollis has no chance of pulling down that majority, even though he may score heavily in the smaller outside centres. Goulburn is a large railway centre, and the Labour party is making the most of that vote. It is, however, well known that many railway votes will be registered for the Liberal candidate, who vigorously supported Mr. Wade's railway superannuation scheme. There will, however, be no room for apathy on the part of the Liberals, as the Labour organisation is particularly keen, and every vote has been counted.

KAHIBAH.

LAST ELECTION.

A. Edden (Lab.) ..... Unopposed.

Mr. A. Edden has represented the constituency of Kahibah for many years. He has been identified with the Labour party ever since he entered Parliament early in the nineties, and for a time he acted as deputy leader. At the last general election he was returned unopposed. This time he is challenged by Mr. J. H. Clutton, on behalf of Liberal interests.

Mr. Clutton is well-known in metropolitan debating society circles, and at the Commonwealth Eisteddfod held in Sydney last year, he won the gold medal for the best impromptu speech. Although not a resident in the district, he is not without many friends locally, having lived in the northern city for some years. He also served in the South African War as a non-commissioned officer. On the public platform he creates a favourable impression as a cool, keen debater. He is a man of resource, and knows how to get into touch with his audience. Although he is classed as a Liberal, inasmuch as he is in opposition to the Labour candidate, Mr. Clutton lays emphasis on the fact that he strongly believes in non-political unionism, and feels compelled to tell his audiences a few simple facts about the socialistic pitfalls which encompass the true Labour cause. Mr. Clutton is confident that he will put up a good fight. As the time draws nearer the views of the electors one way or the other will become more pronounced, and even in this stronghold he has an excellent chance of reaping the full reward of his efforts.

Mr. Edden's supporters and committees are working energetically, and have spread themselves over the mining townships of Merewether, Adamstown, Charlestown, and Dudley, which are included in the electorate.

MAITLAND.

LAST ELECTION.

J. Gillies (Lib.)	3563
S. Rees (Lab.)	746

It would require a political giant to oust Mr. J. Gillies from the Maitland seat. He has faithfully represented this important constituency for such a lengthy period that he has become an institution. Moreover, his genial manner has won for him such wide popularity on personal grounds that votes now flow in his direction automatically. The Labour party, however, following their policy of nominating a candidate for every seat, have filled in this particular gap with Mr. L. P. Vial.

Their hopes of capturing this constituency have shot skyward since the Federal elections, when Mr. Charlton defeated Dr. Liddell. It has to be remembered, however, that Mr. Charlton came in the district after practically settling the coal strike, and with the laurels of success thick upon him. He was absolutely the strongest man that his party could have brought forward. Dr. Liddell, on the other hand, saw his popularity waning. Through absence in Melbourne, he had got out of touch with the district. Yet, labouring under this big disadvantage, he was only beaten by some 562 votes, and 266 electors were brought in from the adjacent mining fields (which are included in the Federal electorate only), in order to swell the later returns in the town itself. Many Liberals, too, right through the contest were very apathetic. On the present occasion, however, every prominent man in this fine fertile centre is arrayed behind Mr. Gillies. Many influence a considerable number of votes, and the principal topic locally is not whether he will be returned or not, but what majority he will secure.

The constituency is essentially a farming one, although, of course, a preponderance of votes is cast in the town itself. It, however, takes in the small mining townships of East and South Greta, where there is a floating population of a few hundred miners. Morpeth and East Maitland are also included, and both centres rely on the surrounding farmers for support. East Maitland was formerly a separate constituency, but on the redistribution of seats it was merged into the West Maitland electorate. At the time it was represented by Mr. J. N. Brunker, who then opposed Mr. Gillies for the amalgamated seat. Mr. Brunker was an extremely popular man, and a man who had occupied important positions in the Government of the day; but he had to give place to the irresistible Mr. Gillies.

Notwithstanding that the farmers and miners are very near neighbours, there is marked antipathy between them. Politically they are as far asunder as the poles. Little use is it for the Labour representative to reiterate that the Federal progressive land tax will not ultimately affect smaller holders. They look upon the exemption merely as the anaesthetic which will eventually give the socialist surgeons full control of the whole body of landholders for the operation of nationalisation. His independence in the House has added materially to the popularity and reputation of Mr. Gillies, and in his 21 years of political service is wrapt up much of the progress and prosperity of the district. The North Coast railway, which means so much to this centre, was Mr. Gillies reminds his supporters, strenuously opposed at every stage in Parliament by the Labour party, notwithstanding that it would open up some of the richest land in Australia, and that its construction would give employment to 2000 or 4000 labourers. Then, again, Maitland wants the tramway extended on to the South Maitland coalfield, and this work would have been carried out before this but for the opposition of Mr. M'Gowen and the Labour party.

The Labour candidate, Mr. Vial, has always been a consistent and able fighter for Labour principles. At the last State election he fruitlessly opposed Mr. Gilbert for Newcastle. He is a prominent member of the Labour Council and the Eight-hour movement and does not belong to the extremist section of his party.

NORTHUMBERLAND.

1907 ELECTION.

M. Charlton (Lab.)	3749
R. Harris (Liberal)	1668

The Northumberland seat became vacant in April last, when Mr. W. Kearsley was returned unopposed as a supporter of the Labour party. Mr. Charlton entered the Federal Parliament. The electorate takes in the big mining centre of Cessnock, comes right up against Maitland, and then, sweeping south, passes the suburbs of Newcastle, but takes in all the farming centres as far as Gosford, where it crosses over the hills to the M'Donald River, an arm of the Hawkesbury. It then runs north to Wollombi, in addition to Cessnock, in this area is embraced two other big mining centres, West Wallsend and Teralba. These mining townships have grown tremendously within recent years, and the whole electorate to-day carries over 16,000 voters, probably the largest number in any one constituency.

Mr. Kearsley has not the same sympathy for the man on the land as he has for the miner. He understands mining from A to Z, but of farming needs he knows little or nothing. It is inexplicable that three big mining centres should be tacked on to a conservative farming district. The Labour nominee, certain of solid support, from the large industrial centres, makes them his headquarters, and troubles very little about the rest of the important community in the electorate. Naturally the farmers bitterly resent being thus summarily ignored, and are now making strenuous efforts to improve their representation. They are now fully prepared for the fight, and the vote, so far as they are concerned, should be more solid than it has ever been before, and be cast for Mr. Reginald Harris, who is seeking election as an independent Liberal. He contested the same seat against Mr. Charlton, and, although beaten, came out of the contest in a very creditable manner.

Mr. Harris started his campaign in real earnest in Cessnock—the stronghold of the enemy. He has this to his advantage—he is a well-known locality as a solicitor, and has come into business contact with many from whom he is now seeking support. Mr. Harris, too, has this in his favour. He is very democratic, and directly in sympathy with many of the Labour movements affecting the welfare of the masses. But he is opposed to those visionary schemes of socialism which are so rife amongst the extremists on the mining fields.

In the farming centres which he has visited Mr. Harris has made a very favourable impression, and the vote of the farmers has declared itself on his side. The difficulty is, if the weather be adverse, to get a full muster of the small army of farmers, orchardists, etc., at the polling booth. It means in most instances a journey over rough, hilly roads to the polling booth. The miners are not under this disability. The booth is at their very door.

Mr. Kearsley is widely known on the field, and appears to be popular. He was one of those who strenuously opposed the strike, contending that the question should have gone to a ballot. His supporters consider that he will win easily. If, however, Mr. Harris continues to gain ground as he has already done he should have more than a fighting chance.

YASS.

LAST ELECTION.

N. R. W. Nielsen (Labour)	2705
B. J. Grogan (Liberal)	2453

Mr. Nielsen and Mr. Grogan are fighting over again the battle of 1907. The Liberal representative held a winning position at the counting of the votes until the return from the Labour camp at Barren Jack came in. That return gave Mr. Nielsen the victory with 252 votes to spare in a poll of 5262 votes. Yass is one of the oldest settled districts in the State, and it is rather conservative in its politics. There is a large body of freeholders—both large and small—in the district, and the man who talks of tampering with land tenure on a freehold basis meets with scant sympathy. Mr. Nielsen has naturally some difficulty in explaining away his views—also his party's views—on the conversion bill, and the upshot is that the great body of farmers and graziers will have none of him. Allied to this body of voters is the business section, whose welfare is bound up with the prosperity of landholders, and their vote will carry great weight in the towns. The Liberal candidate, Mr. B. J. Grogan, has had considerable experience in campaigning, and regards his success as assured. He has covered the whole of the electorate, and has had good meetings in almost every centre. His views on the closer settlement problem are endorsed by the farmers, and his personal acquaintance with the electors will stand him in good stead. Both sides are well organised, and a large number of names have been placed on the rolls. A big Liberal vote is anticipated in Yass town, and this, with heavy polling in the small country centres, should be sufficient to outweigh likely majorities for Labour at Burrowa, Barren Jack, and Binalong. The Barren Jack vote will, on account of the reduced number of workers at the dam, not be nearly so heavy as in 1907.

PROPOSED FRESH TAXATION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—According to Mr. M'Gowen, at Balmain, the Labour party intends, if it secures a majority on the 14th inst., to reimpose certain taxes which were remitted nearly three years ago. They include income tax on "earned" incomes up to £1000 a year, stamp duties on receipts, cheques, promissory notes, etc. Such taxes are purely labour taxes. Why does Mr. M'Gowen propose to tax labour? Surely it is a strange thing for a professed champion of labour interests to seek to tax labour. There is really no necessity for it. The State has a substantial surplus, but even if further revenue were needed why tax labour to get the money? However desirous some of us may be to support the Labour party, because the Liberal party is by no means as liberal as it was some years ago, we are constantly being repelled by the ignorance and insapacity of so-called "Labour" politicians. Let the reader devote just a few moments to this precious proposal to reimpose the stamp duties. Formerly receipts for £2 and upwards had to be stamped with a special 2d duty stamp. Postage stamps would not do. There was also 1d on every cheque form. Many a man has been put to more trouble over a 2d duty stamp than a dozen of them were worth. Working men have quite enough to do without hawking duty stamps about with them. Mr. M'Gowen may pretend that stamp taxes will largely be paid by big business men. But even that is not true. All such taxes become one of the expenses of a business, and must ultimately be paid by the last man—the consumer. I feel sure that the remission of those stamp duties was much appreciated by the public generally, even if they were remitted by the Government which Mr. M'Gowen said was the worst this country had ever known. But just consider what an extraordinary character this Mr. M'Gowen is. He says that a land monopolist who has £3,000 worth of land should be exempt. The land may be idle. That value represents the share of about 40 persons in the land values of the country, but the owner is not to be called upon under the graduated tax, whether ultimately imposed by Federal or State authority, to pay one penny. But Mr. M'Gowen would bail up the worker in the back country every time he sold a horse or cow, or received a small sum of £2 or more, to pay a stamp duty towards the revenue. Is that the way to safeguard Labour interests? This country has come to a pretty pass when such arrant humbug is put forward by responsible public men. My position is clear. I am against all labour taxes. They are neither just nor necessary. If Mr. W 'e proposed such a reactionary step I would be just as much opposed to it. The trouble of the worker is that he is overtaxed now. He needs relief. For allegedly "Labour" men to impose fresh taxes does not make them less oppressive. A labour tax always reduces wages. To raise wages we must remove taxes, and look to ground rent for public revenue. However, it is little use for me to try to impress upon hopeless reactionaries like Mr. M'Gowen that labour needs freedom, not restriction, and that instead of proposing fresh taxes he and the members of his party should be working early and late with a view to getting rid of some of the unjust burdens which labour is carrying now.

HOW TO VOTE.

To record your vote mark a cross in the square which precedes the name of the candidate for whom you wish to vote, fold the ballot paper, and place it in the box provided for that purpose in the polling booth. If any mark, other than the cross, be made upon the ballot paper, it may be rejected as informal. Appended are specimen ballot papers showing how the vote is recorded. In each instance the cross indicates the Liberal candidate:—

THE HOOTING OF MRS. WADE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I was dreadfully shocked to think that we have men in sunny New South Wales who could hoot a woman. Are they men? Could any woman who respects her own sex vote for such-called men? The Labour party talks about giving women their rights, and asks for their votes. But they must not hold shares in coalmines. Is that giving a woman her rights? Why cannot she hold them as well as the men? Are we not free agents? I admire Mrs. Wade. I think her pluck and course are wonderful, and Mr. Wade's also. If they do not gain the victory on the 14th they will have gained a greater victory, that no vote can take away. I am, etc, A WOMAN.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—As one of many women present at the Liberal meeting which was held in St. George's Hall, Newtown, on Friday last, I would like to indignantly protest against the unwarrantable and unmanly attack on the Premier's wife, Mrs. Wade. If Mr. M'Gowen has to depend upon such miserable and despicable cowards, who would so insult a defenceless woman (who has had nothing to do with the making or unmaking of laws), but because she committed the heinous offence of accompanying her husband, who happens to be opposed to their way of thinking, then pity help his chances. If the country were to be ruled by such, then the days of chivalry would indeed be over, and they would rule us with a rod of iron. This kind of man would say to his wife, sister, or mother, "Vote the way I tell you; never mind what you think." There are many women who never read the daily papers, many who do never think of reading politics. There are also many who, having read, do not understand, and thousands who won't be bothered going to a meeting to hear either side, and when they vote it is their husband's advice they take. If he happened to be a specimen of the small crowd of hooligans at the back of the hall last Friday night, then she is indeed to be pitied.

There is, however, nothing to prevent the woman from voting for which side she most favours, without her husband or brother's interference or even knowledge; and once again I say that the conduct meted out to Mrs. Wade by a lot of hooligans is only worthy the source whence it came. I am, etc,
A WOMAN WHO IS PROUD TO CALL HERSELF A LIBERAL.

THE CIVIL SERVICE VOTE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—As an ex-Civil servant, I read with great interest the article appearing in Saturday's "Herald," contributed by your correspondent "L.S.D." (and one meditates on the significance of the letters, and reads into them the words pounds, shillings, pence), anent the coming election; and, with your permission, I would commend the reading of it to all Civil servants.

Every "man jack" of the service would do well to read and digest it as a clear, concise, and logical statement of things as they stand to-day in regard to the Labour party's politics, and as a prophecy of what will surely happen should that party be in power when the lean years do appear.

It is a fine election cry, this pandering to the Public Servants' vote; but having regard to Labour legislation and a consequent tightening of the Treasury purse-strings (in bad times), you may depend upon it, Sir, that the first move in the way of economies would be the reduction of Civil servants. That an intelligent body of men will be so gulled by the frothy utterances of Labour advocates, for the past two or three weeks, as to cast their vote with that party is beyond one's comprehension, and, in my opinion, is absolutely opposed to their own interests.

I believe that Civil servants, as a body, are very much alive to the political aspect in this country, and are not going to risk the throwing away of the tangible half-loaf (maybe growling the while) for the high-falutin speeches of a party bent on revenue-making at all hazards.

Being one of the crowd at Mr. E. M. Clark's meeting on Saturday night, I was struck by the remark made by the chairman, who styled himself as a "worker addressing the workers." He said that some 10 or 12 years ago the Labour party had in its ranks men of standing and stability, but to-day the units were nonentities, and were endeavouring to scale the political ladder on the backs of the public servants. So, C. S., beware!

I have no axe to grind, but, having the interest of the State at heart, I desire to add my quota for the country's good, and subscribe myself,
I am, etc.,
EX-CIVIL SERVANT.

BUSY DOCTOR
SOMETIMES OVERLOOKS A POINT.

The physician is such a busy man that he sometimes overlooks a valuable point to which his attention may be called by an intelligent patient who is a thinker.

"About a year ago my attention was called to Grape-Nuts by one of my patients," says a physician of Cincinnati.

"At the time my own health was bad, and I was pretty well run down, but I saw at once that the theories behind Grape-Nuts were sound, and that if the food was all that was claimed, it was a perfect food.

"So I commenced to use Grape-Nuts with cream twice a day, and in a short time I began to improve in every way, and I am now much stronger, feel better and weigh more than ever before in my life.

"I know that all of this good is due to Grape-Nuts, and I am firmly convinced that the claims made for the food are true.

"I have recommended, and still recommend, Grape-Nuts to a great many of my patients, with splendid results, and in some cases the improvements of patients on this fine food has been wonderful.

"As a brain and nerve food, in fact, as a general food, Grape-Nuts stands alone."

BABY FALLS ON STOVE

Rexona, the Rapid Healer, is an Ointment which is specially prepared for Burns and Scalds.

If applied promptly it eases the pain at once.

For a common Burn, simply rub on a little Rexona, and repeat again at night, and after a few applications you will find it quite healed.

If a Burn is more severe, use Rexona freely.

Spread it on clean linen, and wrap round the injured part in such a way as to fully exclude the air.

This dressing should be changed frequently, and the Rexona applied directly to the burn or scald.

Not only does Rexona ease the pain and cause the sore to heal, but, being an antiseptic and germicide of the highest order, it keeps the wound healthy, and prevents all danger of blood poisoning.

Burns and Scalds are accidents which are liable to happen in every household.

Be wise, be prepared. Get a tin to-day.

The little 12 months old baby of Mrs. Ella Halliday, Margaret-street, Norwood, S.A., had a wonderful recovery from a severe burn by the use of Rexona. Mrs. Halliday writes as follows:—

"My little baby, aged 12 months, burnt his arm to the bone. He fell on the stove and got a terrible burn. The poor little dear cried for hours, the pain was so bad. It had been bad for three weeks. I had tried all kinds of Ointments, but none seemed to do him any good, and he seemed to be getting worse every day. I did not know what to do with him until I heard of this new Ointment called Rexona. I tried it, and the first application did him a lot of good. After two more applications baby's burn was quite cured without leaving a mark. It seemed to draw the pain out, and had a great soothing effect."

Rexona is a tried and proved specific for Burns, Scalds, Running Sores, Bad Legs, Eczema, Piles, Chilblains, Varicose Veins, Chapped Hands, Sore Feet, Scabs on the Head, Pimples, Blackheads, Ringworms, Erysipelas, and all Skin Diseases.

Rexona is sold everywhere in triangular pots at 1/6, and in large pots at 3/, holding nearly four times the quantity, or will be sent post free upon receipt of the price by the Laxo-Tonic Pill Co., 15 O'Connell-st., Sydney, N.S.W.

STATE ELECTIONS.

MR. M'GOWEN AT REDFERN.

A LARGE GATHERING.

Several thousand people gathered in front of the Town Hall, Redfern, last evening, to hear Mr. M'Gowen, Mr. James Wilson, M.L.C., and others in support of the Labour cause. The Mayor of Redfern, Alderman Leitch, presided.

Mr. Wilson said much had been made of the incident of the hooting of the Premier when accompanied by Mrs. Wade, he visited the electorate. Not the slightest discourtesy was intended for Mrs. Wade. The electors held women in too high esteem for that.

Mr. M'Gowen was received with great enthusiasm. He said Mr. Wade had charged him with stating on one occasion that the resources of the country were safe in the hands of such men as Carruthers and Wade. That statement was only partially true. The facts were that at Mount Kosciusko there is an hotel run by the Government. His Excellency Lord Chelmsford shortly after his arrival was present at the opening. "I was there as a guest of the Government," Mr. M'Gowen said, "and at the opening ceremony I was asked to propose the health of the Premier. I did it as leader of the Opposition and as a guest of the party, and was it likely that I was going to be so foolish as to introduce party politics at such a gathering, and to so far forget myself as tackle the Government in the presence of his Excellency? If I had done so what would they have said then? (Applause.) No, I simply referred to the fact that Messrs. Wade and Carruthers were natives of the country, and, notwithstanding statements that had been made to the contrary, the pleasure resources were safe in their hands. I was not referring to industrial legislation or party politics in any way, but the newspapers quickly distorted the remarks, as they were prone to do, and Mr. Wade has followed it up. (Applause.) Another matter that required correction as that on one occasion I complimented Mr. Wade upon the part he took in putting an end to some industrial trouble in the North in 1907, which trouble threatened to bring great disaster upon this country, but Mr. Wade said recently that he told the tramway men to go back to their work, and not to be fools, and that, by taking his advice, they were £100,000 better off to-day. Well, I never heard that before. I know that when the strke took place, Mr. Fred Flowers and I waited upon Mr. Wade as soon as the trams stopped to urge upon him to promise the men a board of inquiry if they would go back to work at once. But Mr. Wade, notwithstanding that I was leader of the Opposition, refused to see me for two hours, treated me with contempt, contrary to constitutional usage, and when he did see Mr. Fred. Flowers and myself he told us with a very stiff back that the men must go back unconditionally, must grovel in the dirt to the mighty I am, and when Mr. Flowers and myself went to those men and urged them to go back, the people know how those extreme leaders of the tramway men fought us on the point. If Mr. Wade now admits that the tramway men are £100,000 better off to-day than they were before the strike, then those men must have had grievances which, owing to the action of the Government and the powers that be, led them to resist the treatment, and come out on strike. (Applause.) The tramway men had nothing to thank Mr. Wade for in settling their trouble."

NORTH SYDNEY LABOUR RALLY.

"MR. WADE'S POLITICAL FUNERAL."

Messrs. G. M. Down and S. E. Hutton, Labour candidates for St. Leonards and Lane Cove respectively, held a joint meeting on Monday at the Friendly Societies' Hall, North Sydney, and had the support of Mr. Arthur Griffith.

Mr. Down said he believed that the Labour party was more qualified for the work of administration than the Liberal party was when it assumed office. While not entirely blaming the Premier for legislation he had passed, much of which was good, he thought that Mr. Wade lacked experience. He held that the Labour party succeeded in getting the principle of arbitration accepted. Naturally, there were some defects in the Arbitration Act, and it was the duty of the Government to remedy them. If anyone defeated the principle of arbitration it was Mr. Wade. (Applause.) The Premier had brought about a coercive measure in the formation of wages boards. It was the duty of the Labour party if returned to power to wipe out the Industrial Disputes Act created by Mr. Wade with all its defects, and in its place create a board which would formulate a case for submission to an Arbitration Court. If Mr. Wade were returned to office it would lead to chaos.

Mr. S. E. Hutton said that if the party he represented was returned to power it would at any rate endeavour to carry out what it promised. He was certain that at the poll on Friday Mr. Wade would be absolutely annihilated so far as his party was concerned. Then Mr. Wade would not consider his job worth having, and he would in the near future be able to attend Mr. Wade's political funeral. (Applause.) The people had had enough of Mr. Wade and his Government, and was only waiting until Friday to tear him to shreds. No Government could be worse than that of the past six years. For 19 years the Labour party had been trying to get the people to look upon Labour in politics in the same light as the party did, and now the day had arrived when with confidence the Labour candidates left themselves in the hands of the electors. (Applause.)

"WHERE ARE THE FIGHTING FOUR?"

Mr. M'Gowen met with an enthusiastic reception from a large crowd that had waited for him at the Randwick Town Hall until half-past 10 on Monday night. The Labour leader recognised the applause by remarking that it was not only the Liberal leader who was receiving such spectacular demonstrations of goodwill. At Redfern earlier in the evening not only was the Town Hall filled, but he was asked to address an overflow meeting of 3000 people there. (Applause.) They were beginning to realise that the success of the other side they read of was so much bluster. Labour was winning all along the line.

"Where are the 'fighting four'?" asked Mr. M'Gowen. The warrior Wood was like a dog. He was chained up and could not get away. Mr. Wood could get as much fight as he wanted without going far. Then where was Mr. Moore, who was burning to put his closer settlement scheme before the people? He was nailed down at Tingha. Mr. Oakes was also getting more than he wanted from Mr. Osborne down Paddington way. Mr. Lee had to stop about Tenterfield and Deepwater. He was in deep water, too. (Laughter.) And Mr. Waddell could not leave Cowra. These great fighters were beginning to realise that the people of the State were of the same opinion now as they were on April 13. (Applause.) The Labour leader read a telegram from the Prime Minister, which expressed the hope that another Administration would place New South Wales in the forefront of progressive States. (Applause.)

COUNTRY ELECTORATES.

Candidates in country electorates who for weeks past have been incessantly moving from centre to centre are now returning to their headquarters, intent upon a final personal appeal to the electors. Each man expresses himself as confident of victory, and there is reason to believe that in many instances the voting will be very close. Labour organisation for getting supporters to the poll is better than ever, and knowing this Liberal candidates and their leading supporters are doing their utmost to secure a record Liberal vote. The probability is that if the full strength of the Liberal vote can be polled Labour gains in the country will be few and far between. Wherever the Premier has been the tide of Liberalism is running strong. Mr. Garland has also rendered splendid service to his party. During the last few days Mr. Garland gave a helping hand to Mr. Lonsdale in the Armidale electorate, and to Mr. Ball in the Corowa electorate. His addresses carried great weight. Mr. Sydney Smith is helping Mr. R. Jones in the Mudgee electorate, and his meetings are well attended. Mr. Carr, M.P., has been at work in the Blayney electorate in the interests of Mr. S. G. Beeby, and Mr. Spence, M.P., has assisted the Labour candidates in the Burrangong and Mudgee electorates. In the Hawkesbury constituency Mr. Brinsley Hall is bringing a series of most successful meetings to a close. The contest for the Clyde seat has been narrowed down to a trial between Mr. Millard (Liberal) and Mr. Tomkins (Labour) by the retirement of Mr. Rose (Independent Liberal) in the interests of Mr. Millard.

DARLING HARBOUR.

MR. J. COCHRAN'S CANDIDATURE.

Addressing a gathering at the corner of Clarence and Erskine streets last night, Mr. J. Cochran, selected Labour candidate, said that all through the electorate he had met with encouraging receptions. He claimed that he had done nothing since his election in April to alienate the support of those who had voted for him, and one of his supporters on that occasion was his present opponent, Mr. Archie Thompson. There was no room for Independents in Parliament. He referred to the case of Garraway, the rockchopper who had died. He (Mr. Cochran) had engaged in rockchopping, and knew that the average life of a rockchopper was about 44 years. Garraway with others had gone to gaol for a few days as the alternative to paying a fine of £40 imposed by the Judge of the Industrial Court as punishment for taking part in a strike. He was liberated when the fine was paid by the Contractors' Union of Employers. He blamed the several days' imprisonment for causing Garraway's breakdown in health, coming as it did on top of a few weeks spent on strike. Referring to Peter Bowling, he said that he would be liberated if the Labour party got into power, as he had fully expiated his complicity in the coal strike, and should be allowed to return home to his wife and children. (Cheers.) The Labour movement aimed at bringing more sunshine into the lives of the producers by a fairer distribution of wealth, and it also aimed at educating the worker. He felt sure that he would be returned by a substantial majority, and added that he was under a debt of gratitude to the energetic committee of men and women who were working for him. (Applause.)

A vote of confidence in the candidate was carried.

DARLINGHURST.

Mr. Daniel Levy had a large meeting in St. John's School Hall last night. It was with him almost to a man. The chief points of Mr. Levy's attack were directed against the political career of his Labour opponent, Mr. J. D. Fitzgerald. Mr. Levy quoted from past speeches of Mr. Fitzgerald, showing that he strongly denounced Labour and the caucus, and refused to be shackled and vote like a machine. The decisive shot was fired by Mr. Levy when he read out a resolution of the executive committee of the Trades Hall years ago declaring that Mr. Fitzgerald was a "traitor to Labour" and not fit to represent any democratic constituency. When the applause had subsided Mr. Levy asked the audience how it would like Mr. R. D. Meagher for a Solicitor-General, and was answered with loud cries of "Never!"

Mr. J. D. Fitzgerald (Labour) addressed a meeting last night in Victoria-street. He dealt expressly with the Civil Service question. "It was his desire," he said, "to correct those malicious misstatements that had been made in relation to Labour and the Civil Service. He was not asking Civil Servants for their votes. It had been said that the advent of Labour into power meant a Black Wednesday for the Civil servant. That was a pure falsehood. In 1904-5 the Civil servants experienced their Black Wednesday when they were ruthlessly slaughtered at short notice by retrenchments that should have extended over years.

A voice: "What do you know about the Civil Service?

Mr. Fitzgerald said he had always taken a keen interest in the Civil servants, and had been instrumental in helping them. He had fought for them, and had got some into the service. The State servant should be the best paid of all employees, instead of being the reverse, as at the present time. Did the Civil servants believe, Mr. Fitzgerald asked, that the Labour party was going to knife them, and that Mr. Wade was going to help them? He said emphatically "No," nor were they going to be bought over by the bribes that had been offered them since the "famous 13th." Some people believed that rents would be increased under a Labour Government. The true cause of increased rents was the vogue of the brick combine, against whom the Liberal party was not game to take action.

PHILLIP.

MONDAY'S HOSTILE DEMONSTRATION.

It was made evident at Mr. H. E. Manning's meeting in Phillip Division last night that a great many of the electors deeply regret the treatment meted out to the Premier, Mr. Wade, the previous evening. Mr. G. Todd presided over the meeting, which was held at the Baden Powell Hotel, Regent-street, and in introducing the Liberal candidate he said that, as a native of Phillip Division, he was disgusted at the treatment Mr. Wade had received. His opinion was that it would react in favour of the Government. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. Manning, referring to the same incident, said he did not believe that the hostile demonstration made against the Premier was to be charged against Phillip division. (Hear, hear.) He had been assured that it had been organised outside the electorate, and he was prepared to believe that to be the case. It was only another instance of the disgraceful tactics indulged in by a certain section of the Labour party—tactics which, he was glad to say, were resented by all decent and fair-minded supporters of that party. (Hear, hear.) He had been told that it was the first time the Premier had visited Phillip division, and the incident was therefore all the more regrettable.

Throughout his address Mr. Manning had a very attentive hearing. Mr. J. J. Cohen also addressed the meeting.

KING.

Mr. Neville Mayman (Liberal) is hopeful that, political considerations apart, a big proportion of the workers' vote will be cast for him because of his reputation as a generous employer. It has been pointed out by his supporters that in his business he gave better conditions and higher wages to his employees than the Arbitration Court awarded.

ASHFIELD.

Addressing a meeting of ladies at the Ashfield Town Hall yesterday, Mr. W. E. V. Robson combated the statements made in his electorate by the Rev. F. B. Cowling respecting education. He commended the Government for its forward policy in secondary education, and particularly for its development of practical agricultural instruction. It was necessary, he said, to train the teachers, and find the funds for the establishment of more agricultural and continuation schools, and the Government had gone the right way to work by providing facilities for the training of teachers. In his early addresses Mr. Cowling did not apparently know what had been done in the electorate he was seeking to represent. At the Hurlstone School for the training of boys the work had been of a gratifying character, involving the minimum of financial strain upon parents for the education of their sons. In other departments of education the Liberal programme had been of a useful and practical character, not visionary, but framed with a prudence and foresight that was to be commended. The stepping stones to the highest education the country could give had also been so graded that the humblest or poorest child possessed of the necessary intelligence could by means of scholarships or bursaries reach the top of the tree without expense. It was part of the Liberal programme to steadily expand the opportunities for the young to acquire a sound education in any branch of technical training or intellectual culture.

MIDDLE HARBOUR.

Mr. O'Brien (Labour) had the support of Mr. J. West, M.P., and Mr. J. Birt at an open-air meeting at Manly on Saturday. Mr. West defended the Fisher Government's land tax, and predicted that it would result in thousands of young men in the city and country centres taking up small holdings hitherto locked up in the hands of monopolists.

Mr. J. Birt said the Labour party by its advocacy of humane measures had forced the Government to pass Acts and bills through Parliaments for the improvement of the lot of the workers. Mr. Wade and his party took credit for them, but had the Labour party been non-existent the Premier would have snapped his fingers at the petitions of the workers.

A Liberal rally in support of Dr. Arthur was held at Manly on Saturday night. The Mayor (Alderman James Bonner) presided. Mr. Edwards, M.H.R., said that during the six years of the Liberal Government a great number of Acts had been passed having for their object the uplifting of humanity and the general progress of the State. Many of these measures dealt with industrialism. Mr. Wade and his party had successfully legislated in the interests of the man who wanted to go on the land, and every inducement and facility was afforded the settler to make homes by taking up the land. The Labour Prime Minister, Mr. Fisher, himself declared that the number of people taking up land over 1000 acres had increased 5.8 per cent. in New South Wales, while in New Zealand the increase was 5.3 per cent. The increase in New South Wales had been much greater than New Zealand, where they have a breaking-up tax, which proved that Mr. Wade's legislation was successful. It would be a bad day for Australia if, after the work Mr. Wade had done, the electors should turn round and say, "We don't want you any longer."

Mr. Massey Greene, M.P., delivered a capital address. Liberalism, he declared, was the safeguard of Australian progress. Speaking of the Federal land tax, Mr. Greene said the Labour party's proposal would not put men on the land. That was proved in New Zealand, where they had a tax, and settlers were gradually adding to their holdings.

ST. LEONARDS.

Speaking on Monday night as chairman at a meeting held at Neutral Bay by Mr. E. M. Clark, the independent candidate, the Mayor of North Sydney (Alderman A. G. Milson) said there were two Liberals in the field—a tried man and an untried one. He looked upon the untried man as an interloper, and he disregarded the local selection because he believed it was obtained by unfair means. In referring to a petition presented to the Sydney Ferries, Ltd., by Mr. Cocks (the selected candidate) in connection with the Neutral Bay ferry service, Alderman Milson said the matter had been before the North Sydney Council for many years, and it was that body which had agitated for an improvement. So far as the Neutral Bay leaseholds were concerned they knew quite well that these could not be converted into freeholds during the lifetime of the present holder without the consent of the Court. Mr. Clark, he said, deserved their support for the great and good work he had done for the district in the past.

Mr. Clark also addressed the meeting, and said that if returned he would loyally support the Liberal party.

ST. GEORGE.

SPEECH BY MR. KING O'MALLEY.

Addressing a meeting at Rockdale on Saturday in support of the candidature of Mr. Bagnall for the St. George seat, Mr. King O'Malley said:—"Do you stand for those who have made slaves of you, or do you stand for the liberty and freedom of your household? What will the motor cars be doing on the 14th? Taking the boodler and the bot-cat to the poll. Who'll take the working man to the poll? Nobody but himself. They say it's wrong, brother, but the bantam Langshans and the tin-pot Brahma-pootras will do it. I am here to preach—are you going to the poll on the 14th? (A rousing chorus of "Yes" and "We are.") Yes, and on the 14th the Labour movement would get its reward, and their men and women would go to the seashore and sing the Doxology. (Cheers.) Swear by the blue vaults above you and by the tombs of your ancestors that you'll go to the poll on the 14th and bury the leg-iron crowd. (Loud cheers.)

"No man can get rich on his own labour," Mr. O'Malley went on; "it is only by learning how to work the workers that he achieves that end. The country is running into debt. Australia is borrowing millions—all an indication of the monopolistic inequality of wealth. What happens is that a great mass of people put themselves under obligations to the wealthy classes and reduce themselves to a state of social barbarism. The remedy for such an alarming state of affairs was not to be found in Poor Richard's Almanac or in Sir Samuel Smiley's Smiles, but when they got control of a postal banking system of their own. And next year the Labour party were going to put it in. He had heard that house owners had been putting up their rents in consequence of the graduated tax. If an owner raised the rent on account of the Federal land tax it was an imposition, as there was an exemption of £5000. If a man was worth £10,000 he ought to pay it cheerfully. "Thank God," said the speaker, "I'm in that position, and glad to pay the tax."

The candidate, Mr. Bagnall, also addressed the gathering, and was accorded a good hearing.

PARRAMATTA.

In the course of a speech at Parramatta Mr. T. R. Moxham (Liberal) said no case had been made out for a change of Government, and it behoved every patriotic elector to exercise the franchise and vote to keep in power one of the best Governments New South Wales has ever had. Short addresses in support of Mr. Moxham's candidature were delivered by Aldermen F. J. Thomas and W. P. Noller, and Mr. S. M. Dennis, and a unanimous vote of confidence was carried.

At the close of Mr. Moxham's meeting Mr. Thomas Brown, M.P., delivered a short address, and was followed by Mr. Dowell O'Reilly, the Labour candidate.

BELUBULA.

The Treasurer, Mr. Waddell, speaking at Canowindra on Saturday, said base insinuations had been made against him in connection with the purchase by the Government of a portion of Gunningbland Estate for closer settlement. It had been stated that this estate had been offered to the Government at £2 5s per acre, and refused. But that later on, when Mr. L. Purcell, a friend of his, had purchased it, a portion of the estate was resumed at £3 per acre. The inference was that he had improperly used his influence to get Mr. Purcell a higher price than the land was worth. The departmental papers would show that the statement regarding the estate being offered at £2 5s to the Government was a contemptible fabrication. Mr. Waddell declared that the Labour party, knowing their policy was unattractive, were not hesitating to use any dastardly weapon to defeat their opponents. Public life was being degraded, and the time had come when men with sensitive feelings were disinclined to take part in public matters.

CASTLEREAGH.

Mr. W. B. Acton, of Mudgee, addressed the electors at Coonamble on Monday in support of the candidature of Mr. W. J. Donnelly, the selected representative of the Liberal party. Mr. Acton made a vigorous defence of the Liberal policy, as one that was operating in the best interests of the country. He praised Mr. Wade, whom he described as a man of great ability, as straight as an arrow, and as a leader who had shown a fighting capacity during the present contest that even his friends had not given him credit for.

COOTAMUNDRA.

Mr. Holman (Labour) visited Temora on Monday and vigorously defended himself against attack from local sources. He is making a personal appeal by letter to the farmers for support. The farmers, generally, are supporting Colonel Ryrie. A close poll at Temora is anticipated.

COROWA.

Mr. Garland addressed meetings at Brocklesby, Balldale, and Corowa in the interest of the Liberal candidate, Mr. R. T. Ball. His speeches carried weight. Every effort is being put forth by the Labour party to capture the Corowa seat, but the general opinion is that Mr. Ball will win.

GLOUCESTER.

It is believed that a record vote will be polled in the Wingham and Upper Manning centres of the electorate. The three candidates have toured the constituency, and though some people appear to think that Mr. Gregg (the Independent Liberal) will affect Mr. Price's prospects somewhat, there does not appear to be any fear that the vote will be split to a dangerous extent. It is generally admitted that Mr. Gregg is an able man, but the fact that he is contesting a seat which already had a Liberal representative does not improve his prospects. The plank in the Labour platform dealing with land nationalisation is killing Mr. Hogan, politically, with the men on the land.

SINGLETON.

Mr. Fallick (Liberal) addressed the electors at Greta and Rothbury during the week. The various branches of the Liberal league throughout the electorate are working hard to secure Mr. Fallick's return.

Mr. H. H. Pendel (Labour) also addressed a number of meetings during the week, and professes himself confident that the ballot on Friday will be in his favour.

THE PUBLIC SERVICE.

EARLY CLOSING ON FRIDAY.

It has been decided that the Public offices of the State will close on Friday afternoon in ample time to allow employees to record their votes. Every reasonable facility will likewise be provided for those in the Railway Department.

"I make an appeal," said the Premier yesterday, "to the business people in the metropolitan area in particular, and in all other large centres, to allow their employees to cease work at an hour which will enable them to record their votes in their own electorates. I may add that in view of the fact that a very large number of country people will be on the rifle range at Randwick, a polling booth will be provided at the range for all country electorates."

PENALTY FOR DOUBLE VOTING.

Precautions are to be taken to prevent any double voting or other malpractice, on polling day. Posters have been struck off to be exhibited at the booths intimating that false declarations or false answers to questions may be punished in a penalty of £100, or six months' imprisonment.

DOES NOT MR. FITZGERALD KNOW?

Mr. J. D. Fitzgerald writes:—"Just a word in answer to the provocative campaign begun by Mr. Levy against me in Darlinghurst, and transferred to your columns later. He appears still to labour under the impression that "there is no such thing as a political prisoner." He calls Mr. Winston Churchill to his aid. Unfortunately for the Churchill-Levy combination, those inexorable logicians, history and fact, are against them. The "Kilmainham Treaty" with Parnell brought about an amnesty of members of the Irish party who were political prisoners. "Does Mr. Levy not know" that Mr. Parnell and Mr. O'Brien were never either regarded or treated as criminals? In what category, then, could they be placed while in prison? There is only one. They were political prisoners. I could give other examples of political prisoners, but the Irish political prisoners will suffice to destry Mr. Levy's hallucinations.

Mr. Levy has apparently learned what a pogram is. I hope he will carefully reflect upon it. He asks:—"Can the electors of Darlinghurst take Mr. Fitzgerald seriously when he says that I have voted to introduce the pogram system in New South Wales?" I answer that they can. The Act which I—not ignorantly, as Mr. Levy says, but advisedly—call the Coercion Act, is the thin edge of the wedge of pogramism. The pinchbeck Stolypins who introduced and passed it by the aid of the gag in New South Wales, would, if they were allowed to remain unpunished, eventually go as far as the pogram. Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty. The point in Mr. Levy's case is that the son of a race in one country persecuted should not join in persecution in another country. There was a greater onus on him to be vigilant in defence of liberty in Australia, and to repel the introduction of Russian methods.

Mr. Levy persists in hinting that, in my defence of his race—a defence prompted by a derisive interjection at one of my meetings, I have somehow or other attempted to disparage his father. He refuses private assurances, evidence, and common knowledge of my methods in rebuttal of that. Had I disparaged his father or his race I would have been as worthy of contempt as those canvassers of his who are endeavouring somehow to create prejudice against me by mentioning from door to door the business of my late brothers, Messrs. D. and T. Fitzgerald, who were proprietors of a well-known circus venture. I am proud of the honourable name they left behind them, not only in Australia, but in the East and in Europe—a name which Mr. Levy might well envy. Nor can I quite see what advantage can be gained to Mr. Levy by his partisan's conduct in this matter. They leave openings for retaliation, which my committee disdain to use. I am glad to say my late brother's calling was quite as honourable as Mr. Levy's.

Had I disparaged his father or his race I would have been as contemptible as those (including himself) who have endeavoured to raise prejudice against be on various doorsteps by industriously asking: "Why should Mr. Fitzgerald, whose wife has property, stand as a Labour candidate?" The extent of my wife's property is hardly so relevant to the issues at stake in Darlinghurst as the question I have asked, and which yet remains unanswered: "Why should a man, whose father was a scion of a persecuted race in Russian Poland, and who obtained a freedom here denied him at home, vote for a law which took away from an Australian citizen in peril of his liberty, the right to a trial by his peers?"

Mr. Levy's reference to the imprisoned men as "cold-blooded and self-seeking agitators" will no doubt be appreciated in the right quarters, quarters in which they are certain of the highest approval. This malediction is somewhat inconsistent, however, with the claim in Mr. Levy's circulars, that "he has been a good friend to the working classes." The working classes do not like their leaders' honesty and humanity impugned—as Mr. Levy will see in good time.

SATURDAY HALF-HOLIDAY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Will you kindly permit me to address the members of the Shop Assistants' Union through your columns, in reply to a circular signed by their secretary, Mr. G. R. Young, the Labour candidate for Randwick. Mr. Young states that "one of the worst features of the present campaign is the action of Mr. Chas. Coghlan, organiser of the Saturday Half-holiday League, who has written to the opposition candidates laudatory letters referring to the Saturday Half-holiday."

As I would far sooner write a laudatory letter than one of condemnation, I am sorry that I could not include the Labour candidate for Randwick in the former list. As a matter of fact I have all along known Mr. Young as one of the strongest opponents of the movement—not only has he never contributed a coin to our funds, nor even attended one of our meetings, but I have on two occasions written to him formally complaining of the tactics of the two "informers" who were employed by the union, and who, I presume, were under Mr. Young's personal supervision. And I say straight out that Mr. Young should be ashamed to even refer to the Saturday Half-holiday question in the same electorate as our old and tried champion, Mr. David Storey.

He further states that they can thank me for all the bad features contained in the Act. Well, that is certainly funny, considering the Act as passed by the Liberal Government is exactly what we have always asked for, no more and no less.

It cannot be contradicted that both the present president and the past president of the union have repeatedly moved at public meetings a resolution simply asking that the half-holiday be made compulsory on Saturdays, but not a single word about reducing the hours in shops until now. Any one can see they are not in earnest, and never were in earnest, about this question. As I said in a former letter, we have the Saturday half-holiday to-day, not with the assistance of Mr. Young and his party, but in spite of them. I do wish to impress that fact on the shop assistants, more especially those who are members of the union, and who have given me such loyal support. They know that my services, such as they are, have been entirely in their interests. That they have ended successfully is certainly not due to any help from Mr. G. R. Young.

I am, etc., CHAS. COGHLAN.

Organising Secretary Saturday Half-holiday League. Oct. 11.

DEMOCRACY STRANGLED.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Your correspondent in last Thursday's issue, Mr. Rumieson, attempts to justify Mr. Morrish's selection and endorsement in King division, and goes on to state that in his 20 years' experience in the Labour cause and movement, he has never seen a cleaner selection than that of J. J. Morrish in King. The above statement seems strange and out of place, coming from one so well versed as Mr. Rumieson says he is. Does he not know that Mr. Morrish was asked to stand down by the leaders of the State Labour party, Mr. M'Gowen, Campbell Carmichael, M.L.A., and Mr. Flowers, M.L.C., and does Mr. Rumieson think for one moment that these gentleman would have asked Mr. Morrish to come down if his selection were proper and constitutional. I say most emphatically "No," and let me here state that if Mr. Morrish had the cause of the Labour movement at heart (as he has asked others to have), he would have withdrawn his nomination when being asked by his leaders. Mr. Rumieson also mentions that there was no protest against the first ballot being destroyed. I say most emphatically there was, and I said so in my evidence before both the disputes committee and in the room of the P.L.L. executive, and my statement was substantiated by Mr. O'Neill and Mr. Massey (at that time assistant secretary to Mr. Morrish's union). I may state in conclusion the electors of King division will show Mr. Morrish on the 14th inst. that they want a clean Labour movement, or none, and that they have no time for revolutionary socialism and atheism, as advocated by Mr. Morrish at other than election time in the Domain and elsewhere.

I am, etc., T. J. DONOHOE.

Crown street, Oct. 10.

MR. CATTS, M.H.R., AND THE LABOUR PRESS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—At every meeting of Labour candidates we hear laments for the one-sided daily press, and the electors are urged to subsidise a Labour paper that will give a square deal to each phase of politics. My experience shows that there is nothing under the sun of so lopsided or partisan a character as this selfsame Labour press.

We have a Labour paper published in Sydney owned and controlled by Mr. Catts, M.H.R., and circulated among the railway men, called the "Co-operator." The frontispiece declares that "all men are brethren," and gives its circulation as ten thousand.

Last week I wrote the "Co-operator" stating that an election of members of the Railway Pension Board would shortly be held, and that among the candidates for the position was Mr. Catts, M.H.R. I pointed out that this gentleman is a veritable Pooh-bah in the number of billets he holds, being a Federal member of Parliament, editor and owner of the "Co-operator," secretary of the Railway Amalgamated Society, agent to wages boards, appellant representative at the Appeal Court, etc; and that his endeavour to push himself into another paid job on the pensions board was, in my opinion, mere evidence of grab and greediness. I also asked the railway men to vote for any other candidate, preferably an officer. Mr. Catts replied by post, refusing to publish my letter in his "all-men-are-brethren" paper, and giving the very un-British reason that as he was the selected "Co-operator" candidate nothing detrimentl to his chances, or favouring another candidate, could be published by him. Now, Mr. Editor, you are not, so far, a candidate for pension board pickings, and I am hopeful you will grant me space to ask the railway men of New South Wales to pause before they trust their destinies into Mr. Catts' already fully employed hands.

Supposing the Labour caucus desires Mr. Catts to be in his place in Parliament in Melbourne at the same time that a poor railway man wants his vote in Sydney, to decide his life pension, in such a case would Mr. Catts disobey the caucus. There are plenty of other candidates for the pension board, some good and some bad, but any one of them is preferable to such a busy resident of Melbourne as Mr. Catts must be.

I am, etc., SPRAG.

SURPLUS OF CHEESE.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

The cheesemakers in Victoria have lately been increasing their output to such an extent as to cause a glut in the market. Supplies arriving in Melbourne have been considerably more than sufficient for local consumption. In addition to interstate orders (for which Queensland is an active competitor) and small occasional orders for South Africa and the East, most of the stores in town have, in consequence, for some time past been stocked with supplies for which no outlet can be found. To relieve the position, and to restore an equilibrium of supply to demand, Mr. Crowe, Superintendent of Exports, has arranged with producers to allocate a proportion of their supplies for shipment to London. Space has been arranged on the steamer Cornwall, due to leave Melbourne on November 15 for London, on the understanding that a minimum of 40 tons will be shipped. The shipment of 40 tons will not, however, absorb anything approaching the surplus available.

SPECIAL ARTICLES, ETC.
The decline of the wrinkly sheep is debated in the pastoral columns. The lack of unity amongst pastoralists receives renewed attention. An interesting article by an expert on pleuro-pneumonia is [illegible]. Shearing records, with some reference to the latest feat, is dealt with in the same section. "Rimrod" writes on several important country topics. "Maleir" in the farm columns discusses the feeding of grain to stock, and in the dairy columns has something to say of importance to dairymen respecting Holstein cattle. "Rapscrib" in a reference to the importation of diseased fruit trees, tells of tried methods of fighting San Jose scale and other pests.

"Milroy" describes in the Turf columns the finish of the A.J.C. Spring Meeting, and devotes ample space to the breeding of the winners. Caulfield events are touched upon and forecasts given. In addition, there is turf news from everywhere.

"Housewife" contributes hints on the successful management of the home, and gives a record of the social events of the week. Special reference is made this week to the Randwick races.

LAW REPORT.

EQUITY COURT.

(Before the Chief Judge, Mr. Justice A. H. Simpson.)

The case of the Attorney-General v the Borough of Mosman was continued, argument not being concluded when the Court rose.

(Before Mr. Justice Street.)

ANOTHER DISPUTED WILL.

Kleemo and others v Kleemo.

Mr. Knox, K.C., and Mr. R. H. L. Innes, instructed by Messrs. John Williamson and Sons, appeared for the plaintiffs; and Mr. Loxton, K.C., and Mr. Clive Teece, instructed by Messrs. John M'Laughlin and Son, for the defendant. Before the pleadings were read Mr. Loxton applied for an adjournment on the ground that Mr. John M'Laughlin, the senior member of the firm instructing him, and Mr. Clive Teece, his junior, were seriously ill, and would be unable to attend the court for some time.

His Honor: What are the issues in the suit?

Mr. Loxton said that defendant had pleaded undue influence and testator's incapacity to make the will, and the onus of proving these issues rested upon defendant, who had been prevented against the granting of probate, owing to the illness of Mr. M'Laughlin, sen., he had not been fully instructed.

Mr. Knox opposed the adjournment on the ground that the case had already been postponed from last week. Very grave charges of undue influence had been made, and the parties concerned did not wish to have such charges hanging over them.

His Honor said he did not wish to take any step that might prevent defendant from putting his case before the Court as fully and sufficiently as he wished. He granted the adjournment until November 8, defendant to pay the costs of the day, assessed, by consent, at £10 10s.

DIVORCE COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Gordon.)

DECREE NISI.

Matthews v Matthews.

Mr. Perry, instructed by Mr. F. W. M'Carthy, of Lockhart (by his agent, Mr. J. J. Kiely), appeared for the petitioner, Charles Matthews, in his suit against Margaret Scott Matthews, and moved for a decree nisi on the findings of Judge Scholes, at Wagga Wagga, in August last. The suit was one for dissolution of the marriage on the ground of desertion without just cause or excuse for three years and upwards, and there was no appearance on behalf of the respondent.

Decree nisi granted, returnable in six months; petitioner to have the custody of the infant children.

DECREES ABSOLUTE.

His Honor made absolute the decrees nisi in the following suits, and declared the marriages dissolved:—Leila Ann Raynor v Percy George Raynor, Frederick George Jones v Clara Louisa Jones; Henry Robert Tillerman Bobart v Maud Elizabeth Bobart, Beatrix Florence Watts Browne v Jonathan Watts Browne, Margaret Ellen Pitts v William Pitts, Kyerstine Henrietta Burgess v William Henry Joseph Burgess, George Henry Jordan v Mary Caroline Jordan, Ernest John Watson v May Clarice Watson, Susan Jane Whitehill v George Paterson Whitehill, Clara Evelyn Simpson v Norman Ernest Simpson, Mabel Lilyan Haynes v Francis Frederick Haynes, Elizabeth Bevan v George Ernest Bevan, also known as George Williams, Michael Curley Hall v Frances Annie Hall, Henry Cree v Florence Cree, Henry Willis v Lavinia Willis, Catherine Frances Groth v William Henry Groth, Margaret Isabella Duggan v John Duggan, Margaret Alice Schmidt v Paul Schmidt, Charles Harold Le Cornu v Ellen Le Cornu, Richard Finney v Ellen Augusta Finney, Henry Lees v Isabelle Marguerite Wilson Lees, Mary Davison v Frederick Godfrey Davison, and William Knox v Jane Knox.

MUFFET v MUFFET.

Mr. Selwyn Betts, instructed by Messrs. A. J. Betts and Son, of Goulburn, appeared for the petitioner. There was no appearance on behalf of the respondent. The suit was one brought by Ada Rebecca Muffet against William Henry Fuller Muffet for dissolution of the marriage, on the ground of misconduct by the respondent with one Ada Blakeley, at Woodhouselee, between July 1, 1908, and July 1909. The parties were married on July 6, 1892, at Marulan, near Goulburn, according to the rites of the Church of England. The hearing was adjourned.

PRATT v PRATT.

Mr. Boyce and Mr. Hodgson, instructed by Mr. H. E. M'Intosh, appeared for the petitioner; and Mr. Mack, instructed by Messrs. Harold T. Morgan and Morgan, for the respondent. This was a suit brought by Leonora Annie Montrose Pratt (formerly Payne) against Simon Edmunds Pratt for a decree of judicial separation on the ground of cruelty. The case for the petitioner, which was commenced on the previous day, was resumed, and Dr. Jarvie Hood stated that on one occasion he was consulted by petitioner in regard to her health. He found her in a very nervous condition, but there was no sign of organic disease. He sent her to a private hospital for a week, where she improved very much. Her condition might have been caused by harsh treatment.

Respondent, who described himself as a master mariner, residing at Union-street, North Sydney, said that petitioner's evidence was nothing but a mass of fabrication from beginning to end. He categorically denied the assertions as to assaults and other ill-treatment, and said he never told her that she was an immoral woman. It was not true that on one occasion when petitioner was in a delicate condition he frightened her by producing a rat. While residing for three months at the Glebe they lived fairly happily together, though petitioner indulged in drink on three or four occasions. Subsequently, while residing at North Sydney she was under the influence of drink on several occasions, and used insulting language towards him.

The case stands part heard.

INDUSTRIAL COURT.

(Before Judge Heydon.)

NEWCASTLE SEWER MINERS.

Mr. Croft, on behalf of the Newcastle Sewer Miners, asked for the appointment of a board to consider the conditions of the industry of sewer-mining in Newcastle. Mr. Coxon, on behalf of the Public Works Contractors' Association, submitted that there was no necessity for the board. A board had been applied for to deal with all the workers on the North Coast railway construction sections, and there were already three awards in existence covering most of the conditions prevailing in the industry for which the application had been made by Mr. Croft. Those conditions were governed by the Unskilled (United) Labourers' Wages Board, the Metropolitan Water and Sewerage (General Workers') Wages Board, and the Rock-choppers' Wages Board. His association had no objection to the extension of existing awards as far as applicable to Newcastle and the North Coast railway works.

The matter was adjourned until October 18.

UNDER WHICH AWARD.

PENALTIES ASKED FOR.

Mr. Croft, for Mr. Mitchell, appeared on behalf of the Federated Engine-drivers and Firemen's Association of Australasia in a summons for penalties against the Broken Hill Proprietary Company Limited, for the alleged non-payment of full rates to engine-drivers, under the Engine-drivers and Firemen's award, and for working employees on Good Friday without paying double rates. Mr. Broomfield, instructed by Messrs. Minter, Simpson, and Co., appeared for the company, and submitted that the company came under the Coke-workers' award, and further, that higher rates were paid than were required.

His Honor said that all the merits appeared to be with the complainants; but he was confronted with the difficulty that while the words in the Coke-workers' award pointed one way, the spirit of the award as shown by the minutes of evidence pointed another. He did not think it was a fair point on the part of the defendant company to take, but on the wording of the award, which provided for 6d for "other workers," he must uphold the objection and dismiss the summonses, but without costs. He would also, if asked, amend the constitution of the Coke-workers' Board, so that it might be called together to alter the wording of the award, so as to exclude the engine-drivers employed in coke works.

Mr. Croft said that all other coke-workers except this company, were paying the full rates.

Mr. Broomfield said he did not know the facts, as stated by his Honor, or he would not have taken the point.

MORT'S DOCK MATTER.

Mr. Croft, for Mr. H. A. Mitchell, on behalf of the Federated Engine-drivers and Firemen's Association of Australia, appeared in a summons case against the Mort's Dock and Engineering Co., Ltd., for an alleged breach of the Engine Driving and Firing (Coast) Board's award. Mr. F. Wegg Horne appeared for the company. The information was that the company between February 1 and May 5 of the present year employed W. Brinson as a first-class engine-driver of a condensing engine at 1s 1½d per hour, instead of 1s 4d per hour, as prescribed in the award. The case was taken as a test one, it being submitted on behalf of the company that the employee was only occupied on the engine for a few hours a day, and that while he was at that work he was paid the full rate of 1s 4d per hour, but when he went on to other ordinary labouring work he received is 1½d per hour.

His Honor said that it was agreed that the engagement was hourly and not by the week, and therefore it was not wrong under the award to employ a man for a certain number of hours at a work requiring one wage, terminate it, and at once employ him on another class of work paid at a different rate. It would have been different had the engagement been by the week. He would dismiss the summons, with £1 1s costs.

DISTRICT COURT.

(Before Judge Backhouse.)

ACCIDENT TO CARTER.

Sheeky v Keig.

Mr. Boyce, instructed by Mr. J. W. Maund, appeared for the plaintiff, John Sheeky, of 476 Crown-street, Surry Hills; and Mr. P. K. White for the defendant, Paul Keig, of the Balfour Hotel, corner of King and Elizabeth streets.

Plaintiff claimed £200 damages for injuries received as the result of falling through a trap-door in the hotel. He was employed by Toohey and Co., Ltd., delivering aerated water, and was not, he alleged, warned of the fact that the trap-door, which was situated behind the bar, was open.

For the defence it was stated that the plaintiff had been distinctly warned on entering the hotel that the trap-door was open.

HAHM v BLUNDELL.

Mr. T. Arkins appeared for Richard Hahm, of 75 Albert-street, North Sydney, grocer; and Mr. L. Armstrong, instructed by Messrs. Beeby and Moffitt, for the defendant, R. R. Blundell, of Park-road, Gore Hill.

The plaintiff alleged that the defendant negligently allowed his horse to stray in the street, and that it entered the plaintiff's premises, kicking another horse, that had, as a result, to be destroyed.

ALLEGED ADULTERATED MILK.

Irwin v Hillman and another.

Mr. Curtiss, instructed by Mr. J. W. Abigail, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Windeyer, instructed by Mr. E. R. Abigail, for the defendant.

This was an action brought by Celia Ellen Irwin, of 134 New Canterbury-road, Petersham, milk-vendor, against Charles Hillman and Joseph Moore, of 62 Ivy-street, Sydney, carrying on business as the "Sydney Direct Supply," milk-vendors, to recover £25 damages. Plaintiff alleged that the defendants supplied milk not of the kind, nature, substance, and quality demanded, and contrary to the Pure Foods Act of 1908, by reason of which plaintiff was prosecuted and fined £5, and costs. She alleged a breach of warranty, the defendants having undertaken to supply milk pure and of a proper standard.

QUARTER SESSIONS.

(Before Judge Rogers.)

Mr. Herbert Harris prosecuted.

A PARK INCIDENT.

William Quinn, a Chinese, was charged with assaulting Low Day Sing, another Chinese, and robbing him of 12s. The Crown alleged that prosecutor was passing through Belmore Park about 8.15 p.m. on September 18, when accused, who was lying on the grass, sprang up and struck him on the head with what appeared to be a roll of paper, and then robbed him of the money.

The accused, who denied the charge, said prosecutor was jealous of him about a woman, and attacked him on the occasion. He knocked accused down and kicked him, and when accused ran away followed him into Campbell-street, where he called upon several freemasons to kill him. Assistance, however, came up, and accused got away.

The jury, without leaving the box, returned a verdict of not guilty, and accused was discharged.

A MISSING GELDING.

Thomas Charles Curtis, a young man, was for the second time placed on trial on a charge of stealing a gelding, the property of William Grimmond, at North Sydney, on January 10, 1909. A second count charged him with receiving. The accused pleaded not guilty, and was defended by Mr. E. R. Abigail. In the previous trial the jury were unable to agree.

The jury returned a verdict of not guilty, and the accused was discharged.

A VALUELESS CHEQUE.

Maurice Lyons, a middle-aged man, was charged with falsely pretending to Low Tin that he had £20 to his credit in the Manly branch of the Bank of North Queensland, Ltd., and that a cheque purporting to be drawn by him on the said branch for the payment of £2 6s 3d was genuine, by means of which false pretence he obtained from Low Tin 36 cauliflowers, two boxes of tomatoes, three bushels of beans, and one bushel of pears, with intent to defraud. The accused pleaded not guilty, and was defended by Mr. E. R. Abigail.

The jury found the accused guilty, and he was sentenced to be imprisoned and kept to hard labour in Goulburn gaol for four months.

POLICE COURTS.

ALLEGED OPIUM DEAL.

Before Mr. G. H. Smithers, S.M., on Monday, at the North Sydney Police Court, Alfred Waterhouse, 34, was charged with having at North Sydney, on September 29 last, assaulted Ah You, and robbed him of an overcoat and ten tins of opium of the value of £35 15s, the property of Ah You. It is alleged that the accused by arrangement met the Chinaman for the purpose of handing over to him the opium. Ah You kept the appointment, and having received the drug, handed the accused the money. Accused, it is alleged, then suggested that the opium should be left behind for delivery, but to this Ah You demurred unless his money was returned. This method of procedure did not suit accused, who, it is alleged, produced a revolver, which he pointed at Ah You and from whom, after a struggle, he took an overcoat in which the Chinaman had placed the opium. Having neither money nor opium the Chinaman gave information to the police. The overcoat was later found in a yard at Milson's Point.

On the application of the police a remand was allowed for one week. Accused was allowed bail—self in £60, and two sureties in £30 each, or one in £60.

AUSTRALIA'S NAVY.

MINISTER INTRODUCES BILL.

READ FIRST TIME IN SENATE.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

In the Senate to-day a bill relating to naval defence was introduced by the Minister for Defence. It was read a first time. While it is proposed to apply the major portion of the Defence Compulsory Service Act to the naval forces, the Naval Defence Bill makes many additions to the laws governing the naval branch.

The Governor-General is empowered to appoint a board of administration for the naval forces, to be called the Naval Board. This board shall have such powers and functions as are prescribed. The Governor-General is given power also to appoint an officer to command the whole or any portion of the naval forces, and generally to appoint and promote officers. Officers new to the Commonwealth service will continue to hold office as if appointed under this Act. Officers are not to be appointed or promoted except provisionally until they have passed the prescribed examinations. This requirement, however, may be dispensed with by the Governor-General in the case of persons who are officers of the King's regular naval forces. Except in war time an officer may resign his commission at the expiration of not less than three months from the date of the receipt of the resignation in writing. For special reasons, however, the Governor-General may accept resignations at any time after the receipt of them. For distinguished service or for marked ability and gallantry on active service the Governor-General may appoint any person to be an officer, or promote any officer to a higher rank, without requiring him to pass the prescribed examination. The compulsory retiring age will be fixed by regulation, but in special cases the Governor-General may extend the prescribed age for a period not exceeding two years. The Governor-General is empowered to create naval colleges and instructional establishments.

The naval forces are to be divided into two branches, to be known as the permanent naval forces and the citizens' naval forces. The permanent naval forces will consist of officers who are appointed officers of those forces, and seamen who have enlisted and engaged as members of these forces, and who are bound to continuous naval service for the term of their enlistment or engagement. The citizen naval forces will be divided into the naval reserve forces, which will consist of officers and seamen who are not bound in time of peace to continuous naval service, and who are paid for their services as prescribed, and into the naval volunteer reserve forces, consisting of officers and seamen who are not bound in time of peace to continuous naval service, and who are not ordinarily paid for their services in time of peace. The Governor-General may raise, maintain, and organise such permanent and citizen naval forces as he deems necessary for the defence and protection of the Commonwealth, and of the several States. Existing naval forces are to remain subject to this new legislation. The naval militia will be transferred to the naval reserve, and the naval volunteers to the naval volunteer reserve. Except as provided in the Defence Act, the naval forces shall be raised and kept by voluntary enlistment only, the period of enlistment to be prescribed, but shall not be less than two years. Persons in any part of the King's dominions may voluntarily enlist in the Commonwealth naval forces in time of war. A member of the naval forces whose period of service ends will not be entitled to his discharge until the war has terminated. In time of peace a seaman may claim his discharge before the expiration of the period of his service, provided he gives three months' notice, and, if a member of the reserve, pays a sum not exceeding two pounds. A volunteer must pay a sum not exceeding one pound. If special reasons are shown, the payment may be waived. Those provisions, however, do not apply to persons undergoing training, or liable to be trained in pursuance of the Defence Act. The permanent naval forces are to be liable to continuous naval service, and at all time will be liable to be employed on any naval service, including active service, and the defence and protection of the Commonwealth and the several States. The citizen forces will only be liable to be employed on active service when called out for active service by proclamation. Members of the citizen forces may, however, volunteer for active service. They may be required to serve for training or any naval service, either within or beyond the limits of the Commonwealth. The naval force may be utilised for the protection of a State against domestic violence.

The drill and training will be prescribed by regulation. For the purpose of naval service or training the Governor-General may place any part of the naval force on board any ship of the King's navy, or in any naval training establishment or school in connection with the King's navy. The members of the naval forces, while so placed, will be under the command of the officers commanding the ship or school, and will be subject to the laws and regulations applying to that ship or school, subject to any modifications and adaptions that may be prescribed by regulations. The Naval Discipline Act and the King's regulations and Admiralty instructions shall be applied to the Commonwealth forces.

Whenever the Commonwealth naval forces are acting with the King's naval forces for the purposes of training, or for any naval service (a) the command of the forces shall subject to any Imperial Act or regulations, devolve upon the senior naval officer present, and acting in a position of command; and (b) any part of the Commonwealth naval forces may be placed under the command of any officer of the King's naval forces. Commission rank in the junior and senior naval cadets will be deemed honorary rank in the naval forces, but shall not confer any right to command in those forces. Special powers are given to the Governor-General to (a) acquire or build and maintain ships for naval defence or services auxiliary to the naval defence; (b) acquire or construct and maintain docks, shipyards, foundries, machine shops, and other works or establishments in connection with naval defence; and (c) authorise the employment of any persons in a civil capacity in connection with any services auxiliary to naval defence, or any of the works or establishments already mentioned. The Governor-General may (a) accept the transfer to the Commonwealth naval forces of any vessel belonging to any part of the King's dominions; (b) accept the transfer to the Commonwealth naval forces of officers and seamen of the King's naval forces; (c) transfer to the King's naval forces, or to the naval forces of any part of the King's dominions, any vessel of the Commonwealth naval forces; and (d) transfer to the King's naval forces or to the naval forces of any part of the King's dominions, any officers or seamen of the Commonwealth naval forces. These transfers may be for such periods and subject to such conditions as the Governor-General thinks desirable. Officers and seamen so transferred will be subject to the laws governing the force to which they have been transferred. Provision is to be made for the widow and family of a member of the naval force who may be killed on active service or on duty, or who dies from wounds or disease contracted on active service. Should he be only incapacitated, financial provision will be made for him, the payments coming out of the consolidated revenue. Funds may be established to provide for the payment of annuities or gratuities to naval men permanently injured in the performance of their duties, or retired on account of age or infirmity. The Governor-General is empowered to make regulations particularly in relation to (a) the good government of naval establishments; (b) the discipline of persons receiving instruction or training in or employed in connection with naval establishments; and (c) the regulation or control of shipping in time of war, or for the purposes of any naval operation or practice. The penalties for breaches of the regulations are to be limited in the case of imprisonment to three months, with hard labour, and in the case of pecuniary penalties, to a fine of £20.

The second reading of the bill was fixed for Wednesday.

AMUSEMENTS.

THE GRAND OPERA SEASON.

The grand opera season reached the farewell of one prima donna last evening at the Theatre Royal, when a large audience assembled to hear Mlle. Bel Sorel for the last time in her touching impersonation of "Madame Butterfly." Signor Hazon originally formed the J. C. Williamson Company for the production of Puccini's beautiful Japanese opera, and the combination, which will be dispersed at the end of the month, after the brief Brisbane season, is seen to especial advantage in it. Mlle. Sorel sang last night with all her accustomed charm, and acted the character with delicacy and truth to nature. The Franco-Italian prima donna, who will always be remembered in Australia, was greeted with the utmost enthusiasm, and was rewarded with an abundance of flowers. At the end of the evening the applause was followed by calls for a speech, when Mlle. Sorel, in clear tones, assured the audience that she would never forget the warmth of her reception by the people of Sydney.

This evening Signor Hazon will conduct "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "I Pagliacci," when Miss Amy Castles will make her farewell appearance, with Mr. Reginald Roberts, Mr. Blamey, Mr. Crane, and Signor Zanelli in the chief characters. On Thursday the company will leave for Brisbane.

THE THEATRES.

At the Criterion Theatre there will be a matinee to-day of Weedon Grossmith's laughable play "The Night of the Party," in which Mr. George Willoughby's new English company is drawing large audiences, with Mr. David James as the adventurous valet, Miss Mab. Paul as Gipsy Vandeleur, and a group of especially competent artists.

At Her Majesty's Theatre "Our Miss Gibbs" continues to fill the house, the audience evidently appreciating the fact that the comic incidents of the plot elaborated by Messrs. Wright, Leslie, and Kirby are relieved by the sentimental side of the story as illustrated by Misses Browne and Barber, Messrs. Higginson and Hantock. There will be a matinee to-day.

The Theatre Royal will reopen on Saturday with the return of the J. C. Williamson Dramatic Company, headed, as before, by Miss Katherine Grey, but with a new leading man from America, Mr. Wm. Desmond. The opening piece will be Eugene Walker's new drama, "Paid in Full," in which several favourite artists will appear. The plan is at Paling's.

"Why Men Love Women," Walter Howard's sensational drama, has proved popular at the Palace Theatre. Messrs. Allan Hamilton and Max Maxwell's Dramatic Company wins applause at the strange scene of marriage through the prison bars, and at the resuscitation of the murdered Russian girl whilst the burial service is being read.

At the Tivoli Theatre, both afternoon and evening to-day, Mr. Harry Rickards' new programme will introduce the Morris Cronin juggling party in their last four nights, Miss Gracie Grahame in her clever character songs, Barnes and Irene West, the Australian Gold-diggers, Woods and Fraser, the Quealys, the Newman Aeroplane, and many favourite artists.

At the National Amphitheatre, where the usual matinee will be given to-day, Armstrong and Priscilla Verne are appearing in "The Battle of Too Soon." Mounier and Franz, sensational athletes, and Heath and Lamb, the singing minstrels, are in the bill, and Walter Whyte, Frank Yorke, Carlton and Sutton, Chas. Howard, Martinetti and Grossi, and new pictures by the Miorama, are also notified.

CONCERT ENGAGEMENTS.

Madame Carreno will join forces with the Sydney Symphony Orchestra at their thirteenth Town Hall matinee on Saturday next, and this will constitute Madame Carreno's only appearance in Sydney with a full professional orchestra. Madame Carreno will join the 70 professional players in Beethoven's "Emperor" Concerto. Tschaikowsky's great Fourth Symphony in F will be played for the first time in Australia, while three highly popular items should be "Spring Song" (Mendelssohn), "Spinning Song" (Mendelssohn), and the "Tannhauser" overture. Mr. Joseph Bradley will also conduct Berlioz' "Carnival Romaine." The plan is at Paling's.

The concert in aid of the Royal Alexandra Hospital for Sick Children will take place at the Town Hall next Tuesday night, after the most energetic organisation on the part of influential committees of ladies, whose efforts will go far towards ensuring financial success. The artistic side of this charitable enterprise has been confidently entrusted to Miss Margaret Thomas (Mrs. Alexander Gordon), Mrs. Ewan Frazer, Messrs. Andrew Black, Henri Staell, Ernest Truman, and Harold Whittle. The reappearance of the once-popular Welsh contralto should prove especially attractive. The plan is fast filling at Paling's.

Miss Lilian Mitchell will give her concert at the Y.M.C.A. Hall this evening, when the soprano will sing several fine numbers, including a scena from "Lucrezia Borgia." Miss Mitchell will be assisted by Messrs. Percy French, Percy Herford, Torzillo, Warwick M'Kenzie, and Miss Lilian Frost. The plan is at Nicholson's.

Fri. Jensen's Ladies' Concert Band, which appeared with success at the Granville Town Hall last night, with Madame Constantine as soprano, has other engagements before it, including an instrumental and vocal concert at the Auburn Town Hall next Tuesday.

On Wednesday evening next, at St. James's Hall, Messrs. Walter Bentley, Douglas Ancelon, and the students of their dramatic college, assisted by Miss Stella Chapman, will give their second Shakespearian costume recital. The principal scenes will bring forward Mr. Bentley and Miss Chapman in "Macbeth," and Mr. Ancelon as Falstaffe in "Merry Wives of Windsor." Miss Leah Myers will be the vocalist. The plan is at Paling's.

Mr. Walter Kirby, an Australian tenor trained in Europe, has returned here after a long absence, during which he has appeared on the operatic stage in Italy, and has sung at many great concerts in England, besides making an unusual number of appearances before the King and Queen, and many other Royal personages. Mr. Kirby will make his Sydney debut at the Y.M.C.A. Hall on Thursday evening, October 20, when the assisting artists will include Mme. Sinpoffski, Mr. Bryce Carter, H. Whittel, M. Henri Staell and Mr. Lawrence Campbell. The Countess of Dudley is taking a special interest in Mr. Kirby's concert, and will be present with the Governor-General. The plan will open at Paling's to-morrow.

The New South Wales State Military Band will give a matinee concert at the Town Hall on Sunday next, under the baton of Captain Bentley, A.R.C.M., in aid of the Porter Allen Fund, when an attractive programme will be presented, with the assistance of leading artists.

The city organist, Mr. Ernest Truman, will give a "D" series at the matinee recital at the Town Hall at 3.15 p.m. to-day. The programme will consist of: Adagio and Finale (Diesel), Benediction Nuptiale, Marche des Rois Mages, Invocation, and Toccata (Dubois).

"CHOPIN, THE SHELLEY OF MUSIC."

The lecture delivered by Mr. Wrenn Sutton in the Y.M.C.A. Hall last Friday evening proved of more than ordinary interest. The lecturer, who was decidedly "in the vein," gave a most graphic account of the life of Chopin, whom he described as the "King of Piano-composers." In describing the effect of the capture of Warsaw by the Russians on the mind of Chopin, which drove him into exile, Mr. Sutton recited from Chopin's diary with effective animation. He described Chopin's tone-colour as combining the sweetness of Raphael with the grace of Correggio. His description of the interior of Chopin's salon, where the great composer played to the select coterie of Heine, Meyerbeer, Delacroix, Georges Sand, and Balzac, formed a fine piece of word-painting. The interpretations at the piano by Miss Esther Kahn were much appreciated, notably the rendition of the celebrated "Nocturne in C minor." Miss Bessie Kahn rendered some of Chopin's songs with acceptance. The subject of the next lecture will be "Schubert, the Greatest of Song-writers."

PICTURE ENTERTAINMENTS.

At the Lyceum, Mr. Charles Spencer's Theatrescope Company put up last night an entirely new programme for the week, and accordingly the list of attractions this afternoon and evening will include Marie Corelli's romantic novel, "Thelma," Ex-King Manuel of Portugal Arriving at his Palace," "The Leger of 1910," the costume-drama "Estrellita," "Floods in Tokio," and other novelties.

At the Glaciarium, where Mr. T. J. West's new programme of European and local subjects was introduced on Monday night, a number of star films will be shown this afternoon and evening, with music by Mr. L. De Groen's Vice-regal Orchestra. The list will include the dramatic stories of "The Highlanders," "Francesca," and "The Bad Man's Last Deed," as well as "The Great Floods of Tokio," the child study, "Our Darlings," and comic incidents.

At the Bijou Theatre, where the usual matinee will be given to-day, the new programme will be presented with the latest films by mail this week from Europe, illustrating humorous and dramatic stories, foreign scenes, and current events of the day.

MISS ADA BAKER'S CONCERT.

There was a large attendance at the Y.M.C.A. Hall last night, when Miss Ada Baker gave an invitation concert. The favourite soprano, who was in excellent voice, sang with artistic feeling and expression. Her songs were sufficiently varied in character to thoroughly test Miss Baker's voice, and her contributions received unqualified approbation. Nearly every item was encored, and Miss Baker received liberal gifts of flowers. She sang Tosti's "Il Canto d'Una Nita," "Ernani, Ernani, Involami," "O Divine Redeemer," "A Spanish Romance," "Siciliana Canzonetta Tre Giorni Son Che Nina," "Roberto O tu Che Adoro," and with Mr. Percy Herford "The Singing Lesson." Messrs. Cyril Monk, L. C. Lee, and Percy Herford also contributed to the programme. Miss Lilian Frost acted as accompanist.

SHIP BRAND CORNFLOUR

SHEPHERD'S BUSH LONDON.

DIPLOMA FOR GOLD MEDAL

Clifford Love & Co

FOR TREBLE REFINED CORN FLOUR.

WE are always careful to avoid any extravagant claims in our advertisements; we try and represent our various manufactures as they are, not as they ought to be, for we spare no pains, no labour, no expense, and we shirk no trouble to make the best possible quality in any goods we manufacture.

It is therefore with pride and pleasure that we ask you to look above at the facsimile of the Diploma granted to us, with the gold medal, for the best Cornflour, against all-comers from all parts of the World.

The Food Experts at the Franco-British Exhibition not only awarded Ship Brand Cornflour the highest award, but they said, that "Ship Brand Cornflour is the highest quality we have ever seen, and in our opinion, it is the highest class of Cornflour in the World."

AUCTION OF WHEAT FARMS.

ON NOVEMBER 8, AT BOGAN GATE.

we are offering 30 fine Wheat Farms on Ringwood Estate—an excellent wheat-growing property, in the Parkes to Condobolin district, adjoining Mr. Edol's famous Burrawong Station.

These Farms range in area from 446 to 680 acres. A number of the blocks are in wheat, and the crops look well. The balance of the Estate consists of open country, alternating with lightly timbered land. The trees have all been ringbarked for years, and should be cleared at little expense. Every acre of every block may be ploughed.

CONDITIONAL PURCHASES WITHOUT BALLOT.

These Farms are being sold as certificated conditional purchases, and buyers may convert into freehold at any time. All improvement and residential conditions have been fulfilled—purchasers get their blocks without the uncertainty of a ballot—without harassing conditions.

THE EASY TERMS.

The Terms are very easy:—15 per cent. on the fall of the hammer, 10 per cent. two years later, and the balance in 16 half-yearly instalments. Interest at 4½ per cent.

Prospective buyers will be met at Ootha Siding, and driven over the Estate. Fares refunded to purchasers. Fuller particulars and plans from the Managing Agent.

LADIES' COMBINATIONS.
SPECIAL FOR THIS WEEK ONLY,
AT M'DOWELL AND HUGHES'.
The special this week are Ladies' Ribbed Cotton Combinations—nicely cut, full size, with low neck and short sleeves, for summer wear. The usual price of these is 2/6, and owing to the advance in the price of cotton is likely to rise still more. As we bought prior to the advances we are making this line special —for this week only,
1/11.

FASHIONABLE FANCIES.
Every woman who wants to keep abreast of the Fashions and yet not incur too heavy an expense on her wardrobe, should make her purchase from these goods:—
WHITE MUSLIN PRINCESS ROBES.
These Modish Robes reflect the very latest needs of Fashion. They are daintily trimmed with Val. Insertion and Pin Tucks, and finished off with Embroidery Medallions. For the outdoor festivities that will soon crowd upon us you'll find a Princess Robe handsomely stylish. From 25/6 to 2 Guineas.
READY-TO-WEAR STRIPED LINEN PRINCESS DRESS. Val. Insertion Yoke, prettily trimmed, with braid, and finished with a band of Embroidery. We have this Dress in all the new shades of the season.
And the price is 19/6.
BLOUSE COSTUMES IN CREPE.
Stylishly cut, strapped and piped, with buttons, in all colours, and finish, 14/11.
SICILIAN WALKING SKIRTS, in Black, Cream, and Navy, 7-gore, well cut and stitched, 7/6.
WHITE ORGANDIE MUSLIN BLOUSES.

THE COOK'S FAVOURITE.
While some few housewives still struggle on with other leavenings, the multitude recognise that from every point of view the best raising preparation is Baking Powder.
The point they are firmest on, however, is WHICH Baking Powder to use—for it is only the best that will and does give true satisfaction.
And the verdict is unanimous in favour of CEREBOS BAKING POWDER,
because of its sterling goodness and purity.
It is the favourite of the housewife and the cook because it saves her time, her work—eggs and butter.
It makes every baking a pleasure, and all Cakes, Pastry, Scones, and Bread the lightest, sweetest, and daintiest.
CEREBOS IS SURE AND PURE.
SOLD IN EASY-TO-OPEN TINS, BY ALL GROCERS.
HARRISON and ATTWOOD, Wholesalers, Sydney.

DR. WAUGH'S BAKING POWDER IS UNEQUALLED.
IT'S GOOD BECAUSE IT'S ABSOLUTELY PURE.
The more carefully you discriminate between Baking Powders the more certain are you to be a user of Dr. WAUGH'S BAKING POWDER—and no other. For once use it and you are convinced of its unequalled strength, its never-varying high standard of quality, and that every ounce of tin or packet is absolutely pure.
MAKE YOUR SCONES, Cakes, Puddings, Pastry, and Crusts of every kind, bread and the like, with it, and you'll never have cause to complain at the way your food rises, nor its wholesomeness.
Your grocer has the
NEW STYLE TINS, 6d AND 1s.
A very attractive and handy form. These tins have patent lever lids, and keep the powder always clean and dry, and are always ready for use.
Ask for the best—insist on receiving the best—for Dr. WAUGH'S BAKING POWDER is unequalled. There are no others "Just as good."
THE BAKING POWDER

THE ADVANCE
IN CORSET
CONSTRUCTION.
We live in an age of progress. In matters of health and hygiene this is particularly noticeable. Take Corsets, for instance. Years ago it was thought necessary to imprison the body in a coarse, heavy, unyielding case. It's a pretty long stride from those unhealthy creations of early days to the scientifically designed, hygienically-constructed "P.D." Corset of the present time. And the advance means much to the health of the woman of to-day and of the future.
"P.D." Corsets—always recognised as the leaders of the Corset Fashions of the world—are constructed of the very best materials throughout. They are lightly boned, and are subjected to a special treatment, which renders them extremely flexible, while they are stronger than heavy Corsets, and give perfectly adequate support at all times. You will realise perfect "Corset Comfort" in the New Models of ROYAL
RUSTLESS CORSETS,
OBTAINABLE ALL DRAPERS.

VALAZE.
MAKES WOMAN BEAUTIFUL.
A clear, radiant complexion, free from blemish, is the lot of every woman who makes consistent use of VALAZE.
A Skin Food in the Strictest Sense, Valaze will beautify the worst skin by virtue of the nutriment it affords the tissues that underlie the surface or scarf skin, eradicating wrinkles, crowsfeet, sallowness, tan, and such mars to Beauty with magic touch. Valaze will enable you to retain your beauty to an advanced age, and will create a most beautiful complexion by properly nourishing the tissues of the skin, thus enabling it to throw off all impurities at any time of life, and give it a healthy, clear tone. Be fair to your face and accordingly fair and beautiful to your friends. All we can say of Valaze will not convince like a trial jar—after using one jar it will speak for itself. Every lady who values her complexion should know it makes a bad skin good and a good skin beautiful. Try it now! The result will delight you. 3/6 and 6/6; and 6d postage.
VALAZE FACE POWDER is dainty and pure, and adapted to greasy, moist, or normal skins. The Novena Poudre, which is a "fat" powder, is for dry skins, 2/ and 3/ a box each.
VALAZE COMPLEXION SOAP, pure and wholesome, a perfect skin cleanser and stimulator. 2/2 posted.
VALAZE BLACKHEAD and OPEN PORE easily and quickly banishes these blemishes, refines the skin's texture, and cures greasiness and coarseness. 2/10 posted.
NOVENA CERATE, the finest skin cleanser in the world, preserves and nourishes the skin tissues; 2/ and 3/6. NOVENA HAIR DESTROYER instantly removes the hairs without the slightest detriment to the complexion. After application leaves a delightfully cool sensation; 5/6, 6d postage.

MAZARA SKIN FOOD
is unrivalled for improving the Skin and Complexion. Unless the dirt which is secreted in the pores of the skin is removed skin health is impossible. MAZARA does this thoroughly, and feeds the skin as well. We find no other Skin Cream spoken of so highly as MAZARA. Its healing powers are wonderful. Then why look old when you have the remedy handy for always looking young and fresh? Price per Jar, 2/6 and 4/6.
